PERMANTIQUE DRAPERIES

styled by O'Bie of California

47" wide by 84" long 10.95 pair

Here's ready-to-hang drapery magic! It's a fascinating new fabric made of Celaperm, a fiber with the colors "locked in." It has an unbelievable resistance to all the common fading hazards, including light, atmospheric fumes, dry cleaning and washing. A richly textured slub weave with satin back. Drapes beautifully, is available in eight exciting decorator colors: chartreuse, yellow, rose dust, wine, grey, brown, forest green, red, oyster. Transform your windows into the proper proportions through our famous "56 Size" chart.

Murder on the Schooner Carma

By Vera Williams

WHEN SOUTHERN California newspaper writers lounge at their desks late afternoons talking about the places they have been and the places they want to go, the stories they have written and the stories they want to write, the talk inevitably turns to Capt. Wanderwell.

"You don't know about Capt. Walter Wanderwell, world adventurer killed aboard his yacht Carma in the Long Beach Harbor in 1932?" they demand of writers new in the business. "Now, son, THAT was a murder. It had everything mystery, intrigue, adventure. Listen—"

They lean back in their chairs, feet on desks, and the cub reporters listen intently to the story of the bizarre killing of Capt. Walter Wanderwell, probably the Pacific Coast's outstanding unsolved murder.

Valarian Johannes Tieczynski, German Pole, better known on four continents as Capt. Wanderwell, had been every place and done everything, and practically every place he had left enemies.

Wanderwell's wife, Aloha, collapsed during the trial.

William J. (Curly) Guy was acquitted of murder charge.

HE HAD FACED disaster in wastes of Siberia, in Indian jungles, on Arabian deserts and at sea. Then, about 9:30 the night of Dec. 5, 1932, in a cabin on a former rum boat in quiet Long Beach harbor he fell with a bullet in his heart, shot from behind. Ten feet away his two small daughters slept, unmindful of the tragedy.

WHO KILLED Capt. Wanderwell, and why? Newsmen and police officers don't know, although most of them have a theory. The only thing is the theories aren't the same. They don't even agree about whether the assassin was male or female.

William J. (Curly) Guy, 24-year-old Welsh soldier of fortune who had feuded with Wanderwell about repayment of passage after Guy and Guy's wife were put off Wanderwell's ship in Panama one time, was acquitted. No one else ever was brought to trial.

Guy, a personable young man with deferential manners and curly black hair, said:

"I HATED WANDERWELL. I had reason to hate him. I would not have minded killing him. But I never would shoot a man in the back."

He apparently convinced the jury of that; he shook the identification of witnesses who declared that he was the "man at the porthole," a man in a gray overcoat with the collar turned up and a cap pulled over his eyes, who stopped at the mess room porthole and asked for Capt. Wanderwell five minutes before he was shot. And he produced an air-tight alibi in a Glendale aviator friend who swore that Guy was in his home when Capt. Wanderwell was killed.

ALL THAT IS LEFT of the case now is memories; two manila envelopes bulging with yellowed newspaper clippings in the Independent, Press-Telegram library, and microfilm in the police record bureau. It takes three hours to watch the microfilm record. The newspaper library prizes the clippings so much—the Wanderwell case just possibly might break open again some day—that even the newspaper's employes practically have to put up cash bond to get them out.

Personnel has changed, too. Only 20 persons in the police department now were on the force when Wanderwell was killed. Chief of Police William H. Dovey then was a captain. Henry F. (Hank) Burmester the reporter who handled the trial, now is the Press-Telegram's editor. He still considers the Wanderwell case his most interesting assignment.

ANOTHER ANGLE that newspapermen argue about: How did the New York office of United Press know Wanderwell was killed before Long Beach newspapers knew it?

The Los Angeles office of United Press that night called the Long Beach Sun (the city's morning newspaper later absorbed by the Press-Telegram) and asked:

"How's Capt. Wanderwell?"

"Fine," said Ruskin Dunfee, city editor and United Press correspondent.

"Anything happened on the Carma down there?"

"No," said Dun. "We comb the Wanderwells out of our hair all the time. They keep trying to get publicity for their cruise."

THERE WAS A PAUSE on the line. "Check it, will you? We just got a flash from the New York office that Wanderwell was killed on board the Carma."

Dun grabbed another phone and called Emmet Riordan, his trustworthy crime reporter. "Cap Wanderwell just got killed," an unfamiliar voice answered him at the police station. "Emmet went on it so fast he didn't have time to call you."

How did New York know it first? That is one of the minor mysteries of a major murder mystery.

THE TWO-MASTED schooner Carma—"yacht" always was a figure of speech—was confiscated with 232 cases of liquor aboard by federal authorities in Fish Harbor here in July, 1932.

The following October, Capt. Wanderwell bought her for $2500 at a marshal's sale and despite warning by navigation authorities that she was unseaworthy fitted her up for a cruise to the South Seas.

A "crew" of six men and eight women was recruited, plus Capt. Wanderwell and his pretty blond wife, Aloha, on a part-work, part-pay basis, and they expected to leave in mid-December for Honolulu, the first leg of the South Seas trip.

This "crew"—calling the assemblage a "crew" instead of "passengers" cut through some kind of red tape—included:

Lord Edward Montagu, 26, of London, second son of the Duke of Manchester.

Marian and Mary Louise Smith, sisters, society girls from Georgia.

Capt. James E. Smith; engineer Cuthbert Wills and wife, Elsa; cameraman Edmund Zeranski; Arline Allen, Ruth Loucks, Eugenia Nobel, Florence Wegel, Mary Parks, Forrest Plummer and Jack Craig, generally classified as students.

CAME THE NIGHT of Dec. 5. Practically everyone was ashore, leaving Wills, Zeranski, Mary Parks and Marian Smith to eat a late dinner in the Carma's mess room.

A stranger, wearing a coat with the collar turned up around his throat and a cap pulled over his eyes, they said, stood for a moment at the porthole and asked "Is Capt. Wanderwell in?"

Wills ushered the stranger to Wanderwell's quarters. He heard Capt. Wanderwell say "Hello!" apparently greeting an acquaintance, and then returned to the table.

Five minutes later a shot rang out. The stranger was gone, and Capt. Wanderwell lay dead, a ring of keys in his hand as if he had been about to open a cash box or safe. In his wallet in his pocket was $600, but a note written in Spanish which crew members said had been in his wallet was gone. Contents of the note were not revealed.

Guy, who had figured in an altercation the preceding summer in a Los Angeles apartment when he had sought to get Wanderwell to return passage money, was arrested in a deserted house in Los Angeles.

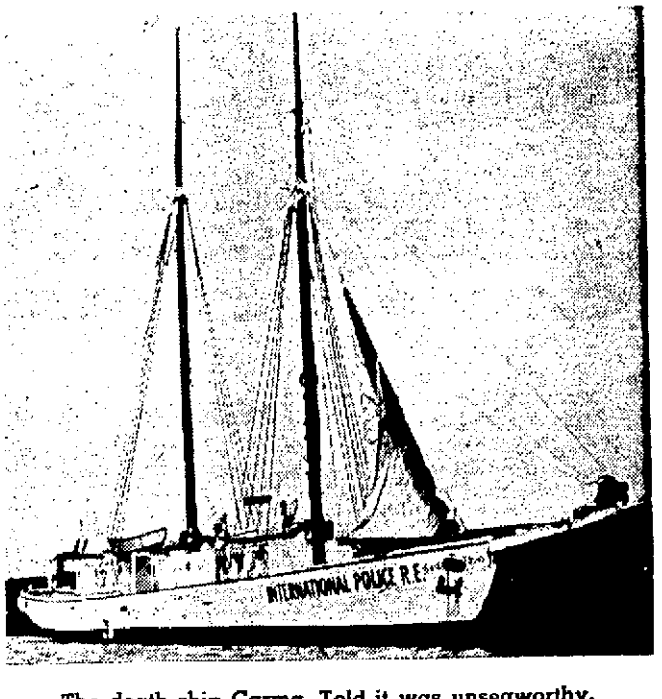

PALE AND DEFIANT, Guy stood under hours of grilling, insisting that at the time of the Wanderwell killing he was a guest in the home of Edward DeLarm, an Arapahoe Indian friend, who operated an aviation school at Glendale. DeLarm and his family of six corroborated Guy's story.

A former wife of Wanderwell

Betty Grable's wink takes just about one second to record on movie film

... but if taken on this fast new camera being demonstrated by the inventor, Dr. A. M. Zarem Pasadena, it would have required 46 days and nights just to run film through the projector!

NEW CAMERA HELPS SOLVE SCIENTIFIC MYSTERIES BECAUSE IT'S

100 Million Times Quicker Than 'Quick as a Wink'

HOW QUICK is "quick as a wink?"

About one second would be a fair guess, based upon a timing test made recently of one of Betty Grable's famous winks which her studio staged as a publicity stunt. But Betty's fetching eye flutter was filmed with an ordinary movie camera; had it been photographed with a new camera now in use at the U. S. Naval Ordnance Testing Station at Pasadena, it would have required 46 days and nights just to run the film through the projector!

The astonishing camera apparatus, designed to take photos at the rate of 100 million per second, is helping solve various scientific mysteries by actually revealing physical reactions occurring almost with the speed of light. In ballistics studies, for instance, the super-speed machine can show the fastest bullet as if it were standing still. Another idea of its tremendous speed can be described thusly: Imagine a rocket capable of flying from Los Angeles to New York in one second flat. The camera could photograph it while it moved less than two inches!

The "Galloping Brownie," as testing station personnel have dubbed the amazing device, was developed by Dr. A. M. Zarem and Fred Marshall, navy photographic specialists. Dr. Zarem also directs Stanford Research Institute's Los Angeles division, but remains a consultant for the Navy on matters pertaining to its photographic problems.

"DR. ZAREM is called in whenever we have a real puzzler in the realm of photography," a Navy spokesman explained. "The astonishing 'Galloping Brownie' came into being when we were stymied in our efforts to photograph the explosive vaporization of metal caused by heavy electrical discharge. We wanted to make progressive observations of the fast acting explosives and no camera then available could take pictures fast enough for our purpose."

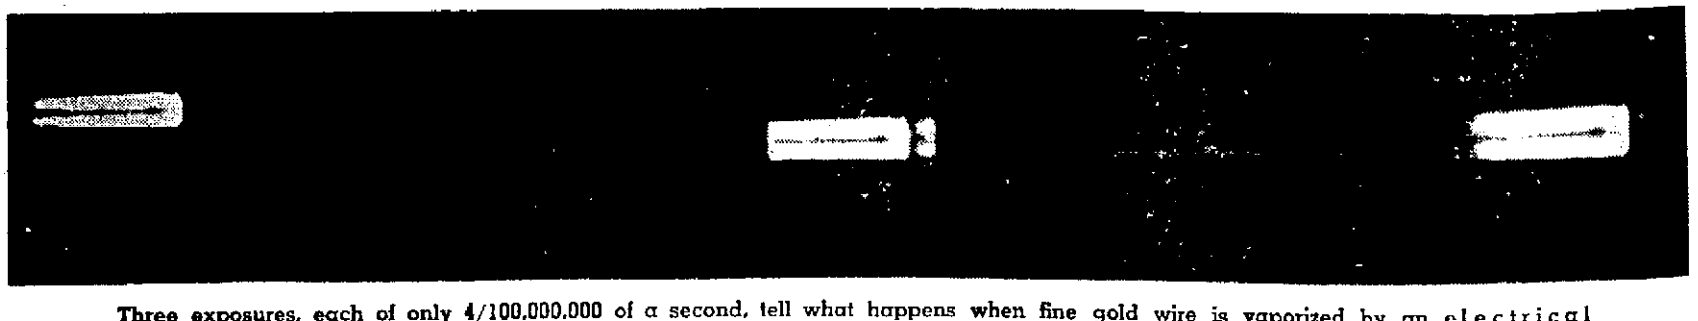

That was in 1948 when the scientific world was still marveling at a super speed camera that could take 10,000 exposures a second. Within a few months Zarem and Marshall had perfected a camera shutter that took successful pictures in 1/10,000,000 of a second. This first camera was found to be still too slow to reveal the secrets sought by ballistics experts, so Dr. Zarem and Marshall worked together four years before coming up with the present improved model. Now, due to refinements in the pulsing system of the shutter—which has no moving parts—the speed has been stepped up 1,000 per cent over the original camera to achieve the present ultimate in photographic ballistics tests.

The shutter, key to the amazing speed, is a simple-appearing glass container filled with nitrobenzene and fitted with a polarizing window at each end. The windows are turned with the lines of polarity at right angles, so that no light normally can pass through them.

BUT, WHEN a 5,000-volt charge passes between two electrodes in the liquid, light entering one window is actually twisted so it can go through the other window into the camera. Thus, nothing moves except the light itself as it is "bent" onto the unexposed film.

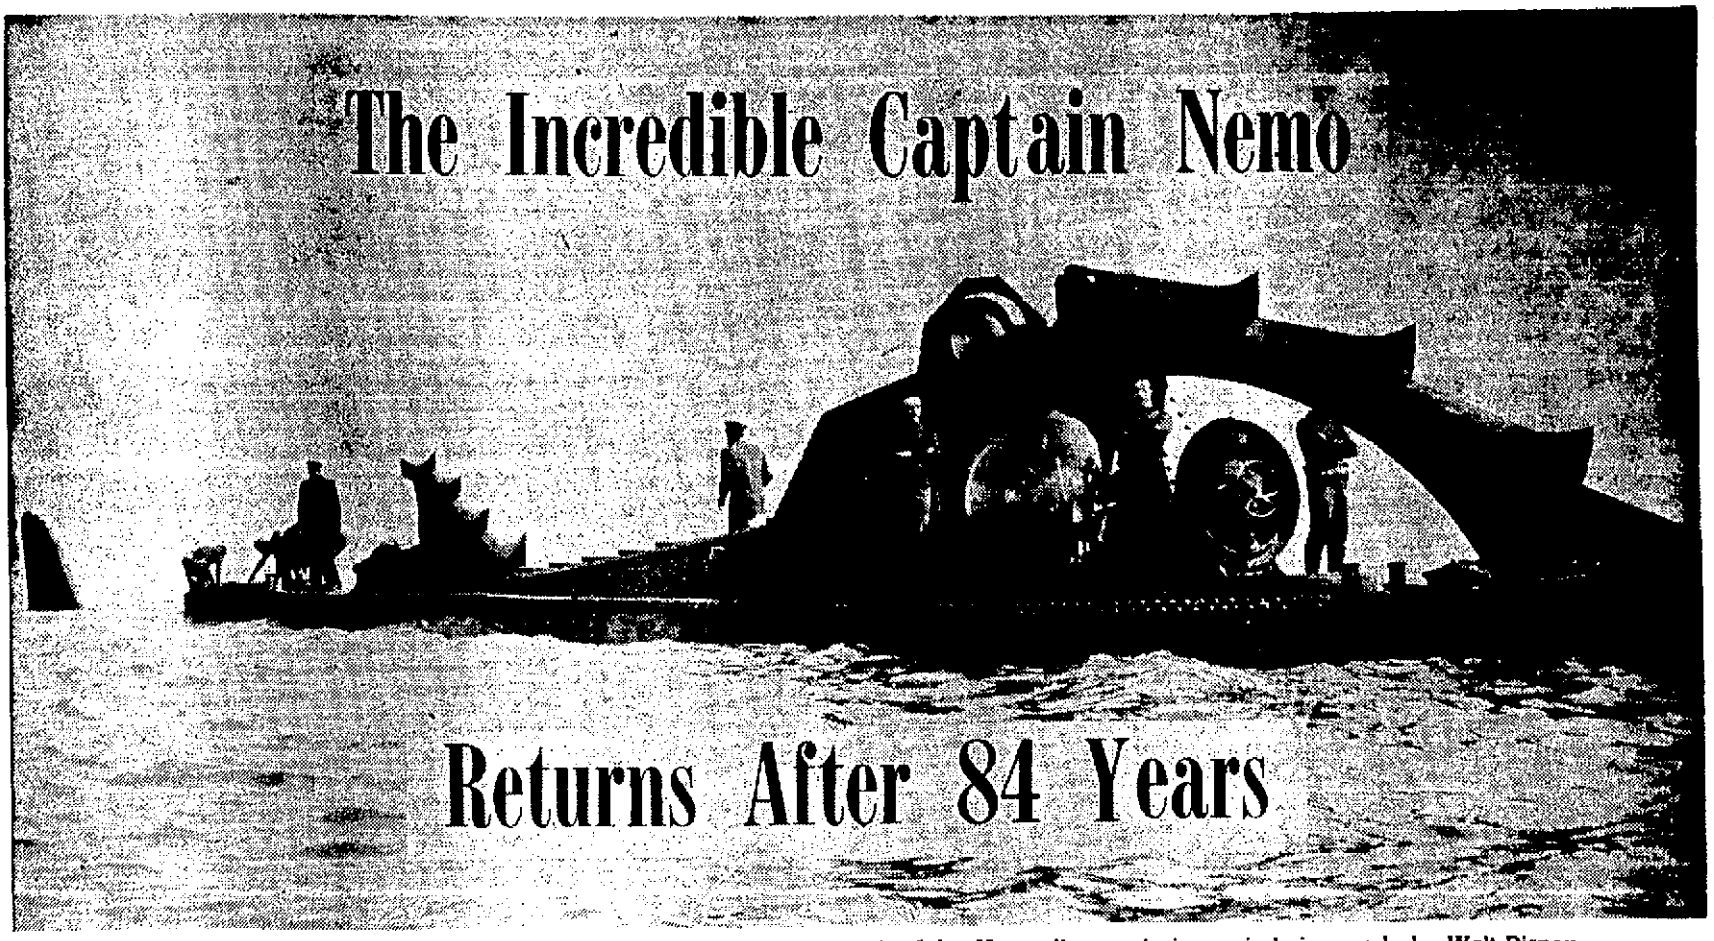

Dr. Zarem's "Brownie," a vitally important contribution to modern military science, is said to be one of the most valuable aids to designers of big guns and projectiles to appear since World War II. Unless ballistics experts can see in detail exactly what takes place when a charge is exploded, they are hampered in developing new and more powerful explosives.

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

Three exposures, each of only 4/100,000,000 of a second, tell what happens when fine gold wire is vaporized by an electrical charge. The "Galloping Brownie" has proved invaluable to U. S. military experts in designing powerful guns and rocket missiles.

The Incredible Captain Nemo Returns After 84 Years

Submarine Nautilus and her Captain Nemo, conceived 84 years ago by Jules Verne, live again in movie being made by Walt Disney.

JULES VERNE, the granddaddy of all science-fiction writers, startled readers around the world when, in 1870, he published his novel, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." Not even the Navy's modern atom-powered submarine, the Nautilus (named in honor of Verne's vessel), caused as much comment, for in a few strokes of his pen the author had plunged his audience into a strange new craft exploring a strange new world — the depths of the ocean. And while it has taken nearly a century for engineers to match Verne's mechanical predictions, the world is still curious and mystified about life thousands of feet beneath the waves.

Over at the Walt Disney Studios, where a picture based on the novel is currently in production, they like to refer to the effort as "20,000 Headaches Under One Roof." They have a point. Not only is this multi-million-dollar movie, which is being photographed in CinemaScope and Technicolor, the most ambitious undertaking ever tackled by Hollywood's outstanding Oscar winner, but it is unquestionably one of the costliest and most difficult films ever attempted. It took 14 months of research, design and engineering to duplicate the wonders of the book and it is taking another five months to shoot the film.

NOT SKIMPING in any department, Producer Disney hired Kirk Douglas to play Ned Land, the harpooner; James Mason for the vengeful Captain Nemo; Paul Lucas to enact Professor Aronnax, and Peter Lorre as his aid, Conseil.

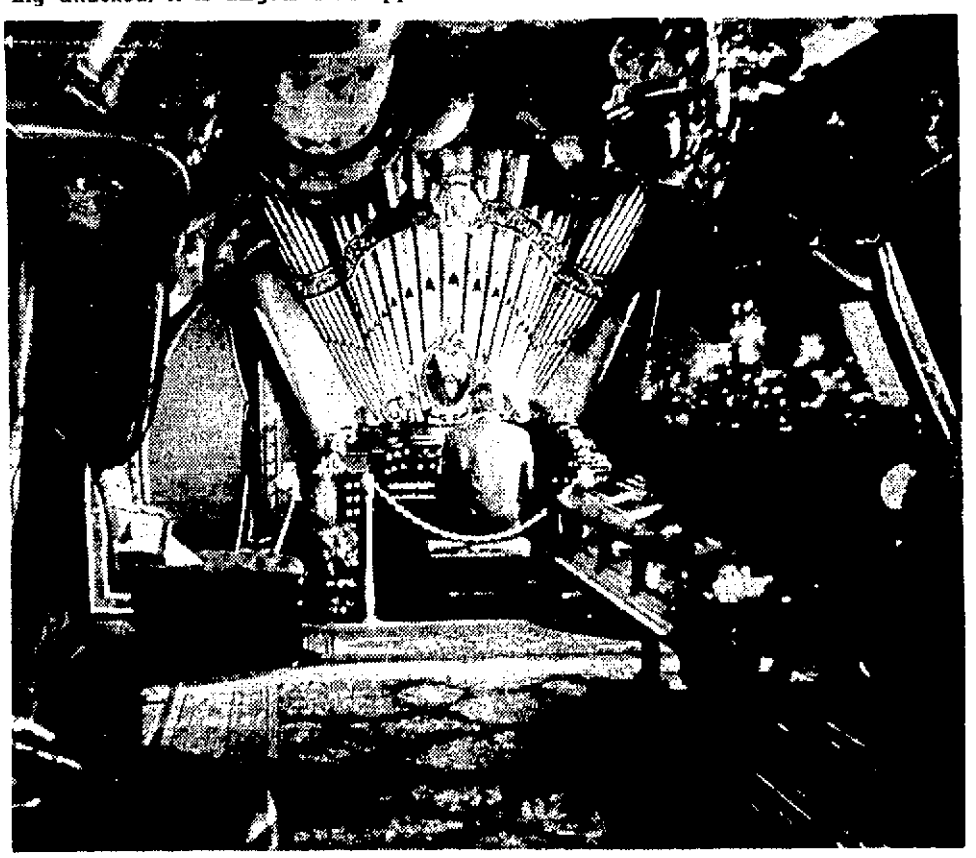

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" will be released to the theaters about Christmas time.

Disney's version of the Nautilus is 200 feet long and 26 feet wide. To avoid being attacked, it is disguised in appearance to look like a monster of the deep.

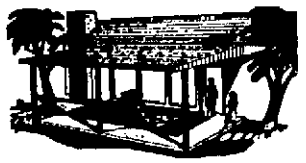

Capt. Nemo (James Mason) outlines rules of conduct on sub for prisoner-guest, Prof. Aronnax (Paul Lukas).

Jules Verne's great imagination demonstrated in the book, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," is carried into the movie. Here, Capt. Nemo relaxes at his pipe organ.

HOLLYWOOD

Bad and Beautiful--With Music!

Gloria Grahame, who won "best supporting role" Oscar for 1952 with her performance in "The Bad and the Beautiful," makes her bow in a musical sequence in "Naked Alibi" for Universal International. Cast as entertainer in a Mexican border honky-tonk, Gloria is bad and beautiful warbling and wriggling hot choruses. Here is a demonstration by Gloria:

A part in a high school play won her a stage role.

Hollywood beckoned after Gloria served as understudy for Miriam Hopkins in "Skin of Our Teeth."

Many films followed her first one, "Blonde Fever."

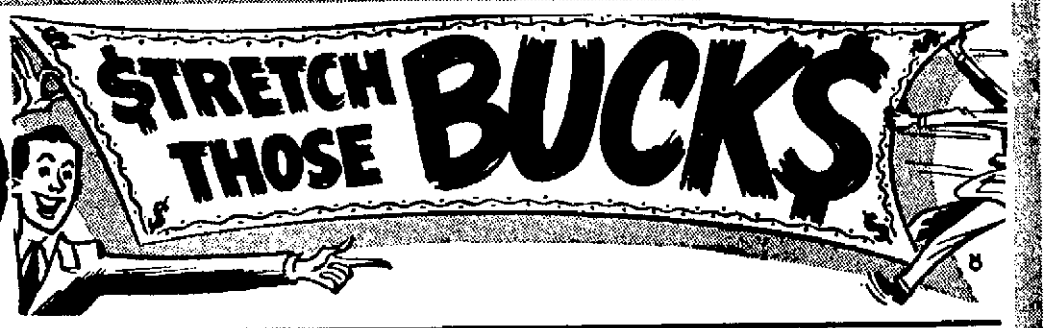

Then came a big one, "The Bad and the Beautiful."

She says leading men always kiss her or beat her.

It's Circus Night for Photogs

By the Shutterbug

LONG BEACH Cinema Club observes "Circus Night," complete with popcorn, peanuts and lemonade, at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Houghton Park clubhouse. Kyle Holmes will be chairman. Circus movies will be shown. The club will film a movie scenario over the Labor Day holiday on a jaunt to Turkey Creek near Idyllwild. Persons who wish to participate should contact the club president, Bob Ferris, Ph. 8-5313. A Ladies' Night is slated for Sept. 15 at Houghton Park clubhouse. Women will present their own film and handle the sound and projectors. Nellie Lloyd will be program chairman. Men of the club will serve refreshments.

MANUFACTURERS of home movie equipment have made it possible for everyone to own home movies. This has been done by reductions in the initial cost of equipment and film. Not only can the average family now afford a movie camera, but anyone in the family can be the photographer. Junior, Sister, Mom, Dad or any person, whether or not he knows about photography, can take movies with the new, simple, low-priced cameras on the market.

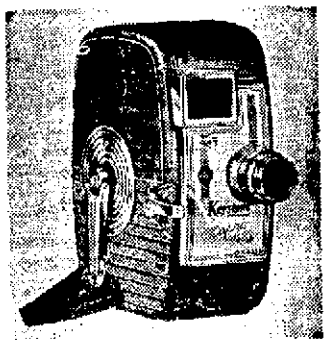

This is only the beginning. Due to better films and better camera lenses, it is possible to takes movies indoors as well as outdoors. The quality of pictures is greatly improved, and they can be in color as well as black and white.

Typical is the new Keystone Capri camera, which is lightweight but of rugged construction with an optical finder, hand crank wind, built-in exposure guide, footage counter that sets itself when the camera is loaded, and hand strap. No threading is necessary as the film drops in place for easy loading.

The Capri has provisions for interchanging lenses. This is important as many users of movie cameras like to add lenses such as wide angle and telephoto.

The Capri, pre-tested by the manufacturer, comes with the test strip of film enclosed in the camera showing that it is capable of taking good pictures. The manufacturer offers a "life time guarantee" and a "free service policy" with each camera.

More families now are recording the growing family, home improvements, hobby activities and the like. The family album of tomorrow will be in living form, thanks to progress made by manufacturers of home movie equipment.

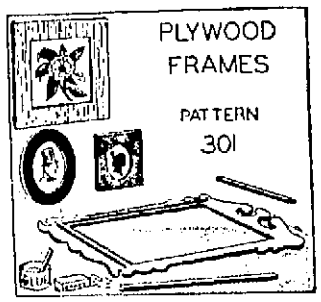

The new Keystone Capri is an example of easy-to-operate movie cameras now available in Long Beach.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST to women photographers, and photographers to be, is a brand new camera—the Anscoflex—recently announced by Ansco, America's oldest photographic company. The Anscoflex, a streamlined version in two-tone gray and silver, with accents of red, fitted with a matching gray shoulder strap, incorporates eye-appeal with simplified operating features.

With the Anscoflex it's easy to see good pictures, thanks to a brilliant "picture window" subject finder conveniently located in the top of the camera. The finder shows the picture full-size and in color. A built-in shutter lock eliminates disappointments caused by taking two pictures on a single frame of film. A new-type ratchet action film knob is easy to handle, even with gloved hands, and makes film winding quick and easy. By means of a new lock-on flash attachment, the Anscoflex is instantly convertible to an after-dark flash camera.

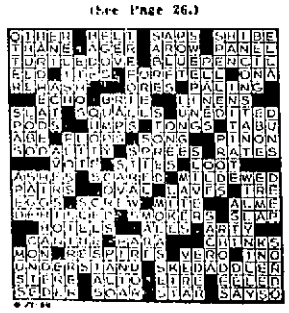

You Make It

Frames that are individual in style and appropriate for special purposes, such as for mirrors, photographs, paintings or prints, are easily made from quarter-inch plywood. A pattern for tracing the saw lines directly to the material is useful as it may be fitted to the exact amount of material you have on hand.

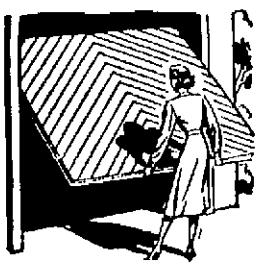

Pattern 301 gives tracing diagrams for fitting pieces to avoid waste. Pattern 301 costs 25 cents and is included in Jig Saw Packet of eight patterns for shadow-box trim and other useful items for the home. Specify pattern or packet, inclose corresponding amount of money and send order to: Pattern Department, Independent, Press-Telegram Southland Magazine, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

was quoted in a press dispatch from Seattle as saying "My former husband when he wanted to terminate a conversation had an arrogant way of suddenly turning on his heel and walking away. . . . He did it once too many times."

Charged with murder, Guy went on trial Feb. 2, 1932, before Superior Judge Robert W. Kenny (later attorney general) and a jury of nine men and three women here. Wanderwell's wife, Aloha, who wore blond hair in curls about her face like old pictures of Mary Pickford, collapsed on the stand. She told about how she, a child bride, married Wanderwell in 1916; how they had traveled over the world, seeking adventure in strange ports and strange countries. She said she was visiting friends in Hollywood when her husband was slain. She told about her husband's financial difficulties with Guy.

Some of the witnesses said positively that Guy was the "man at the porthole." Others said he "resembled" him. The state demanded the death penalty.

The defense struck hard at the contention that anyone could see an unfamiliar face for seconds in the half light of a porthole and then identify it months later in a murder courtroom.

"CURLY GUY had nerves of steel," recalls Hank Burmester. "He never once raised his voice or lost his manners or his poise. He played his hand to the full, but he never overplayed it."

After four hours deliberation, the jury returned the "not guilty" verdict on Feb. 16. Jurors said they took four ballots; the first ballot stood 10 to 2 for acquittal, they said.

Guy shook hands with the jurors after the verdict. Then he was mobbed by well-wishers, spectators who filled the courtroom. Many of them tried to press money into his hands, but, although he needed money, he refused it.

Aloha Wanderwell married Walter Baker, a former Wyoming sheepman, in a ceremony in Gretna, La., and in 1936 they headed the "Walter Wanderwell Educational Expedition" to Indochina. A globe-trotting cinematographer, James B. Shackleford, returning with film shot by the Tay Garnett expedition, said that he several times ran across the expedition in the back country of Indochina. The party traveled in an out-dated automobile, he said, camped out, ate berries and roots and stayed with native tribes between towns.

A few years ago the Bakers lived in Long Beach for a time. A former city editor of the Press-Telegram found their Roycroft Ave. address in an old address book. They don't live there any more, and the present neighbors had never heard of them.

THE WANDERWELL daughters would be in their late 20's, or possibly in their early 30's now.

Guy, deported after the trial here, fought with the Loyalists in Spain and the Chinese armies in the Orient. He eventually served six months as a flying instructor at Regina, Saskatchewan, and then joined the RAF Ferry Command. In the same service was Edward DeLarm, Indian aviator, who furnished his alibi in his murder trial. Guy was credited with making more trips across the Atlantic with American-built bombers than any other pilot in the service.

In 1940 Guy was co-pilot on a plane which carried Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King across the Atlantic for a conference with Winston Churchill and other Empire war chiefs.

Then on Oct. 15, 1941, Guy apparently met his death. A terse message from the RAF Ferry Command said that Capt. W. J. Guy of Cardiff, South Wales, First Officer W. A. Herron of Hatboro, Pa., and Radio Operator C. L. Larder of Delia, Alberta, were "missing somewhere over the Atlantic" in a Lockheed Hudson bomber being ferried to England. That was the last heard here.

LORD MONTAGU? He joined the French Foreign Legion. The last anyone heard of him he was running a hamburger stand in Buckingham, England.

VINES HAVE MANY USES IN IMPROVING HOMES

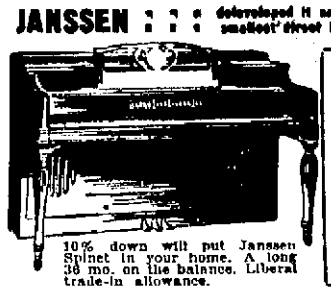

"From the vine comes the grape" . . . and a number of other important though often less tangible features.

For instance, vines may be used as a means of climate control and a source of shade. They may be used as screens to reduce light glare and to furnish privacy. Too, there are many vines of such beauty that they may be trellised, espaliered or grown on a wall for their esthetic effect alone. And vines are a natural for covering up fences or other unsightly objects.

Recent information from the California Association of Nurserymen stresses the use of vines for climate control and cooling. The darker foliaged vines will tend to absorb heat, while lighter foliaged varieties reflect it. But of course their more obvious use in controlling climate is an arbor, trellis or in natural growth where they reduce the amount of sunlight reaching a given area.

Where it is desirable to shelter an area during summer only, deciduous vines can be used, since they will shed their leaves during the cooler months and let sunlight through. Evergreen vines will, of course, shade the area the year 'round. Your nursery can advise you regarding a combination of deciduous and evergreen vines where some greenery is wanted the year 'round, but to a lesser degree in winter than in summer.

COOKING

Crab and Tuna Casserole

By Mildred K. Flanary

Mrs. D. W. Bryant's crab and tuna casserole pleases her entire family, even to tantalizing the canine taste.

THERE'S a perfect wedding of flavors in casseroles — those elegant "main-dish" affairs, so dear to the hostess -to the homemaker who is short on time and to family or guests who like surprises.

Menu patterns should change with the seasons and the big meal of the day in hot weather should combine cool cooking and easy eating. Ideal answer to both problems is a hot baked casserole for the main dish with the refreshing contrast of crisp cool foods making up the rest of the meal.

Mrs. David W. Bryant, 4329 Long Beach Blvd., has a recipe which came to her from a friend. Because it is so delectable, it has become "the dish" in her particular circle of friends. Even her pup begs for some, it's that good.

Directions may be found elsewhere on this page.

Here are some other recipes:

Sausage Peach Balls

1 pound sausage meat
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 cups soft bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten
8 peach halves, drained
24 whole cloves
½ cup peach juice

Combine sausage, onion, soft bread crumbs, salt, pepper and egg. Form into 8 balls. Arrange peach halves, cut side up, in a shallow baking dish. Stick 3 cloves around the outer edge and place a sausage ball in center of each. Bake in an 8" square seamless pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Remove to hot platter, drain off fat and pour peach juice over sausage balls.

Yield: 4 servings, or 8 sausage peach balls.

Western Ham 'n' Noodle Bake

1 cup ripe olives
¾ cup diced onion
½ cup diced green sweet pepper
2 tablespoons salad oil
8 ounces noodles (3½ cups)
1¾ cups canned tomatoes
1 cup water
¼ cup liquid from olives
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
½ pound diced American cheese (1½ cups)

Cut olives from pits into large pieces. Cook onion and green pepper slowly in oil until transparent but not browned. Add noodles, tomatoes, water, olives and olive liquid, ham, salt, pepper and paprika. Simmer 10 minutes. Stir in cheese. Turn into 2-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes.

Serves 6.

Lima Bean-Shrimp Bake

1 can shrimp (5¾ oz.)
4 cups green lima beans, cooked or canned
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
1 can mushroom soup (10½ oz.)

Clean shrimps. Place two cups lima beans in bottom of well-greased heat-resistant glass refrigerator dish, the yellow 1½ quart size. Cover lima beans with half of shrimps; then add rest of lima beans. Add water and salt to mushroom soup and stir until mixture is smooth. Pour soup over lima beans. Arrange remaining shrimps on top. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 minutes.

Mushroom-Cheese Casserole

1 quart soft ½" bread cubes
½ cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup grated sharp cheese
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 eggs, beaten
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk

Alternate layers of bread cubes, mushrooms, cheese, celery and onion in a greased 1-quart casserole. Combine beaten eggs, mustard, salt, pepper and milk. Pour over bread in casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) for one hour.

Yield: 6 servings.

Kitchen Tip:

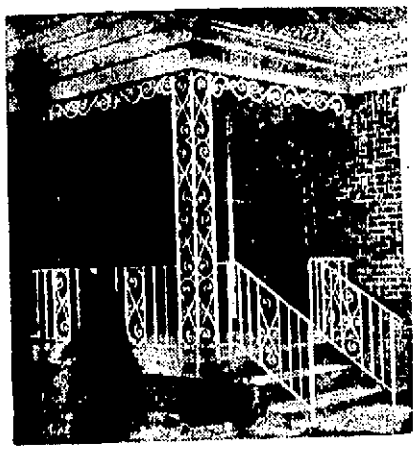

Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen Tip: To prevent granulation when making any kind of cooked cake frosting, add a tablespoon of light corn syrup before cooking.

Mrs. Bryant's Crab, Tuna Casserole:

1 cube butter or margarine
½ cup flour
1¾ cup milk
1 can (14-oz.) evaporated milk
1 can (7-oz.) mushrooms and liquid
6 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
1 can crab meat
1 can tuna
1 cup slivered almonds
Salt and pepper
Crushed cereal flakes

Make white sauce. Add remaining ingredients and cover with crushed cereal. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees F.

Home Do-It-Yourself Boom Given Boost

Built especially for "do-it-yourselfers," this 210-foot display of materials and designs is a part of the Sunset Fence & Patio Co., 3626 Long Beach Boulevard.

RESPONDING to demand created by the booming do-it-yourself idea in home improvement, Sunset Fence and Patio Co. today formally opens a complete display of newest materials and ideas for more attractive and enjoyable outdoor living. The permanent exhibit stretches 210 feet along the firm's headquarters at 3626 Long Beach Blvd.

"Publicity given to do-it-yourself possibilities by Southland Magazine and other home publications, combined with the logical nature of the method, has started literally thousands of home owners in this area searching for ideas, plans and materials for fencing, patios, barbecues and the like," company officials said. "To serve these people, Sunset has filled an acre with materials of all kinds and is providing a free plan and idea service to go with it."

Starting this morning, the firm will hold open house at the display every day this week until 9 p. m.

In addition to the exhibits, a highlight of today's program will be a demonstration of various types of barbecue cooking by Pete Gross of Los Angeles, noted television barbecue chef and manufacturer of the Rotir equipment featured by Sunset.

Sunset Fence and Patio, which is one of the oldest and largest companies of its kind in the Long Beach area, is illustrating use of translucent paneling, reed screening, redwood, flagstone, cinder blocks, concrete, brick, decorative concrete panel fencing, barbecue equipment, colored aggregates and other materials. The firm's staff will be on hand to answer questions.

AS PART of its expansion program, Sunset also is enlarging its contract department to include complete facilities for home modernization and room additions, it was announced.

"On one hand, Long Beach has an unusually large number of young families who are outgrowing their present homes, while on the other hand, there are many older homes needing to be brought up to date in appearance," the company official explained. "Hence this new service is naturally adapted to the needs of the area."

The new "Do-It-Yourself department will be open Sundays and daily until 9 p. m. for the convenience of home owners.

For Barbecue Chefs

For the benefit of patio chefs who want to improve their standing in the eyes of their guests, a school of barbecue cookery will be started soon by Sunset Fence & Patio Co., it was announced yesterday.

Pete Gross, prominent Southland amateur chef who has appeared on numerous television programs, has agreed to instruct the classes, it was stated. Preparation of meat for cooking, preparation of fire, application of sauces, and judging the "doneness" of meat will be taught.

Carnation Care

Think of a spicily fragrant perennial that blooms from late Spring to late Fall in solid colors of white, pink, rose, red and yellow and striped combinations of these colors and that is particularly popular for corsages and boutonnieres!

Got it?

The answer is "carnation."

Carnations do exceptionally well throughout most of California. The plant itself is shrubby-branched and grows one to three feet in height, with narrow blue-gray leaves and long stems usually topped with double blooms.

According to the California Association of Nurserymen, carnations may be had from nurseries in three forms: The Enfant de Nice ad Chabaud strains may be had as seedlings in flats, and will produce flowers in an assortment of colors and sizes. The second type are carnation cuttings which nurseries have in pinks, reds and whites already established in flats. Name carnation varieties are available in a third form set in small individual pots.

Carnations generally should be planted in full sun in more temperate parts of the state. In very warm areas where flower colors tend to fade, they will prefer light shade. During the growing season they should have a dose of commercial fertilizer each month. To help insure a bushy, compact plant, pinch back once or twice while the plants are small. It is well to stake the bushes as they have a tendency to sprawl. Carnations like a uniform amount of water at all times.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

They Own Their Own Apartment

By Eileen Ball

Sea vistas feature the apartment of the Jerome Smits. Like other rooms, the bedroom opens to sea, sky and sand. Soft pearl gray carpeting is used throughout.

RESIDENTS of any community are ever being shuffled into one of two groups by people whose lot it is to compile data for such things as city directories. And the slot into which one's name falls depends on whether he does, or does not, own his own home.

Until recently it was pretty generally presupposed that the renter was of a species that dwelled in a multi-unit apartment house, while the owner was a prototyped, lawn raking, roof repairing head-of-a-house.

The growing popularity of the own-your-own apartment in Long Beach, of which there are many, does not bear out this assumption. More and more people are buying apartments—which distinguishes them from the individual house owner as well as from the apartment renter who must think twice before he drives a nail into his landlord's wall.

In answer the growing desire of these people for a compact, carefree dwelling they can "call their own," several architects in the city have been furrowing their brows over designs that preserve what is best in home-owning minus its disadvantages. Their greatest problem, obviously, is the preservation of privacy.

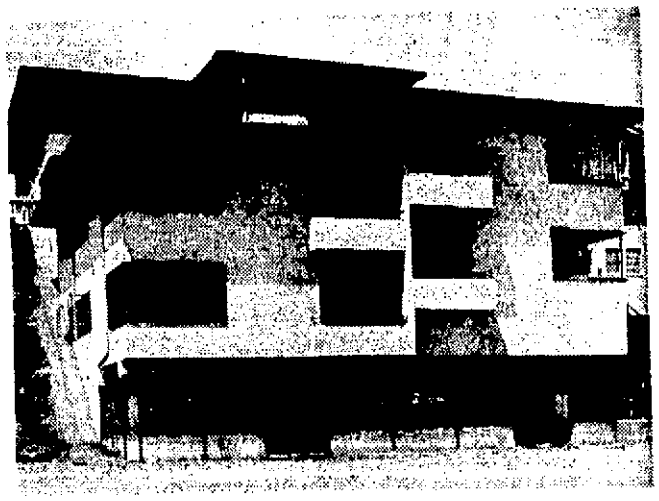

The den, too, has a view. The husky leather furniture, a bar and a television set create a relaxed setting.

Architects Francis Merchant and Richard Shelley were the designers of a 22-unit own-your-own apartment building at 3rd Pl. and Ocean Blvd. Each apartment is a separate entity unto itself, granting the owner the right to his own way of life within his own sphere. Outside of sharing an ocean view and an admirably centralized location, these people enjoy the utmost individual privacy possible.

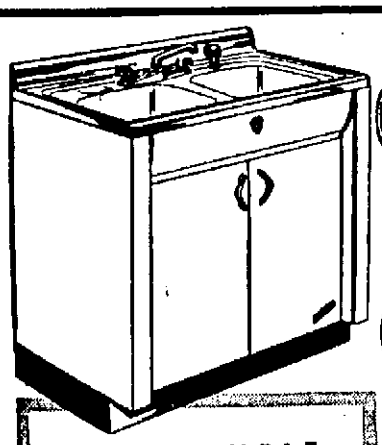

Most of the apartments are located at the street level, high on the crest. The choicest apartments, however, are the eight bluff units. These exclusive apartments are ranged down the cliffside, facing the ocean.

After concentrating at length on means for giving these units the greatest amount of individuality and privacy possible, Merchant a nd Shelley hit upon the idea of constructing the bluff units on a skip-level principle.

Architects with less imagina-

Inspiration for these modern apartments might have been ancient cliff dwellers. Staggered levels give privacy.

Sweeping view of the ocean through large windows opens up the own-your-own apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Smit, who enjoy a choice unit of structure.

tion might have placed the eight apartments—two abreast—in an unimaginative four-story arrangement. Merchant and Shelley, however, pursued their theory that if the eight were arranged in a zig-zag—each one a half level removed from its neighbor—privacy would be enhanced and the overall composition of the building improved.

Thus, no two bluff units share a level. One of the happy outcomes of this planning is the fact that the eight little balconies that overlook the beach are delightfully secluded from each other.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Smit occupy one of the choicest cliff-side apartments. Their picture window enjoys an uninterrupted sweep of ocean view high enough over the beach to assure privacy and quiet.

The predominating color carried out through their 1257-square foot residence is pearl gray, soft and neutral. Silky, deep-napped gray nylon carpeting extends from the living room to the dining ell and on through the hallway, den and master bedroom. This uninterrupted use of a single color pulls the interior into an integrated whole. It has the effect of making it seem more spacious than could have been possible with the combining of several unrelated colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Smit share the belief that the best of any style can be successfully combined with the finest of another. The mutual bond between such divergent styles is quality. And that according to Mrs. Smit's belief, is all the compliment necessary.

They offer their apartment as proof that antique, modern and traditional can live happily together under one roof.

An oversize broatelle sofa curves into the expensive corner window and is faced with a squat marble-topped Victorian table. On the antique coffee table stand a whimsical blown green glass fish, a suitable representative of contemporary art. The fanciful fish and the conservative, stuffy little table—wonderfully complement each other and point out the best in each.

The handsome heavy draperies are chartreuse woven with gold. The fabric is unmistakably modern in feeling, and how well it complements the pair of old tapestry fireside chairs and the gleaming mahogany occasional tables.

The living room, facing the ocean, is accessible from the entry hall. The entrance, separating the living rooms from the bedroom areas, is but one of the many features of this apartment. No one enjoys stepping directly into a living room, yet such refinements as guests entries are often overlooked in compact floor plans.

Connecting with the living room is the dining ell tucked around a corner out of sight from the entry. It overlooks the sun porch abloom with riotous purple petunias. The window is curtained with starchy white ruffled organdy tie-backs.

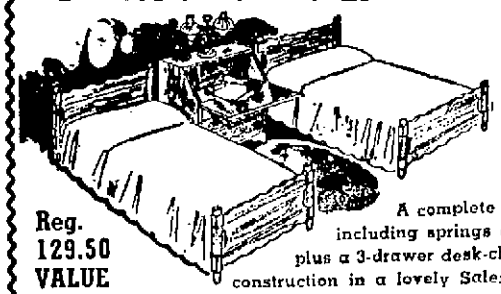

The little kitchen is a picture of satiny birch cabinets in combination with terra-cotta and oatmeal tile. A lighting trough over the sink provides efficient lighting minus glare. Other innovations are specially installed tray slots and overhead fans.

The den has been set aside for a party and guest room. Whimsical wallpaper sets the party mood. A compact bar, television set, a wealth of comfortable furniture join in establishing the room's happy atmosphere.

To keep the room from assuming too bedroom-like appearance the Smits requested that the wardrobe closet be omitted. Into the recess built for such a unit, the Smits have fitted their handsome deep mahogany television set. This has been flanked with custom-made wardrobe chests that don't tell on themselves. The principle of using non-committal chests for many varied functions is a sound one for apartment and small home dwellers. Then the units can be moved and they will be at home in any setting, never being hampered with such as "buffet," "server," "dresser" and the like.

They Make a Game of School

Parents pitch in as teachers' helpers at the Burbank Elementary School Workshop. Out of this endeavor comes games and aids that make learning good fun.

By Nancy Lester

NOT ALL the "night life" of first grade teachers in the Long Beach Unified School District is devoted to home work--thanks to an assist given them by hundreds of local parents.

Each year more than 300 parents pitch in and help teachers make scores of ingenious instructional materials used in getting Johnny and Mary off to a good start in reading and arithmetic. This teacher-parent partnership was formed more than seven years ago and has been in full operation each year in the work shop at Burbank Elementary School.

The helpful parents have for example, made a game which requires a 5 or 6-year-old to spot differences between odd-shaped objects. The youngster who does well in this little game will have less difficulty spotting the differences between "when" or "where" or "here" and "help" in his beginning reading.

A GAME which requires a boy or girl to place three red balls, five green balls and seven blue balls in a box may be used by a little tot to teach himself on his growing knowledge of numbers as well as colors. A homemade clock with big numbers and big hands which can be easily moved from one hour to another can be a valuable aid in teaching a youngster to tell time. Parents make these clocks, too.

"Many of the parents spend several afternoons painting, cutting, sewing, pasting, sanding, hammering, waxing and shellacking," according to Mrs. Hilma Borden, school supervisor, who directs the parent workshop. "The parents not only gain the gratitude of the teachers but also come out with new insight into what helps a boy or girl learn these basic skills more rapidly and learn them in such a way they "stick."

"Incidentally, every one has fun, too."

PET PARADE

Animated Snowdrift

By Eleanor Avery Price

WHEREVER HE GOES, Champion Basquaerie Monte Cristo draws immediate attention. This beautiful dog is a great Pyrenees, the majestic pet of Mr. and Mrs. J. King-Smith, 5903 Eucalyptus Lane, Los Angeles.

Probably no other dog in history can equal the record of service to mankind that is credited to the Great Pyrenees. He is a descendant of the mastiff type and is depicted in both Babylonian art and in ancient Roman art.

This dog's remains are found in the fossil deposits of the bronze age which tells of his appearance in Europe between 1800 and 1000 B. C. It is believed that he came originally from Siberia or Central Asia and followed the Aryan migration into Europe.

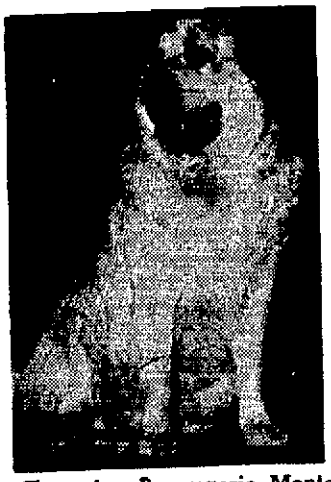

In Europe he became primarily a mountain dog and was later taken up by nobility. It was in the mountains, however, that the dog developed his traits of devotion, fidelity, guardianship, and intelligence. For centuries he lived with his shepherd master and guarded the flocks from packs of wild animals. His fine sense of smell and his above-average sense of sight made him invaluable. He was counted by shepherds as equal to two men.

BECAUSE OF HIS FINE qualities, he was chosen as the dog of the early Biscay fishermen settlers on Newfoundland Island. Here he was crossed with the black English Retriever, brought over by English settlers, and the cross resulted in the Newfoundland dog.

In the United States the Great Pyrenees often works as a guide and pack dog on ski trips.

THE TREE-SHADED LAWN at Knott's Berry Farm is the pleasant setting for the Sept. 5 Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club Sanction Match. This match is for puppies from two months up, with trophies for each breed as befitting the club's motto: "Not your breed, not my breed, but all breeds." Entry fee for each puppy is $1. Visitors are welcome, and there will be ample parking in the immediate vicinity.

RUB A PIECE of ice on chewing gum or tar that becomes matted on a dog's coat. Acetone, applied with cotton, cloth, or sponge will also act effectively to make the sticky mass removable. If burrs or "stick-tights" become matted in the fur, vaseline or mineral oil worked into the tangle with the fingers will remove them. If soap must be used to clean an injured or infected stain area, mild castile soap free from chemicals is recommended. Clip the fur around the injured or affected spot to enable you to clean more effectively.

Champion Basquaerie Monte Cristo, a Great Pyrenees, has a pedigree that goes far back into folklore.

Easy-to-Make Child's Apron

By Goldie M. Harper

HERE'S HOW to make the cutest child's apron of the year.

Make a lap apron of organdy. Have the finished garment 26 inches wide, 9 inches long, with a belt 14 inches long. It will have few gathers. Make the tie strings a good length for your child's waist measure.

Then cut a child's size good quality handkerchief (25 cents will buy a beauty) into four even squares. Baste a hem one-eighth of an inch on the raw edges of each square to the bottom of apron (See illustration).

Baste the tiniest rickrack braid over the edges of the squares which have been sewed to the apron. Topstitch, turning under the braid at the corners.

Trim the pocket with two rows of the braid, preferably before attaching to the apron.

For a larger apron for mother, make it 26 inches across, 17 inches long, plus a 16½-inch belt. Use a foot-square handkerchief. Regular size rickrack is best for this one. Use three squares at the bottom, one for the pocket.

This child's lap apron can be easily made with a bit of organdy and a tot-sized handkerchief.

'Paris of the North'

WHEN TIVOLI GARDENS closes on Sept. 12 the outdoor season officially comes to an end in Copenhagen. The end of outdoor festivities in the Danish capital, however, means only that the sort of activities which have earned for the Danish capital the title of "Paris of the North" are moved in under a roof.

Life in Copenhagen may be slightly more formal when it goes indoors, but it is hardly less gay. The Royal Theater opens on Sept. 1 with its world famous ballet alternating with drama and opera.

On the more serious side the major event in Copenhagen this fall, according to Pan American World Airways, will be the exhibit marking the 400th anniversary of the Cabinet Makers Guild. Although this may sound a bit on the heavy side for Denmark, it should be remembered that the Danes have taken a leading part in the Scandinavian design movement which has aroused so much interest throughout both Europe and the United States.

Since its reputation for having a good time is well known not only in Europe but in America, Copenhagen gets a bit crowded with pleasure seekers in the summer, but comes the first of September the tourists go home and leave the city to the Danes. Prices drop in the fall to the point where $7 a day is enough for both food and hotel room. A room in the best hotel in the Danish capital won't cost more than $6 a day at this time of year.

IN LINE with the increase in tourist interest in the entire Mediterranean-Middle East area, Greece is preparing for what, it is hoped, will be one of the best tourist years in her long history.

Encouraged by early season reports, the Greeks are looking forward to sharing in the fall and winter business stimulated by Mediterranean tours, according to John M. Davenport, district manager here for Trans World Airlines. In April, for instance, 14,825 tourists entered Greece, more than double the number in April of 1953.

The Greek Tourism Organization, directed by Nicholas Phocas, is engaged in a broad program to provide new facilities for tourists. Hotel facilities in a number of smaller cities and towns, as well as Athens, are being expanded. New tourist information offices have been established and they are manned by pretty Greek girls schooled in several languages.

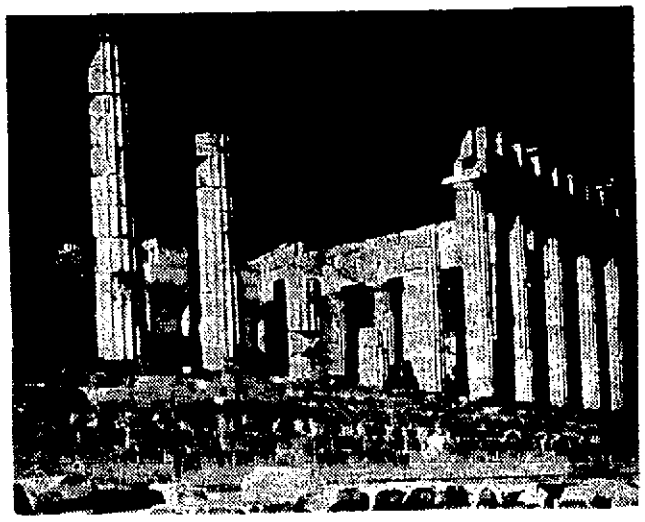

To accommodate the nearly 1,000 passengers a month TWA flies to Athens from the United States and Europe, the airline has increased its schedules to Greece and now has a total of 19 low-fare Sky Tourist flights to Athens. TWA is the only United States airline serving Greece. Fares to Athens will be even lower when thrift-season rates go into effect October 1, through April.

There is no real travel "season" in Greece; it is pleasant practically the year around. The weather may be compared to that of Virginia; the sun shines most of the year.

THE GREEK DRACHMA, now fixed at 30 to the dollar, still provides an excellent exchange bargain for Americans. Room and bath in luxury hotels cost as little as $4; rooms in first-class hotels range from $1.50 to $3. Food is plentiful for the tourist and of good quality. In Athens dozens of restaurants serve excellent meals which run from $1 to $2; in the country, food is even cheaper.

No tourist should miss the taverna—the center of life in the cities and in every village, no matter how small. The taverna is Greece's cafe, bistro and nightclub; some are big and noisy with music and dancing; others are small, intimate places with only a few tables, perhaps on the sidewalk or under the trees. Here the Greeks gather to eat, to drink and, most important of all, to talk. Athens, with a population of a million and a half, has more than 10,000 tavernas. There is no cover charge, no minimum, and any stranger may sit down, order a coffee and join the party.

To see more of Greece than just Athens and the Acropolis—and every road, every community has its share of wondrous antiquities—planned, all-expense tours to the Peloponnesus peninsula, to Daphni, Corinth, Mycenae and Olympia, and to the mountain sanctuary of Delphi, are easily arranged through any travel agent. Somewhat cheaper and more adventurous are the same trips by ordinary bus. Direction for obtaining information about tours and these trips is available at TWA's new marble-fronted ticket counter on Athens' Constitution Square, across from the city's leading hotels.

The ancient, world-famous Acropolis in Athens is a "must" for tourists traveling through Greece.

57-Day Mediterranean Cruise

The Mediterranean is the cradle of civilization as we know it—our religion, our laws and arts had their origin in its borderlands. Here you find ancient Egypt, the Holy Lands of the Bible, classical Greece, the vast regions that once formed the Roman Empire. You can trace the stories of Arab conquest, of the Crusades, of the Venetian Republic, of the Renaissance, and of the great Voyages of discovery that marked the dawn of modern history. Here, too, you will find dynamic new trends—new developments imposed on these ancient backgrounds. The Mediterranean is an endless source of inspiration.

On Feb. 10, 1955, the modern motor liner "Oslofjord" leaves New York for a 57-day Mediterranean Cruise, calling at 22 ports. This ideal cruise ship is completely air conditioned. It has nine beautifully furnished public rooms, glass enclosed promenade, garden lounge, four open terrace-like decks for sunshine, sports and relaxation, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, modern gymnasium, Turkish baths and massage rooms.

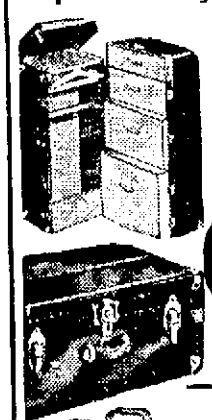

Membership in the cruise will be limited to about 360 passengers, approximately half the normal capacity. Shore arrangements will be handled by the experienced staff of Thos. Cook & Son. An attractive cruise folder is available at Cook's offices or your local travel agent.

GARDENS

How to Be a Lazy Gardener

By Bob Gilmore

Summer heat dulls garden zeal; gardeners may get lazy. Undemanding pelargoniums, above, are appreciated then.

DURING THE SUMMER months it is quite easy to become a lazy gardener. The usual routine of cultivating, feeding, weeding and watering loses much of the appeal it enjoyed during the spring. So utilize those ornamentals that possess ease of culture with profusion of bloom.

Summer lilacs will fill your garden with fragrance and color during the next few months. One of the most interesting varieties in this group is buddleia davidii, Ile de France. It flowers earlier in the season than any comparable type. The perfume is rich and penetrating, the flowers violet-tinted and produced on spikes from six to 12 inches in length.

For ease of culture few plants can compare with the gold flower hypericum, variety moserianum and also hypericum patulum Henryi, better known as Henry's golden cup. The former is best used as a low shrub in the foreground. It is characterized by golden yellow flowers measuring two inches across. At maturity the plant attains a height of two feet. Either sun or partial shade will prove a satisfactory location.

Spartium junceum of Spanish broom is hardy in Southern California. It gets along with little water and tolerates a lot of exposure. Flowers are bright yellow and pea-like in shape. The fragrance is splendid with the florets being in evidence almost throughout the year.

Most heathers attain the peak of their flowering period in late fall or during the Christmas season. However, one variety will certainly add color to your summer and fall scene. It is erica blanda, the red everblooming heather and this splendid shrub maintains a January-to-December flowering schedule.

THE FAMILIAR HIBISCUS is another splendid shrub for flowering and one that requires very little care once it gets started. The flowers are at their best during the warmer months.

One of our most exciting flowering vines in antigonon leptopus, a native of Mexico which, like so many other plants originating in this area, is very much at home in Southern California. One of the most amazing characteristics of this plant is its ability for fast growth; in a very short time it will put out from 20 to 30 feet of vine.

Other ornamentals that flower abundantly during the summer, yet require little care are lantana, gazania, phlox, statice, alyssum, coreopsis, gaillardia, hibbertia, petunias, zinnias, hemerocallis, begonia semperflorens and lippia citriodora.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week. . . Cuttings of pelargonium plants may be taken at this time. Use stems that are not too soft; cut at a node or leaf joint; cuttings may be started in sand in flats, then transferred to pots when they have rooted.

Set your lawn mower to cut at a height of at least one and one-half inches during the next few months; one and three-quarter inches would be even better. If you do any re-seeding at this time be sure to keep the surface constantly moist until the young plants are well established.

Fuchsias react favorably to a cold shower bath during warm weather. It is advisable to give these plants a light pruning from time to time to encourage proper shaping and also to prevent their growth from becoming scraggly.

For Masses of Blue --and Borders, Too

By Walter Finch

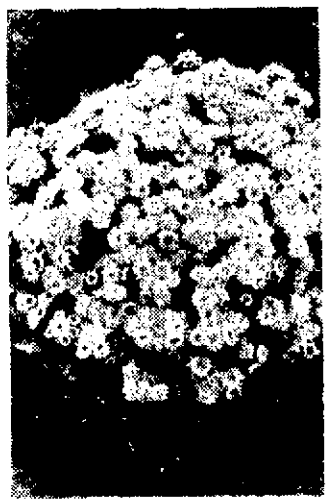

ONE OF THE garden problems during late summer is to spruce up the flower beds with quick color. The need arises from lack of care during recurring heat waves or from the absence of the home-owner on vacation or possibly from the natural overgrowth of early plantings that have bloomed out and are looking seedy.

Several nursery bedding plant transplants will remedy this problem and give quick sparkling color with little fuss or bother. Some bedding plants such as ageratum will often be available in the nursery and will give immediate color. In the majority of California areas such a late date planting will continue to pretty up its portion of the garden for a period well into the fall months.

Ageratum is a particularly nice border plant and is commonly used in that role. However, a more striking usage is to mass plant it for a full bed of blue.

Ageratum does best with rich loose soil and requires an abundance of water when first transplanted. After every few plants are set they should be thoroughly watered to avoid wilting. Full sun is required at this time of year to insure satisfactory bloom. Ordinarily no fertilizer should be used in order to force quicker bloom.

If a few plants are left over, they can be potted and be used for small blooming house plants. Also these few extra plants can be used to good advantage for perking up a patio planter. The soft lavender blue of ageratum will blend well with most colors and tend to tone down the strong reds and oranges that tend to predominate in summer annuals. According to the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board, this is one of the prime purposes of flowers in the blue shades.

Blue ageratum gains favor with gardeners late in summer when flowers fade. It shows color quickly.

Floral Torch for Your Garden

W. Atlee Burpee Co. Photo

For blazing color in summer and autumn gardens, "Red Hot Poker" will yield blooms on tall, slender spikes.

By Murtha Hurley

WOULD YOU LIKE touches of brilliant color in your garden all summer and fall? Then plant Tritoma, that showy perennial popularly called "Red Hot Poker." It's also known as the "Torch Lily" and the "Firecracker" plant.

From a dense clump of bright green rapier-like leaves rise up three to five-foot upright stems with a blazing flower cone at the tips. Each cone is made up of tightly packed firecracker-like flowers of fiery orange-scarlet.

The colorful plant remains in bloom all summer and into late fall, when much of the garden has finished its blooming.

As the plant develops, the grass-like leaves have a tendency to droop. However, the brilliancy of the numerous flower heads presents such a striking and colorful appearance one does not notice the sprawling leaves too much.

To display the brilliant flowers to advantage set them against a background of rich green foliage shrubs. They also look well behind a low picket fence, the colorful flower spikes glowing above the top fence rails. Or set clumps against a stone, brick or stucco wall or to fill a corner bed among other shrubs, particularly those that have bloomed earlier in the year. Tritoma also adds bright color spots to a cactus and succulent bed.

Such locations serve to protect the reed-like flower stalks from strong winds that might bend or break them.

TRITOMA prospers in Long Beach area gardens since the tropical climate is similar to its native South Africa.

Being a perennial and a sturdy one, the plant multiplies its stalks each year, multiplying almost like a bulb. To produce new plants divide the rhizome-like roots when the plant is resting, after fall blooming or in early spring.

Tritoma requires little care. Its one requirement for sturdy growth is a well drained, loose, gravelly soil and a fair amount of moisture. The plant likes a sheltered sunny or slightly shady location.

In planting, leave the crown fairly high, even mounding slightly. When the plants have finished blooming in late fall they will need grooming. Cut off all the dried foliage and flower stalks.

Plants can be raised from seed sown indoors in early spring and set in the garden in May when the soil is warm. Or from divisions set out, either in spring or in fall.

For bloom this summer and fall it's best to set in established plants that can be chosen at nurseries in gallon cans. Planted in June, Tritomas will bloom continuously through October. Omit fertilizer when planting.

Kill 2 Bugs With One Spray

MANY RULES can be laid down for the good gardener to follow in conducting a spray program, but first and foremost, says the California Association of Nurserymen, is the overall maxim that any job of spraying be a job thoroughly done.

When going after insects, it is important that every bit of the plant, tree or shrub receive the application being used. Next it is important that certain sprays and dusts be applied during the right season and during the right stage of plant growth. By consulting your nurseryman before undertaking any pest control program, you will avoid plant damage and waste of the chemicals themselves. In some cases your nurseryman will be able to show you how different sprays may be mixed — fungicides and insecticides — so that you may "kill two bugs with one spraying," so to speak.

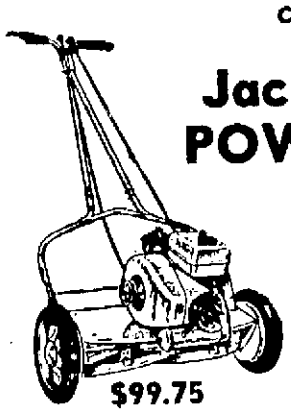

Another practical bit of gardening is to encourage the enemies of bugs and plant disease to stay around. Toads and lady beetles, for example, feed on aphis. Carabid beetles (an iridescent purple-black bug) feed on slugs and snails. Your nurseryman can outline the work of various other of this "garden friend" group and caution you in the use of those sprays and dusts that tend to kill friend and foe alike, when used indiscriminately.

A Goal Across a Sea

UNTO A GOOD LAND, by Vilhelm Moberg (Simon & Schuster, publisher's edition $3.95—Literary Guild members $2).

A boat load of immigrants from Sweden reached New York City in June of 1850 on their way to a dreamed of new home in Minnesota. It took them a year from the time that they left Sweden until they arrived at their destination. This book carries on the tradition begun long ago of telling a depressing story of the hardships of various Scandinavian peoples who had so much trouble in arriving in America. It is detailed in accounting the methods of travel of an earlier day and students of pioneer days should find this very interesting.

All Americans of Swedish descent will like the strength of character displayed and will enjoy the picture of practices of their forebears.

The idea that Baptists were the followers of the devil is proven false by one of the main characters of the book, Ulrika, who was a fallen woman in the old village in Sweden. The act of baptism under water washed away her old sins and led her to a new life. Young people were also problems in those days; two of the young men leave the others to seek their fortunes in the gold fields of California. Kristina and Karl Oskar brought their children to an unknown future —no money, no home, no clothing, no shelter.—E. G.

THE CHALLENGERS, by Jo Lundy (Aladdin, $1.75).

Good summer reading for the junior high crowd, and younger. They'll never realize they're learning a bit of early Oregon history, and absorbing good advice on winning friends through co-operation, while following the adventures of an Indian girl, Keetow, and an American boy, Tacket Brandt.—J. E.

THE NEXT FIFTY YEARS OF FLIGHT, by Bernt Balchen and Erik Bergaust (Harper and Bros., $3).

Reading almost like science-fiction, this book is actually a great number of questions asked by writer Erik Bergaust and answered by Balchen, noted Norwegian flier and Arctic explorer, now a U. S. citizen. Some of the visualizations Balchen sees are safe and virtually noiseless light planes and helicopters, a return of the seaplane to popularity, and convertiplanes for short commercial flights. He sees the transports of the future flying from New York to Tokyo in three hours, a tremendous development in electronic brain controls, the fantastic achievement to come in guided missiles, and the first steps to be taken in space flight. The reader seeking authoritative information on what is to come will be enthralled, and perhaps frightened. —J. G.

TIME TO COME, Edited by August Derleth (Farrar, Straus & Young, $3.50).

9 TALES OF SPACE AND TIME, Edited by Raymond J. Healy (Holt, $3.50).

Both of these volumes bring additional science fiction material to the readers whose demand for it increases yearly. All of these stories are original to these books, never having appeared before. All of the science fiction greats are here, and their work grows more vivid and intense as time passes. Could they be looking more closely now, and seeing more that is not dreamed of by the general earth people? At least there is more now to speculate upon, and these highly specialized authors carry the reader beyond speculation and into a tight reality of what was once fantasy.

NEW PAPERBACKS you'll like: Ernest Hemingway's two best-sellers, "A Farewell to Arms" and "The Sun Also Rises," now reprinted in pocket size (Bantam Giant, $.35 each); William MacLeod Raine's Texas story, "Dry Bones in the Valley" (Pennant, $.25), and "In Winter Light," a novel of the Southwest by Edwin Corle (Pennant, $.25).

GRACE MELIN
'Marion Moore'

MARIA MITCHELL: Girl Astronomer, by Grace Hathaway Melin, illustrated (Bobbs-Merrill, $1.75).

Under the pen name of "Marion Moore," Grace Hathaway Melin once wrote feature articles for the old Long Beach Telegram (now merged with the Independent, Press-Telegram). She also made her home in Long Beach for a time. Her new book is engagingly written and will appeal to children from 8 to 14 years of age, informing as it entertains; unlocking the secrets of basic astronomy and navigation. Boys as well as girls will find enjoyment in reading it. The book is part of the publisher's Childhood of Famous Americans Series.

Bookstore Opens Next Wednesday

Harry Dale, who says that in a quarter of a century he has sold 10,000,000 books, Wednesday will open a Dale Bookstore at 218 Pine Ave.

"A bookstore!" rejoices the public, stopping at the open doorway to listen to the sound of hammers and to smell books and new paint.

On the opening day, announces Dale, he will give free books to the value of one-fourth of purchases made by every customer. He calls this his "Opening Day Book Bonus." The store will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Dale, who began his bookselling career in Indianapolis in 1929, started business in Los Angeles in 1943, where he has bookstores at 502 S. Hill St. and 649 S. Main St. The Long Beach store is an expansion of his business.

The Long Beach store will contain 15,000 volumes. Customers who wish them will be supplied with cards reading "Browsing. Please do not disturb." They can pin these cards on and no clerk will disturb them while they browse.

Dale, a brown-eyed man with a small mustache and what he describes as a "scraggly Van Dyke beard," says his book stock will be varied, running the gamut from best selling novels to how-to-do-its in many fields. The stock will include many art volumes and he will sell reproductions of the best in contemporary or classical art, suitable for framing, for about 35 cents.

Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.: Greater Long Beach Non-Juried Show.

Pacific Coast Club Galleria, 850 E. Ocean Blvd.: Grace Miller, Ruth Osborn, Edith Cisko Show.

Long Beach Branch, Los Angeles County Medical Association, 814 Pine Ave.: Jane Rhorer Show.

Lafayette Hotel, Broadway and Linden Ave.: Victor Haveman photographs.

RICHARD V. JOHNSON won the Helen Heavenrich award for his water color "Storm Ravaged" in the current 1954 Greater Long Beach Non-Juried Exhibit in the Municipal Art Center.

University Club awards went to Bill Westenhaver for his oil "Buildings and Waters"; T. R. Wessinger for watercolor "Cold Passage 83" and Robert E. Houdek for his sculpture, "Redwood Torso."

Five commendations also were bestowed by the University Club: Oil, "Circus Horses," Ben Messick; water color "Church," Fran Soldini; "Scheveningen," Dean Spille; watercolor, "Landscape," John Christo; sculpture, "Head," J. Spinosa.

Work of 217 contributors is included in the exhibit which will remain in the Art Center through Sept. 12. All events in the Art Center are free and open to the public. Hours are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Tuesdays through Fridays, and beginning in September the Art Center will be open 7:30 to 9 p. m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Samuel Heavenrich, municipal art director, characterizes the show as "lively and experimental."

Twenty-one paintings by Spectrum Club members hang in the Art Center auditorium, observing the 25th anniversary of the club of men painters.

PHOTOGRAPHS by Victor Haveman, nationally acclaimed lens artist, will be shown for two weeks in the Lafayette Hotel. Included are portraits, views of Long Beach and artistic studies.

Haveman, who was born in Russia, came to America after World War I and has lived in Long Beach six years. He is credited with introducing the miniature camera in the Columbia Studio in Hollywood. His pictures have appeared in Life, Town and Country, Harper's Bazaar, Vogue and his color pictures have been used for many magazine covers.

ONE HUNDRED watercolors by school children from more than two score countries illustrating stories by Hans Christian Andersen will be shown through Sept. 15 in the 25th floor Tower Gallery of the Los Angeles City Hall. Gallery hours are 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Mondays through Fridays. There is no charge for admission.

The paintings — arranged in sets keyed to such famous stories as "The Ugly Duckling," "The Emperor's New Clothes," etc.—are winners in an international competition which began in 1951 and in which literally hundreds of thousands of illustrations were submitted by children of 45 countries.

First shown in Denmark in 1953, the United States tour of the exhibit has been arranged by the Smithsonian Institution of Washington and is shown under the patronage of Henrik de Kauffmann, Danish ambassador to the United States, and the Friendship Among Children and Youth group.

Actor Jean Hersholt, considered an authority on Andersen, has supplied bibliographic material to accompany the appealing exhibit of children's art illustrating the well-loved fairy tales.

The World of Stamps

POSTMASTER GENERAL Arthur E. Summerfield announced that high denomination bi-colored stamps will be printed on flat plates. Pregummed paper will be used. He said the cost of production will be about one-third of the price of the rotary runs.

COLUMBIA has issued a 5 centavos blue stamp with green center to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Colombia Academy of History. The stamp was originally scheduled for release in 1952 (actual anniversary year) but was not issued until now.

IN HONOR of the Marian Year, Spain has issued the first two stamps of a special series, reports the New York Stamp Co. The 10 centavos magenta depicts a statue of "Purisima" (Most Pure and Holy Virgin) by Alonso Cano. This statue now stands in the Cathedral of Granada.

The 30c brown shows a statue of "Our Lady of Montserrat," patron saint of Catalonia and one of the most celebrated images in Spain. The statue is small, black and carved of wood but it possesses magnificent robes and jewels.

Recipes for the Electric Cooker

ELECTRIC FRYER-COOKER RECIPES, by Julia Kiene (Barrows, $3).

Science is constantly supplying important new conveniences for the housewife and few of these are more versatile than the electric fryers or the combination fryer-cookers. Not only will they French-fry potatoes, fish, chicken, meats and vegetables, but they can also be used to prepare soups, stews, casserole dishes, egg and cheese concoctions, and even cocktail delicacies, candy and preserves and — of all things — coffee and rum and Tom and Jerrys! This book contains 350 fresh recipes, all tested. And what makes it even more useful is the fact that it contains instructions on the care of the utensil, how to use it as a deep-fat fryer, as a cooker, as a steamer, as a roaster or as a bun warmer, and the correct use of fats and how to clarify fats. Mrs. Kiene is a career home economist.

HOW TO Adjust, Make Use of a Plane

1. HOW TO ADJUST. For cutting, sight over bottom of plane to see that blade extends hair's width beyond bottom and is parallel to it. Large thumb nut moves blade back and forth; lever controls lateral adjustment. Usual error is to set out too far. To avoid nicking, lay plane on side when not using. Retract blade when storing plane.

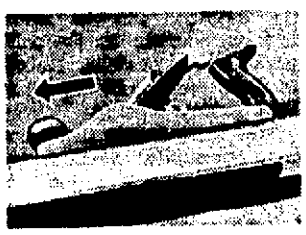

2. A STICKING DOOR CORNER. If only corner over the latch needs dressing, you need not remove door from hinges. Set stepladder between door and wall so door can be held firmly against ladder while you are doing the planing. Using block plane, lightly dress where door rubs frame. Push plane from the corner to the center to prevent the wood from splitting off corner.

3. BENCH PLANING. Woodworking vise holds project here. If you have metalworking vise, use wood or hardboard pads to prevent any vise marks. Grip end of long boards in vise and rest other end on peg inserted in hole bored in leg at the other end of bench.

4. STAY WITH THE GRAIN. Always plane with grain; planing against it tears surface. When directions of grain changes, reverse the work in your vise. For curly-grain hardwood, use very sharp blade set for tissue-thin shavings. Holding block under plane and against side of work, or using your fingers helps hold plane square with board sides.

5. USE OF PRESSURE. Place toe of plane flat on surface at starting end of wood. Exert pressure on toe only. When rear handle comes over work, exert even pressure over-all. Release pressure on toe of plane when blade nears end of work but continue pressure on heel. On return stroke, lift plane so blade does not drag.

He's Zany but Serious

SPIKE JONES is zany only professionally. Away from his rhythmic washboard, he's a serious type. Does absolutely nothing that is strange at all. You could tell that as he ordered iced coffee and a Coke at the same time. And you were absolutely sure when he took a black tie and wrapped it around his neck once or twice. This is a very ordinary, talented guy.

He has a little difficulty describing his kind of music, though. As who doesn't. It is music, and don't let anybody kid you about it. As much, or more work and ability go into producing one of his whacky arrangements as any other piece of music.

"I'd call it half Dixieland," he began, "half medicine show, and half whatever you want to call it."

This music, which is comprised of three equal halves, is designed to be satirical. Jones is emphatic on that point—it isn't supposed to be corn, but to be a take-off on some existing music.

"We play 'Lover'," he says, fingering that black tie, "and take-off on somebody like Kostelanetz. That's the song Rodgers and Hart wrote — only the way we play it, it sounds more like Roy Rogers and William S. Hart."

It took a long time for Spike Jones and his City Slickers to find their niche in life. And it took even longer for the public to find the same niche. Nobody, at first, could quite figure out what Jones was doing.

"The corny people thought we were too subtle," he says, "and the subtle people thought we were too corny."

But now everybody knows he's subtly corny, so everybody is happy.

He says he hired a trombonist, who'd been first trombone with a top band, and the guy couldn't play his music. There are 11 City Slickers, including two men who play that almost-ancient instrument, the banjo.

"It's hard to find a banjo player," he says. "We use two banjos, which is even harder." Yep.

MARION WELDON

USUALLY the caricature on this page is that of a man, since most of the larger Long Beach area restaurants are owned and managed by men. But today we present a charming change of pace and, for the occasion, perhaps we should change the title of this column to "Meet Your Hostess."

Marion Weldon, a lovely brunet, is hostess and owner of one the Southland's newest and most decorous dining places—the Blue Fox restaurant at 431 W. Pacific Coast Hwy. As she greets her guests with a delightful smile, they take her for a girl of 25 or 26. They would be quite surprised to learn that Marion is all of 35 years old and has one son 18 years old and another 12.

As chief of the Blue Fox's many activities, including the large handsome dining room, modernistic cocktail lounge and banquet room, Marion puts in a grueling long day, seven days a week. Tribute to her talents is the fact that the Blue Fox has gained popularity at a swift rate.

The Blue Fox's food is simply suberb. For example, look what is included in the restaurant's Grilled Swordfish dinner for only $1.50, complete: First a huge bowl of chilled relishes, including celery, carrot sticks, olives, radishes, onions and pickles. In addition, there is a side dish of salami and cheese slices. Next comes large bowls of fragrant soup and tossed green salad. The swordfish, tender and succulent, is served with a big baked potato and hot garlic bread. Also included are coffee and dessert. Among other excellent entrees on this dinner are ½ Fried Chicken, $2.50, and the Special Dinner Steak, $2.90.

Sundays from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m., the Blue Fox serves a scrumptious brunch for only $1. Entrees include lamb chop with two eggs, chicken livers with mushrooms or ham, bacon or sausage with eggs.

Murder Puzzle: If Dr. Sheppard Slew Wife—Why?

By RELMAN MORIN

BAY VILLAGE, Ohio (AP)—Setting for a murder . . . Saturday night, July 3. A brisk wind, whipping across Lake Erie, piles white-capped waves on the beach below the suburban home of Dr. Samuel Sheppard. In the house above, he and his wife, Marilyn, are spending a quiet evening with the neighbors, Donald and Nancy Ahern.

They have had dinner on the screen porch, then gone inside because of the chill. The two women put their children to bed. Ahern, with the volume turned low, listens to the ball game. The other three watch television. The doctor vaguely remembers it was a movie.

MRS. SHEPPARD
Why Was She Killed?

He becomes drowsy and stretches out on a couch in the living room. He is wearing a brown corduroy coat, a T-shirt, trousers, and "loafers." He dozes off.

Between 12:15 and 12:30, the Aherns go home. They have noticed that Marilyn Sheppard — who is four months pregnant —looks tired.

Apart from the murderer, so far as is known, they are the last persons to see Marilyn Sheppard alive.

5:30 a.m. . . . The telephone rings in the home of the mayor of Bay Village, J. Spencer Houk. He lives three doors from 28924 Lake Rd., the Sheppard address. He hears the voice of the doctor, who is a close friend: "For God's sake, Spence, get over here quick . . . I believe they've killed Marilyn."

Within the next hours, Sheppard's family, village and county police, a lawyer, and two detectives from Cleveland are in the house.

The two detectives, Robert E. Schottke and Patrick Gareau, work over the scene for some two hours. Then they turn to John Eaton, chief of police of Bay Village:

"You don't have to look any further. Sam Sheppard is your man."

The lawyer, William J. Corrigan, says to the family:

"You don't need me or any lawyer. Sam Sheppard didn't do it."

For the next seven weeks, millions of people followed the case with mounting interest. In and around Cleveland, it has torn them into sharply-divided groups, those who believe Sheppard is innocent, those who believe him guilty.

'Protection' and 'Persecution' Charged

Moreover, the story was aggravated by charges of police bungling, and "family protection." On the other side, Sheppard's lawyer says the police persecuted Sheppard.

Finally, the Bay Village city council passed a resolution requesting the Cleveland police to take over. Sheppard was arrested and indicted for murder in the first degree. He issued a statement re-affirming his innocence.

DR. SHEPPARD
Jekyll or Hyde?

The date for his trial will be set by the Court of Common Pleas when it reconvenes in September.

What happened that fateful Saturday night, between 12:30 and roughtly 6 a.m.?

After the Aherns left, Sheppard says he believes he heard his wife say she was going upstairs to bed. He is not sure. Presumably, he was still wearing the T-shirt and the brown coat. Then—

"The next thing I know I heard her say my name loudly, screaming my name. It wasn't actually a scream—I really can't explain."

Their seven-year-old son, "Chip," was asleep in the bedroom next to theirs. He apparently did not awaken. Neither did his dog.

The doctor says he must have been startled into semi-consciousness. He ran up the steps. He says now:

"I rushed into the room and several things happened almost simultaneously. I felt that I could see a white form of an individual. I was grappling with someone.

"I heard her moaning loudly . . . some noises . . . and I felt that I was struck down from behind but I can't say for sure."

He says his next memory is of being on the floor in a sitting position. He noticed the reflection from a badge on his billfold.

"I was fearful for my wife. I looked at her and felt her. Although it was difficult to see clearly, I felt that she was gone. I am not sure. In evaluating that stage, it is difficult to say because I was so hazy."

Next, he says, he went into his son's bedroom. The boy seemed all right.

Then he says he heard a noise in the living room and hurried downstairs again. He believes he caught sight of the same "form" outdoors, followed it down a curving flight of cement steps to the beach house. He says he "grabbed and tackled this individual," and was knocked out, or into semi-consciousness for a second time. He thinks it was a "big man" who did it.

'The Next Thing I Remember . . .'

"The next time I can remember in any clarity at all," he testified, "was coming to some vague sensibility on the water's edge at the beach.

He does not know how long it was, after that, when he called Mayor Houk and his wife.

They found him slumped in a chair in the living room, holding the back of his neck, and moaning.

Mrs. Houk went upstairs to a fearful sight. Marilyn Sheppard's body lay on the bed.

An autopsy later established that she had been struck no fewer than 27 times, possibly oftener. Evidently, she had thrown up her right arm to ward off the blows; her little finger was broken.

SUSAN HAYES
The "Other Woman?"

Her clothes, except for one undergarment, were neatly hung on a chair. The other garment lay on the floor beside the bed. She was wearing pajamas but only one leg thrust into the trousers. Police, noting the position of the undergarment on the floor and the pajamas, believe she may have been interrupted just as she was getting into bed. She had not been sexually assaulted.

Downstairs, the drawers of a desk and a secretary-desk had been pulled out. Some were stacked on top of each other on the floor. The doctor's bag was standing on end, and the articles it had carried were scattered over the floor nearby.

His brown coat was found laid over the end of the couch where he had been sleeping. The T-shirt was gone and has not

Hurricane Churns Up Open Sea

MIAMI (U.P.)—A sluggish hurricane packing winds up to 115 miles an hour drifted closer to shore Saturday, posing a dangerous threat to the Atlantic coastline from Jacksonville to the Carolina Capes, but still was whipping only the open sea.

The Miami Weather Bureau located the season's third tropical storm 260 miles east of Jacksonville. Naval, Marine and Air Force installations along the Georgia and Carolina coasts went on a hurricane-alert basis.

Forecasters said "indications are for very slow movement for the next 24 hours" but they emphasized that the direction of the drift is indefinite.

The latest advisory said the hurricane had drifted 15 miles closer to shore between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Weather Bureau cautioned interests in the coastal area to remain on the alert for later advisories about "Ole Sitting Bull." Small craft from Daytona Beach, Fla., to Cape Hatteras, N. C., were warned to remain in port.

"It's been drifting around in a small circle or sitting still for nearly 48 hours," Forecaster Cecil Gentry said. "And it looks like it may do the same for a few hours more before deciding on a course."

But weather bureaus in North and South Carolina forecast strong winds and squalls Sunday along the coasts.

COLO. BOMBING OF AIDE'S HOME KILLS VISITOR

STERLING, Colo. (U.P.)—Mrs. Lula Lutin, about 45, a member of a prominent Sterling family, was killed Saturday night in what police termed a deliberate bombing of the home of former city councilman Orville Davenport.

Mrs. Lutin was sitting in the living room of the Davenport home visiting her sister and brother-in-law.

Adlai Raps GOP, Ike on 'Bad Faith'

SIOUX FALLS, S. D. (U.P.)—Adlai Stevenson, in a direct attack on President Eisenhower, Saturday night accused the Republicans of failing to live up to their "fraudulent, cynical promises" to the nation's farmers.

Stevenson, in his sharpest criticism of the GOP since the 1952 election, accused the Eisenhower administration of a "breach of promise" in its farm program and said he believes the Republicans are guilty of "simple bad faith."

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate addressed party leaders from 15 farm belt states. He told them that the GOP farm program will accomplish little but lower farm prices.

The GOP record on agriculture is "one of irresponsibility at best and simple bad faith at worst," he said. "I'm afraid it is the latter."

Stevenson directly attacked President Eisenhower for language he said the President used in the 1952 political campaign.

He quoted Eisenhower as saying in a speech at Kasson, Minn., that he endorsed not only farm price supports at 90 per cent of parity but at 100 per cent.

While making his broadside attack at GOP farm policies, however, Stevenson did not come out four-square for 90 per cent supports on basic crops. He said he believes that 90 per cent supports are "not necessarily the permanent or only answer."

He said there might be other "partial solutions" at least.

"Now you may have gathered

Pretty, Young L.B. Widow Gyp Victim

A pretty young Long Beach widow's dreams of marriage and a lucrative business partnership with her husband-to-be were dissipated here Saturday by the harsh glare of reality.

Instead of her name appearing on official records as a bride, Mrs. Lois Evelyn Pusey, 28, of 723 W. Fourth St., was listed as a victim of bunco and grand theft by police.

Mrs. Pusey told authorities of a whirlwind three-day courtship by a suave, 29-year-old man who introduced himself to her as "Joe Palmeir."

The dark-eyed suitor induced her, she said, to withdraw $910 from her savings account— in three installments of $100, $550 and $260—and "advance" him the sums. He intended to use the money to establish a business at a desert spa, she said.

The last she saw of Palmeir and her money was on Friday, Mrs. Pusey said.

L.A.C. SAYS:

About Your Height

"If there were a choice in the matter, most men would like to be tall. Tall men are imposing and, therefore, can make better first impressions. They are believed to be favored by the ladies. They have an edge, generally, in athletics." After giving these good points about being tall, Changing Times Magazine goes on to point out how unimportant one's height is in our everyday life.

It goes on to show the average height for men in this country is 5 feet 7 or 8 inches. Average height of draftees in World War II was 5 feet 8 inches. That, of course, means some are several inches higher or lower than that height. But if you measure around 5 feet 7 or 8 inches, you are about average.

But history proves that the height of men has little to do with the great things done by them. Actually the shorter man often has a big advantage. He knows he will not get by on his appearance alone, so he uses his head. By contrast we have known many men of striking appearance who seemed to depend entirely on that appearance for the impression they made. In other words.

L.B. Flier in B-36 List of 24 Killed

A Long Beach couple's Air Force captain son and 23 other men aboard a huge B-36 bomber were killed when the giant craft crashed in a landing approach at Ellsworth Air Force Base near Rapid City, S. D., Friday night.

Three other crewmen were critically hurt in the flaming bomber, the Air Force reported.

Among the dead in the crash—the worst in B-36 history—was Capt. Roy Wegner, 37, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wegner, 940 E. 19th St.

A former Long Beach resident, Capt. Wegner was the engineer aboard the big bomber. He had been stationed at Ellsworth for seven years. In addition to his parents, he leaves his wife, Viola, and three children: Sammy Donald, 13; Linda Jane, 10, and Diane Kaye, 6.

The 10-engine intercontinental bomber, commanded by Lt. Col. Wray P. Cotterill of Maplewood, Mo., on a routine training flight, crashed in a rough pasture near the base. Flaming wreckage was strewn more than a quarter of a mile.

The base public information office announced eight officers, including Wegner and Cotterill, and 16 enlisted men died in the crash.

Air Force officers said the Ellsworth-based bomber struck a small hill as it came in for a landing in "perfect" weather.

The crash was the 14th and worst involving the B-36 type aircraft, which has a wing span of 230 feet and is nearly as tall as a five-story building.

The accident brought the total killed in B-36 smashups to 156.

The fiery wreck was the sec-

BULLETIN

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A B-36 bomber crashed late Saturday at the El Paso Airport.

There was no immediate report on the number of casualties. The normal crew complement for the 10-engined bombers is 22 men.

The huge plane fell about three miles from Biggs Air Force base here.

Police and ambulances were immediately dispatched to the scene. All roads were blocked off in the densely populated area.

A woman resident of the Cella Vista housing development near the crash site said a few moments afterward that several hundred houses were cut off from electric power and that she heard a series of blasts.

She said a big fire followed the crash and she believed the plane had hit a power line.

She said a number of repeated blasts followed and that a pall of smoke covered the housing project.

Clear, Hot Today; 90 Maximum at 2 p.m. Forecast

Another clear hot day with a peak temperature of 90 degrees about 2 p.m. was forecast for today by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Saturday the mercury pushed to 91 degrees just after 2 p.m. to put Long Beach on record with the hottest day since July 7.

Trio Frees Mad Killer From Jail

BOSTON (U.P.)—Elmer (Trigger) Burke, a "kill crazy psychopath" hired to machinegun a suspect in the Brink's robbery, broke out of jail Saturday with the help of three men wearing black silk stockings over their heads.

The fantastic daylight break was staged with the precision of a wartime commando raid.

There was no trace of Burke Saturday night although the police arrested a man suspected of helping in the escape.

The FBI joined the search for the desperado because he is wanted in New York as a suspect in six murders.

Burke, a skinny 140-pounder, was imported here from New York to liquidate Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe, a one time key suspect in the $1,219,000 Brink's robbery Jan. 17, 1950. O'Keefe was killed.

James J. Torpey, who was released July 3 from the same jail that Burke fled this afternoon, was held on suspicion of aiding an escape and tests were being made of his hands for filings.

Investigators said the test for filings was ordered for Torpey because the three men who freed Burke had to saw through three ¾-inch bars on their way into the jail.

In addition, police revealed Torpey, when arrested, was wearing clothing similar to that worn by prison guards. Jail guard James Meade of the Dorchester section had said earlier that the men who broke into the prison exercise yard wore the summer uniform of the guards, Chino-colored trousers and shirt.

Jail officials reconstructed the escape plan and changed their initial deductions of how Burke, whom New York police describe as a "waterfront tough," brought off the escape plan in one of the busiest sections of the city.

This was how a jail spokesman outlined the escape operations:

"Entrance was made through four doors along an unused corridor that used to be the main entrance of the jail.

"The padlock on the outer gate leading to Charles St. was broken open. The lock on the second door, immediately behind it, made of steel grill work, was picked.

"That led to another grill door, four feet away, that had three-quarter-inch bars along the bottom. Three of them were sawed off and that let them into a corridor containing nine cells, all of which were empty.

"The fourth door, a large steel one, has a massive steel sliding bolt, but they dismantled it, which released the lock.

"Burke was with a small group of prisoners exercising near the door. Meade was with a second group on the other side of the yard.

"When he saw Burke running toward the door, he gave chase, not knowing why he was running there. However, when they reached the door, one man with a black silk stocking over his head came out with a gun.

"He told Meade, 'Stop or I'll blow your head off.' Meade yelled, 'He's got a gun.' There was another hooded man right behind the one with a gun and both wore the clothing of a guard.

"Edward Handwerk, a clerk, saw what was going on from the office and raced down. When he heard Meade say that, he turned around and went back in to ring the direct alarm to the Joy St. police station and unlock the jail arsenal.

"By that time the two men, plus Burke, had jumped into a black automobile, driven by a fourth person."

Shivers Wins in Texas Poll, Foe Concedes

DALLAS, Tex. (Sunday) (AP) — Texas' Gov. Allan Shivers, victorious in his fight for an unprecedented third term, today said it was "a great victory for Texas."

His opponent, Ralph Yarborough, conceded at 12:05 a.m. saying, "We fought a hard, clean fight, and we lost."

Shivers had the blessing of President Eisenhower, whom he supported in the 1952 Presidential campaign.

Yarborough carried the liberal banner.

The latest count of the returns from Saturday's democratic runoff primary showed Shivers ahead by 91,711 votes.

The 1 a.m. tabulation of the Texas Election Bureau, an unofficial agency, showed 768,031 for Shivers and 676,320 for Yarborough. Returns were from 252 of Texas' 254 counties, 216 complete.

Shivers was at his farm home in Woodville in southeast Texas, while Yarborough was in Austin as the returns came in.

They fought the hardest fight Texas has seen in many a year, and Texas Democrats lined up behind them under their years-old flags of liberals and conservatives.

At stake in the governor's race also was control of Texas' big delegation to the 1956 national Democratic convention.

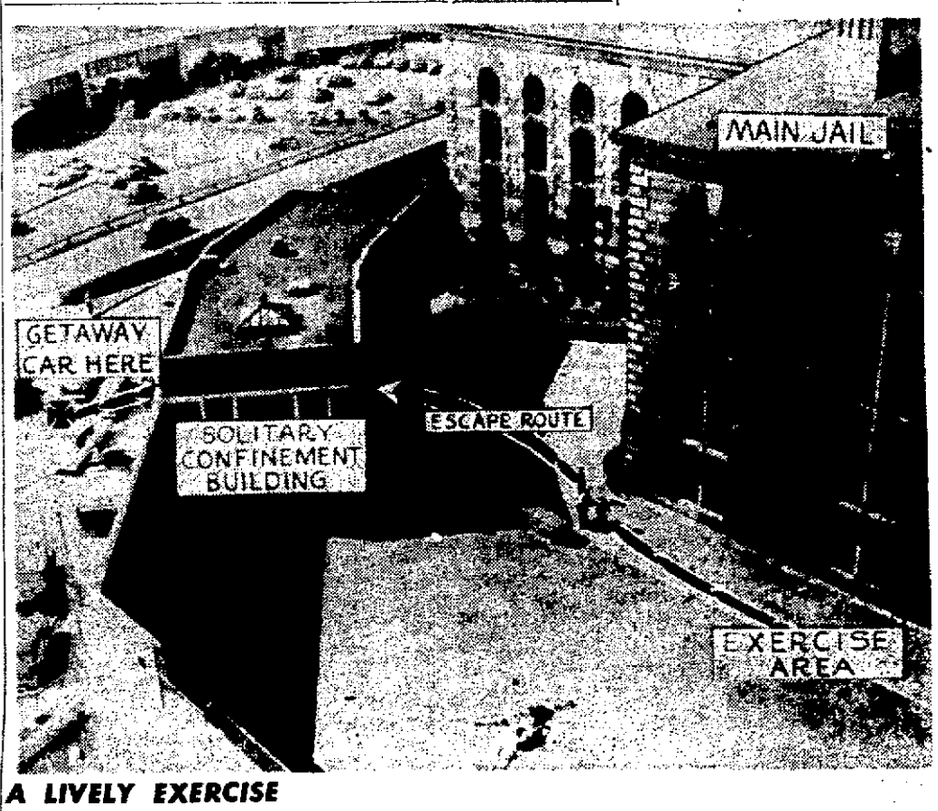

Shivers has control of the delegate strength to the state convention on Sept. 14, which in turn will control Texas' national convention delegation. However, a Yarborough victory for governor could have meant some bandwagon changeovers among state convention delegates.

Shivers beat Yarborough by almost 24,000 votes in the July 24 primary this year, but the vote of two minor candidates forced the runoff.

Yarborough, 51, an Austin attorney and former district judge, went all over the state saying Shivers was a "turncoat" who deserted his party in 1952.

Shivers said he supported Eisenhower after the Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson, told him he thought the federal government should have control over Texas' oil-rich tidelands. Shivers charged that Yarborough was the "hand-picked candidate" of the CIO-PAC and the NAACP and would turn the state over to outside interests.

Each accused the other of "mudslinging."

that I don't think much of the Republican performance on agriculture, and I don't," Stevenson said.

"I'm opposed to fraudulent, cynical promises to innocent voters who believe what they hear, and I am opposed to overstatement and misrepresentation.

"I don't believe the new Republican farm bill will save much money, reduce food costs appreciably, or eliminate surpluses as the administration and so many newspapers would have you believe."

Stevenson charged the Republican party leaders never have believed in farm programs but in a "hands off, free market policy."

He said the Republicans use "flexible" language in talking about farm matters.

He also said the GOP has cut conservation and flood control funds, used partisan politics in the farm program and failed to live up to a promise of protection for crops such as oats, barley, rye and soybeans.

Stevenson also contended the Republicans have tried to "set city against farm . . . . to drive a wedge between rural and urban congressmen."

He said he deplores the "implications" by Secretary of Agriculture Benson that "farmers are a selfish, greedy, immoral lot for expecting any government protection against the hazard of a free market" despite government aid to other segments of the nation's economy.

Stevenson said the farm problem boils down to the philosophy of the two parties.

"The Republican philosophy is negative," he said. "Their program of lower farm prices, reduced production and shrinking of our agricultural economy is consistent with the philosophy of contraction.

"It goes hand in hand with the Republican policy of hard money at home and protectionism abroad."

On the other hand, Stevenson said, the Democratic party has the "philosophy of expansion and growth."

He said the solution of the problem of farm surpluses lies in raising the standing of living of "those millions who need and want so badly those foods and fibers."

"There cannot be in today's hungry world a surplus of corn or wheat," he said. "There can only be a shortage of ideas or a weakness of will to learn how to use God's gifts for his children."

Stevenson backed Mitchell in his inquiry into the Dixon-Yates contract, in which the Atomic Energy Commission contracted to buy 600,000 kilowatts of power annually from the Dixon-Yates combine for the Tennessee Valley Authority system.

Although he didn't mention the "favoritism" charges which were specifically made by Mitchell, Stevenson said:

"Whenever there is any presidential order containing views contrary to the views of the agencies involved, the TVA and the AEC, and without competitive bidding, it cries out for investigation.

"It is a pity," he said, "that the committee did not see fit to allow funds for such an investigation.

Mitchell had charged that President Eisenhower may have been influenced in ordering the contracts because a close friend, golfer Bobby Jones, is a director of one of the private firms involved.

Stevenson did not elaborate on his brief statement about the contract.

Dr. Sheppard a Tragic Figure in Probe of Baffling Murder been found. The weapon that killed Marilyn Sheppard has not been found.

No fingerprints appeared on the desk drawers or the medical bag.

Hence, detectives ask these questions:

What happened to the T-shirt?

Where is the murder weapon?

When did Sheppard remove the brown coat? Did he himself lay it over the end of the couch and go back to sleep with his feet resting on it?

When he rushed upstairs, he passed an electric light switch on the wall on his right. Why didn't he flick it to illuminate the stairway and the area outside the bedroom?

The doctor says he grappled with someone in the bedroom. If that was the person who killed Marilyn Sheppard, why did he not strike the doctor with the same weapon and perhaps beat him to death?

What accounts for the absence of fingerprints, particularly on the desk drawers and up-ended medicine bag?

Sheppard's attorney is 68-year-old William J. Corrigan, a slight, gray-haired man with a needle nose and searching blue eyes. He says he did not know the Sheppard family before this case, that it was brought to him by another lawyer.

As for the missing T-shirt, Corrigan says Sheppard told him "Look, I'm no dummy. If I had wanted to, I could have invented any number of stories to account for that shirt."

CITES AID TO POLICE

Corrigan recounts instance after instance where, he says, the doctor co-operated with the police, offering to answer questions and give statements even while he was suffering from injuries he said he received in the fight in the house, and at any time of the day or night.

The man immediately in charge of the case disputes that.

He is Chief of Detectives James E. McArthur, 51 years old, a policeman for 23 years, and head of the detectives department for the last seven.

He is widely known as "a smart cop."

McArthur scoffs at the possibility the murder was committed by either a burglar or a psychopath. "A psychopath would have destroyed Sam, too," he says.

He fixes the time of the murder between 3:30 and 5 a.m.—which, if true, leaves nearly an hour before the doctor called the mayor.

"AMATEURISH JOB"

McArthur says someone tried to stage-set the appearance of burglary in the downstairs rooms and calls it an "amateurish job."

Of the missing T-shirt, he says, "you could tear that into small strips, easily, and flush it down any toilet."

As to the doctor's injuries—a black eye, cuts inside the mouth, and contusions on the neck—he says, "two doctors who examined Sheppard said they amount to nothing serious. I have my own ideas how he got them."

When he came into the case, he assigned 41 men to it, 17 on a full-time basis.

He has more evidence than has yet become publicly known, he says, adding:

"A good portion of our case will rest on evidence from new techniques of detection—and that won't be known until we come into court."

HANDSOME SUBURB

Bay Village is a handsome suburb of 11,000 people, some 12 miles from Cleveland.

The Sheppards, parents and three married sons, are among its most prominent residents. Their hospital, "Bay View," is on the outskirts. The three sons all live near each other. All three are doctors.

Thus, the Cleveland Press said in an editorial July 22.

"It is clear now that because of the social prominence of the Sheppard family in the community, the friendship between principals in the case and law enforcement bodies of Bay Village, kid gloves were used throughout all preliminary examinations."

The day before, the Cleveland News had said:

"We are forced to take note that Dr. Samuel Sheppard has rejected suggestions of both lie detector and truth serum tests and has submmitted to questioning only when his family and his lawyer have agreed he might."

Mayor Houk of Bay Village denies that any obstacles were thrown in the way of the investigation.

Through the whole case, at this stage, runs the question of motive if the doctor did commit the crime.

HANDSOME, POPULAR

He is 30, handsome, popular, and as an acquaintance said, "evidently very talented in his profession." He was a high school athlete and he still likes most sports, especially water skiing. He likes automobiles and auto races, and frequently attended them with Otto Graham, quarterback on the Cleveland Browns Professional Football Team.

Sheppard says he and his wife were looking forward with joy to the arrival of the second child. Asked if she was jealous of him, he says he "reassured" her and "her reaction was, if anything, to be much more tolerant than the average wife."

Sheppard was questioned about his relations with Susan Hayes, vivacious hospital technician, who came to Cleveland from Downey, Calif., voluntarily, to testify.

He denied having intimate relations with her, but she was reported to have admitted them. Sheppard then admitted the situation, too, but said he first denied it because he was a gentleman.

He also has been questioned about other women and Chief of Detectives McArthur said:

"We've got 'em all lined up in this case."

ond major crash at Ellsworth since the base was reactivated in 1947. In August, 1948, a B-29 crashed on take-off killing 17 men.

Alfred Swallow, 63, who owns the ranch on which the bomber crashed, said he and his family were getting ready for bed when they heard a "loud thud."

He and his son, Harold, 34, jumped into their jeep and drove across the field to the scene of the wreck.

The son, who works in the parachute-repair department at the base said there was a "big explosion," followed by smaller blasts.

The tail was upright and almost intact, he said, but the main section of the fuselage was aflame and pouring fourth thick black smoke.

The Air Force identified the gravely-injured survivors as Airman 1/c John W. Harvey, Indianapolis; Capt. Phillip C. Toups, Kilgore, Tex., and 1st Lt. Roger Bumps, Taftsville, Vt.

Flames which enveloped the fuselage and charred the victims touched off brush fires on the flat country, about 13 miles east of Rapid City in western South Dakota. They were quickly brought under control.

The three survivors were hurled clear of the plane, as were about half the dead.

"We couldn't get near them," Harold Swallow said. "The plane was just a wall of flames and we couldn't see anybody, dead or alive.

"Two of the engines still were running while we circled the plane in our jeep."

The Air Force announced a board of inquiry will investigate the tragedy.

The 23 other victims who died in the crash were identified as:

Airman 1/C Glenn E. Kerri, Sacramento, Calif.

T/Sgt. William F. Ratagick, Green Bay, Wis.

Maj. Martin S. Margolin, Philadelphia, Pa.

Airman 2/c William Lynch, Owensboro, Ky.

'Frog Men' Hunt Sheppard Death Weapon in Lake

CLEVELAND (AP)—Four amateur "frog men" searched Lake Erie waters near the Bay Village home of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard Saturday.

They hoped to find a weapon which could be identified as the one used to beat Mrs. Marilyn Sheppard, 31, to death in her bedroom July 4.

The specially equipped swimmers used aqua lungs, feet fins, and face-covering glasses for the underwater search. They lined up about five feet apart and searched north into the lake for about 300 yards over a hard clay lake floor covered with about two inches of sand.

The "frog men" will be able to cover a much larger area of the lake bottom than divers previously had done in a hunt for the weapon.

Plan Funeral Wednesday for Bradley

Funeral services for Assemblyman Willis W. Bradley were set tentatively Saturday for 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Luke's Episcopal Church. Rev. F. C. Benson Belliss will officiate

Bradley, 70, who lived at 284 Argonne Ave., was a former congressman, retired Navy captain and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

He was stricken with a heart attack in Santa Barbara Friday during the noon recess of a hearing of the State Senate Interim Committee on Oil and Gas Development.

He died a few hours later at nearby Cottage Hospital.

Bradley, who had taken an active part in the morning session by questioning witnesses, was chairman of the lower house's oil and mining committee.

The assemblyman recently had announced that because of heart attacks he suffered in early 1953 he would not run for re-election.

His 70th Assembly District included Long Beach and Lakewood.

The assemblyman's wife, Mrs. Sue Bradley, was with him when he died. They were married shortly after his graduation in 1907 from the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Drives Onto Mom to Save Trapped Baby

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (AP) — Arthur Rapson drove his two-ton truck 10 feet up into his driveway.

Then, to his horror he discovered his 18-month-old son, William, wedged between the front axle and the ground.

William's mother crawled under the truck. But her efforts to remove the child were futile. The bay, beginning to strangle, was turning purple.

Rapson told his wife to stay exactly where she was.

"I couldn't take time to jack up the wheel," he said later. Then he backed the truck onto Mrs. Rapson's shoulder, enough to free the baby.

On a three-mile drive to the hospital Mrs. Rapson put her mouth to the baby's mouth and forced her breath into him. At the hospital William was revived with oxygen.

William is under medical care for injuries. His mother was treated for bruises on her back.

CG Checks 2,000 Boats for Safety

Nearly 2,000 small craft in Long Beach-Los Angeles, Newport Harbor and San Diego harbors were checked Saturday by Coast Guardsmen who employed ocean roadblocks to conduct a mass safety inspection.

In the local harbor, 948 boats were stopped and 505 actually boarded as six Coast Guard reserve units, comprised of 460 officers and men, were called out to augment the regular force of 200.

Boats stopped were allowed to proceed Coast Guard officers said, if they displayed decals showing they had been recently inspected.

Officers said 145 violations were noted locally, "about what we expected."

Nature of the violations had not been tabulated late Saturday night.

However, emphasis of the search was on safety equipment such as life preservers, fire extinguishers, sound devices and, on gasoline engine-powered craft, carburetor flame arrestors to minimize the danger of fire.

The operation was made without specific advance announcement of its date, although boat owners had been told that such an inspection would be made one day during the summer.

In over-all charge of the three-harbor operation was Capt. Herbert S. Walsh, head of the port for the 11th U. S. Coast Guard district.

He was assisted by Lt. Comdr. D. A. Brown, executive officer of the Captain of the Port's office, and by Capt. William H. Snyder, search and rescue officer for the district.

Capt. Snyder, as coordinating officer, flew in a Coast Guard helicopter to direct his vessels to where small boats were most numerous.

Approximately 500 boats were checked at Newport Harbor and another 500 inspected at San Diego as sea entrances were blocked off.

The inspection served also as a test of Coast Guard security operations in the event of national emergency.

Wounded in Triangle Row, Housewife Fights for Life

A 34-year-old Lawndale woman fought for life Saturday night in St. Mary's Hospital, 24 hours after she was shot in what police termed a two-family "love quarrel."

Critically wounded in the chest, Mrs. Ruth Turmes, of 3833 Manhattan Beach Blvd., lay near death as police held another woman, Mrs. Marjorie Eleanor McInnis, 34, of 1410 Appleton St., Long Beach, as suspect in the Friday night shooting.

Police said Mrs. Turmes gasped to them at the hospital:

"She shot me because she wanted my husband."

Police said the shooting occurred when Mrs. Turmes and her husband, George, 40, a furnace installer, went to the McInnis home for a talk in response to a telephone call from Mrs. McInnis' husband, Claude, a U. S. Customs employe in the narcotics division.

The talk, officers said, was to clear up troubles beginning during an estrangement between McInnis and his wife which ended a few days ago.

While they were estranged, Mrs. McInnis "went with" Turmes for about a year, she told police.

Just before McInnis reconciled with his wife, he told officers, he received a phone call from Mrs. Turmes complaining that his wife was "running around" with Turmes.

When Turmes and his wife arrived at the McInnis' apartment, they found the couple had retired. McInnis, however, got up and went outside to talk to them.

When McInnis attempted to go back in the apartment with Turmes and his wife, he said,

MARJORIE McINNIS
"I Was Scared"

Mrs. McInnis refused to open the door.

As McInnis started around to a rear door, he heard a shot. Returning, he found Mrs. Turmes in her husband's arms, shot in the chest.

Police said the bullet went through a pane in the door, which was covered with a window shade. There was no hole in the screen door, indicating that Mrs. Turmes was holding the door open at the time she was shot, detectives said.

Mrs. McInnnis said in jail that the other woman had been shaking the door and ringing the doorbell, demanding admittance.

"She was practically tearing the house down," Mrs. McInnis said. "I was scared. I didn't want to see her."

Police found the gun, a .38 caliber revolver belonging to McInnis, in a dresser drawer in the apartment.

French Stall EDC for Talks

PARIS (AP)—French Assembly Leaders apparently reached a tentative agreement Saturday night to postpone debate on the European Defense Community treaty and permit new negotiations on changes in the pact.

Premier Pierre Mendes-France called his cabinet to meet with him today to discuss the proposed delay. The decision to summon the cabinet session came after day-long discussions between Mendes-France and a group of staunch supporters of the European army project.

The assembly opened its debate on the long-delayed ratification of the treaty in an atmosphere of frustration and bitterness.

Prospects appeared slim for survival of the pact, which France and five other continental nations signed in May, 1952, to create a unified army, —including a half million German troops.

Since then the issue has driven a wedge between Frenchmen of all levels, dividing the nation as have few issues in its history.

Saturday's debate actually played second fiddle to the behind-the-scenes talks over postponement. Most of the proceedings on the floor involved reports from various Assembly committees—all recommending rejection of the pact.

As the night session came to a close, it appeared only a few points remained to be ironed out before agreement could be announced on postponement. The chief differences were over the wording of the resolution in which the Assembly would be asked to put off further debate.

Mendes-France reportedly wanted a free hand in new talks with the other EDC members.

He also wanted an expression of thanks for the way he had conducted negotiations last week at Brussels when the other five nations sharply rebuffed his efforts to get drastic changes in the treaty.

The EDC adherents wanted to outline a basis for negotiations and to insist that Mendes-France show a more flexible attitude than he had last week at Brussels. Leading the pro-EDC group were Christian Pineau, a Socialist; Maurice Faure, secretary general of the Radical Socialist (moderate) party, and former Premier Paul Reynaud, an Independent Republican.

The debate was opened by Socialist Jules Moc, a foe of the treaty, in a typical attack based on the premise that the hydrogen bomb had made useless the recruiting of German divisions.

Refused Movies, Child, 12, Hangs Self on Bedpost

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Pamela Hoffman told her 12-year-old son, Richard, he could not go to the movies Saturday.

The boy slammed into his bedroom. Then it was quiet. Too quiet.

Mrs. Hoffman looked into the bedroom and saw her husky only child hanging by his own belt from a bedpost.

She got him down, called a doctor and the police. They worked over the boy for half an hour but he was dead—a police described it as suicide.

'Honeybear' OK, Warren to Leave for Capital Today

SANTA MONICA (UP)—United States Chief Justice Earl Warren said Saturday doctors have assured him his daughter, Nina (Honeybear) Warren, is in "good" condition and that he will leave for Washington today.

The 20-year-old UCLA coed underwent "minor surgery" in St. John's Hospital Friday. Dr. James C. Doyle, the surgeon, would not disclose the exact nature of the operation but said it was "typical of one on women, both early and late in life."

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Barbara Brown, daughter of Attorney General and Mrs. Edmund G. Brown married Charles E. Casey Jr., an investigator for the State Department of Justice, at St. Cecilia's Church here Saturday.

The bride, 23, is a graduate of the University of California.

The couple will live in Sacramento.

Thousands at Rites for No. 1 Jet Ace

VICTORVILLE (AP)—Jet fighters roared overhead Saturday as last rites were conducted for Capt. Joseph McConnell Jr., 32, America's ranking jet ace.

Later, at a grave in a desert cemetery, a volley of rifle fire added a final salute to the man who gained fame as a triple ace, was retired from combat to a "safe" job, and then met death on a routine test flight, Wednesday, near Edwards Air Force Base.

Most of the 2,000 residents of nearby Apple Valley tried to attend requiem mass for Capt. McConnell in a little chapel at George Air Force Base. The residents of the area had built a home for the hero, his wife, Pearl, and three children after he returned from Korea last year.

Many stood outside as McConnell's pilot friends roared their own last tribute in the sky above. Then they joined the procession which led 10 miles to where military interment services were held.

RUMORS SPICE FIESTA

Americans in Ensenada for 'Return of Gaming'

ENSENADA, Mex. (UP)—The Todos Santos Fair—Ensenada's annual month-long fiesta—opened Saturday with this seacoast resort packed to the rafters with American visitors lured by rumors that open gambling would return.

Mayor David Ojeda Ojhoa said he has received permission by telegram from Luis C. Rayas, sub-director of gobernacion in Mexico City, for only certain types of gambling, including betting on dominoes, chess, billiards, ball games, lotteries, and such sporting events as horse racing and "dice."

As of Saturday, Ojeda said no crap games were in operation because of official doubt as to whether the Rayas authorization of "dice" included full-scale, open games. Roulette and card games played for money were expressly prohibited in the authorization, which placed responsibility for upholding the laws squarely on Ojeda's shoulders.

Ojeda said 10 old slot machines had been dusted off for the fair but that a pair of roulette wheels left since 1935 were still under lock and key. "And they will stay that way as far as I'm concerned," he said.

Real Police Jail Soldier Playing at It

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The brief law-enforcement career of a soldier absent without leave from Ft. Knox has been brought to an abrupt end.

Donald Allen French, 21, of Louisville was arrested Saturday by city police who placed a charge of grand larceny, 19 charges of forgery, 26 of uttering worthless checks and one of obtaining goods under false pretenses against him.

French, who has been AWOL since June, told police during questioning that he had been patrolling traffic on U. S. 42 near Louisville dressed as a state policeman and had stopped about 25 speeders.

He said he bought a gray suit of clothes—similar to a state policeman's uniform—and a badge, but did not explain where he obtained the state police patch he sewed on his suit.

Asked why he started his drive against speeders, French replied:

"Just for the hell of it."

Detectives Louis Hall and Edgar Paul said French had admitted issuing several worthless checks, signing his name to some and the names of other persons to others. The officers said he also admitted buying $68 worth of automobile tires and charging them to another man.

Hall said the automobile French was driving when arrested was stolen in Springfield, Mo.

Cabmen Protest Poker Club Cars' Cut Rate, Picket

Taxi drivers picketed a Gardena poker club for three hours Saturday night to protest cut-rate competition from the gambling establishment's limousine service for patrons.

Gardena's Rainbow Club was blockaded from 6 to 9 p.m. by seven cabs of the Gardena Yellow Cab Co., an independent transportation business.

Bob Niswonger, the taxi company dispatcher, said the picket line topped off a five-year feud with five clubs providing free or cut-rate transportation to Long Beach and Hollywood areas.

The drivers and cars used by the gambling houses, Niswonger said, are unlicensed and uninsured. He said the Rainbow Club was the worst offender in competing with the cab company for the transportation trade.

Soviet Fleet Disappears off Norway

OSLO, Norway (UP) — Norwegian coastal observers reported Saturday night a fleet of Russian warships sailing down the west coast of Norway has disappeared, indicating it may be heading for the English Channel instead of the Baltic Sea.

Informed navy sources in Oslo, however, said the 15 Soviet ships "probably turned around last night and headed back for Arctic waters on maneuvers."

The fleet of 15 Soviet warships constitutes the mightiest maneuvering Red fleet seen in the Atlantic since World War II. It is being watched like sharks by Western observers.

As the Russian warships had not been sighted, the observers said, indications were they had veered off to the southwest toward the English Channel.

In London, the British Admiralty said it had received no reports recently on the location of the 15 ships.

Fire Wrecks Interior of Maine Ave. Home

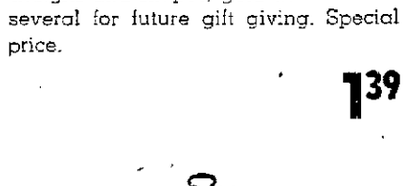

Fire Saturday night damaged the interior of a one-story frame house at 125 Maine Ave. The blaze, believed to have originated with a discarded cigaret, brought three engine companies to the scene. The home was unoccupied at the time. Mrs. Patricia Elmore, 18, who resides at the address, said she was absent for only 30 minutes and returned to find the building smoking.

Unidentified 'Yanqui' Dies in Tijuana Cafe

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP)—An unidentified American, about 55 years old, suffered a fatal heart attack in a cafe here Saturday and died in route to a hospital.

Police described the man as weighing about 225 pounds and being five feet nine inches tall. They said he had about 55 cents in his pocket but carried no billfold. He was dressed in a white sports shirt, light brown trousers and black shoes and wore a panama hat.

Push for UMT Law, Hershey Asks Legion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective service director Lewis B. Hershey appealed to American Legion leaders Saturday to spark a drive for enactment of a universal military training program at the next session of Congress.

He told the Legion's National Security Commission that draft calls have dropped considerably since the end of the Korean war and now leave plenty of youths in the manpower pool to warrant start of UMT.

The applause that greeted his plea indicated a strong resolution endorsing UMT is likely to be adopted at the Legion's 36th annual convention opening here Monday.

Gen. Thomas D. White, air vice chief of staff, told the security commission that growing Russian airpower may force the U. S. Air Force to raise its present 137-wing goal.

He said Russia has gone all-out to build up a stockpile of atomic bombs and a fleet of long-range bombers "for only one reason — to be able to hit the United States."

To insure continued U.S. air superiority, White said, "we may have to revise our own plans."

Gen. Charles L. Bolte, Army vice chief of staff, said meanwhile that the Army has worked out a new troop rotation plan which "should greatly increase our combat potential."

The plan, which Bolte mentioned in a speech before the National Security Commission, calls for rotating full divisions rather than individual soldiers between domestic and overseas stations.

Bolte said the system is expected to "increase morale and esprit de corps" as well as enable the army to get more combat units out of its total manpower force.

Army officials, elaborating on Bolte's remarks, said the still-tentative plan calls for sending an Army division overseas, as an intact unit, for a tour of duty of perhaps three years.

Instead of leaving the division overseas and replacing its individual personnel as at present, the entire division would be returned home and replaced by another division.

The Legion's Child Welfare Commission adopted a resolution urging comic book publishers to exercise self-regulation in putting a halt to the distribution of so-called "horror" comics.

Commission Chairman George Ehinger, Dover, Del., said "decent comic books are in the majority" but a small group of publishers are poisoning youthful minds with publications that exploit "lewdness, sadism, horror and unbridled lawlessness."

L. A. Housing Probe Witness Vanishes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Los Angeles real estate man under subpoena to appear at a Senate public housing subcommittee investigation hearing here this weekend is missing, committee staff members have reported.

They identified the missing witness as Ben Weingart, who reportedly has had five or six transactions in government-insured mortgages on FHA multiple dwelling projects.

RONNIE KORMAN . . . a Scouting Wizard

OFFSET TO PACHUCO NEWS

L.B. Scout Wins Last of 114 Badges at 16

By DAVE EMERY

When teen-agers splash into newsprint as juvenile prowlers and boy gunmen, it's hard for people to keep faith in the millions of youngsters who are the youth of America.

But if you look at only the crime news you get a warped perspective. For every boy on the police blotter, there are hundreds with clean records.

For every boy that's really bad, there's somebody like Ronnie Korman.

Ronnie is a 16-year-old Long Beach boy who has conquered every challenge the Boy Scouts of America could put him up against. A wiry blond youth with a big grin, Ronnie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Korman of 3017 Caspian Ave.

He was an Eagle Scout at the age of 14 and he since has earned every one of scouting's 114 merit badges. He will get his 114th badge—for bugling—at a Court of Honor to be held in Hughes Junior High School next month.

"Some fellows think scouting is sissy stuff," explains the young Explorer Scout who can hike up to 40 miles a day through the rugged high Sierra.

(Ronnie and a companion, Les Fosig, lashed ropes around their waists to scale the sheer 1000-foot granite face of Lilly Rock at Idyllwild, a mountain considered virtually unclimbable because of the danger involved.)

"But I've seen some of these guys — potential rowdies — just try scouting, and if they meet us halfway they don't go sour."

The young St. Anthony's High School senior, who holds the Ad Altare Dei Catholic award for scouting, first joined the Scout movement when he was 10, as a Cub, and now devotes 90 per cent of his free time to scout work.

Young Korman believes the scouting organization — Cubs, Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts, Air Scouts and Explorer Scouts — is a big counterbalance for America's growing juvenile delinquency problem.

Korman holds merit badges for Citizenship in Home, Citizenship in Community, and Brotherhood.

His phenomenal accomplishment of earning all 114 Scout merit badges has made him a first-line community citizen and has given him an insight into dozens of potential careers.

He has badges in Public Health, Safety, Landscape Gardening, Plumbing, Metalwork, Farm Layout and Building Arrangement, Lifesaving, Surveying, Public Speaking and Salesmanship.

One requirement Ronnie had to meet to get his Salesmanship badge was to sell at profit something he had raised himself. He sold neighbors the corn he harvested from his corn-raising badge project.

Korman left Saturday night to return to Camp Tahquitz in the San Bernardino Mountains, a Scout retreat where he has spent all but a few days of the summer.

As Little Chief of the Tribe of Tahquitz, Korman is an organizer and leader of the camp's projects and activities.

"Scouting is fun," Ronnie says, "and it's a great outlet for guys with energy to burn.

"Besides, it's a good way of life. Take a look at the Scout Oath, and try to figure how a guy can go wrong if he plays square with it."

Fellow Scouts say that as far as the Scout Oath goes, Ronnie Korman fits the bill—"physically clean, morally straight and mentally awake."

Joe Silent on 'Censure' Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) kept tightly secret Saturday his plans to defend himself against misconduct charges at the forthcoming Senate investigation.

The inquiry into censure charges fired at McCarthy by three fellow senators is scheduled to start Tuesday before a special committee headed by Sen Watkins (R-Utah).

Watkins told reporters the committee, created by a Senate resolution, will set as "a court of inquiry to conduct a judicial investigation" under rules of evidence similar to those employed in the federal courts.

"The committee believes the ground rules laid down will be absolutely fair to the Senate and to Sen. McCarthy," he said.

In reply to questions, Watkins said it is impossible now to say how long the inquiry will take, but that when it is completed "we will make findings of fact" in a formal report to the Senate.

"Whether we draw conclusion of law from those facts or make any recommendation as to what action the Senate should take will be decided after the evidence is all in," he said.

Meanwhile the senators who sat as juror-judges in the McCarthy-Army hearings prepared to make public their verdicts next week.

There was no official confirmation of rumors that majority and minority reports of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee which conducted the explosive 36-day inquiry will contain some sharply conflicting findings.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD) presided at that inquiry while McCarthy stepped aside temporarily from his regular post as the subcommittee's chairman.

The four Republican members have filed their sealed majority report with J. Mark Trice, secretary of the Senate, and the three Democratic members are working to complete the statement of their minority findings by a 5 p.m. deadline Monday. The reports are expected to be made public Wednesday morning.

At headquarters of the Watkins investigations, members of the special staff questioned behind closed doors the persons who may be called at witnesses. Watkins said deputy United States marshals and members of the Senate sergeant at arms staff are serving additional subpoenas, but that the number "is not great."

Cpl. Batchelor Trial to Start on Monday

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A lean, calm Texan who changed his mind about staying with the communists will be tried by general court-martial here Monday.

He is Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor, 22, of Kermit, former prisoner of war in North Korea who stayed with his communist captors and later decided to come home.

SO WHAT'S A CONTINENT TO US OLD PALS?

VIENNA, Austria (UP)—Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), chairman of the U. S. congressional delegation to the 43rd interparliamentary union convention, paid a heart-felt tribute to his hosts Saturday.

The hosts laughed.

"Let me express my gratitude for the privilege of being in this building which is a triumph of architecture," Reed told 500 delegates from 36 nations. "I want to express my thanks for the kindness and hospitality of the Australian people and the Australian government. . ."

His remarks were drowned out in a gale of laughter.

The ovation drowned out his red-faced amends.

Demo Headman Raps Delay in Dixon-Yates Deal Airing

Hearings on the contract were scheduled for Sept. 2 by Chairman W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) of the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, but then were delayed. Cole had asked Mitchell to appear after Mitchell issued his "scandal" declaration.

The hearings were postponed, a Joint Committee source said, after the Atomic Energy Commission said it could not fully discuss details of the proposed contracts by Sept. 2.

Mitchell said that several days ago Cole telegraphed him, challenging him to attend the Sept. 2 hearing and "repeat statements I have made about this raw deal."

Mitchell said he accepted, and then, on Friday, Cole sent him another telegram notifying him the hearing had been advanced to next Tuesday.

"Two hours later, I received still another wire from Cole, this time notifying me that the hearing was 'canceled until further notice,'" Mitchell said. "But overnight the signals were changed again and we are now informed the hearings are not 'canceled' but 'postponed' to an unspecified date."

The proposed contract provides that the Atomic Energy Commission would buy 600,000 kilowatts of electricity from the southern power combine known as the Dixon-Yates group.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Chairman Stephen Mitchell of the Democratic National Committee Saturday bitterly attacked what he called "backstage maneuvering" obstructing a congressional airing of the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract proposal.

"What goes on here?" Mitchell asked. "Never in public life have I seen such gyrations as have been occurring over this multi-million-dollar contract which is going to amount to a huge give-away to a private utility syndicate."

The Democratic chieftain issued a statement criticizing postponement of a congressional showdown on the power contract which had been approved by President Eisenhower and which Mitchell previously had described as a "scandal."

Ike Enacts and Praises Farm Law

By MERRIMAN SMITH

DENVER (U.P.)—President Eisenhower Saturday triumphantly signed the new farm law which gave his administration one of its biggest victories in the 83rd Congress, and promised it would result in a more prosperous and stable U. S. agricultural economy in the years ahead.

A few minutes later he signed a bill permitting a temporary increase of $6,000,000,000 in the federal debt limit, warning that this amount "may prove inadequate" to meet the demands of world conditions and continuing high federal obligations at home.

In signing the new flexible farm price support measure, the President said, "all of us 160,000,000 people can be thankful that this bill has been enacted into law."

He said it will help achieve a better balanced agriculture by moving more farm products into consumption, result in a healthier, more prosperous farm economy, and will mean adequate, steady supplies of agricultural products at reasonable prices.

The new law, which goes into effect next year, does away with rigid federal price supports on five basic crops—cotton, wheat, corn, rice and peanuts—for the first time since World War II.

Now supported at 90 per cent of the "fair earning power" parity standard, the crops will be placed under the new flexible 82½ to 90 per cent of parity scale.

The raise in the debt limit is limited to the current fiscal year only.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower will attend church services at the Corona Presbyterian Church here this morning.

The President will leave here tonight for Washington where on Monday he will address the American Legion convention.

Later Monday, after addressing the Legion convention, the Chief Executive, accompanied by former President Herbert Hoover, will fly to Des Moines, Iowa, where they will appear briefly at the Iowa State Fair.

The two will then come to Colorado for a few days of fishing.

Before going to play golf at the Cherry Hills Country Club Saturday with Air Force Secretary Harold Talbott, the President signed 41 bills and vetoed one, a minor measure.

Since he came to Denver a week ago he has signed 291 bills and vetoed seven. He still has 216 bills on which to act.

Among the bills he approved Saturday were two measures increasing benefits to veterans. One bill increased payments for service connected disability or death compensation. The other raised non-service connected disability pensions by five per cent.

The President said he signed these measures solely for humanitarian reasons because he felt the latest congressional approach to the problem of veteran benefit payments still left many inequities in existence.

Canco-USW Negotiators Raise Wages

Workers of the American Can Co. factory at 110 E. Sepulveda Blvd., Wilmington, are among 20,000 company employes who will get a 5-cent-and-hour wage boost negotiated Saturday.

The new wage scale applies to 36 American Can Co. plants throughout the nation. It will go into effect Sept. 30 for members of the CIO United Steelworkers of America.

E. T. Klassen, president of the company, and Al Whitehouse, chairman of the 60-man USW negotiating committee, said they also settled on "substantial improvements" in the group insurance and pension plans.

The new contract expires Sept. 30, 1955. The revised insurance and pension agreements continue to March 14, 1957, and March 14, 1958, respectively.

Wages and benefits for USW members on the company's payroll were subject to negotiation by Sept. 30 of this year, under the reopening terms of their current two-year labor contracts.

Whitehouse called Saturday's early settlement "a definite milestone in the progress of enlightened labor-management relations."

DON'T SHOUT! I Can Hear Now!

After the first treatment with the Auditonic Neurogenerator people have noticed definite changes in their hearing range.

Reports are constantly more encouraging concerning the value of this improved treatment for loss of hearing. Regardless of the nature or severity of your deafness, we invite you to have our thorough hearing examination and a trial treatment. This is not a cure-all and will certainly not restore perfect hearing in every case. But we have enough evidence now available to demonstrate that many deaf persons can expect radical benefit even after years of unsatisfactory experience with hearing aids and a wide variety of treatment.

To help you solve your hearing problem we will give you a careful hearing examination and a convincing trial treatment for a limited time for only $2.00. Please phone for appointment (at your convenience) and bring this notice with you.

Tanks Guard Against Riots by Brazil Mobs

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Tanks rumbled Saturday over the wide streets of Porto Alegre—potential trouble spot for Brazilian authorities striving to restore the country to normal after a week of political crisis and violence.

Calm prevailed in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo. But martial law remained in effect in Porto Alegre, a modern city of approximately 400,000 and capital of the home state of Getulio Vargas, whose suicide on Tuesday touched off rioting that took three lives and resulted in property damage of almost three million dollars.

Some of the violence was Communist-inspired and anti-American.

Joao Cafe Filho, who succeeded Vargas as president, worked hard to head off a threatened general strike which could add to the political and military difficulties of his four-day-old government.

From Porto Alegre came word that labor leaders there were planning to postpone the strike. Workers in Sao Paulo had set Thursday as the tentative starting date.

It was in Porto Alegre, 670 miles southwest of Rio de Janeiro that the worst violence occurred.

Forty buildings were attacked by mobs. The U. S. consulate, the National City Bank of New York and other American firms were virtually sacked. Damage was estimated at 2¾ million dollars.

Two of the three deaths from rioting occurred in Porto Alegre.

One person was killed in Rio de Janeiro. There were 73 injured—47 in Rio and 26 in Porto Alegre. Demonstrations occurred in Sao Paulo, Brazil's second city, but without violence.

The government cracked down on persons responsible for the violence, including known Reds. Arrests totaled more than 100 in Rio alone.

Brazil's workers were asking wage adjustments and a freeze on prices which have soared 22 per cent on many items in eight months.

Russ Claim True!

LONDON (U.P.)—Moscow Radio announced Saturday Russia will celebrate the 175th anniversary today of the birth of Russian Capt. Faddei Bellingshausen who, it claimed, "discovered the Antarctic continent." Webster's geographical dictionary says Bellingshausen DID discover the Antarctic continent.

PENNEY'S "THE FAMILY STORE" PINE AT SIXTH LONG BEACH

Berserk Gunner, Patrolman Slain

YREKA (AP) — A 55-year-old man, apparently crazed because his wife was leaving him, was killed by a highway patrolman he had mortally wounded in a shooting rampage in a Happy Camp restaurant Friday night.

Dead are California Highway Patrolman William Chansler, 32, who fired one shot from his pistol as he crumbled from a 30-30 bullet through the stomach, and Ivan Wesley Lacy, 55, who came to Happy Camp three weeks ago from Willamette, Ore.

The story of the shooting was told Saturday from a hospital bed by Mrs. Edith Barney, 27, a waitress who was shot through the hip during an hour of terror at the Crab Shack Cafe.

Mrs. Barney said Lacy fired at least 10 shots, including three at his wife and three at Ernie Spink, owner of the cafe in the little town of Happy Camp, 40 miles west of Yreka, on the Klamath River, not far from the Oregon border.

Here's what happened, as reported by Mrs. Barney:

Lacy and his wife, Rae, quarreled at the restaurant about 8 o'clock Friday night over her leaving him. She had been employed as a waitress at the Crab Shack for a week.

Lacy left but returned about an hour later with a 30-30 rifle as his wife fled out the back door.

"He had a crazy look. He seemed to be out of his mind."

He herded the cafe employes—Mrs. Barney, Spink, Mrs. Spink and dishwasher Darlene Smith—into the kitchen.

"I mean business," Lacy said. "I'll give you six seconds to bring back my wife or I'll start shooting."

Three patrons sitting at a table thought it was a joke and laughed.

Lacy saw his wife running from the place and fired three shots at her. He ordered Spink to go and bring her back. As the proprietor left, Lacy followed him out and fired at him three times.

When Lacy started back into the restaurant, Mrs. Barney slammed and bolted the door. Lacy fired once as the door was closing and twice through the bolted door. One of these shots hit Mrs. Barney in the hip.

The next thing the waitress remembered was seeing Patrolman Chansler bending over her.

Just then, Lacy smashed in the back door. As Chansler fell, a 30-30 bullet through his stomach, he pulled his pistol and shot Lacy through the heart.

Deputy Sheriff John Reagan and Game Warden Ray Proffit entered as the shooting ended.

Chansler died on the way to a Yreka hospital. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth, and two daughters—Judy Lynne, 5, and Nancy Kathleen, 7.

CONFESSES STRANGLING

Henry J. Fiaschetti, (right), 20, of Rome, N. Y., is escorted to jail by Detective Frank J. O'Brien Saturday after confessing that he strangled pretty Beatrice Guglielmo, 19, (below) and pushed a car containing her body into a canal.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Youth Kills Sweetheart in Argument

ROME, N. Y. (AP)—A former high school football player walked into police headquarters early Saturday and said he had just strangled his attractive 19-year-old sweetheart, police reported.

Capt. Otto Englebrecht said Henry Fiaschetti, 20, told him he had choked to death Beatrice Guglielmo as they quarreled in his parked car about other dates. They had been to a dance earlier.

Englebrecht said Fiaschetti also told him he then drove to the State Barge Canal and shoved the car, with the girl's body still inside, into the water.

The car and the body were located a few hours later by a diver. Oneida County Coroner Thomas A. Cox said an autopsy showed Miss Guglielmo died from strangulation by Trauma Injury), and referred the case to the district attorney's office as a homicide.

Police said Fiaschetti, who played football when he attended Rome Free Academy, and the girl had been "going together" about a year.

They were on their way home from a dance when the youth stopped his car in the city's Belle Island Park. In their argument, police said Fiaschetti told them, he accused Miss Guglielmo of going out with other men, and she accused him of dating other girls.

Dog Owner Fined $8 for Neglecting Pet

CHATHAM, England (AP)—Arthur Hunt was fined $8.40 Friday for letting the coat of his spaniel go untrimmed for seven years.

Arthur Butson, an inspector for the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, testified the shaggy dog was suffering so much from the heat it had to be destroyed.

Ex-Pachuco Bares Nerve Test He Took as Part of Initiation

CHICAGO (AP) — A former member of the terrorist Pachuco society told police of the group's secret rites Saturday and said one Pachuco gang even had an auxiliary for girls.

Rex Orton, 26, made the disclosures as reports of Pachuco activity spread, involving Air Force bases and cities across the country.

Orton said he joined the Pachucos while living in Los Angeles, the center of the society's activity.

He said he was forced to risk death to gain membership. The test required that he drive without lights over a mountain road at 80 miles an hour while another car without lights sped toward him.

The two cars missed.

"That was to prove my daring," Orton said.

Orton broke the secret oath of the society and made the disclosures as police here and in other cities and authorities at military bases picked up a swelling number of youths branded with Pachuco tattoo —a cross haloed with dots.

Police here seized four more youths with the marks Saturday, bringing the total to 24 arrested here in three days.

But Chief of Detectives John T. O'Malley doubted that all were bona fide Pachucos.

Police Lt. Frank Pape said many youngsters had heard of the Pachucos and had themselves tattooed with the mark "just to impress somebody."

"Some of them don't even know what the mark means," he said.

The chief of police of a small suburban town wears the mark on the back of his hand between his thumb and forefinger, in true Pachuco style. He said he got the tattoo "as a novelty."

The Pachucos, active in Southern California for many years, pride themselves on narcotics addiction, beatings, rape and robbery. Officers said each dot in the Pachuco mark is supposed to indicate an arrest.

Orton, arrested here for questioning about a $10 robbery, said he joined the Pachucos in Los Angeles in 1950 while dating a Mexican girl who was a member of the auxiliary and introduced him to other Pachucos.

He said he quit the gang three months later after a fight with other members over the girl.

Orton said the gang to which he belonged was called the "Torpedoes," and had about 50 members. The auxiliary was known as the "Debutantes," he said.

James Rosner, 17, showed up at Chicago police headquarters Saturday, displaying the Pachuco mark on his right forearm. The youth said Pachuco members branded him with the mark while he was in the Army stockade at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Rosner said he enlisted when he was 16 and was released last September, but was picked up by the Army for investigation and spent 36 days in the stockade.

Police notified Army Intelligence of his story.

Meanwhile Chicago authorities sought the help of a Pachuco expert in Los Angeles County. Sheriff Gene Biscailuz agreed to send an experienced man here to combat Pachuco activity.

A major investigation of the Pachuco society began last week when members were found among a group of troublemakers at Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, Ill. Officers said 106 men were rounded up and were found wearing tatoo marks of one kind or another.

Since then, the investigation was spread to five other Air Force bases and to Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Area Health Insurance to Be Topic

Representatives of community organizations and members of the Los Angeles County Medical Association will assemble for the first Harbor Area Conference on Health and Welfare Sept. 10 and 11 in Harbor Junior College, 1111 Figueroa St., Wilmington.

Sponsored by the AFL and CIO was a part of a co-operative program under the Inter-University Labor Education Committee, the conference marks the third in a series held in Southern California to discuss volunteer health insurance. The public is invited. Sessions will begin at 9 a. m. each day.

Co-chairmen will be H. V. DeMott, representing the AFL, and John Keck, representing the CIO. Speakers will include Dr. Bernard J. Korn, president of the Southern branch of the Los Angeles Medical Assn., and Dr. Malcolm C. Todd, past president of the Long Beach branch of the association.

PENSIONERS ALWAYS WELCOME
Special convenient payment plan available to you under the State Medical Assistance Act. For full information, visit Dr. Cowen's Dental Offices

There's no need for you to struggle along without the modern Dental Plates you should have. My policy of Low Prices and Liberal Credit Terms has made it easier for thousands of folks in this area—many of them with small incomes—to get needed Dental Plates promptly, and without financial difficulty. I invite YOU to take advantage of this friendly, helpful credit policy, particularly if you feel you cannot afford new Dental Plates.

No matter how small your budget may be, you can feel sure that I want to do everything possible to help you.

There are no fixed terms in my offices; YOU DECIDE how small your credit payments should be . . . YOU DECIDE when it's most convenient for you to make those payments . . . and I will gladly accept any reasonable terms you want.

WHY TODAY'S DENTAL PLATES ARE BETTER!

Important progress by Dental Science in 3 fields has improved the quality of modern dentures. 1—THE MATERIAL: Acryic plastic combines amazing strength with light weight (the average plate weighs about 1 ounce). 2—THE TEETH: The latest artificial teeth possess a remarkable resemblance to natural teeth. The new Trubyte Bioform Teeth are a fine example of this improvement. 3—THE SKILL OF YOUR DENTIST: Research and intensive training have equipped your dentist to overcome many plate problems that once proved difficult.

Secret of Young Banker's 'Success' Believed Bared

VALDOSTA, Ga. (U.P.)—A successful young banker with an apparent yen for high-priced automobiles has been indicted for embezzling or misappropriating more than $170,000 from one of two south Georgia banks in which he became a high official.

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Sewell Elliott said Saturday that the banker, Ed Nixon (Ned) Davis Jr. is charged in a nine-count federal indictment with embezzlement or misappropriation while serving as president and vice president and director of the First State Bank of Valdosta.

Davis, about 37, is accused in one count of giving a personal check for $150,000 to the cashier of his bank, Feb. 20, 1954, and ordering him to issue a cashier's check for that amount on the First State Bank at Raleigh, Ga.

Davis knew at that time he had insufficient funds in the Raleigh bank to cover the draft, the indictment said.

The other three counts charged him with embezzling or misappropriating more than $20,000 on four different occasions within little more than a year.

They said he owned a modest residential home on a lake about 10 miles from here and lived there with his attractive and three children.

Davis apparently enjoyed high-priced cars. He owns a 1954 Lincoln, a Chevrolet Corvette, and a Pontiac convertible. He also has a motorboat.

GIRL HOLDS UP MARKET, TAKES $10 AS 'LOAN'

SOUTH SAN GABRIEL (AP)—A pretty, teen-age blonde, simulating a gun in her denim skirt pocket, held up a market Saturday, took only $10 from the cash register containing $200 and said:

The girl bandit backed out the door and escaped.

Clerk Gerri Morrison, 21, told police that the intruder, attired in the denim skirt and a white blouse, and wearing no makeup, entered the store and said:

"I have a gun in my pocket and it goes off, too."

The girl took the money from the cash drawer and left.

Lumber Workers Vote to Accept Pay Raise

TACOMA, Wash. (U.P.)—About 1,200 lumberworkers at the Weyerhaeuser operation in Springfield, Ore., have voted to accept a 2½ cent hourly increase and will return to work Monday, company officials said Saturday.

The vote was about 6-1. In addition to accepting the wage boost, the lumberworkers also agreed to extend their contract to April 1, 1956 without reopening.

Secret of Young Banker's 'Success' Believed Bared

VALDOSTA, Ga. (UP)—A successful young banker with an apparent yen for high-priced automobiles has been indicted for embezzling or misappropriating more than $170,000 from one of two south Georgia banks in which he became a high official.

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Sewell Elliott said Saturday that the banker, Ed Nixon (Ned) Davis Jr. is charged in a nine-count federal indictment with embezzlement or misappropriation while serving as president and vice president and director of the First State Bank of Valdosta.

Davis, about 37, is accused in one count of giving a personal check for $150,000 to the cashier of his bank, Feb. 20, 1954, and ordering him to issue a cashier's check for that amount on the First State Bank at Raleigh, Ga.

Davis knew at that time he had insufficient funds in the Raleigh bank to cover the draft, the indictment said.

The other three counts charged him with embezzling or misappropriating more than $20,000 on four different occasions within little more than a year.

They said he owned a modest residential home on a lake about 10 miles from here and lived there with his attractive and three children.

Davis apparently enjoyed high-priced cars. He owns a 1954 Lincoln, a Chevrolet Corvette, and a Pontiac convertible. He also has a motorboat.

GIRL HOLDS UP MARKET, TAKES $10 AS 'LOAN'

SOUTH SAN GABRIEL (AP)—A pretty, teen-age blonde, simulating a gun in her denim skirt pocket, held up a market Saturday, took only $10 from the cash register containing $200 and said:

The girl bandit backed out the door and escaped.

Clerk Gerri Morrison, 21, told police that the intruder, attired in the denim skirt and a white blouse, and wearing no makeup, entered the store and said:

"I have a gun in my pocket and it goes off, too."

The girl took the money from the cash drawer and left.

WHERE CHILDREN WENT HUNGRY

This is interior view of Huntington Beach shack where five small children went hungry for five days. Orange County juvenile authorities said their father, Albert A. Scheerlinck, 35, who built the roofless hut on "Tin Can Beach," bought beer and wine for himself with money given him to buy the children food.

Giant Rummage Sale Monday for Emergency March of Dimes

Winding up the Emergency March of Dimes campaign which began Aug. 16, a giant rummage sale will be held Monday and Tuesday in the old Famous store building at 6th St. and Pine Ave. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Carr, in charge of the volunteer workers who collected thousands of items of clothing and furnishings for the sale, said all money will go into the polio fund.

As the campaign draws to an end, the need for money to fight infantile paralysis is emphasized in the count of polio cases here this year to date. As of Saturday there had been 118 cases reported in the Long Beach Unified School District. Last year at this time only 75 cases had been reported in the same area.

The Long Beach Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis owes more than $25,000 for care already given local polio patients.

As of Saturday it was estimated that about twenty thousand dollars had been collected in the Long Beach area so far in the emergency drive.

Most of the money collected in the campaign has been sent in the containers mailed the public. On the outside of the containers are the names of six children who are competing in a "prince and princess" contest. All are out-patients at the Tichenor Clinic, and all wear braces made necessary by the after-effects of poliomyelitis.

Leading in the contest at this time are Susie Collins, 6, of 5309 Spring St., and Gary Fennell, 6, of 3625 Faust Ave.

Others in the contest are Brad Bozarth, 6, of 5644 Bonfair Ave.; Robin Koop, 6, of 4607 Dunrobin Ave.; Donna Ramirez, 5, of 1140 Ohio Ave.; and Marty Frost, 6, of 2112 Orange Ave. The "Prince and Princess" chosen by the public will get an expense-free trip to Catalina.

The Emergency March of Dimes is seeking twenty million dollars nationally, the amount by which the January March of Dimes fell short. Current shortages of funds are creating a threat to the care of polio patients now in hospitals in many parts of the country, according to Basil O'Connor, president of the national polio foundation.

Red Light Thieves Inspect Woman's License $78 Worth

Police still are hunting two men who impersonated detectives Friday night to bilk Rosella Flynn, 24, of 772 Loma Ave., out of $78.

The victim told police she and a friend were driving on Ocean Blvd. near 51st St. when they saw a car with a blinking red light behind them.

Thinking it was a police car, she stopped.

She handed her wallet to one of the men, the woman said, when he demanded to see her driver's license. After cautioning her to slow down, the man and his companion returned the wallet and left. The woman then discovered $78 was missing from the billfold.

Rescuers Save Injured Climber

WESTCLIFFE, Colo. (U.P.)—Rip Collins, 31-year-old Lawrence, Kan., mountain climber, greeted his rescuers with a wan smile early Saturday, after being trapped with two companions for 43 hours on a barren rock ledge 12,500 feet up on precipitous Crestone Needles Peak.

The three were marooned when Collins plunged 250 feet down into a mountain crevice at 5 p. m. Wednesday. Collins' two companions remained gamely by his side during the long wait for the rescue party, despite freezing temperatures and no food.

Collins was brought here at 4:30 a. m., strapped to a jeep. He then was transferred to an ambulance and taken to the Veterans Administration Hospital at Denver.

After a thorough examination, including X-ray, the hospital said Collins' "condition is good," and said his only injury was a "fracture of the left elbow." He also was reported to be suffering from mild "exposure" and exhaustion. Attendants said he would be kept under observation for about two weeks.

The three trapped climbers had made an assault on 14,191-foot Crestone Needles Peak in the Sangre de Cristo range in southern Colorado.

They were still more than 1,500 feet below the top of the towering peak when Collins slipped and plunged into a 1,300-foot deep crevice.

A rope, one end tied to a spike driven in the rock and the other to his two companions, broke his fall after he had plunged 250 feet. His swinging body crashed into the jagged rocks in the crevice as the rope halted his fall.

His two heroic companions, Bob Kulstad, 27, also of Lawrence, and Tony Mueller, 20, of Denver, lowered themselves to his side and laboriously brought him 400 feet up the side of the mountain to the narrow ledge where they waited for help.

A group of experienced Alpinists from Fort Carson, Colo., reached them at 11 a. m. Friday.

Medical Sgt. 1/c Frank Crawford of the Army Mountain and Cold Weather Command lowered himself 250 feet down the face of the rock to the ledge, grabbed Collins and held him as others in the rescue party hauled him to safety. His two companions were then brought out.

Administration Fails to Get OK on NLRB Counsel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration was reported Saturday to have made a futile, last-minute appeal to get Senate confirmation of Theophil C. Kammholz as general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board.

That post, now held by George C. Bott, has been an explosive political storm center ever since the 1947 Taft-Hartley law established the autonomous office of general counsel.

Bott's four-year term expires Dec. 21. Administration strategists, fully aware of the political heat which could be generated against any recess appointee named in December, sought to have Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, call his committee together for a quick confirmation hearing on Kammholz, a Chicago lawyer.

Nudist Bathing on German Beach OK; Postcards Out

SYLT ISLAND, Germany (U.P.)—You can sun bathe in the nude on Abessinia Beach, but you can't sell nude postcards.

Police Saturday marched solemnly past a group of girls lying nude in the sunshine and stopped in front of a newspaper stand a few hundred yards away.

"We have orders to confiscate these postcards," they said and pointed to a stack of postcards which showed nude girls posed exactly as those they had just passed.

Abessinia Beach is a two-mile stretch of North Sea coast on this swanky German sea resort island. The beach is surrounded by barbed wire fences and is reserved for those who prefer to swim and sunbathe without benefit of clothes.

The court order banning the sale of nudist postcards was issued here Friday when a group of swimmers who prefer clothes complained the cards were in bad taste.

Normal life on Abessinia Beach was not affected, and any visitor with one Deutschmark (25 cents) may walk into the restricted area if he pays his fee, promises to take off his clothes and leaves his camera at home.

The thousands of freeddy culture followers, as they call themselves, were much better off than the group of nudists holding a convention on an island in the Danube River near Vienna.

The Vienna nudists weren't bothered by the stares of Russian soldiers who watched them with binoculars and telescopes from trees and rooftops when their convention began Friday.

But during the night, millions of mosquitoes descended on the camp and all but the most hardened nudists put their clothes back on and swabbed themselves with mosquito oil.

Churchmen Urge Ban on H-Bomb

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — The World Council of Churches Saturday appealed to Communist and non-Communist nations to recognize they must "live together" in order to stop their march toward a disastrous war.

Mankind "is sick of it," the council said, "and wants to be at peace."

The council, made up of representative Christians from 48 nations, called on both sides in the cold war to pledge themselves to new "minimum conditions" to lift the threat of "mass destruction on a scale hitherto unknown."

"However deep the conflict may be," the council said, "it is not necessarily an insuperable bar to living together in a divided world."

In a 6,000-word paper on international affairs, Christian leaders of 161 denominations urged the West and Iron Curtain lands to set these standards as a start:

1. A conviction that they can "live together at least for a considerable period of years."
2. Abandonment of "force as an instrument of policy beyond existing frontiers."
3. Vigorous efforts to "end social and other injustices" anywhere that "might lead to civil and hence international war."
4. Continuing negotiations to "reach agreement on outstanding issues," such as international disarmament.
5. Readiness to submit all unresolved conflicts to an "impartial international organization" and to carry out its decision.

"This limited form of living together can only be a transitional state or a point of departure," the council said.

"It must move, through untiring endeavour, to beyond these minimum requirements into an order of genuine co-operation."

The world church body also called on all nations to "pledge that they will refrain from the threat or use" of nuclear weapons or other force against "the territorial integrity" or independence of any state.

And it urged new efforts for international control, inspection and "prohibition of atomic, hydrogen" and other mass-destruction weapons to end "an arms race of unprecedented dimensions."

On a motion of Erling Wikborg, a Church of Norway delegate from Oslo, it was voted to send the appeal to all members of the forthcoming United Nations Assembly.

The decision was followed by a wave of applause.

JUDGE HONEST IN HIS DISHONESTY

Tax Evader 'Couldn't Afford It'

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A county judge who was fined $5,000 for evading federal income taxes explained today why he did it: he couldn't afford it.

Judge John S. Belford said he found the steadily increasing burden of taxes a practical impossibility to meet.

So, said Judge Belford, he filed no returns at all for the years 1951 and 1952 rather than turn in phony returns.

The judge, who pleaded guilty to the charges Friday, said he would pay his taxes "just as quickly as I am financially able to do so."

He said in a statement that he had no intent to defraud the government. Federal Judge John Ross, who sentenced Judge Belford, said Saturday he agreed.

The charge said Judge Belford's gross income was $8,203 in 1951 and $9,064 in 1952.

He said in his statement today:

"As so many other people, I have found the steadily increasing burden of taxes a practical impossibility to meet. I have a large family with three teen-aged children. In addition—the burden of unusual sickness and support of those not in my immediate family further depleted my assets."

Not filing a return is a misdemeanor; filing a false return is a felony.

Had Belford been convicted of a felony, he would automatically have lost his judgeship under Nevada law.

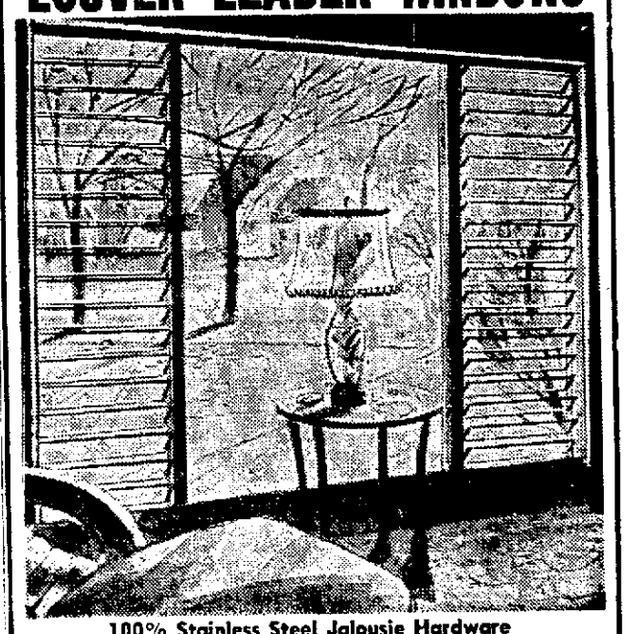

He indicated he does not plan to resign, and said he does not plan to withdraw his candidacy from the Nov. 4 election, when he seeks another four-year term. He is unopposed.

Belford could have been fined up to $10,000 and jailed one year on each of the two counts of tax evasion.

Peace, Prosperity Seen GOP Keynote at Meeting Today

CINCINNATI, (AP) — Republicans pounded out a peace-and-prosperity slogan as they gathered here Saturday for a shirt-sleeve conference to blue-print plans for the campaign to retain control of Congress.

With national committee members scheduled to begin informal conferences today, an advance guard of Young Republicans prepared to tell their elders the strongest appeal of the GOP for new voters lies in maintaining a level of employment and keeping the guns of war silent.

Sullivan Barnes of South Dakota, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, stressed the peace-and-prosperity theme in outlining what he regards as the top issues of the campaign.

Rep. George Bender, who represents something of the typical Republican candidate in the race for the Ohio Senate seat once held by the late Robert A. Taft, had the same idea.

"I think the principal appeal of the Republicans is that the Eisenhower administration has brought the country prosperity without bloodshed," Bender declared.

Barnes said younger voters obviously have more at stake than their elders in maintaining a peaceful economy at a high economic level.

"Peace and prosperity are very definitely the top issues in this vital campaign," he said. "President Eisenhower pledged to bring the Korean war to a close and the shooting was ended.

"There is an absence of war in Indochina and while the settlement there may not have been entirely to our liking, as the President said, a potentially worse situation has been avoided there."

10,000 Visit Marineland on First Day

Almost 10,000 persons passed through the turnstiles at Marineland of the Pacific as the fabulous oceanarium was opened to the public Saturday.

The first customer was Hancey Gildner of Hermosa Beach, who arrived about 5 a.m. in his ancient automobile to insure that he would be first in line.

Gildner said he was going to frame his ticket.

Meanwhile, Ray W. Smith, general manager of Marineland, announced that all children under six years of age would be admitted free.

Greenlease's Partner Dies of Gunshot

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Robert T. Moore, a business partner of Robert C. Greenlease of Kansas City, whose son Bobby was kidnaped and slain last year, died here today of a self-inflicted shotgun wound.

Moore, 66, was vice president and general manager of the Greenlease-Moore, Inc., a Cadillac and Chevrolet agency.

He was shot Thursday afternoon in a rest room near his office. The blast was fired into his right side at close range, police said.

Homicide Capt. Ted Baughman closed his investigation of the shooting yesterday by saying the wound was self-inflicted. No motive was found, he said, and Moore did not leave a note.

A spokesman for the Moore family said Moore's death could not be connected to the Greenlease kidnaping.

"I don't think you can tie that in at all," the spokesman said.

Ewing Mitchell Dies; FDR Cabinet Aide

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Ewing Y. Mitchell, 85, a former assistant secretary of commerce under President Franklin Roosevelt, died here Saturday shortly after suffering a heart attack.

Guatemalan President and 'Betty' Inseparable

(Editor's note: In power a little more than a month, Guatemala's Castillo Armas is using the tactics of a chess player—which he is—to bring order out of the chaos resulting from civil strife. Here's a closeup of the little colonel and the way he's going about one of the toughest jobs in Latin America.)

By CARLOS ESCUDERO

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—The wiry little colonel who wrecked Communist plans to take over Guatemala has a friend named Betty.

In Spanish her name is Chabelita. There's affection in the way he says it.

Betty is a blue-black .45 caliber automatic. Her owner, Lt. Col. Carlos Castillo Armas, president of Guatemala's junta government, says of her: "We are inseparable. Wherever I go, Chabelita goes."

But somehow, the gun seems out of character with Castillo, a man of quiet temperament whose favorite pastime is chess. He is softspoken, friendly and unaffected among people he knows.

In action, however, he can be bold, as he was in leading a ragtag army of irregulars against forces supporting ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, pro-Communist regular army colonel now an exile at the Mexican embassy here.

Castillo keeps Chabelita handy because his position has been uneasy since his liberation army won the two-week revolution last June which overthrew Arbenz. Like a good chess player, Castillo knows where he is going and when he expects to get there—and he doesn't underestimate the power of an opponent. At the moment, although there still may be setbacks, he appears to have the game well under control.

Politically, he is somewhat left of center, determined to purge the Communists and to defy extreme right-wing elements who "might try to hold back the hands on the clock of history."

At 41, Castillo is short (about 5 feet 5) and thin. A professional soldier, he is neither an expert politician nor an economist. But he is an avid reader with a quick mind.

He was graduated from the Polytechnic School — Guatemala's military academy—in 1936 and went into the army. In 1945 he returned to the academy as its deputy director. In 1947, after a course at the Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., he became the school's director.

During World War II, Castillo served as a member of the joint U.S.-Guatemala commission charged with planning the mutual defense of the hemisphere. His work earned him the Mexican Order of Military Merit and two bronze Stars from the United States.

He has two loves beside Betty—Guatemala and its freedom, and his attractive brunet wife. Odilia Palomo de Castillo was a school teacher before their marriage. They have no children.

COL. CARLOS CASTILLO ARMAS—Chabelita is there, somewhere.

As head of the junta, Castillo works hard. He's up early, receiving visitors in the cheerful home a friend has turned over to him. By 9:30 a.m., he's in his office where he works and receives callers through the day to 9 p.m. After dinner at home there are more callers — office seekers, aids or government officials.

Castillo says he has tremendous problems to solve, foremost among them "an economy practically destroyed by the Communists."

He already has disenfranchised all illiterates—about one-third of Guatemala's three million population—who formed a basis for much of the Communist support under Arbenz. His domestic program is simple: economize, rebuild, encourage free enterprise, offer foreign capital fair and equal treatment and a chance to earn fair profits.

He is embarked on a program of close cooperation with the United States and other American republics. And he wants to guide Guatemala back into the organization of Central American states, which the Arbenz regime walked out on. He is a supporter of the United Nations and says he wants nothing at all to do with Russia.

A grim-faced, armed escort accompanies Castillo wherever he goes and outside his home a 24-hour guard stands watch.

Castillo's security mindedness stems from the knowledge that his fledgling government is on uncertain ground — and he has seen governments upset before.

He came through one revolt, before he had been six weeks in office. An attempt to throw him out failed earlier this month.

He wants to stay in power long enough to do his job as he sees it: restore peace and prosperity, call a convention to draft a new constitution and hold free elections.

Camera Guildsmen

Long Beach Camera Guild will have a black and white competition at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., the first meeting since the summer vacation. At a recent meeting of the Southern California Council of Camera Clubs, Murray Shaner, member of the local club, won honorable mention for a black and white print.

Trial Bus Runs Set in L.B. Transit Row

Trial bus runs have been scheduled for Wednesday over limited express routes proposed by Metropolitan Coach Lines as a substitute for the Los Angeles-Long Beach rail line, the State Public Utilities Commission has announced.

Tests will be made during morning and afternoon peak periods and also during the midday base period, PUC officials said.

Chief Engineer Henry E. Jordan of the City Bureau of Franchises accepted an invitation to accompany commission and Metro staff members on the trial runs.

Commissioner Verne Scoggins ordered the tests after conflicting testimony developed on the length of time required for the proposed bus operation.

Similar trials have been scheduled for Monday on the Watts line, Tuesday on the Bellflower line, and Thursday on the San Pedro line.

Blushing Actress Sought for Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cecil B. DeMille is looking for a rarity, a girl who can blush.

In "The Ten Commandments" a sweetheart of Cornel Wilde has to blush every time Wilde, Charlton Heston or Yul Brynner approaches.

Jan Sterling Loses Inferiority Complex

JAN STERLING
She'd Strip if Asked

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Want to lose that inferiority complex? Then take up acting.

That's the advice of Jan Sterling. You may not have thought of actors as being people with feelings of inferiority, but she claims they're fraught with inhibitions.

"It's true," she argues. "I think most people go into acting because it gives them a chance to do things they would be afraid to do normally. That certainly happened to me. I was the shrinking violet type. But since I've been in pictures I've learned. Boy, how I've learned!"

Her greatest education was in her last picture, "Human Jungle," in which she played a strip teaser.

"Years ago, I would have been mortified to do anything like that," she remarked. "But now I am able to take a very external view of such things. I just tell myself, 'Jan, you go ahead and do anything you want. Because it's not you who is doing it; it's the character you're playing.' And wow, did I give it everything I've got!

"Now I feel I could do anything. If the director asked me to walk down the street stark naked, I could do it. I'd just figure it wasn't Jan Sterling doing it, but the character in the picture."

This last statement may have presented her case a little strongly, but that's what the lady said. She's had an amazing career for a girl who was educated by tutors abroad and reared in polite circumstances. She played English ingenues on Broadway. But her professional life changed when she slipped from a Noel Coward play into the Chicago company of "Born Yesterday."

"I've played nothing but witches ever since," she sighed. "It must be a suppressed desire or something. The only actress I ever sought an autograph photo from was Jean Harlow. I did that when I was around 10. Now I've got the platinum hair and am playing the same kind of roles she did."

At present she's a tough convict in "Women's Prison."

She said that the publicity routine in Hollywood helps in erasing whatever inhibitions an actress might have.

"You don't have time to feel inferior," she remarked. "You have to jump right into poses for cheesecake that would make anyone feel silly. You've got to learn how to give an interview, how to sell a picture to exhibitors in Omaha, and so forth. It's a baptism of fire."

It Happened Last Night
By Earl Wilson

MEXICO CITY — Just to be different, I interviewed a bull.

Pardon me. A brave bull. A very brave bull.

"Limpia"—that was the bull's name—gave me his first interview . . . and also his last. He died around 4:32 o'clock of a cloudy Sunday afternoon. He was quite an irritating bull, this "Limpia," especially to the young matador, Raul Espinolda. For he was a little behind time on the bull's dying schedule.

He was tough. The bull, I mean. He held on to life long enough to down the matador twice. Then his legs buckled, and his horns dug into the sand, and he expired with the picadors' and the matador's cutlery sticking into his back.

By that time, the B. W. and I had grabbed up Slugger and were on our way out of there.

We're not knocking any other country's fun.

But some years ago we found we had to leave a bull fight in Spain and we still can't take them.

On Sunday we arose early and went to the bull fight arena to see the drawing. Below us were the six bulls—and I picked out "Limpia," No. 22—he had that number branded on him—to interview. I spoke to him from a distance, of course, and all he said was a kind of snort—and I interpreted it to mean, "No comment."

He pawed and bolted around the pen quite a lot—unaware, I suppose, that he was going to be dead very shortly.

The bull fight had seemed to be so amusing, too. For there was a fellow alongside us who looked exactly like Jerry Lewis. At 4 o'clock the fight started—"the only thing in Mexico that starts on time"—and about 4:20, when the picadors began jabbing the bull in the spine for the first time, and the bull began goring the horse, the B.W. began to sob and say, "I can't stand this."

Frankly, I couldn't either, and we left, turning the place over to stronger hearts. There were many regrets I had . . . the second one being that I hadn't worn my red pants.

On the way out after the very first fight we met almost as many people going out as we'd seen going in. They were all Americans and, like us, they were saying, "I had all I can take." The cab drivers say there is a great traffic there about 4:45 p.m. of Americans going back to the hotels. Most of them aren't looking very good, either. They're definitely not bullish on bull fights.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "It sometimes appears," claims Bill Ladd, "that the main idea on TV is to provide as cheaply as possible something to fill the time between commercials."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A local guy reports a sad happening in a B'way restaurant—the air conditioning was turned down too much and froze a waiter's thumb in a bowl of soup.

Al Fodor says that experience is a wonderful thing—it helps you recognize a mistake when you make it again. . . . That's earl, brother.

Capital Capers—

By WALTER T. RIDDER, WESLEY PAYTON and ROBERT E. LEE
(Of The Independent-Press-Telegram Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON — Three sons of three famous fathers are battling it out for the Democratic governorship nomination in New York. At the moment, it's a neck-and-neck race between Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the late President, Robert F. Wagner Jr., currently mayor of New York City and son of the late senator from New York, and W. Averell Harriman, son of the famous railroad magnate and financier, Edward H. Harriman.

All these scions of both wealth and prominence are pretty well grounded in the art of politics and each has been eyeing high public office a long time.

The fight is particularly heavy this year because (a) if Gov. Dewey doesn't run, the Democrats have the best chance in years, and (b) because the governorship of New York is considered the greatest of all stepping stones to the White House. Which is why the boys won't spare themselves in trying to emulate their famous fathers.

The appendix of the Congressional Record is where congressmen and senators have their own speeches printed and often enter into it the contributions of their constituents.

Entering an article of his own recently cost one congressman a hefty sum of money. It came about this way: with the help of a Washington newspaperman, the congressman had written an article on social security for one of the larger circulation national magazines.

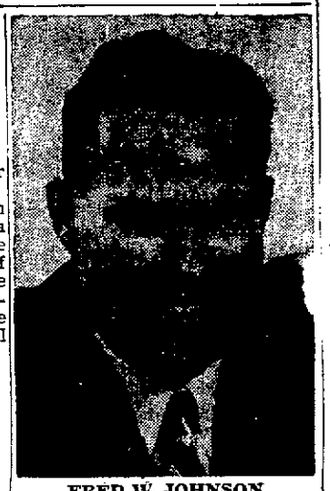

When the final script was received and accepted by the publication (it was to have appeared sometime in October), the congressman was so pleased with the magazine and his own efforts that he took a manuscript of the article and entered it into the Congressional Record appendix.

When the magazine heard about this action, it stopped publication of the article on the grounds that putting it into the Record had plunged it into the public domain and it no longer had any exclusive features. So the congressman was out the large fee. P. S. The newspaperman was paid and bought himself a nice brand new automobile.

A little recent research showed that of all the presidential sports, fishing comes out way ahead. Among the ardent anglers, who escaped whenever possible from the White House, were Presidents Coolidge, Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt (he preferred the deep sea variety), and now Eisenhower.

President Truman played no regular game, preferred his early morning walk. Among the golfers were Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Harding and now again Eisenhower.

President Wilson tried his hand at tennis, golf and fishing, then took up walking, particularly when he was a-courtin' Mrs. Edith Bolling.

FRED W. JOHNSON

Head of AID Will Address C of C Forum

Fred W. Johnson, executive director of AID, will be the principal speaker Wednesday at the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce Breakfast Forum.

Johnson has served as executive secretary of the American Cancer Society and director of co-ordination of the College of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

He was chairman of the activities committe of the Los Angeles area council Boy Scouts of America, member of the board of trustees of Chapman College and vice president of the Church Federation of Los Angeles.

Installation of Ray Dunn as chairman of the Chamber Breakfast Forum for the next quarter also will be held. He succeeds John Paap.

DOWNTOWN LONG BEACH

EDITORIAL

Willis W. Bradley

CAPT. WILLIS W. BRADLEY was a man with a remarkable devotion to public service. After a long and honorable career as a Navy officer, he entered politics and civic affairs in Long Beach with the same zeal that had marked his military service.

It is a safe assumption that it was his ardor for service to his home community and the state that resulted in Capt. Bradley's death Friday. Although he was chairman of the State Assembly Committee on Oil and Mining, he could have spared himself the ordeal of attending and participating in the hearing conducted by State Senate Interim Committee on Oil Development at Santa Barbara. But Capt. Bradley was intensely concerned about the proper development of the state's oil resources, and about the need for protecting Long Beach's oil program from public misunderstandings or unwarranted interference. So he went to the hearing in spite of his failing health and at noon recess was fatally stricken.

In the Navy, Capt. Bradley gave years of valuable service to his country and was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for a deed of valor while serving as a gunnery officer aboard the USS Pittsburgh. He served in the Aleutians, the Caribbean, as military governor of the Isle of Guam, as commander of several installations, and in World War II as commander of the Naval Inspection and Survey Board.

As a citizen of Long Beach, he gave unsparingly to scores of good causes. In 1946 he entered politics, was elected to Congress, and proved to be an able and energetic representative in Washington. In 1952, he was elected State Assemblyman from the 70th District. Ill health interfered with his service in Sacramento, but he gave his best. He decided not to run for re-election this year, and was scheduled for appointment to a position on the State Fair Board at the expiration of his Assembly term in December.

Capt. Bradley was blunt-spoken but kindly. He was aggressively devoted to the causes he espoused but tolerant of the opinions of others. He was devoted to his family, faithful to his friends, and intensely loyal to his country. He was a good American, and he left his mark upon the community which he chose 23 years ago to make his home.

HUMPHREY BOGART

Alias Captain Queeg

(Editor's Note: While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column is being written by several guest columnists. Today's is Hollywood star Humphrey Bogart.)

WASHINGTON—A funny thing happened on my way down to the studio the other day. A guy sidled up to me and whispered that Drew Pearson would like me to do a guest column.

"Why doesn't he write his own columns?" I snarled (a typical Bogart snarl).

"He does, but during his vacation he'd like you to do a guest column."

"Do I ask newspapermen to act for me during my vacations?"

"No, but that's different."

"Why?"

"Well, for one thing, Pearson can't act."

So, as I was saying, a funny thing happened on my way to my syndicated typewriter. I put in some syndicated paper and then started batting those syndicated keys, but the only thing they would spell out was "Captain Queeg. . . . Captain Queeg. . . . Captain Queeg.

ALIAS CAP. QUEEG

I wanted to play Queeg from the moment I read Herman Wouk's book "The Caine Mutiny" in 1951. Stanley Kramer had bought the novel and was planning it as his biggest production for Columbia Pictures. I called Stanley and asked to play Queeg, something I seldom do. Fortunately for me, he threw me the ball; in fact, he threw both steel balls at me, and promised me the part. The minute the casting announcement was in print, I started getting a flood of fan letters advising me on just how Queeg should be played. Apparently everybody knows at least one Queeg. About 10 million persons must have read the book and most of them immediately became casting directors.

QUEEG WASN'T CRAZY

I never did go along with a lot of people who had Queeg pegged as being more than slightly off his rocker—crazy. Queeg was not simply crazy. He was sick. His was a life of frustrations and insecurity. His victories were always small victories. He made the men stick their shirt-tails in and he cleaned up the ship. But when he was faced with a real problem—the typhoon, for example—he cracked up like ice at a cocktail party. In peacetime, Queeg was a capable officer. But he could not stand the stress of war. He was supernormal until pressured. And then he blew up.

Is that any different than a lot of us? Especially today. We're going through a neurotic "Queeg" period in which the psychiatrist's couch is becoming as well known as the corner drugstore.

There are a lot of Queegs around, whom the pressurized times have wrought. You'll find them in studios, in department stores, in factories, and in all other businesses. Show me a man who is "put in charge" and I'll show you a potential Queeg.

I know I'm walking through a live minefield when I say this, but there are a lot of "female Queegs" too. They're in charge of the house and only a mutiny by the money earner can stop the torture. It doesn't have to be things like shirt-tails, yellow-stains and strawberries. But the female Queeg nags him about maids, charge accounts, a better car, and a bigger house.

The female Queeg starts needling him about Tom, Dick and Harry, all of whom are making money hand over fist as their wives reap the harvest with all the good things in life. After a while the poor guy begins to feel like "Horrible" and "Meatball" in "The Caine Mutiny." For the first time he gets a sense of claustrophobia in his two-bedroom house which is symbolic of the old Caine. Suddenly, even the one-bathroom becomes an immediate problem. His Queeg has implied that a two-bathroom deal is a mark of success. From a happy-go-lucky type (like Maryk) the husband begins to change into a worrier. Instead of the wheel, he gives his wife the check and lets her assume the financial duties.

As time goes by, the man suspects he's married to a collection agency. Instead of love talk, it's now the price of steaks and the rundown condition of last year's car, or a honey of a fur coat that's a steal at a current sale. The wedding bells now sound like cash register chimes. And the poor guy can't go running to look for an aircraft carrier for help, either.

BACK-SEAT DRIVERS

As I said before, there are Queegs everywhere, in one form or another. I decided to play Queeg as a nervous, sick man, yet I wanted to maintain a bond of sympathy with the audience. I deliberately gave Queeg the mannerisms and appearance of an officer of sternness and decision, and then gradually disclosed him as a man hiding hysteria. I decided to play him my way after receiving hundreds of letters from those aforementioned casting directors telling me how to play the part their way and how to make the movie.

It's a funny thing. Everybody in the world has two businesses—his own and the motion-picture business. Don't get me wrong. I'm not complaining (Bogart is mellowing). All I'm saying is that no other business in the world has so many back-seat drivers and over-the-shoulder kibitzers.

No matter where I go I'm buried under a barrage of advice on just what Hollywood should do to turn out perfect movies. These ready advisers know about as much about the technical end of picture-making as I do about the love life of termites. But that doesn't stop them from telling you what kind of a picture to turn out and how to make millions with it.

SURPRISE! SURPRISE!

Political Observers Find Ike Attitude on Forthcoming Elections Unrealistic

WASHINGTON—A Congressional campaign is so utterly different from a Presidential campaign that persons familiar with the strategies of political warfare are frankly amazed at the unrealistic attitude of the White House toward the coming elections for Congress in November.

LAWRENCE

The popularity of a President has little or nothing to do with the outcome. The local popularity of the Republican or Democratic nominee in each district or state has a great deal to do with the ultimate result, but mostly the campaign turns on the voter's feelings for a political party—his past affiliations and the grievances that may have made him turn away from his party. Voters are party-minded in a Congressional campaign. The Eisenhower name will not be on the ballot, and only the Republican and Democratic party emblems will confront the voters in the polling booths, together with candidates' names which are largely unfamiliar to the average citizen.

No President has ever been able to transfer his own popularity or prestige or the weight of his own political strength to the nominees of his party in a Congressional campaign. But an aggressive President who fights hard against the opposition party, and doesn't spend his energies fighting members of his own party, can help sway voters toward his party label.

The evidence from past campaigns, as privately appraised by party leaders in their post-mortems after victory or defeat, points up the fact that the voters generally vote "against things" rather than for affirmative virtues. This means that often a party in power is continued in office not so much for what it has done but because the people are not yet ready to go back to the party they threw out—they are still "against" the party they previously defeated.

Voters are influenced by emotions and the pocketbook appeal. Even if they are somewhat dissatisfied on economic issues, however, they will often be swayed by emotional issues such as corruption in office or Communist infiltration or war. What the Republican strategists have failed to do is build up the prestige of the Republican party and to attack the record of the Democrats in the previous 20 years. Mr. Eisenhower has soft-pedaled the attack and has said he wants to let bygones be bygones—a generous but naive attitude which is not being reciprocated by the Democrats, who are already reminding the voters that they consider the Republican party to be a party of unemployment and depression.

CONFIDENCE NEEDED

It is a new confidence in the Republican party label that voters have to feel, as they need to be reminded and assured that there will be no return to the mistakes of the Truman administration. But the White House has given little inspiration to the party workers, and it is they and their organizations which get out the vote in Congressional elections. It could be that the Democrats will win Congress this time, not by virtue of anything they will offer to do, but by persuading people to vote "against the failures of the Republican party," as the attack is being vigorously presented by former Speaker Rayburn and others.

The negative habit is well documented in the political history of America. The people voted "against the high cost of living" in 1910 when they elected a Democratic House of Representatives in the middle of a Republican President's term despite a splendid record of constructive legislation by Congress. The people were "against war" in 1916 when they re-elected a Democratic President on a peace platform, but in 1918 they voted in a Republican majority in both houses in protest against wartime irritations and against the action of the same President for having entered World War I.

Again, in 1920, the people voted "against the Democrats" on the war issue in resentment against American intervention in European affairs, and the same attitude—called "isolationism" then—continued to hurt the Democrats in 1924 and 1928. But four years later the Democrats began swinging toward "isolationism" themselves, and Franklin Roosevelt, in order to be nominated by the Democrats in 1932, had to repudiate the proposal for entry into the League of Nations which he had espoused as a Vice Presidential candidate in 1920.

POWERFUL NEGATIVE

The tendency to vote "against" was noticeable in 1932, when the people voted "against the Hoover depression." In 1936, 1940 and 1944, the negative attitude of the voters toward the Republican party was so intense on account of the memories of the depression that an oratorical reminder on the stump of the unemployment issue was enough to discredit the Republican candidates.

In 1946, the country voted "against meat scontrols" by the Democratic administration and elected a Republican Congress. Mr. Truman in 1948, using an attack strategy of the "give 'em hell" variety, succeeded in convincing the country it should vote "against the do-nothing Republican Congress," and he won. In 1952, the people voted "against Korea, communism and corruption."

Mr. Eisenhower was a satisfactory and popular alternative, but Taft could have won, too, on the negative tide that was rolling then.

This time the Republicans, led by the President, should have been strongly on the attack, reminding the voters of the issues which caused them to forsake the Democratic party two years ago.

Brazilians Inflamed by Vargas Suicide Letter

ONE EVENING in Mexico City, nearly a year ago, Life Magazine Publisher Andrew Heiskell and I fell to talking about Carlos Lacerda, the crusading Brazilian editor. At that time yours truly was president of the Inter-American Press Assn., Heiskell the chairman of the executive committee and Lacerda its secretary.

Predicted Heiskell: "Carlos will one day be president of Brazil—IF he lives."

On Aug. 5, an assasin's bullet gave meaning to Heiskell's prophecy.

KNIGHT

The shots that were fired to end Lacerda's journalistic and political career wounded him slightly, killed his friend, Air Force Maj. Ruben Florentino Vaz, and drove President Getulio Vargas out of office and to death by suicide.

This dramatic sequence of events, with the populace inflamed by the demagogic language of Vargas' suicide letter, finds Brazil in the throes of widespread violence and unrest.

Like Vargas, the new President, Joso Cafe Filho, is officially a friend of the United States. Cafe began his career as a journalist and took an active part in the 1930 revolt that first brought Getulio Vargas to power.

In similariay to many another Latin-American editor Cafe has known exile and jail. As a leader of the Social Progressive Party and through its alliance with Vargas' Brazilian Labor Party, Cafe was elected vice president in 1950.

REDS OUTLAWED

The new President heads a nation with a long history of friendship to the United States. The Communist Party is outlawed in Brazil and last March at the Caracas conference, the Brazilian delegation gave full support to the United States plan to block Red penetration in this hemisphere.

However, Brazil is seething with discontent. The country's economic position is precarious, living standards are low and the government has been shot through with scandals and corruption.

Jose Cafe Filho, whose name can be literally translated into English as John Coffee Jr., brings to the presidency a background of experience which suggests a blending of the journalist's idealism with the realism of the politician and businessman.

The difficulties of his task have been aggravated by the mercurial temper of the people; first aroused by the attacks of the anti-government press against Vargas and then turned into a fever of emotionalism by the old dictator's parting world.

Though Carlos Lecerda escaped death in the attempted assassination by a member of Vargas' personal bodyguard, reports from Brazil indicate that he may not be as lucky in politics. In the outbreaks that followed Vargas' suicide, Lacerda was placed under protective custody while roiting mobs attacked his newspaper plant and burned copies of Tribuna da Imprensa in the streets.

Taxes Pay Minor Part of City Cost

LONG BEACH taxpayers, who got the word this week that their city tax rate is to be upped 16 cents, ought to know that even at the new rate they are asked to supply only 29 per cent of the general city budget.

Only 8.66 per cent of the total budgets of all municipal departments comes from direct taxation.

EPLEY

The general city budget, which includes library, band, recreation and all general city departments, totals $19,824,992. Of this amount, $5,874,300 will be raised by taxes.

From this, it can be seen that Long Beach has some pretty lucrative sources of income other than the poor taxpayer.

The municipally-owned oil wells, as one might suspect, are the city's best providers of non-tax money. Oil sales and royalties and the sale of resultant natural dry gas bring in $5,030,000, which is about equal to the amount raised from taxation. If it were not for this revenue, the city's $1.28 tax rate would almost double. This disposes, of the comment one occasionally hears to the effect that the taxpayers don't benefit from municipal oil operations.

Other major sources of income: Licenses and permits, $1,066,000; fines and fees, $787,000; revenue from other agencies (auto taxes, gas tax, federal - state - county allocations of various kinds) $2,736,508; bond redemption transfer, $1,413,000; service charges (garbage sales, golf fees, library fines, recreation concessions) $1,267,000.

Here are the total budgets of all departments:

General City—$19,824,992.
Gas Dept.—$4,246,269.
Water Dept.—$4,010,435.
Harbor Dept.—$89,065,000.

The water and gas departments are self-sustaining, the harbor department gets $1,500,000 income from harbor operations and the remainder of harbor department income comes from oil operations.

Not included in the above figures is $14,126,000 which the city has on hand for expenditure from the Tideland Oil Fund for the Marina and the Auditorium Annex, both voter-approved projects.

In addition, $43,000,000 has been budgeted for expenditures from the Public Improvement Fund (an oil fund) which will be available for use if and when a favorable court decision is reached in the Mallon case.

Oil income continues to pour into the municipal coffers in a big way. The estimated income for 1954-55 from the Long Beach Oil Development and Richfield production on tideland areas is $23,630,000. This is a drop of $4,000,000 from last year's income from this source. Interest on tideland oil money investments will yield $8,847,200, or an increase of about half a million dollars over 1953-54.

Multi-million dollar figures slide easily off the tongue in any discussion of city finances, but even city officials might catch their breaths when all of the money budgeted, including that restricted as to court decision, is totaled up. City Auditor John Mansell, who supplied information for this article, got his pencil out and found the total is approximately $125,000,000, an eighth of a billion. The amount raised by taxation this year.—$5,874,300—represents only 4.7 per cent of that amount.

About Your Height

they did not need to use their brains to get by as did the little fellow. So few of the naturally endowed men seem to go as far as the little fellow who has to use his brains.

Being about average height ourself, we have often envied the tall fellow who looks so imposing. But as we look around at our associates of today, we find more below-average-height men than we do above-average. We refer to the men who man our many civic boards and who run our largest enterprises.

When we go back in history we prove that height is no handicap to fame. One of the world's greatest military figures was Napoleon, who measured a scant 5 feet 1 inch. He was not only a great military genius, but an administrator of the highest ability. Another great military leader was Alexander the Great, who measured considerably below the average. John Paul Jones, our greatest naval hero, was a bare 5 feet 7 inches as was Gen. Grant and Gen. Sherman, only 5 feet 5 inches tall.

The great Franz Schubert was not quite 5 feet tall. Toscanini is only 5 feet 6 inches. Marconi measured 5 feet 6 inches. Stephen Douglas—the little giant—who debated with Abraham Lincoln, was not 5 feet tall. He was overshadowed by the great simplicity of Lincoln. But Lincoln—a tall man—was stooped. He was considered one of the least imposing men then entering politics. Winston Churchill is just 5 feet 7 inches tall.

Remembering some recent history it should be remembered that three of the men whose actions have meant more to the world than any others during this century were all short men. They were Stalin, 5 feet 4 inches, and Hitler and Mussolini, neither of whom measured more than 5 feet 7 inches. Yet, these three men are responsible for enslaving almost a billion people behind the Iron Curtain. It was the disagreement between these three dictators that made the last war inevitable. Had they agreed, these three small men in stature might have ruled the world.

It would be hard to find as imposing a list of above-average-height men to match that of the smaller men. It should inspire the smaller man to greater activity because he has evidence that size is unimportant in all but a few endeavors. Some tall men should be inspired to depend more on their brains than their brawn. If any tall fellows wish to talk it over, I will be unavailable.—L.A.C.

TOWN MEETING

Schine

TO THE EDITOR:

As a middle-aged libertarian who was bucking the Communists back when G. David Schine was playing with his gold-plated blocks, I would suggest that G. David isn't exactly the boy to advise his elders on how we best can keep ourselves free.

"Schine has reason," Sam Campbell and Robert Blackwell reported in their exclusive interview with Schine last Sunday, "to be reserved toward the press since a campaign initiated by a newsman who once testified before the McCarthy committee has not dealt kindly with him."

This is a plain reference to Jim Wechsler of the N. Y. Post, and I would like to refer the two writers to Wechsler's account of his appearance before McCarthy, in "The Age of Suspicion." On the basis of some sloppy information gathered by G. David and Roy Cohn on their dead-run investigation of U. S. overseas libraries, Wechsler was hauled before McCarthy and subjected to a vicious hatcheting of his character. Although Wechsler openly broke with the Reds almost 20 years ago and has fought them bitterly since, McCarthy tried to imply that Wechsler was secretly a Communist. He offered no proof of this, other than his own fetid suspicions, and brushed aside with contempt documentation offered by Wechsler that the Communists have been attacking him for years.

Wechsler's real sin was that he also has fought McCarthy. But there are millions of Americans who reject the slope-browed reasoning that to oppose McCarthy is to endorse the Reds.

Before G. David pontificates any further on how we can keep ourselves free, he might re-examine what McCarthy tried to do—with G. David's help—to the freedom of an effective anti-Communist liberal like Jim Wechsler. I don't think that G. David is actually vicious. He impresses me as being plain dumb, but since when does being plain dumb qualify a 27-year-old playboy for the role of elder statesman?

Annex Hit

TO THE EDITOR:

Nothing is good for anybody unless it is good for everybody. Long Beach needs an auditorium annex like a cat needs nine tails.

Concentrating on how to get rid of a huge sum of money all in a heap, that's the place to dump it. Another liability. A few spurts and spasms caused by Miss Universe, and a few conventions. Full hotels and a lot of mad eating. Then what between shows? Beautiful parking lots. And the kids are cheated out of their favorite swimming hole.

The annex will be a nice flat marker for a ghost city, a foolish city that built on sand on the edge of nothing. Those of us that have no roots here can make a clean getaway.

L.A. County Fair to Show Ponies in L.B. Parade

A four-hour pony parade at 11 a.m. Wednesday through downtown Long Beach streets will advertise this year's Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona Sept. 17-Oct. 3.

In the parade will be two four-pony teams, one all white and one all black, from the Long Beach stables of Jack Grogan. One team will draw a stage coach and the other a wagon bearing a horn of plenty.

The Shetlands will parade in 35 cities in the county to publicize the fair, hailed this year as "more spectacular and exciting than ever."

During progress of the parade porky-pig auto stickers and badges and a brochure will be distributed among onlookers.

City Play Program Schedule Reviewed

Supervised playground activities will continue for the balance of the school vacation period at all municipal parks and recreation areas.

This assurance was given Saturday by Duane George, Recreation Department official.

"For the rest of the vacation there will be daytime and evening use of the swimming pools at Jordan, Poly and Wilson high schools," George Said.

"The city's aquatic program also will continue at full strength at the Colorado Lagoon and at Alamitos Bay."

Last Friday signalled the finale of the city school playground program of summer fun which was given in co-operation with the Recreation Department.

During the past 10 weeks the greatest number of school playgrounds in local history provided supervised fun and sports competition for children in the Long Beach-Los Altos-Lakewood and Signal Hill areas.

Oak Smith, school playground chief, said the after-school playground program at elementary schools will re-open September 13. This will provide two hours of supervised after-school play for youngsters.

Meanwhile, all city recreation areas will be in operation to meet the playground needs of Long Beach youngsters.

The four major parks of the city will be open seven days a week with supervisors in charge. These are Silverado, Bixby, Houghton and Recreation parks.

Destroyer to Host Sullivans' Parents

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.) — The captain and crew of the USS The Sullivans will roll out the welcome mat Wednesday for the parents of the five heroic Sullivan brothers who perished during World War II while serving on the cruiser Juneau during the battle of Guadalcanal.

It will be the first time Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan of Waterloo, Iowa, have visited the destroyer named for the famous brother team since she was launched at San Francisco 11 years ago.

Third Annual Marine League Variety Show Seeks Acts

Talent for the third annual variety show of the Marine Corps League of Long Beach—to be held in Municipal Auditorium at 8:30 p. m. Nov. 24—already is being lined up.

The show this year will be in observance of Thanksgiving and also will commemorate the 179th anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps.

The talent is being signed up by Jonathan Osman, chaplain of the Long Beach detachment of the league and national ways and means committee chairman. He is being assisted by Jerry Young of the local detachment, who is California Department chaplain of the league.

Osman said there is a possibility that Fifi D'Orsay and the Duncan Sisters will be obtained for the show. One talented entertainer already signed is LaVerne Dell, singer and dancer.

John Lowe, commandant of the local district of the league, and Larry Stephens, department vice commandant, are helping line up the event.

Architects Slate TV Time to Tell of L. B. Building

Representatives of Long Beach Architects Association will tell of big building activities in Long Beach on televsion (UHF, Channel 28) on a half-hour program Wednesday at 8 p. m..

The program was arranged by Gordon Powers of the association. It will include Edgar Marrotte, who will show a model of the projected Rainbow Lagoon area; Kenneth Wing, designer of the new recreation and exhibit hall at the Municipal Auditorium; Hugh Gibbs, showing his designs for the new Long Beach State College, and Richard Shelley, with a model of a 12-story apartment building to be built at First St. and Atlantic Ave.

Thomas J. Russell, president of the association, will introduce the speakers.

Teaching Lauded

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII said Saturday that the teachings of St. Augustine are still strong weapons in the Roman Catholic Church's defense against "modern errors."

The Pope made his observation in a letter sent to the superior general of the Augustinian Orders on the occasion of the 16th centenary of St. Augustine's birth in Africa in 354 A. D.

The Pontiff said that St. Augustine's writings were especially useful for those who "have been caught in the snares of sin and want to free themselves."

ONE of the fallacies of our times is the idea that if a man (or woman) writes or says something in Washington, D. C., about the state of national sentiment, he must be right. The oracles back there are making a great thing of it, but there is no proof that they know any more about how people feel about this or that than you can find out in a conversation on a bus bench at Fourth and Pine, Long Beach, or a chat in the shade of a palm tree in Lakewood Center. That's where sentiment is manufactured.

Right after the GOP convention in 1952, this scribe happened to be seated at a dinner table in Washington next to a lady of great political importance who since has been chosen for a rather unique government position.

She told me solemnly that she had felt the pulse and that Republican workers all over the country were "down" on the ticket and wouldn't work. There was hardly any hope, she said, for the election of a Presidential candidate named Eisenhower.

I had just driven across the country talking to people in restaurants, service stations and motels. I thought I had heard differently, but figured she ought to know and offered argument—something I've been regretting ruefully ever since.

BIGGEST concentrated of education years you'll see in a long time was that at the Lakewood Country Club last midweek even when the members of the Doctors, Dentists and Druggists Assn. gobbled steak after golf.

Dr. Chet Moore, chairman of the evening, cast a glance over the crowded room, did a quick mental computation, and declared that 5000 years of hard-earned education were represented there.

ONLY one of the five original boys in Father Flanagan's "Boy's Town" will be on Art Baker's "You Asked for It" TV show Monday eve when he shows the story of Boys Town. He is Alfred Castiglia, 901½ Via Wanda, Long Beach. Whereabouts of the other four, if they're still alive, is unknown.

Castiglia, a trucker, is just back from the Boys Town convention in Nebraska. He'll appear "live" on the Baker show Monday eve. Castiglia went from a boyhood in Omaha to Boys Town in 1918, and well remembers riding around over Nebraska by team and wagon, putting on money-raising entertainments. He has lived in L. B. since 1938.

BACK from an eventful auto trip to Mexico is Fred Carpenter, local haberdasher, who tells some warming stories about the way people down there come to the aid of a motorist in distress.

Carpenter ran into big trouble at Los Mochis, where the Rio Del Fuerte was out of its banks and the ferry was carrying just two cars at a time, making the trip across in an hour. He waited for 23 hours to get on the ferry, and then things went bad.

Running up a plank to the ferry, his car slipped off and into the shallow water. Immediately about 30 Mexican motorists gathered around and lifted the big machine bodily out of the water. One of them, dressed in an immaculate white suit, got into the stream up to his waist.

The mishap mashed the gas line on Carpenter's car. He figured he was in for it, but right away a Mexican truck driver—a man who once lived in Bellflower—came up with a big bar of soap. He encased the gas line at the break with soap and darned if it didn't carry gas through until Carpenter could get to a mechanic 90 miles away.

Carpenter later hit a big rock and busted up his hydromatic, but Mexican mechanics, driving 18 miles from town in a taxicab, fixed it up for him for a pittance. He thinks the adjoining country ought to be renamed Samaria.

TOWN TALK—Theodore Hill, the Locust Ave. shoe-shine expert who happily baits Republicans around the clock, is on a trip to N. Y. where he's seeing some big league baseball and otherwise having a time.

Don't know how he can afford it, seeing who's running the gov't and depressing the economy. . . . One of the most impressive street number signs in town is at 110 Locust, where the words ONE-TEN stand out in bold relief on a big bronze plate over the door. It's a Christian Science reading room. . . . Lot of pennants in shop windows emphasize the upcoming opening of school. And merchants are starting to lay away Christmas gifts for customers. Every year the summers get shorter.

LOOK OUT FOR PASSES!

When a couple of young gentlemen out for a Sunday stroll on the beach meet a couple of young ladies out for the same, the inevitable inevitably happens. They play football, of course. Tender scene (above) occurred soon after the start of play when one of the young gentlemen made a pass.

Gov. Knight Will Launch Active Vote Drive in L. B.

By THE LOOKOUT

Go. Goodwin J. Knight will launch the active phase of his fall campaign for re-election in Long Beach Sept. 7. The governor himself decided he wanted the vote drive to start in this city, the home of his old friend, ex-Gov. Frank Merriam, who appointed him to his first public office.

A full program of activities for the day is being set up, according to Kenneth Sutherland, Knight campaign manager here. Events will include luncheon at the Lakewood Country Club, an afternoon speech at the University by the Sea, and an address at an evening mass meeting, possibly to be held in the Auditorium Concert Hall.

Knight scored another victory last week when the AFL State Federation again gave him its endorsement at its Santa Barbara convention. The governor also stirred up some criticism and discussion by comments he made to the union men about his intention to veto, if they are passed, such measures as "right to work," "hot cargo" and "secondary boycott" restrictions.

The remarks brought some scorching comment from some publications that endorse Knight's candidacy, including the Los Angeles Times. But the Times said it would continue to recommend his election. Knight appeared to be in the safe political position of having offended some friends who would not go elsewhere despite the offense, and at the same time having strengthened his position with labor.

Most political observers agreed that Knight's stock is high as he prepared to launch the autumn campaign here.

There were plaudits the past week for Richard Graves, Knight's opponent, on the ground that Graves had shown real courage in his refusal to have friendly relationship with the re-election campaign of William Bonelli, Equalization Board member. Graves left no question that he desired to be disassociated entirely from Bonelli, who holds the Democratic nomination for re-election and is opposed by Robert McDavid, Altadena Republican. Bonelli's handling of his official duties has been frequently under critical fire.

LULL HERE

Local political activity is in a deep summer lull that will probably be broken as soon as Labor Day holidays are over.

Republicans turned out one of the biggest crowds in years for an event of that kind when the 18th District Council of Republican Women staged their "pink elephant" ball at Lakewood Country Club Friday evening in a fund-raising enterprise. More than 1000 tickets were sold and a large proportion of the ticket holders were present. Mrs. George P. Taubman Jr. presided at the rostrum activities, and among those introduced were Congressman and Mrs. Craig Hosmer, home from Washington.

Training Planned to Boost Ranks of Polio Nurses

Emergency training courses for nurses in the care of polio patients to meet the existing critical shortage during the current epidemic have been announced following a conference of directors of nursing of large hospitals and public health services of the county.

With nearly 300 polio patients now in Los Angeles General Hospital and Rancho Los Amigos Respirator Center, near Downey, and approximately 140 respirators in constant use, an acute shortage of nurses to care for these patients has developed, hospital authorities declare.

Thirty-one directors of nursing services of large hospitals and public health services decided on the training courses at a session held last week. The training courses are designed both for nurses who are with or without experience in polio nursing.

The program consists first of refresher courses for nurses who have had experience in polio nursing and who are willing to serve for eight weeks full time or 12 weeks part time at the General Hospital contagious diseases wards. Classes would consist of two-hour sessions twice a week from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m., starting Sept. 7 at the Sawtelle Veterans Hospital, on Tuesdays and Thursdays; at the Rancho starting Sept. 8 on Mondays and Wednesdays and at the General Hospital starting Sept. 14 on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Classes are to be devoted to the study on the care of acutely ill polio patients, symptoms of polio, care of the patient in a respirator and use of other equipment, and in the care of the tracheotomy patient.

A second series of classes for nurses without experience in polio patient care also is planned. Those in this class must agree to join the staff of the County Hospital on completion of the two-week, 40 hours per week, course and to serve the hospital in the care of polio patients for a minimum of eight weeks. Date of starting this class will be announced later.

According to Miss Nina Bethea Craft, director of Nursing Services and Education at the County Hospital, it was the consensus at the recent meeting of nurse executives that there were many nurses in this area who would respond to the public need for service if they were given necessary training.

Nurses desiring to enlist in the classes or who desire details of the program are asked to contact Miss Craft at the County Hospital by telephone, CApitol 3131.

750 Coming to Conclave of DeMolay

Delegates from 70 chapters of the Order of DeMolay will register here Thursday for a four-day Southern California convention.

An estimated 750 persons are expected to attend, according to Dick Porter, 2520 Maine Ave., convention chairman.

DeMolay, sponsored by Masonic bodies, is comprised of boys and men from 14 to 23 years old.

Feature points of the conclave include a party on the Nu-Pike Thursday evening, the first business session in Municipal Auditorium Friday morning and a grand ball Sunday night.

A "jurisdictional sweetheart" will be selected Sunday evening from among 16 feminine candidates.

Delegates will represent 70 chapters in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties. Long Beach Chapter 1659 is host for the conclave.

SEPT. 16, 17

State College Plans Signup

Registration at Long Beach State College will be conducted Sept. 16 for returning students and Sept. 17 for new students, according to Clarence R. Bergland, admissions officer.

Bergland said acceptance of new students so far is double that for the same period last year.

"As a result of this trend, indications are that enrollment for the fall semester will exceed 4,000 students, a new record," he added.

classes will be available at the admissions office Wednesday.

THEN THE LADIES TOOK OVER

Energetic young thing, following some deftly led interference by her sister-of-the-pigskin, takes over to show those gentlemen a thing or two about how to spend an afternoon on the beach. Nobody knew the score but, as usual, the girls won.

HE WENT FAR ENOUGH

As activity progressed, one of the young ladies decided her opposite number had gone far enough in his attempt to circle his end. She clobbered—that is, tagged—the fellow to call a halt to the play. (Staff Photos by Bryan Hodgson.)

Ski, Sailboat Races to Feature Aqua-Fair

A 30-mile water ski race, fishing derbies, swimming meeting and sailboat races will be part of the first annual Aqua-Fair Sept. 17, 18 and 19, the Chamber of Commerce announced this week.

All of the events are free to the public and are designed to call attention to the varied aquatic activities available in Long Beach.

The 30-mile water ski races will be over an oblong course set just offshore of the beach between Belmont and Magnolia Piers.

There will be two fishing derbies. A "King Neptune" contest for fish caught in the waters between Long Beach and Catalina Island, and a "Tom Sawyer" derby which will be restricted to piers, barges or breakwater areas.

A city-wide swimming meeting for youngsters in five classes up to 21 years of age will be held in Polytechnic High pool.

There will be a "Foam Cutters" Sailboat Regatta on Alamitos Bay with craft competing in seven classifications.

Water skijumping competition for men, women and juniors will be conducted at Marine Stadium.

'PRISONER' TOO BIG FOR PATROL CAR

Motorized Cop Solves Equine Problem

What would a police officer do with a lost horse, if there's no animal shelter truck available to pick up the animal?

That problem confronted Police Officer Richard A. Porter Saturday when he found such an animal tied to a fire hydrant at 1261 Taper St.

D. A. Thompson, of that address, who found the stray mare, hitched her to the hydrant, fearing she would be run down by a car.

Although she was a small animal — Officer Porter estimated her weight at about 600 pounds—he couldn't figure out any way to place the horse inside his patrol car.

So Porter got in touch with Carlton Hess, of 3051 San Francisco Ave., who has horses of his own.

Hess, who admits a kindly feeling for stray animals, especially horses, got a halter and a rope and hitched the animal to the rear end of the patrol car.

Then Officer Porter drove slowly—about three miles per hour—from the hydrant to the Hess home, eight blocks away, where there is a corral.

Later in the day, the horse was returned to a riding stable in North Long Beach, from which she had wandered.

THEY REMEMBER NETTIE

Just to keep their hands in, Lynn Millette (foreground) and Cecil Arnold, postal employes here since 1913, work a bit at carrier's case. Many of their associates remember when the present post office building was opened 20 years ago Sept. 1, but they remember when a man named Hyde and a mare named Nettie picked up the mail.—(Staff Photo.)

HORSE-AND-BUGGY MAIL

Postal Pair Look Back to 1934

By VERA WILLIAMS

Remember a man named Hyde—possibly his first name was Joe—and his sprightly bay mare Nettie who used to pick up mail and deliver parcel post packages in Long Beach?

Lynn Millette and Cecil Arnold do.

They are pioneer members of the Long Beach Post Office and while the memory of many of their fellow-workers goes back 20 years to Sept. 1, 1934, when the present federal-post office building, 3rd St. and American Ave., was opened, they think perhaps they are the only ones still in the service who remember Mr. Hyde and Nettie.

George F. Hirsch was postmaster, the post office was in the 500 block on Pine Ave. and the postal force included 24 carriers and eight clerks when they joined the staff—Arnold in April and Millette in June, 1913.

"In those days Hyde had a contract with the federal government to pick up mail from the boxes scattered around town and deliver parcel post. He did it with his buggy and mare Nettie. Of course a postal employe had to go along," recall Millette and Arnold. "Nettie knew that route as well as any of us—the Virginia Hotel, the Pike, Alamitos Ave. and then back along American Ave. and Pine Ave.

"That went on for about three years. Then we go fancy. The post office bought a Ford touring car to pick up the mail."

Millette, who now is a clerk and chief adviser to incoming help, recalls that in his first letter-carrying days he covered the route from Chestnut Ave. to Atlantic Ave., Anaheim St. to State St. A good deal of that area was vacant lots. Seaside Hospital was beyond the delivery area, but the hospital had a mail box at Chestnut Ave. and 14th St. and the nurses would come down and get the mail.

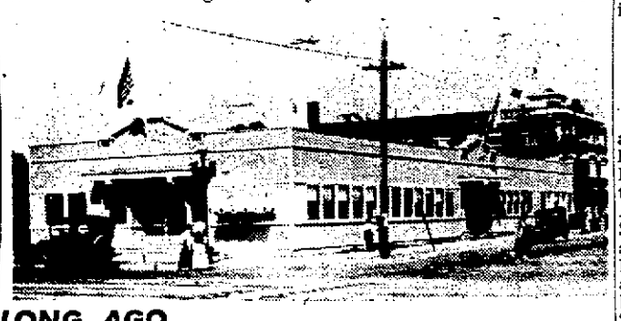

Arnold began as a substitute carrier before he became an official parcel post carrier. He has been superintendent of the East Long Beach branch, 3116 E. Anaheim, since 1948.

Ground was broken for the present post office March 11, 1932, and the cornerstone was laid Aug. 20, 1932. The earthquake of March 10, 1933, delayed completion of the building.

When the post office was opened 20 years ago next Wednesday, Clerk Rolland M. Neal sold the first stamp to Mrs. Clara Middleton, 241 Elm Ave. Stameson's, florists, sent the first parcel post package, a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Charles L. Heartwell, daughter of the first postmaster, containing a note "In remembrance of W. W. Lowe, father of the postal service in Long Beach."

Early-day photographs and historical articles about the post office written by Lawrence M. Roberts and mounted by Francis Scott, postal employes, will be displayed during September in the post office lobby.

George J. McMillin, postmaster since last October, was preceded in order by William W. Lowe, George W. Farrington, Frank Hart, Edmund B. Cushman, Frank Hart, John C. Charles, Martin C. Holman, Frank L. Wingard, George F. Hirsch, Walter J. Desmond, Charles Windham, Fred W. McCullah, Howard K. Goodwin.

Vietnamese Hail Red Chief's Name

By JEAN BARRE

SAIGON, Indochina (U.P.) — The silent conquest of Vietnam by the Communists has won an estimated 80 per cent of the villages in central Vietnam and about 50 to 60 per cent of the outlying communities in the south.

"In three months, if things go on this way, south Vietnam will be 100 per cent conquered by the Communists," a heartbroken Vietnamese officer said.

So far there has been no active propaganda against this conquest by Vietnamese nationalists.

That is the situation as it appears through the veil of secrecy which prevents correspondents here from getting more than a minimum of information from officials.

Last Sunday, I went to Bien Hoa, about 20 miles northwest of here. On most of the telegraph poles along the route the huge yellow star of the Communist Vietminh is painted. The Vietminh agents were particularly careful to paint the star in front of Franco-Vietnamese posts.

In Bien Hoa itself, Foreign Legionnaires and Moroccan soldiers were dancing with the native girls. Jazz strains filled the air.

All at once, three trucks went by. Khaki-clad Vietnamese raised clenched fists and shouted at the top of their lungs: "Long live Ho Chi Minh!"

This was not an isolated incident. In some of the main towns of the south the local Vietminh committee, scorning secrecy, has had the inhabitants break out the Communist colors. And in a number of towns the Vietnamese administrative delegates have received Communist orders against leaving their homes or raising the national flag "which constitutes a provocation."

The Vietnamese military posts which still are faithful are afraid to raise their own flag because of possible "incidents." Military jeeps are halted by groups of unarmed civilians who check their papers and threaten the Vietnamese officers.

French passengers, because of the current Communist policy, get a big smile.

"You may continue, comrades," the Vietminh say.

Refugees from the Communist-held north, billeted without work on Saigon and its suburbs, live under frightful conditions. Visitors wonder whether plague, cholera or the Vietminh will get them first.

In the camp of Binh Dong, near Cholon, several thousand Catholic soldiers and their families were left for six days without money or food although they had lost everything in their flight from communism.

At the end of the first week, each one was given a daily ration of about a pound of rice, an egg and a little sugar. The only water was stagnant.

For the thousands of men, women and children, kept in by barbed wires, there were only two water fountains. The toilets were unspeakably filthy, and flies blackened the bodies of the naked children.

Three-quarters of the refugees slept without shelter on the marshy ground. The only dry area is taken up by a half dozen offices where indifferent secretaries are installed.

"We wash when it rains," a Thai Binh soldier told me. "Many of us are sick, and all of us are low in spirits. After having abandoned everything, we are very unhappy to see the scorn which our Fatherland holds for its citizens."

BARGAIN HUNTERS GET ANOTHER DAY

After a record-breaking sales event, Friday and Saturday, when Lakewood Center merchants staged their annual August Dollar Days, many persons were unable to complete their purchases before closing time Saturday night. The crowds in all stores were remindful of the Christmas rush. Peter C. Nitrini, president of the Lakewood Center Merchants Association said it was decided to carry the special event again Monday, especially for those who, because of Saturday's crowds, were unable to visit all the stores. Scenes such as this photo taken in Butler Bros. prevailed at the bargain counters both days.—(Staff photo.)

2 Fishermen Injure Arms Aboard Boats

Two fishermen suffered serious arm injuries in separate incidents aboard their boats Saturday afternoon, Long Beach Coast Guard headquarters reported.

Yoshiakazu Tsuchiyama, 54, of San Pedro, working aboard the fishing boat Redeemer 60 miles southwest of San Nicholas Island, caught his left arm in a winch cable, causing multiple fractures before the winch could be stopped.

He was to be picked up Saturday night by a Coast Guard patrol boat and brought here for medical treatment.

Eugene Gomez, 25, of Los Angeles, fisherman aboard the Cathy, suffered severe arm lacerations while working aboard the vessel just outside the Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor breakwater.

He was brought to shore by a Coast Guard boat and taken to Seaside Hospital.

Greta as Camille Wows Soviet Fans

MOSCOW (AP)—An old Hollywood classic, "Camille," is wowing them in the Soviet capital. Greta Garbo stars in the movie, made in 1937.

The Russians captured the film from the Germans in World War II. Muscovites are rushing to see it—just as they hurry to see any western-made film that turns up here.

Police Hunt Skunk, Reported 'Unarmed'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Susan Hasmer missed her deodorized pet skunk, so she turned to police for help.

The police radio today carried a missing skunk report to all officers to be on the lookout for the pet. The broadcast carried the description and the dispatcher added: "The skunk is unarmed."

Boys, Leader Missing 24 Hours, Found

BIG BEAR (U.P.)—Nine young boys and their counselor were found Saturday after being missing for more than 24 hours, part of the time in freezing temperatures.

The seven-year-olds, all from the San Gabriel Valley, and the counselor, Richard Limb, 27, of Pasadena, apparently were unharmed from spending the night in the cold, rugged mountain area.

The summer camp group first was spotted by Manning Wiley, a reserve deputy who flew low over the area. Shortly afterward, Deputy Sheriff Floyd Tidwell saw them walking on Cienega Ronda Rd., four miles northwest of their camp.

Limb said canyons and ridges protected them from exposure and that winds Friday night were slight. "We were not uncomfortable," he said, explaining that they slept in a protected meadow.

The nine boys were identified at Ben Barrett, Tommy Grant, Bobby Day, Terry Kiser, Kim Mosher, Steven Howe, Mike Leahy, Mark Hiemann—son of John Hiemann, director of Wakonda Lodge, which was using the camp—and Bob McKeever, son of Danny McKeever, a Wakonda staff member.

Pharmacist Sad at Loss by Fire--- Store, Dog, Purse

NEW YORK (AP)—Bernard Anapol carried a dog from his burning pharmacy Saturday and tried to revive the pet on the sidewalk.

A passerby paused momentarily to exclaim sympathetically.

The dog proved dead of suffocation.

Minutes later Anapol found that his wallet and $400 was missing from his pocket. He blamed the "sympathetic" stranger.

Police Say Man Stole Saw Twice

STAUNTON, Va. (AP)—Richard R. Burnett, 19, of Waynesboro, has been charged by police with stealing the same saw two times.

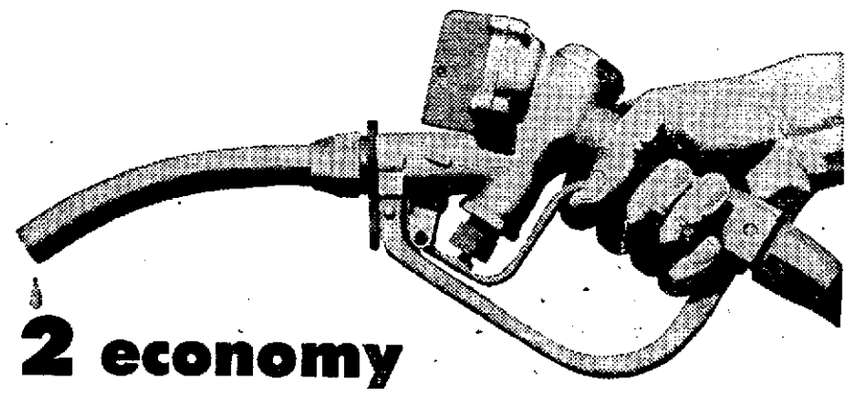

Police said Burnett broke into a Staunton implement company last January and made off with two valuable chain saws, though at the time authorities thought he had stolen only one. He was arrested, charged with the theft of a saw, confessed and was released on bond. Then he traded the other saw to H. C. Coffey of Waynesboro for a used car but got worried police might recover it. So he broke into Coffey's house two nights ago and stole it again.

Be sure you get the best of these big 4

1 price

Take a look at what you pay and what you get. You'll see that Chevrolet has more for you and asks less from you. It's priced below all other lines of cars. That's possible because Chevrolet builds more cars than anyone else—and can build them better to sell for less!

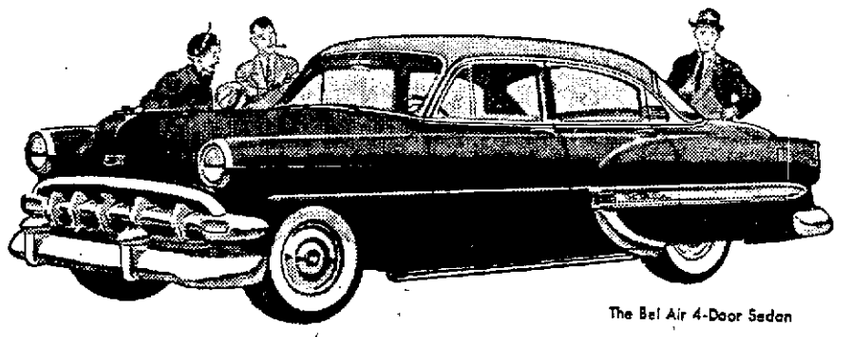

2 economy

What's it going to cost you to keep that new car in gasoline? In oil? What about service and repairs? Check into it and you'll find that Chevrolet has the greatest name of all for keeping upkeep costs down over the miles and over the years!

3 performance

Do you want livelier, smoother performance on less gas? Then be sure you get modern high-compression power. That's just what Chevrolet gives you—the highest-compression power of any leading low-priced car. And that's why—if you try it you'll tell us—Chevrolet outperforms its field! Come in for a demonstration ride—now!

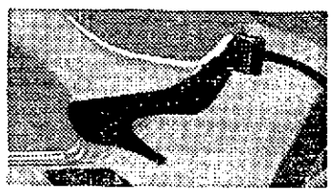

The Bel Air 4-Door Sedan

4 appearance

You, of course, are the only one who can decide which car looks the best to you. But you might consider this: Chevrolet's the only one in the low-price field with the smooth lines and graceful beauty of Body by Fisher. It's the look America likes best!

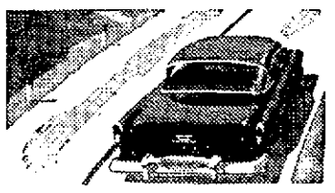

CHEVROLET

Other low-priced cars don't offer these advantages. Chevrolet does!

Biggest Brakes

Smoother, safer stops with less pedal pressure! That's what Chevrolet gives you with the largest brakes in the low-price field.

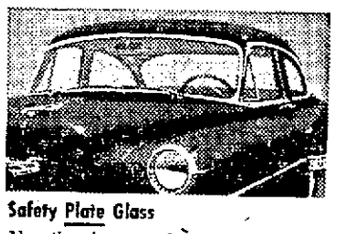

Highest-Compression Power

You get finer performance—and important gasoline savings, too—with the highest-compression power of any leading low-priced car!

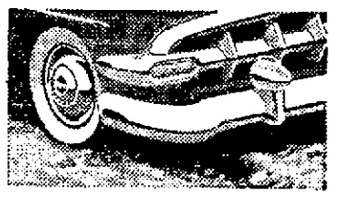

Fisher Body Quality

You get smarter, smoother styling—greater comfort, safety and quality—with this only low-priced car with world-famous Body by Fisher.

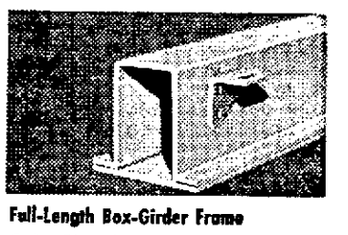

Safety Plate Glass

No other low-priced car gives you the finer visibility of safety plate glass in windshield and all windows of sedans and coupes!

Famed Knee-Action Ride

Chevrolet gives you the only Unitized Knee-Action on any low-priced car—one important reason for Chevrolet's finer big-car ride!

Full-Length Box-Girder Frame

Only Chevrolet in the low-price field provides the underlying strength and extra protection of a full-length box-girder frame!

Twinks Squeeze by Seals

GILMORE FIELD—Jack Phillips' two-out single in the 10th inning scoring Dick Smith from second gave Hollywood a narrow 4-3 victory over San Francisco Saturday before 2,624 fans.

The win kept the Stars in a first place tie with the San Diego Padres, who defeated Seattle, also by a score of 4-3.

Chuck Stevens sent the game into extra innings with a dramatic three-run homer in the ninth inning with two men out. Until that point, Lino Donoso had shut out the Seals. He weakened in the ninth and allowed a double to Bob Di Pietro and walked Leo Righetti. With a two ball count on Nini Tornay, Donoso was lifted by Manager Bobby Bragan for Jim Walsh.

SEALS COUNTER

The Seals countered by sending Stevens to bat for Tornay, and he worked the count to three and one before belting the ball over the fence.

Then in the tenth, after Mel Queen had set the Seals down in their half of the inning, Dick Smith beat out a perfect bunt for his fourth hit of the day. Bobby Del Greco sacrificed him to second, and after a walk and a pop fly, Phillips singled sharply to left to end the game.

The win went to Queen and left him with a record of 15 and 6. Tony Ponce absorbed his 13th loss against a like number of wins.

Del Greco hit his first homer of the year for the Stars in the first inning with no one on base. Hollywood picked up two more in the fifth, when Dick Smith singled with the bases loaded.

FIELDING GEMS

Fine defensive work in the outfield ruined several Seal scoring chances. In the third, Lee Walls made a leaping catch against the wall of Teddy Beard's long fly with two men on. A throw to second doubled off Ken Holcombe, but the Seals claimed he had properly tagged up before moving to third.

THRILLS, CHILLS AND SPILLS

Spectacular action such as this will highlight today's Hope Regatta at Marine Stadium when the racing outboards roar into action to raise funds for the City of Hope. The flip pictured above occurred at San Diego recently when Bill Cone of Porterville was tossed into Mission Bay when he failed to negotiate a turn. Neither he nor his passenger, who was hidden by the spray, was injured.—(Associated Press Wirephoto.)

Topnotch Drivers, Boats Vie

By BOB RUSKAUFF

For sweet charity's sake, also for trophies and important points on the national honors trail, more than 90 outboard hydroplanes and runabouts will carom over waters of Marine Stadium this afternoon.

At 12:30 p. m. the starting cannon will roar on the first of 18 race heats over "sprint" distances in the Hope regatta.

The event, semi-windup in the major regatta program of the famed Long Beach boat course this year, is sponsored by Junior Sportsmen of the City of Hope.

It will be conducted by the Los Angeles Speedboat Association, veteran Southland boat racing group.

Not the least of many features to entice several thousand through the gates will be appearance of lovely Roberta Linn the TV songbird-mc, who has been chosen as queen of the regatta.

Roy "Happy-Go-Lucky" Nelson and his three grandchildren will be featured in an intermission clown performance.

CHARITABLE WORK

All net regatta proceeds today will go to the great charitable work conducted by the City of Hope, via its hundreds of volunteer chapters throughout America.

Jack Gouldstone, regatta chairman, said that far more streamlined outboard action is ensured by running all the nine classes in three-lap, rather than the customary five-lap heats.

Pilots, hailing from all of the 11 Western states, will include many top outboarders of the nation, and more than a fair sprinkling of distaff talent.

Among the gals to race are the veteran Booth Morphy of Hollywood, 15-year-old Ann Hawley of Costa Mesa, June Leight of Riverside, Marie Dobbs, Van Nuys, and Betty Barton of Alhambra.

Top men pilots include such stars as Tommy Ingalls, Los Angeles' 1953 national high point champ; record-holding runabout pilot Bud Wiget of Concord; Orlando Torigiani of Bakersfield and Elmo Belluomini of Buttonwillow.

ADDED FEATURES

Interesting intermission action is slated, including exhibitions by the Navy's famed frog-men, water-ski stunts and appearance of the Navy's model aircraft carrier, USS North Island.

Several thousand spectators are expected to pour through the stadium's four main gates as early as 10 a. m.

In fact, today's spray-tossing classic, plus the inboard sweepstakes regatta on Labor Day, should see the greatest hand-running aggregation of both talent and spectators that has ever gathered within one fortnight at the Long Beach course.

A nominal .50 cent adult admission will be charged today, with bleachers included for $1.25 and special grandstand seats at $1.50. Parking will be free. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

The big aquatic carnival will officially climax the City of Hope week which has been observed in Long Beach.

Braves Erupt for 4 in 8th to Hand Giants 5-2 Defeat

MILWAUKEE (U.P.)—Del Crandall, after missing a homerun earlier on an inches-foul fly ball, broke up a 1-1 score in the eighth inning with a run-scoring single Saturday to lead the Milwaukee Braves to a 5-2 victory over the New York Giants.

Crandall's hit opened the gates for Milwaukee which scored three more runs in the inning to cut New York's league lead to 2½ games over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bobby Thomson started the four-run rally with a single and one out. Joe Adcock grounded out and Andy Pafko was walked intentionally to set up Crandall's single. Johnny Logan singled Pafko home and New York starter Ruben Gomez who had given up only five hits before the inning, was removed.

Reliefer Marv Grissom gave Jack Dittmer an intentional walk, and Braves starting pitcher Warren Spahn lined a two-run single into right field.

Spahn also had a five-hitter going until the top of the ninth, when he gave up a double to Bobby Hofman and a single to Monte Irvin. Hank Thompson hit a sacrifice fly to left field to score Hofman.

It was Spahn's 16th victory with 10 defeats and gave Gomez a 12-9 record.

Milwaukee took a one-run lead in the third inning when Bill Bruton was safe on an error with two outs. He came home on successive singles by Danny O'Connell and Thomson.

The Giants tied it up in the fifth on Thompson's 21st homerun of the year some 350 feet over the right field fence.

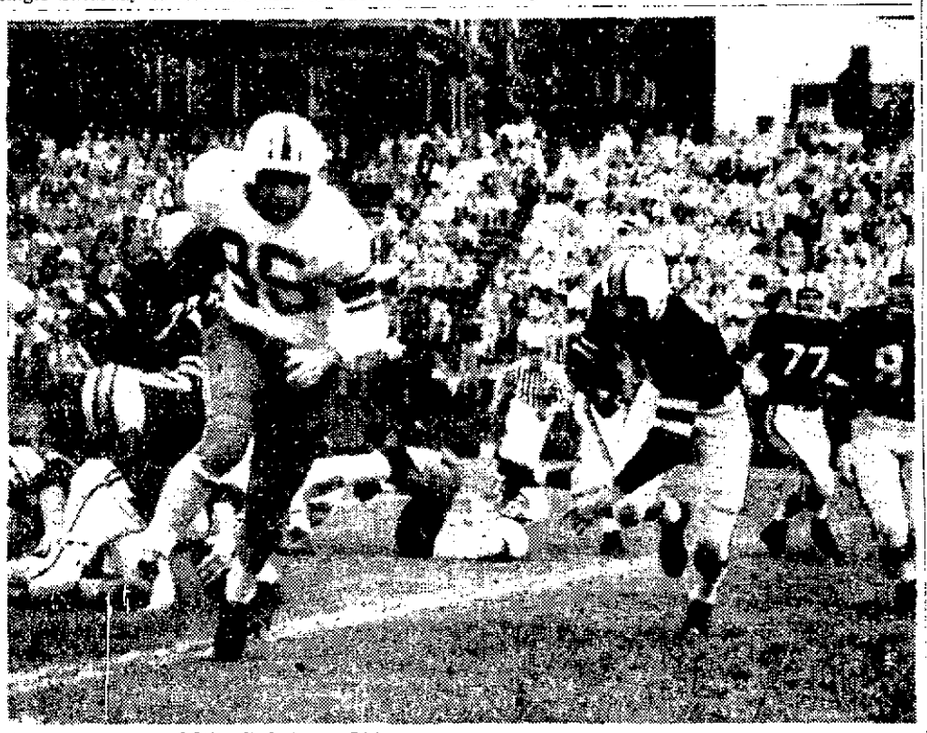

It was a nice 56th birthday present for Braves Manager Charlie Grimm, serenaded before game time by the 41,654 fans, which closed the Braves to within 30,654 of a new National League attendance record.

Toronto Wins First TV Clash

TORONTO (U.P.)—Teddy Toogood's 39-yard dash up the middle and a 35-yard touchdown pass enabled the Toronto Argonauts to beat the Ottawa Roughriders, 13-6, Saturday in the first Big Four Inter-Provincial Football Union game ever televised to the United States.

A crowd of 16,702 saw the league opener at Varsity Stadium in addition to an estimated audience of 20,000,000 American football fans who obtained their first glimpse of the Canadian gridiron sport via television.

Toogood, at 168 pounds probably the smallest fullback in professional football, scored the Argonauts opening touchdown late in the first quarter on a deceptive 39-yard dash through the center of the line, and Al Pfeifer, hero of the Argo's 1952 championship team, snared a 35-yard pass from Knobby Wirowski midway through the third to go over.

Ottawa's touchdown early in the second quarter covered 70 yards on a freak pass play. Quarterback John Gramling, former South Carolina star pitched a 30 yard aerial intended for Bob Simpson. It was short, but Johnny Fedosoff, trying to intercept, bounced the ball into the hands of the husky Ottawa wingback, and he raced 40 yards more for a touchdown.

16TH FOR GARCIA

Tribe Trips Nats, 5-2

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The Cleveland Indians rallied with three runs in the eighth inning and added another in the ninth to defeat the Washington Senators, 5-2, Saturday and stay 3½ games ahead of the New York Yanks who also won.

Mike Garcia pitched his 16th victory of the year—although he was behind, 2-1, when Al Rosen went in to bat for him in the eighth and walked. Rosen touched off a rally which netted three runs and put Cleveland ahead, 4-2. Don Mossi finished up for the Tribe.

Chuck Stobbs was doing nicely until the eighth when he beat himself with three walks. There also was an error in the inning which didn't figure in the eventual scoring.

Cleveland made 14 hits to eight for the Senators. The Indians, who made their last appearance of the year here, have beaten Washington in 17 out of 21 games. The Senators lost four out of 11 at home and have dropped 10 in a row in Cleveland where they still have one more game to play.

A double by Bob Avila and Larry Doby's single gave the Indians their first run in the opening inning. Washington tied it in the sixth when Mickey Vernon tripled and Jim Busby singled.

Rosen opened the eighth with the walk. Al Smith sacrificed and was safe at first when Vernon dropped Stobbs' throw. Rosen took third on the error. Avila's fly scored Rosen. Smith tried to take second but was trapped. Doby and Wally Westlake followed with walks. Vic Wertz singled home Doby and Hank Majeski singled in Westlake.

The Indians added their final run in the ninth on singles by Jim Hegan, Rosen and Avila.

Russians Scuttled in Record Efforts

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A 36 and for the years the dominant discus thrower in Europe, got off a 175 foot, 3.98 inch heave to give Italy its first championship.

Great Britain surprisingly provided the winner in the women's high jump when Thelma Hopkins cleared 5 feet, ¾ inch. The overwhelming favorite was Russia's tall Alexandra Chudina, the "Babe Zaharias of Europe." Chudina took a weak sixth place.

Russia's only first place went to compact little Marija Golubchaja in the women's 80 meters hurdles.

Hungary finished off making the day a big success with Sandor Roszanoi's 3,000 meters steeplechase victory in 8:49.6 and Oedon Foldessy's 24 feet, 7.67 inches in the broad jump.

Sling young Hungarian, running the world's greatest 800 meter men into the ground and a veteran Italian nearing the end of a great discus career, took the play from Russia Saturday in the European Games.

Lajos Szentgali, a 22-year-old university student from Budapest, won the 800 meters, feature race of the next-to-last day in the Games. His time was a spectacular 1:47.1.

He failed to break the world mark of 1:46.6, but the race as a whole certainly must have been the fastest ever run. The first four men all would have bettered the world 880 yard record, if they had run the additional 2 feet 8 inches. And, the first four to finish all bettered the world's second best previous 800 meters time.

Soon after young Szentgali put on the best performance of these outstanding championships, Adolfo Consolini stepped into the discus ring. Consolini, now

Holscher Ties Mark

TORONTO (U.P.) — Bud Holscher, 23-year-old stringbean from Santa Monica, Calif., equaled the Scarboro course record of 63 Saturday to win the $26,500 Labatt Open with a 72-hole, 15-under-par total of 269.

Holscher, playing his first year on golf's gold trail, ripped eight strokes off par with eight birdies during his final round to take the $5,000 first prize in his initial major tournament victory.

Holscher finished four strokes ahead of Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Doug Ford. He blistered the front nine in a six-under-par 30, but he missed an eight-foot putt on the 18th green which would have broken the course mark.

Dave Douglas, Tommy Bolt, and Wally Ulrich tied for third place at 274.

Nitehawks Roll Over Dayton, 8-0

Once Over Lightly
by DAVE LEWIS

A year ago, the Los Angeles Rams convinced most observers that they were the team to beat for the NFL championship with a series of impressive exhibition victories.

The "experts" really jumped on the L. A. bandwagon when the Rams shellacked the Cleveland Browns, 27-9, in a late-August exhibition.

There was one major dissenting vote, though . . . that of Paul Brown.

Sure enough, after showing the way in the Western Division through the first half of the title race, the Rams folded in the stretch and finished third to the Detroit Lions and San Francisco 49ers.

The Lions then edged Cleveland in the playoff for the NFL crown.

Main reasons given for the collapse of the Rams were (1) a sieve-like pass defense due to the weakness of the "deep men," and (2) deficiency in the linebacking, particularly on the left side.

But as these and other reasons were advanced for the deterioration of the Rams, one of the most important reasons was virtually overlooked.

The Rams simply were a tired ball club.

As early as last August we pointed out that the Ram veterans were concerned over Hamp Pool's conditioning program that had them running around like rookies instead of slowly rounding into shape and conserving their energy until the championship race started.

THEY WERE FEARFUL that Hamp's desire to "win 'em all" would result in the team reaching peak condition too early and that they likely would be a "dead" ball club during the second half of the season.

This was born out. The Rams reached mid-season form in August while the other teams started slowly and saved themselves for the cruicial weeks of November and December when the real firing commences.

Following the Rams' 27-9 conquest of Cleveland last summer, Paul observed that the Rams were too far along at that stage of the season.

And again Friday night the great Cleveland mentor shook his head in the dressing room at the Coliseum following the Rams' 38-10 win over his club and said. . . "They're coming along too fast again this year. But it's not for me to say whether it's good or bad. Frankly, however, I would not do it."

Pool, meanwhile, defended his strategy by declaring he wasn't a bit worried about the Rams "slipping off" this year.

"We have the kind of boys who want to win games," he said.

Brown's reply to this was . . . "so do we."

Keeping the Rams "fresh" through the stretch drive appears to be the only problem at the present time.

In four games thus far, the Rams have exhibited their finest balance in years.

Their "problems" last year—linebacking and deep pass defense—appear to be solved.

IN FACT, three interceptions—one by linebacker Don Paul and the others by "deep men" Don Doll and Bill Sherman—set the stage for three Ram TD's that broke the backs of the Browns.

In fact, Pool credited Sherman's interception and 72-yard return to the Cleveland four-yard line to set the stage for the Rams' third touchdown at the outset of the third period as being the turning point of the game. "The Browns were coming back until then," he said.

Furthermore, Billy Wade proved Friday night that he definitely will be able to take care of himself, thus giving the Rams the best 1-2 quarterbacking punch in the league. There were some doubts that he would be too effective in his first year, but his play against the Browns was terrific.

Overlooked in most appraisals of the Rams this season is the tremendous improvement in the middle of the offensive line which has made the bull-like rushes of Deacon Dan Towler and Tank Younger even more effective.

This is due mainly to the presence of Les Richter, whose deadly blocking has been a key factor thus far in boosting hopes that the Ram running game will be the finest the NFL has seen since the days when the murderous Chicago Bears ruled the roost.

Duane Putnam, Leon McLaughlin, Harry Thompson and Bud McFadin seem to have been spurred on by Richter's play and are blocking more sharply.

While questioning Pool's conditioning program, Paul Brown nevertheless conceded that the Rams have magnificent personnel which is both "awful big" and which has terrific speed.

"THEY'LL GO A LONG way, that's for sure," Paul said. "They outplayed us all the way, but we had that lacing coming. We didn't want it quite that bad, of course, but we have a long way to go yet and weren't ready for them."

Pool said that the Browns looked very good to him. "They were running and blocking harder than they did in last year's game up to the second half when our pass interceptions took the wind out of them.

"They should win the Eastern Division again without a question. Paul may even have a finer team this year than he had a year ago."

The veteran Brown players were impressed with the Ram personnel and felt that the club has an excellent chance of

Gavilan Defends Title for 8th Time Against Saxton

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.) — Cuba's Kid Gavilan, who loves the role of champion, risks his welterweight crown for the eighth time next Wednesday night in a 15-round bout against Johnny Saxton, a mauling, clinging type of fighter from Flushing, N. Y.

The hawk from the cane fields of Cameguay is favored to turn back the challenge of his 24-year-old opponent in a canopied ring at Connie Mack Stadium. The bout will be telecast nationally.

Angel Lopez, Gavilan's comanager, and Trainer Mundito Melina appear unworried by the reports from Saxton's Pleasantville, N. J., training camp that he is in rare form.

"What Saxton knows, Gavilan forgot," Lopez said scornfully.

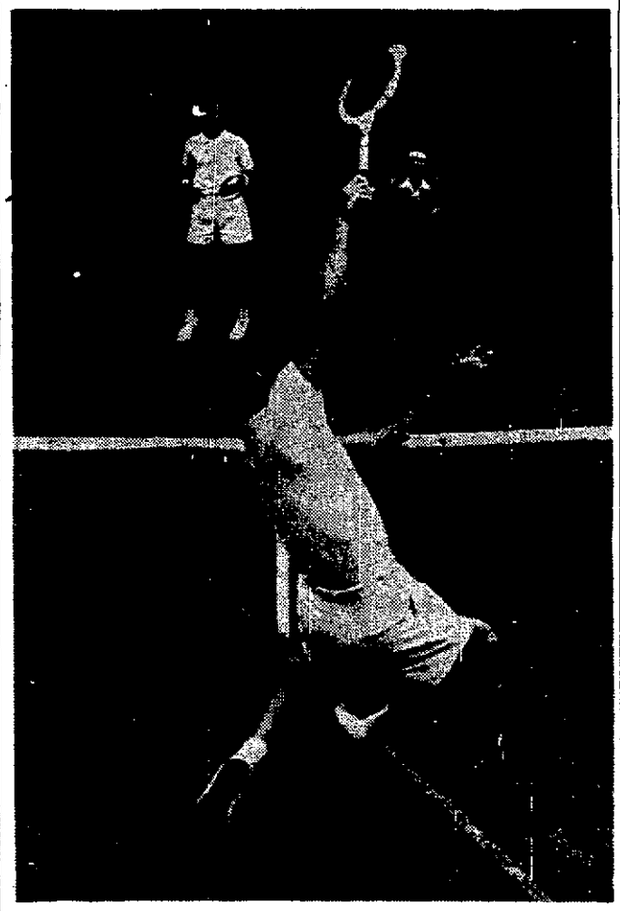

"Gavilan is like the bullfighter," Medina said. "And doesn't the bullfighter always get the bull?"

So confident is Gavilan and his handlers that they seem to be looking past the Saxton match to a possible return go with the middleweight Carl (Bobo) Olson. Medina, who writes popular songs, and Lopez, who runs a New York nightclub, claim Gavilan would be 160-pound boss today if Gavilan hadn't fought with an injured right hand.

Gavilan promises that his hand will be in shape and much in use against Saxton, a successful welterweight still hungering for big purses.

Neither the 29-year-old champion nor Saxton is expected to have any trouble making the necessary 147 pounds.

Gavilan and Saxton will boff each other with six-ounce gloves instead of the customary eight-ounce mittens. Chairman Frank Wiener of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission announced also that the compulsory eight-count will be shelved, along with the three-knockdown rule. The referee will not stop the fight should one of the boxers be decked thrice in one round.

Open Title Defense in Top Style

The Long Beach Nitehawks, defending their world softball crown, crushed their first opponent in the 1954 renewal of the tournament as Ted Carlsgaard set down Dayton, O., with one scratch hit in easing to an 8-0 victory at Selma, Calif., Saturday night.

The shutout marked the sixth straight for the Nitehawks in tournament competition including five in a row while winning the title last year.

Only four men reached base off Carlsgaard as he whiffed 16 batters in the seven inning game and walked three. The only hit registered by Dayton was a scratch infield safety in the fifth inning.

Long Beach wrapped the game up in the third inning by scoring three runs on but two hits. Carlsgaard opened the frame with a double and then stole third. He came home on Clint Herron's single. Herron stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on Cleo Goyette's fielder's choice.

Another passed ball and two fielder's choices scored Goyette.

The Nitehawks began pounding the ball in ernest in the fourth inning as three more tallies crossed the plate on three hits and a walk.

A single and a double accounted for a single Nitehawk run in the fifth and they completed the scoring with another marker in the sixth on two more base knocks.

Long Beach collected 11 hits off two Dayton hurlers and Herron and Goyette batted in a pair of run each to lead in the hitting department.

In another feature Jack Zimmerman of Selma set down 16 batters via strikeouts and gave up only two hits as the host team drubbed Arlington, Tex., 7-0.

The Nitehawks' next game will be Tuesday night against the winner of the Rhode Island-Colorado contest to be played tonight.

Furillo Sparks Bums

Continues Bat Spree to Help Tip Cards, 7-3

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—Carl Furillo batted in three runs with a homerun and a single Saturday to lead the pennant-hungry Brooklyn Dodgers to their fourth straight victory, a 7-3 win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Furillo thus carried on the clutch-hitting habit that has characterized his recent play. He now has driven in 32 runs in the Dodgers' last 21 gaes.

Johnny Podres, who pitched his first victory since June 13, had to have help from Jim Hughes when he hit a wild streak in the eighth inning. Hughes, making his 49th appearance of the year, preserved the triumph to give Podres a season record of 8-6.

The Dodgers scored a single run in the first off starting pitcher Vic Raschi on a walk, Ray Jablonski's error and Gil Hodges' single. Furillo put Brooklyn ahead, 2-1, with his 15th homer in the fourth and the Dodgers counted two more in the sixth on a walk, Hodges' single, an intentional pass and Furillo's single.

Shackles Tigers in 4-2 Win

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Yogi Berra's sixth inning single broke a 2-all tie and relief pitcher Allie Reynolds throttled the Detroit Tigers thereafter to give the New York Yankees a 4-2 victory Saturday for their fifth conquest in a row.

By beating the Tigers, the Yanks remained 3½ games behind the league-leading Cleveland Indians, who also won their game from Washington, 5-2.

Reynolds, making his 12th relief appearance of the season, took over for winning pitcher Harry Byrd at the start of the seventh inning and faced only nine batters. Harvey Kuenn singled to open the eighth but was erased when Fred Hatfield hit into a double play.

With the score tied at 2-all, Hank Bauer singled to open the sixth, and adaanced on Irv Noren's sacrifice. Berra's two-out single then skipped past first baseman Wayne Belardi to register Bauer with the deciding run. The Yankees added an insurance run in the seventh inning off Al Aber, who went the distance for Detroit, when Andy Carey tripled to deep left and rode home on Willie Miranda's second sacrifice fly of the game.

Byrd yielded six of the Tigers' seven hits and both of their runs in the six frames he worked.

Eagles Clip Bears in 24-21 Upset

LITTLE ROCK (U.P.)—The precision passing of Bobby Thomason and the running of rookie Neil Worden shoved the Philadelphia Eagles into a 24-21 upset victory over the power-packed Chicago Bears Saturday night.

The Eagles exploded for a touchdown and a field goal in the fourth period to bring them their first exhibition victory of the season in a game played before 20,000 fans.

Halfback Roy Barmi furnished the biggest thrill of the night when he recovered a Bear fumble late in the final period and sprinted 67 yards for a touchdown to tie the score.

Worden, who played for Notre Dame last season, scored once and picked up 59 yards in eight carries to become one of the principle offensive threats in the game.

Thomason completed nine passes for 100 yards and engineered several Eagle scoring drives.

George Blanda did an even better job for the Bears however, completing 22 passes for 316 yards. One of his best receivers was rookie Harlan Hill, formerly of Alabama Teacher's College. Score by quarters:

Beaned Michaels Out for Season

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.)—Cass Michaels, Chicago White Sox infielder, was reported "definitely out for the season, but in no danger" Saturday as a result of being struck by a pitched ball which fractured his skull Friday night.

C & D Minor Loops May Be Replaced

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sporting news reported Saturday that organized baseball is thinking about substituting some industrial leagues for Class C and D minor leagues.

J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the weekly sports newspaper, said in the article that because the lower class leagues have been hard-hit financially by dwindling attendance they are unable to compete with the industrial leagues in salaries to players.

He quoted an unidentified Major League official as saying:

"How can a league which pays its player, at the most, $250 a month, mostly less than that, compete with an industrial league which offers $500 and $600 a month for factory work, plus three or four games a week?

"In short, the Class C and D leagues have got to succumb and, if they do, the effect will not be as terrible as C and D people make it out to be."

Spink quoted Commissioner Ford Frick as saying his office had received "many suggestions for changes in the baseball structure," but that Frick had declined to discuss the suggestions.

The article said that under a proposed plan the industrial teams would be paid for any players taken into the higher minor leagues.

Another part of the plan, the newspaper said, would be an agreement with the National Collegiate Athletic Association which would protect college baseball players from recruiting until graduation.

Split Nod to Herman

HOLLYWOOD (U.P.)—Freddy (Babe) Herman, 140, Los Angeles, Saturday night took a split decision from Graham Holmes, 138½, Hartford, Conn., in a scheduled 10-round main event at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Judge Jimmy Wilson called the slow go a draw, 55-55, but referee Abe Roth gave it to Herman, 58-52, and judge Frankie Van agreed, 59-51.

Holmes' West Coast debut turned out to be a slow bout with each fighter landing some fair rights. But there were no knockdowns, and neither fighter appeared to be marked nor even in trouble.

Richards' Homers Win

OAKLAND (AP)—Fred Richards slammed two homeruns Saturday to pace Los Angeles to a 5-2 victory over Oakland. Gene Mauch also homered for the Angels in the Pacific Coast League series opener.

Richards hit his 22nd homer of the year off the railing in front of the rightfield stands in the fifth inning with the bases empty.

Mauch slapped a left field homer in the sixth with none on.

Green Bay Routs Pitt

PITTSBURGH (U.P.)—The Green Bay Packers combined midseason form with loose Pittsburgh play Saturday night to trounce the Steelers 36-14 in a National Football League exhibition game before 14,012 fans.

The Packers converted two Pittsburgh fumbles into field goals in the first and second periods, a blocked kick into a touchdown in the first, and an intercepted pass into another TD in the fourth.

Green Bay opened the scoring with a field goal from the 36 after the first series of plays, and was never headed throughout the game. Fred Cone added another field goal from the 28, four plays after fullback Fran Rogel fumbled on Pittsburgh's first running play of the contest.

Less than two minutes later Gene Knutson blocked a punt by Pat Brady and Guard Bill Brown picked the ball up on the Steeler 20 and ran for a touchdown.

Pittsburgh's first touchdown came seconds before the close of the first period when Lynn Chadnois chopped over from the one after a 72-yard drive, and Nick Bolkovac converted.

The Steelers' final touchdown came in the third period when Jim Brandt scooted around right end from the two, three plays after Dale Dodrill blocked a punt by Max McGhee on the Green Bay 20. And Kirk Hindlerlider ran the ball to the six. Bolkovac again converted.

Rams Trade Two Players to 'Skins

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams Saturday announced the trading of Don Marks and Blackie Kincaid to the Washington Redskins for future draft choices.

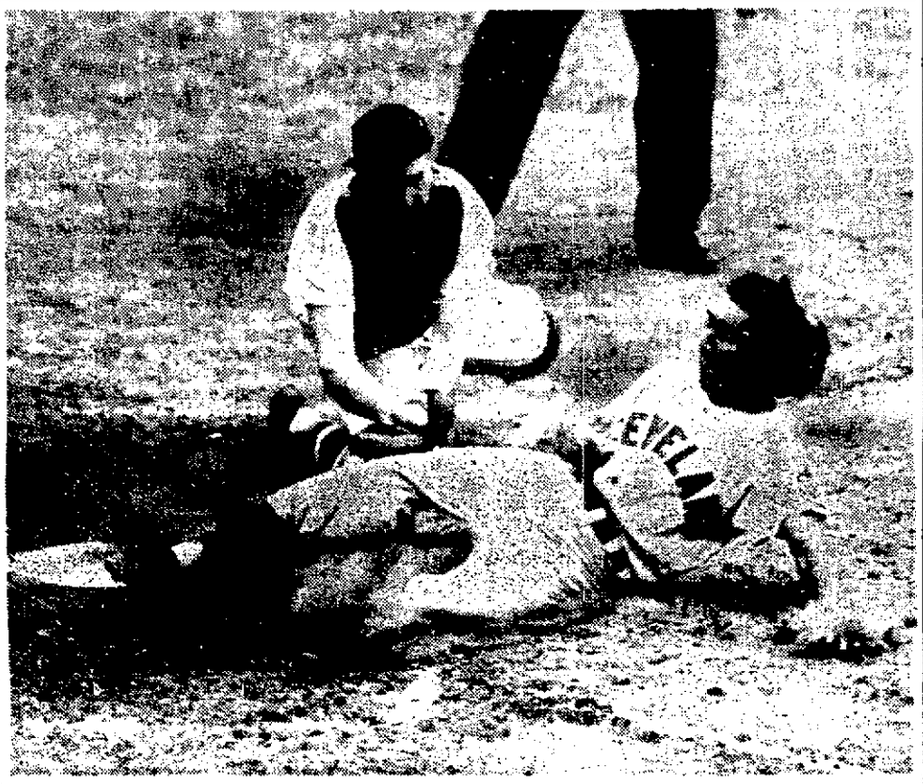

Kincaid, defensive halfback from South Carolina, and Marks, offensive back from California, were kept out of Friday night's Rams-Browns exhibition game as insurance against injury before they join the Washington squad early this week.

LAST ROUND

Young by KO in 10th

SYRACUSE (U.P.) — Middleweight Paddy Young of New York City, trailing on points at the end of nine rounds, knocked out Joe Taylor of Binghamton Saturday night at 1:27 of the 10th round in their nationally televised bout at War Memorial Auditorium.

A crowd of about 2,000 saw Young drop Taylor three times with left hooks in the 10th round after the Binghamton boxer had kept Paddy at bay for the greater part of the fight. Young's left hooks floored Taylor twice for counts of nine and Referee Pete Scalzo halted the bout when Taylor went down for the third time.

IN THIS CORNER

Dutch lunch dep't. . . .

At 28, Frank Samuel Austin of the Portland Beavers appears destined to become the most durable player in the Pacific Coast League.

He is one of three men in the PCL who have played every game this league season. Joining the little Beaver shortstop in this iron man set are Russ Rose, Oakland shortstop, and Nippy Jones, Lakewood Plaza's gift at first base to the Sacramento Solons.

As ball players come, Frankie is no bundle of muscle. He's a 170-pounder, standing only five feet, seven inches . . . a small package of "Mr. Indestructible" or "Mr. Indispensable."

If Frankie can keep going through Sept. 12, he'll have it made, and the same goes for Rose and Jones. Hank Schenz, Sacramento second baseman, belonged in the same set early this week, but missed Wednesday night's game with Los Angeles, thereby ending his unbroken service for 1954.

There is something special about Austin's consistent work that marks him apart from Russ and Nippy. Frankie played all 180 games at short for the Beavers last season, which stamps him as the new iron man of the PCL. If he keeps going the rest of the season, he'll have a record of 348 straight starting appearances.

Last year, five players performed in every game for their respective teams. Besides Austin, they were Earl Rapp and Tom Alston of San Diego and Fred Richards and Bob Talbot of Los Angeles . . . and it was an 180-game schedule. This year it's only 160, yet only three are liable to make it.

Austin's durability is nothing new. In four years he has missed only four Beaver starts—none in 1953, three in '52 and one in '51.

Should Austin continue to the end of the '54 trail for a two-year record of 348 games of continuous service, his efforts nevertheless will fall far short of the PCL record. It's a corker, set by Hugh Luby of Oakland from 1939 to 1943—866 consecutive appearances!

WARNING. One of pro football's better officials, Tom Dowd, sounds this warning to the college grid ranks:

"They're smart in pro ball. They put on a good show. College football better get wise to itself, else one of these days it is going to wind up like college baseball. The pros simply put on too good a show."

Maybe that's why the NCAA has a mad on against the cash and carry ranks.

QUICK START. Best suggestion to Joe Kuharich, new Washington Redskin coach, is this:

"Keep your bags packed."

George Preston Marshall, the bombastic owner of the Redskins, now has had eight coaches since the franchise was moved from Boston to the nation's capital in 1937, among them:

Ray Flaherty, 1937-42; Arthur Bergman, 1943; Bud De-Groot, 1944-47; Glenn Edwards, 1948; John Whelchel, 1949; Herman Ball, 1949-51; Dick Todd, 1951; Curly Lambeau, 1952-53.

CAUSE. Jack Kramer, the old tennis pro, views Tony Trabert's various troubles this way:

"You've got to be selfish. You've only got one tennis career and once you get started on it you have only four or five years to get to the top and make the most of it. It may sound hard, but if you let yourself be pushed around people will take unfair advantage of you, whether intentionally or not.

"If Tony has had more than his share of troubles the past year it's because he has been guilty of being too nice a guy.

PORT PARADISE. Winningest pitchers in the Pacific Coast League this season deal from the left side, for example:

Lino Donoso, Hollywood, 16-5; Tommy Byrne, Seattle, 19-8; Don Ferrarese, Oakland, 16-13; Bill Wight, San Diego, 13-3, and Roger Bowman, Hollywood, 18-12.

MAIL BAG: "Certainly agree with you on Sports Illustrated 100 per cent. What a letdown it was.

"Wasn't that Lions-All-Star game a gruesome affair?

"As usual, players receiving all the pre-game publicity fell flat on their faces, or did next to nothing. I refer to Lattner, Garrett, Cameron, Worden, and so forth.

"Like last year, the unknowns stole the glory, what there was for the collegians. Veryl Switzer and Carleton Massey, for instance. Last year it was Gil Dawson and our own Jim Sears.

"While Sears did not receive any (and I mean that) publicity at all, the coaches were on the ball, at least. They put him in the starting lineup and his two runs were all that kept the crowd from a deep sleep."
—Mrs. Althea Smith.

Agreed, Mrs. Smith, but Sports Illustrated is improving. Hope we can say the same for all the All-Stars come next August.

GOOD QUESTION. Appraising the pennant situation the other day, Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees viewed with alarm:

"We haven't made many mistakes this year, yet neither has Cleveland. We keep waiting for them to drop a series; they never do.

"Last year we had a losing streak of nine straight, yet won the flag. This year our longest losing streak has been three, but where are we?

"For the first time in history the second place club may win more than 100 games!"

FOR U.S. TITLE

There will be bigger and rougher classes in action Sept. 6, when inboards collide on Marine Stadium in the 9th California-National Sweepstakes regatta, but these sleek 48-cubic inch hydroplanes will be the "belles of the ball." To date 21 have been entered to battle for the 1954 championships. In left of photo is Gillette Smith of El Monte, winner in 1953.—(Bob Ruskauff Photo.)

Entries Climb for Inboard Title Meet

"Thank heavens we provided for elimination heats; otherwise we'd never get that one fleet over one starting line." Thus Race Chairman Tommy Thompson commented on the still-burgeoning entry lists for the 1954 national championships of the 48-cubic inch hydroplane class.

Today the official entry stands at 21 boats in the dynamic fleet. The championship clash will feature the 9th Labor Day California-National inboard sweepstakes slated Sept. 6 on Marine Stadium.

Officials predict that the classic will be the greatest inboard meet in 22 years on the famed Long Beach course. Likewise, it is the first time a national title inboard race has been sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association.

Already the championship array enlists every titlist or record holder in the fleet. "Included in" Saturday was the 1954 winner at Beaumont, Texas—and the come-through guy of the Southern California Speedboat Club, Gillette Smith of El Monte.

Smith, who no longer has his boat Snuffy, signed to pilot Kenneth Harman's Tinker Toy of Temple City. This ant-sized torpedo just two weeks ago smashed the class mile record at Seattle, turning 84.517 m. p. h. Duane Allen drove.

Two other "kings" considered, in order, the most dangerous of all invaders, are F. C. Moor of Miami, Fla., and Jack Colcock Jr. of Seattle.

Moor is 1953 national high point king and will drive the boat Southern Air IV, carrying the coveted number US 1. Colcock, a great competition driver, holds the five-mile record at 65.029 m. p. h. He drives Rackett II.

Victor Klette, Norwalk "Flying Dutchman," will pilot Fred Hubbard's Long Beach boat, Little Jim II, as a top contender. Klette's former boat, Peggy, is ex-record holder. Array of 48-class entries to date:

1. Southern Air IV, US-1, F. C. Moor, Miami, Fla.
2. Tinker Toy, 22, Gillette Smith, El Monte, defending.
3. Wing Ding, 25, Walter Loehnert, Bellflower.
4. Dyno-Mite, 9, Roger Ring, San Diego.

Chisox Clip A's as Marsh Gets 4 Hits

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.) — Southpaw Jack Harshman gained his 13th victory of the season Saturday but needed help from two relievers as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-2, at Connie Mack Stadium.

SAM MELE
Hit Scores Decider

Harshman, who has six setbacks against his record, left the premises after walking Bill Wilson to open his seventh. At the time, the White Sox were leading 3-1, and the lean lefthander had allowed the A's only three hits. Manager Paul Richards lifted Harshman because he felt the twirler was losing his effectiveness in a closely contested game.

Fred Marsh, subbing for Cass Michaels, who suffered a skull fracture when hit by a Marion Fricano pitch Friday night, hit three singles and a triple in four official times at bat. He also scored two of Chicago's runs.

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y. (AP)—Beverly Baker Flietz of Long Beach was eliminated in straight sets by second seeded Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., who, along with Louise Brough of Beverly Hills moved into the final round of the Maidstone Club's invitation tennis tournament Saturday.

Top seeded Miss Brough defeated Shirley Fry, of Akron, Ohio, 6-4, 7-5, in a batele of the baselines while Miss Hart rallied from a 4-2 deficit in both sets to win 6-4, 6-4.

Mele Hits Bring Win

BOSTON (U.P.) — Sam Mele's single in the 11th inning scored Ted Lepcio with the winning run Saturday as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 at Fenway Park.

Mele, a one-time Oriole, was a problem to his former mates since he also hit a first-inning home run to get the Red Sox off to a 1-0 lead.

Valentine Checks Bucs

CINCINNATI (U.P.) — After serving up base hits on the first two pitches of the game, rookie Corky Valentine settled down Saturday and hurled Cincinnati to a 2-1 victory over Pittsburgh for his fourth triumph over the Pirates this season.

New Jaguar Unveiled in Labor Day Race

A sensational new 340-horsepower Jaguar Special driven by Ed Wilder, in competition for the first time, will lead into action a field of 206 of the biggest sports cars ever to race on the Pacific Coast in the mammoth Santa Barbara Road Race Labor Day weekend.

Competition for the exciting—and untested — racer will be amply provided by Ken Miles, back from Bonneville Salt Flats where he established 18 records in an MG Special, Bob Estes of Inglewood in his famous Bugguti 35B and Jim Matthews, driving a modified fuel injection Jag.

SEEK 4TH WIN

High-Powered 49er '11' Battle Chi-Cards Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco's 49ers, picked by some observers as the team to beat for the National Football League title this year, aim for their fourth pre-season victory today in a game with the Chicago Cardinals.

The local club successively toppled the Fort Ord service team, the New York Giants and the Washington Redskins. The victories were costly, however, in that end Gordon Soltau, the league's leading scorer for the last two seasons, and linebacker Jack Manley suffered serious injuries. Soltau will be out until at least mid-season and Manley is lost for the year.

The Cardinals will put on display highly touted rookie quarterback Lamar McHan from Arkansas. His backfield mates will include Charley Trippi and John Olszewski at halves and Bill Sovdoba at fullback.

(Although there will be no television of the game, it will be broadcast locally over KHJ at 1:50 p.m.)

PALMER RECOVERS

Young Arnold Palmer wedges his way out of difficult trap on 7th hole Saturday for a bogey-five. Palmer went on to defeat Bob Sweeny, 1 up, and win the National Amateur championship.—(AP.)

Palmer Rally Wins Amateur Title, 1 Up

DETROIT (AP)—Youth, grit and a late-warming putter carried Arnold Palmer of Cleveland to the 54th National Amateur Golf Championship Saturday with a 1 up comeback victory over tiring Robert Sweeny.

Behind most of the day after watching the stylish Sweeny ring in three successive putts of 20 to 38 feet on the opening holes, Palmer, holding on doggedly, went ahead for the first time on the 32nd hole and clinched the match on the final green where Sweeny conceded to a routine par.

Palmer, 24, won the 32nd with a four after Sweeny missed the green and then sank a vital 10-footer on the 33rd to go two holes ahead.

The 34th, a short 185-yarder, was halved in threes and Palmer's fickle putter failed him on the 35th, where he took three nudges from 50 feet to lose to a par four, but it didn't matter.

On the 36th, the lean and weary Sweeny pushed his tee shot into the rough behind two trees and, desperate at this point, lashed a three-iron shot into the rough to the right of the green.

He hit his third to within seven feet of the pin but Palmer, meanwhile, had boomed one down the middle of the broad fairway and had flown a four-iron shot to the green, 30 feet from home. Palmer putted and the ball glided uphill to within two feet of the cup. Sweeny saw it and picked up. Both were given four's.

Derby Opens Thursday At Stadium

One of the fastest teams in Roller Derby history will take the track when that sport starts its limited engagement at Memorial Stadium Thursday night.

The Braves, coached by the veteran Billy Bogash, have the speediest roster from top to bottom than that of any other club ever assembled.

Besides Bogash, who holds every competitive record from quarter-mile to five-mile distances, the Braves list Hal Janowitz, Marion "Red" Smartt, Bob Lewis, Lewis Gardner and on occasion, when business permits, Charlie "Spec" Saunders.

Speed is also well represented on the girl's unit in the persons of captain Jean Porter, the smooth-skating Indian star, Julie "Ace" Patrick, Dolores Hansen, Joyce Beasley and Beverly Wallace.

Thus the overall speed of the team is without question. Whether or not it will be able to stand up under the almost certain rough pounding the skaters will receive from the opposition starting Thursday evening is a difficult question.

To date, however, it has. The Braves have lost only one series in the past 12 months of competition, and that to the New York Chiefs by a 13-12 count. The Chiefs are the Roller Derby's league champions.

Drobny, Merlo Win in Italian Tourney

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Wilmbledon champion Jaroslav Drobny and Italy's Giuseppe Merl, qualified Saturday for the finals of the Dolomited Tennis Tournament at the expense of two U. S. players.

Drobny defeated Hugh Stewart of Pasadena, Calif., 6-4, 6-1, and Merlo stopped Tony Vincent of Miami, Fla., 6-3, 6-0.

DERBY DOLL SCORES

Ann Calvello (center), talented roller derby veteran, slips by Braves' Joyce Beasley (left) and Julie Patrick to score two points. By placing hands on her hips she stops the action and prevents opposition from also scoring. The girls will be seen at Veterans Memorial Stadium when roller derby returns to Long Beach on Thursday night.

UCLA, Trojans Open Practice

UCLA's defending Pacific Coast Conference champions—who may have two Long Beach products in their starting backfield this fall—and the equally-potent Southern California Trojans, taking on perhaps their toughest schedule in history, open practice for the 1954 football season Tuesday on their respective campuses.

Coaches Henry (Red) Sanders of the Bruins and Jess Hill of the Trojans, who face strikingly contrasting problems, will send their charges through their paces for photographers Tuesday before getting down to serious work Wednesday, official day for opening practice sessions according to NCAA ruling.

The Bruins are blessed with one of the toughest, most-experienced lines in the country, headed by All-American candidates Jack Ellena at tackle and Jim Salsbury at guards.

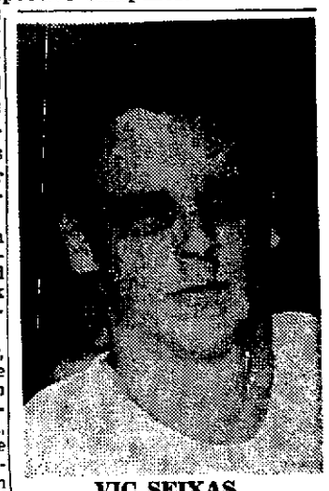

It is the backfield, however, that presents problems to the astute mentor, All-American tailback Paul Cameron's departure leave a big hole to fill, but Sanders has expressed hope that Long Beach's Gerald McDougall can handle it. Ex-Jordan High star Bob Davenport is a fixture at the fullback spot.

Over at Bovard Field, on the other hand, the Trojans are loaded with backfield talent but are weak in the line, a weakness that will undoubtedly be exploited by their four intersectional foes.

Such outstanding veterans as Aramis Dandoy, Lindon Grow and Jim Contratto all are back in Trojan livery, but the dark-horse candidate for the all-important tailback spot may be Jon Arnett, freshman sensation last year.

Lack of depth is the big line problem for Hill, who has Mario DaRe, Ed Fouch, Orlando Ferrante and other seasoned performers back but no adequate replacements for them.

And after a season opener with Washington State the Trojans must face in order formidable foes Pittsburgh, Northwestern and Texas Christian.

VIC SEIXAS
Wins in a Breeze

No Upsets in Nat'l. Net Play

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—Vic Seixas, Hamilton Richardson and Straight Clark led an unbroken string of favorites through the first round of the National Tennis Championships Sat.—but some of them had to work for their victories.

Seixas, seeded second behind Tony Trabert, who whipped him in the final last year, advanced at the expense of army Lt R. Spencer Brent of Dallas, 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

A panting Bernard Bartzen managed to put away John Lesch, a tall blond from Los Angeles, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2. Lesch made the National Clay Courts champion—who never has been particularly effective on turf—do plenty of running.

Richardson dropped one of the junior partner Australians, Douglas Reid, 6-1, 9-7, 6-3. Reid was not disposed to quit, but he doesn't have the strokes—yet—to match Richardson.

However, Neale Fraser, Roy Emerson, and Ashley Cooper, three of the Aussie teen-agers, who probably will succeed Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall if the latter decide to turn professional, won their matches. Fraser, rated sixth in the foreign draw, crushed Barry Mackay of Dayton, O., 6-1, 7-5, 6-3, while Emerson eliminated William Lurie, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3, and Cooper stopped Calhoun Dickson of Tampa, 7-5, 6-0, 6-3.

Cubs Spill Phils, 5-2

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The Chicago Cubs turned three walks, two singles and an error into four runs in the fourth inning Saturday and went on to beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 before a ladies' day crowd of 14,572.

Dave Cole backed up a seven-inning, four-hit pitching performance by knocking in two runs himself, including the winning marker, in the Cubs' big inning.

The Phillies scored both their runs in the eighth when Richie Ashburn walked to lead off and Earl Torgeson followed with a single.

Warren Hacker came on to relieve Cole at that point, and gave up a single to Smoky Burgess to fill the bases. Successive sacrifice flies by Gran Hamner and Johnny Wyrostek scored Ashburn and Torgeson.

Right-hander Cole struck out two and walked four in hanging up his third victory against five defeats. Philadelphia starter Steve Ridzik suffered his fifth loss against three wins.

Popular Matador Back at Tijuana

TIJUANA — Matador Guillermo Carbajal, last year's sensation who bested Carlos Arruza in Mexico City recently, will make his initial appearance of the season here on the bullfight card of next Sunday, Sept. 5.

Antonio Velazquez, star performer here this year, and Jaime Bolanos, a youthful Mexican prospect, complete the bill. Each member of the trio will face two La Punta bulls, now on public display in the arena corrals.

Felker Stars in L.B. Tennis

Charles Felker employed an outstanding variety of shots and finesse to gain a 6-2, 11-9 victory over Charles Hess in a feature match of the 25th annual Long Beach closed tennis tournament at Recreation Park Saturday and gain a berth in today's final round.

Felker's victory shared top honors with a 2½-hour match between Clint Evans and George Tate, won by the former, 8-10, 6-2, 8-6. The day's big upset was recorded by the veteran doubles combo of Hess and Otis Hunter who ousted Tate and Jim Buck, a pair of talented youngsters, 6-3, 6-3.

BANNER SEASON OPEN

700 Await Big Ten Drills

CHICAGO (AP)—Nearly 700 varsity football candidates including 200 lettermen and at least as many sophomores, will charge onto Big Ten practice fields this week to begin intense drills leading to the season openers Sept. 25.

Photographers and newsreel men will get a look at the Big Ten football crop in dress re(hearsals Tuesday. Practices will start in earnest the next day—and the 48th conference season will be on its way.

All indications point to a banner season, both in attendance and caliber of competition.

Early predictions are for a close race with as many as six teams conceded chances. They are Illinois and Michigan State 1953 cochampions; Wisconsin, Iowa, Ohio State and Michigan.

Northwestern, Purdue, Indiana and Minnesota may do some upsetting along the way but appear relegated to the second division.

Of the "Big Six" Illinois, Wisconsin and possibly Iowa are considered prime title favorites.

Iowa and Wisconsin each has seven conference games on its schedule and this could prove advantageous in the final won-lost perecentages.

Illinois meets only six conference foes, including Ohio State, Michigan and Wisconsin—but not Iowa.

Ohio State probably has the toughest league schedule of all, for the Buckeyes must play in succession Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan.

WILKINSON HOLDS TOP COACHING RECORD

NEW YORK (AP)—Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma enters the 1954 football season with the best current major college coaching record following a large turnover highlighted by Frank Leahy's retirement.

Wilkinson, builder of the Sooner grid empire in seven years, takes over the top spot from Leahy who retired from the head coaching job at Notre Dame due to ill health after last season. Leahy's record was 107 victories, 13 defeats and nine ties for a .892 percentage.

Already the youthful, energetic Wilkinson's teams have compiled 63 wins, eight losses and three ties for a comparable .887. The Associated Press survey is based on a minimum of 50 games.

Maryland's Jim Tatum, a fellow split-master whose Terrapins opposed Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1, is a close third behind Sid Gilman of Cincinnati. Earl (Red) Blaik of Army, Bob Blackof Denver, Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech, Bill Murray of

FRANK LEAHY

Duke, Warren Woodson of Arizona, Ivy Williams of Wisconsin and Johnny Vaught of Mississippi round out the top 10.

Among the leading coaches who won't be on hand this fall besides Leahy are Biggie Munn of Michigan State, now athletic director, 71-16-3; George Munger of Penn, 82-42-10, and Abe Stuber of Iowa State, 118-84-11.

Terry Brennan, a pupil of Leahy's at South Bend, inherits the Irish helm after several years at Mt. Carmel High School in Chicago and some assistant experience under his predecessor. Hugh Daughtery moves up from an aide's job to head man at Michigan State.

Other newcomers include Chuck Mather, a genius at Massillon, Ohio, High School, who calculates his players' abilities on IBMs at Kansas. Blanton Collier moves from the Cleveland Brown staff to Kentucky, Frosty Ferzacca shifts from high school to

BIGGIE MUNN

Marquette, Andy Pilney takes over at Tulane.

Steve Sebo, an assistant at Michigan State, took over the head coaching duties at Penn.

Two Californians made the list of major college coaching's top 25, based on a minimum of 50 games, percentages figured without ties.

They are Lynn Waldorf, California, 16th on the list, and Henry (Red) Sanders, UCLA, 22nd.

STARS OF TOMORROW

By BOB SKLAR

Some excellent baseball and an even better cause will be healthily mixed next Friday when the Kid Baseball Association and the Elks 888 Midget League open their championship playoffs in a doubleheader at 6:30 p. m. at Park Avenue Field with all proceeds ticketed for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Members of the 34 teams in the two leagues are selling tickets at 50 cents each for the worthwhile cause pitting the champions of each league's two divisions against each other in the first games of two-of-three playoffs.

The undefeated Proctor's Little Sports take on the Northtown Giants in the 6:30 p. m. clash shooting for the initial edge in the series. Second game will be played Sunday, Sept. 5, at Hughes Jr. High and the third, if necessary, Tuesday, Sept. 7, also at Hughes.

Opponents for the Kid Baseball Association title games have not yet been determined, though Brown's Sporting Goods—as National League champions—is sure of a berth.

Winner of the Legion Braves-North Long Beach Lion battle for the American League pennant in a game sometime this week will meet Brown's in Friday's 8 p. m. game. Time and site of the following games have not yet been set.

Whoever makes the title game, though, will join three other outstanding teams for two of the season's best games—and all the benefits will go to crippled children. Final Elk's League standings:

SMARTING from a 15-4 licking administered them by the Northtown Merchants in a regular Police League game, Proctor's Sporting Goods will be out for revenge—and the Chief's Cup along with it—today when it takes on the unbeaten Merchants in the Chief's Cup finals at 1 p.m. at Silverado Park.

Rivalry will be forgotten after the game, however when members and their families from all eight teams in the loop gather in the ark for a picnic and presentation of season awards. The public is invited to both the game and the picnic.

The final tilt shapes up as a pitcher's duel between Roland Osgood of the Merchants and Danny Mason of Proctor's who finished 1-2 respectively in regular season mound standings. Mason's—and Proctor's—only defeat of the year came in the debacle against the Merchants.

THE ERRATIC Catholic League title race ended in a tie for the second consecutive year as expected and will be decided next Saturday in a single game between St. Cyprian's and St. Barnabas at 1:30 p.m. at Jordan High School.

St. Cyprian's was a contender all the way and St. Barnabas didn't come into the spotlight until the season was more than half over, but they deadlocked with 15-3 records in a down-to-the-wire finish. They split two regular season games, Cyprian winning 6-0 in the first round and Barnabas retaliating, 5-3, in the second. Final standings:

Rice, Bolo Team Up on Aud Mat

Tom Rice, the surly San Franciscan, put up a loud cry and holler at the Municipal Auditorium after being "cheated" out of the main event decision, claiming foul play on all sides and dishonesty in general—so loud, in fact, that he won his point and will be back with us next time.

The only way to shut him up (for he grabbed the ring mike and tried to scream over the protesting jeers of the assemblage) was to give in to his demands.

Rice even named his own conditions. He won't team with Lord James Blears again, that's for sure. He demanded—and got—The Great Bolo. They will go against Wilbur Snyder and Sandor Szabo in a semi-rematch. Rice, teamed with Blears, first won and then lost to Snyder-Szabo the past two weeks.

After Rice cooled down in his dressing room following his defeat, he had serious words for the public prints. In a considered, intelligent recap of events, he pointed out these reasons for his defeat:

1. Blears scarcely exerted himself and was even reluctant to enter the ring.

2. The referee broke several legal holds.

3. There is good reason to believe that the crowning blow which decided the bout was a "put-up job" engineered by his three "enemies," Szabo, Snyder and BLEARS.

Rice explained his version of the big mistake that ended the bout:

"We (he and Blears) had it all set up to ram Szabo in our corner. I don't know exactly what went wrong, but the wrong man got a knee in his eye. That sort of thing shouldn't happen. Only stupid wrestlers make that kind of mistake. And Blears isn't stupid. I'll never get in a ring with him again unless it's to fix his wagon."

So there it stood today, the local wrestling flareup. It produced the second largest crowd of the year Thursday, 1800.

In support of the main bout will be Warren Bockwinkle and Gene Kiniski in the best-of-three-fall semi-main. Gene Leatherman and Red Shoes Dugan in the special event and John Cretoria against Hardy Kruskamp in the 8:30 opener.

PARTICULARS by JERRY WYNN

(Champion Long Beach and Virginia Country Club golfer Shirley McFedters participated in the recent Tam O'Shanter All-American Championships in Chicago. This is her account of the color and action. Modestly, she omits that she finished sixth in a field of the nation's best women amateurs.)

Lovely Tam O'Shanter Country Club met all expectations in providing a challenging and charming setting for George S. May's annual All-American and "World" Championships.

The extremely modern, angular clubhouse lent itself nicely to the tremendous gallery of golfing enthusiasts there to watch the greatest in golf. Interspersed around the golf course were many tents, while surrounding the first and eighteenth greens were large bleachers covered with patriotic flags to give more color to the atmosphere.

Players were required to wear numbers to aid the gallery in distinguishing participants. To play in the "Tam" is like being in a circus. Many observers have often named it "the greatest golf show on earth." It was all of that!

Most noticeable at Niles, was the presence of a great number of participants who have been, or are now from the Long Beach area. Among those present were the Bauer girls, Marlene and her sister Alice.

Alice will continue to play tournament golf, she said, "as long as she can swing around junior." She and her husband Bob Hagge are expecting a new arrival sometime in January. Alice finished eighth lady pro in the All-American. Marlene has blossomed into a very lovely young lady, still shy and unassuming, but very capable. The Bauer family sent their best wishes to their many friends in Long Beach.

A fine showing was made by Darrell Hickock, another Long Beach golfer, in the All-American. Friends will be interested to know that Darrell and his wife are living in Joliet, Ill., where he is the teaching pro.

Now following the sun the year around is Betty Hicks, former Long Beach teaching professional. Betty is making a very important contribution to the Ladies PGA as their new tournament director. All agree that she is doing a fine job. This post together with her many literary obligations, plus golf, keeps her quite active.

We gasp in wonder to how she can do so much.

Jackson Bradley, Smiley Quick, Jimmy Clark, Eoline Thornton and Marshall Holt were other area golfers seen at "Tam." Among the gallery was Ann Eckstedt Pierce, former Recreation Park golfer, who is now living in Gary, Indiana.

Participants were aided with very pleasant weather during their stay in Chicago. It rained several times, but it was much appreciated. The tricky greens and narrow fairways gave many players nightmares as well as fleeting moments of success.

The day before the tournament, Porky Oliver made a hole in one on the 160-yard third hole while playing his practice round. Other golfers tried to play out of the treacherous water hazards to no avail.

The most exciting event of all, however, was the tense moment when Jerry Barber sank his final putt to almost cinch the tournament. Those last darkening holes left behind success, discouragement, fame and ulcers to many players.

Within the last three holes, there were about four possible winners, all more than capable. Pressure became apparent.

Barber was a very worthy and popular winner as were the other three division victors—Babe Zaharias, lady pro; Eddie Merrins, men amateur, and Mickey Wright, lady amateur.

I'll certainly have to string along with those who call Tam O'Shanter, "the greatest golf show on earth."

HOLE-IN-ONE golfing by W. W. Rogers of 10951 Devonshire Place, Garden Grove. Rogers connected on the 93-yard third hole at the South Course.

JOE BISHOP, 81-15, fired a 66 to edge Hugh Davies, 87-20, by one stroke and win the Virginia Men's Club Saturday Sweepstakes.

In third place at 68 were O. M. Slosson, 79-11, and Lowell Overlock, 80-12. Grouped at 69 were Edwin Davies, 81-12; L. M. Foto, 80-11; William F. Cook, 77-8; L. D. Slosson Jr., 76-7, and Jim Ferric, 70-1.

Blind Bogey (74) winners were L. E. Hales, L. M. Smith, John Cone, John Halbert, George Reeves, D. W. Scifres, John Cooper and Herb Davis.

The club will hold an invitational mixed foursome tournament today.

Once Over Lightly

winning its division, but all felt that they weren't ready for the game and that they'll "go from here on out!"

As Otto Graham pointed out, "We need to come along considerably before we reach the same condition that the Rams were in for us. We lost several key men from last year's team and naturally it is taking us a little longer than usual to get ready for the league race."

Otto conceded that the "Rams looked very good . . . much better, in fact, than they did at this time last year.

"And did you see the way those bruisers rushed me? I thought a couple of times they were going to drive me clear out of the stadium," the great quarterback said.

Lou (The Toe) Groza, the Browns' great placekicking artist who also is one of the league's top offensive tackles, also commented on the fine work of the Ram linemen, whose terrific rushing of the passer this year has been one of the features of the club's four straight wins.

"The Ram middle-line work was tremendous," Lou said. "They are fast and they hit hard. They rushed Otto much too fast for him to get good passing results. If they keep that up all season they'll go all the way."

Groza said that the Ram defensive men "always seemed to be in the right spot all the time. The linebackers were getting tipped off by either our own linemen in the way we lined up or by their telephone scouts in the stands because it doesn't seem possible they could guess right that many times. They nearly always had the hole plugged up before the play pattern even formed. It was one of the finest defensive line performances I've seen in a long time."

Dante Lavelli, the Browns' outstanding offensive end, was highly impressed by the Rams' new pass defense.

One of the truly great pass receivers in pro football history, Lavelli said that "the Ram defensive halfbacks are fast and shifty and are hard to break away from. They'll be all right in that department!"

Kelleher Night Slated Tuesday

Aging but still reliable Frank Kelleher, a Hollywood outfield fixture for the past ten seasons, will be honored on the eve of his retirement with a special "night" Tuesday night before the Hollywood-San Francisco game at Gilmore Field.

A 38-year-old veteran of major league play with the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds, Kelleher will hang up his spikes at the end of this season after 18 years of professional baseball.

During that career the popular slugger has played on eight pennant winners and been kicked out of a game just once—last year in a ruckus with Joe Hatten of the Angels.

RACING ROUNDUP

Shoe Boots Musselshell to Victory

The magic of Jockey Willie Shoemaker and the running prowess of Jim Sinnott's Musselshell humbled nine three-year-olds Saturday in winning the 10th running of the $15,000-added Del Mar Derby before 15,430 fans.

Shoemaker's presence aboard Musselshell drove the colt's odds down to solid favoritism and the horse responded to his backing by galloping to a length and a quarter victory over Spring Count. Tussle Patch came in third.

Musselshell, under a 115-pound impost, toured the mile and one-eighth in 1:48 4/5 and returned $4.70 for winning tickets. Spring Count paid $13.30 and $6.40 and Tussle Patch kicked back $7.10 for show.

At Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a two-year-old bay colt, Nashua, established himself as the East's leading early candidate for the 1955 Kentucky Derby by galloping to a neck triumph over Summer Tan in the golden anniversary of the $78,750 Hopeful Stakes.

Eddie Arcaro, who finally won his first Hopeful, held off a steady challenge by practically every other horse in the race in whipping the Belair Stud colt home in front of Summer Tan and Pyrenees.

Nashua, odds-on favorite with the 23,234 fans, ran the six and one-half furlongs in 1:17 4/5 and paid $3.10 to win.

The Meadowland Handicap at Washington Park was won by Hasty House Farm's Stan, an English import, who picked up his second major grass stakes victory of the season.

Stan passed Brookmead Stable's County Clare in the stretch and won the mile and three-sixteenths run in 2:00 2/5 and paid $5.40 to win.

4 Marks for Santee & Co.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas' great miler, Wes Santee, is the key man in four new national collegiate track records approved by the track and field rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Approval of the marks was announced Saturday through NCAA headquarters here by Brutus Hamilton, University of California athletic director and chairman of the committee. They are:

Mile run—4:00.6, by Santee, June 4, 1954, at Compton (Calif.) Invitational meet; supplants Santee's old record of 4:02.4, set at Compton in 1953.

Two-mile run—8:58.9, by Santee, May 8, 1954 at Arkansas-Oklahoma A&M-Kansas triangular meet at Lawrence, Kan. Old record of 8:58.3 set by Don Lash, Indiana, 1936.

Sprint medley relay—3:20.2 by Kansas University (Frank Cindrich, Ralph Moody, Dick Blair, Santee), April 2, 1954, at Texas Relays. Old record of 3:22.7 set by New York University, 1950.

Distance medley relay—9:50.4 by Kansas University (Cindrich, Lloyd Roby, Art Dalzell, Santee), April 24, 1954, at Drake Relays. Old record of 9:56.3 set by Michigan, 1952.

Legion Stars Mix in Annual Clash Today

Sixty of Southern California's outstanding junior baseball players competing in the Anaheim American Legion baseball tourney take time out from title play today for the annual All-Star game, pitting Fifth Area stars against combined Fourth and Sixth Area performers at 8 p.m. at Anaheim's La Palma Park.

Baseball scouts attending the tourney named 26 players to the Fifth Area squad, composed mainly of Orange and San Bernardino County teams, and 34 to the combination club, including six local and seven nearby area stars.

Defending champion Lakewood Post placed its brilliant trio of pitcher Gordon Seyfried, catcher Jim Pagliaroni and first baseman Jay Cooke, the latter Long Beach's prep Athlete of the Year. Hurler Sam Lacey and first baseman Ron Fairly were selected from Samuel Thomas Post and Houghton Park, eliminated in action early last week, got outfielder Eddie Rodriques.

Included in the nearby choices were Jerry Herrick and Ron Klepfer of Lynwood, Wayne Skeen and Dave Hertneck of Norwalk, Jim McCollum of Compton, Bob Lee of Bellflower and Al Marchin of San Pedro.

SWIFT KICK

George Resavage of Castle Shannon made the mistake of getting between the ball and Lloyd Monsen with rather painful results. Lifted clear off the ground, either by Monsen's aid or his own doing, Resavage managed to block the ball with his middle. Action took place during National Challenge Cup Eastern finals at New York.—(NEA.)

Carreiro Paces 12-9 West All-Star Win

John Carreiro set down the East with two hits in his four-inning mound stint and drove home the winning runs in the fifth inning Saturday to give the West a 12-9 triumph Saturday afternoon in the Catholic Little League All-Star game at Recreation Park.

With the score tied 9-9 in the bottom of the fourth inning, Carreiro singled to send home Ed Merino with the winning run and Tom Tucker with an insurance run and break up the tight, high-scoring duel. The West added another run in the fifth to complete the scoring.

Carreiro blanked the East in the first inning but was relieved by Tucker in the second after he loaded the bases with two walks and a hit batter. Then Tucker went back to the mound to stifle the rally and then held the East the rest of the way.

Tucker paced the West with five runs batted in, homering with the bases loaded in the first inning for a West 4-0 lead.

But the East came back for six runs in the top half of the second on singles by Brian Murphy, Dave Froehlick and Bob Klotz for a temporary 6-4 lead.

Charlie Clifton Day at Caliente

There will be three top attractions on the menu today as Agua Caliente offers multiple features during the racing program.

The track will also honor Charlie Clifton, famous radio announcer, who is celebrating his 17th year on the air. Clifton will act as an honorary steward for the invitational two-year-old race named for him.

The big race of the day will be the Manitoba, a mile handicap, with eight going. My Heroine, the Rex Ellsworth filly is high weighted at 120 pounds and will be trying for her fourth win in a row against the likes of Skip Khal and Sea Dreamer.

Trabert Retains Title

GLEN COVE, New York (UP) —Tony Trabert, the top-seeded defending champion from Cincinnati, defeated second-seeded Tom Brown of San Francisco, 6-3, 6-3, Saturday to retain the Nassau Bowl Invitation Tennis tournament title.

Trabert, winding up preparations for the defense of his national championship, looked sharp and impressive, breaking Brown's service late in both sets to win. Tony drew a first round bye for the nationals which began Saturday at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Trabert broke Brown's service in the seventh game of the first set to take a 4-3 lead. Tony held service in the eighth game, acing Brown on the final point of the game, and then charged the net to break Brown in the final game.

It was the same pattern in the second with Trabert breaking Brown in the eighth game to take a 5-3 advantage.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Just for the record: Mrs. Elizabeth Gise of Seal Beach, who at this time last year was chasing grasshoppers in the back country of the Sierra Nevada, has given up live bait (grasshoppers) and is a thorough convert to the artificial fly.

Elizabeth came back from Lower State Lake, in the Kings Canyon Middle Fork area, with her husband, Ray, an Independent, Press-Telegram wizard with figures and a second cousin of all mountain goats.

Ray, you see, is an adept mountain climber. Elizabeth is not. Ray doesn't care much about fishing; Elizabeth would rather fish than eat.

The Gises took off this year on their annual pack-in trip, but before leaving, Ray took a friend's advice and bought a spinning outfit for Elizabeth. They went to Sam Davis' Bar 7 Pack Station at Cedar Grove and began the long 25-mile jaunt into the wilderness.

Once there, the packer said: "I'll leave you now, Elizabeth," and departed. He couldn't say farewell to Ray because Ray had spotted a strange peak and was halfway to the top.

Three days passed in which Elizabeth tried the fly rod in lake fishing with little success. She turned to a stream and caught golden trout there, but she wanted to try that lake.

Finally she prevailed upon Ray to hitch up the spinning outfit. He did and dub that he is, managed to cast almost to the middle of the lake. What happened? Well, a big golden took the lure and Ray beached him.

Elizabeth took the rod away from Ray and began practicing. She got to be an expert, casting a bubble, with an attached leader and fly. Golden followed golden. Elizabeth caught so many she had to start releasing them. Shes kept only enough to feed herself and Ray who dropped into camp occasionally when not climbing mountains.

Now that they are back, Elizabeth says she'll never use anything except the spinning outfit and dry or wet flies.

OCEAN FISHING

The letdown that comes with departure of the albacore is such a terrific drop for ocean fishermen that they bog down up to their necks and it takes days—sometimes weeks—for them to clear their heads enough to ask "What happened?"

This year's dropoff was no different than others, but now fishing is coming back slowly. The ocean isn't providing catches that most of us would care to brag about, but nevertheless, the barracuda and kelp bass are still with us, even though the scooters are harder to find.

There has been a surge of interest in the Santa Monica Bay area, where some fishermen have caught bluefin tuna, bonito, barracuda, plus the usual assortment of other fish.

Long Beach boats have been traveling fast and hard to find schools and when they fail, some of the skippers drop anchors and let their passengers pick up bottom fish, halibut, rockfish, grouper, in fact, anything to please the customers.

Down San Diego way, where the fourth qualifying period of the yellowtail derby is on, the yellows have been made a remarkable comeback. The totals there still are averaging between 100 and 200 per days for the fleet.

Marlin fishing continues to be the main topic of conversation at San Diego and many of the private boats in this neighborhood have moved there temporarily to cash in on the billfish.

TACKLE PERSONALS

The first annual citywide fishing rodeo for boys and girls 15 years of age and younger was a huge success. The Recreation Department registered in 1,000 youngsters at Belmont Pier and there were others who didn't register.

Certainly the rodeo is something that should be planned each year and it hoped that Better Fishing, Inc., which sponsored the affair, along with the Recreation Commission, sees fit to throw its backing into a 1955 rodeo.

Among those who shouldn't be forgotten—and there were many who donated time and money—was Mrs. Ruby Groves of the Belmont Landing Tackle Store, who dispensed sinkers, hooks, leaders and other bits of tackle free "just to help the kids."

PREP FOR SEPT. 18 TUSSLE

Vikings, Alumni Drill

Football candidates for the Long Beach City College varsity and Alumni squads will start the 1954 campaign by drawing uniforms and equipment at the Lakewood campus men's gymnasium Monday and Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Coach Merle Decker's alumni squad will get the jump on the varsity by staging their first workout from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday ae the Jordan High School field. Coach Buck Andreasen's varsity hopefuls will begin workouts on the City College field at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Andreasen and aides Jim Clayton and Bill Hicks will greet what is expected to be the largest turnout of local freshman talent and lettermen since 1950 and have even been heard to murmur that it's "time for a change" in the traditional Alumni game scheduled for Sept. 18, after four straight drubbings by powerhouse alumni teams.

Among the returning lettermen expected to suit up Wednesday, quarterback Nick Uglesich from the '49 team and halfback Glenn Briggs of the 1950 Junior Rose Bowl squad loom large in Andreason's early-season plans.

Uglesich, who recently turned in an outstanding performance with the Service All-Stars against the Washington Redskins, will give the Vikings a seasoned T-quarterback for the 1954 campaign. Briggs, who averaged 8.4 yards a try as a hard-driving but scrawny 147-pounder on the '50 team, now weighs 185 and has lost none of his speed. Both were recently discharged from service.

Thirteen other lettermen, including 10 from the 1953 squad, are also expected. Andreasen declined to name outstanding freshman prospects before they actually show up Monday and Tuesday, but did predict that some of the top local prepsters from Long Beach and nearby high schools will turn up in Viking uniform this week.

Possible recruits for the old grad cause in the 13th annual LBCC-Alumni game now include fullback George Van Zant, fullback-linebacker Spencer Hanlef, halfback Bill Millington, guard Joe Rancatore, tackle George Terry, and quarterback-end Darryl Rogers, in addition to those announced last week.

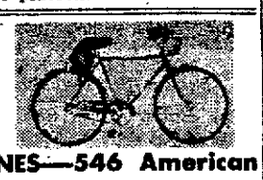

Van Zant, just out of the service and possibly headed for SC this year, is the Vikings' all-time leading ground-gainer, with a season total of 1286 yards in 1951 and an average of 7.3 yards a try.

Wilbur ("Iron Man") Necochea, who has played in every Alumni game since 1940, and annually threatens to "retire" for good, has still not decided to suit up with the old grads Tuesday night—or to stay on the sidelines and assist the coaching and managerial staff of Decker, Barney Artman, "Pinky" Vestermark and George Marmion.

The Alumni again will use separate offensive and defensive units in the Sept. 18 game, while the varsity will be limited to a single platoon.

Saint Grid Squad Reports Next Week

With their eyes on a third straight Catholic League championship, St. Anthony's gridders will be issued equipment next Sunday, Sept. 5 and buckle down to two-a-day practice sessions starting on the following Tuesday.

Rockets, Inglewood Collide at Recreation Park Today

Bill Feistner's crack Long Beach Rocket nine goes all out to clinch its best-two-out-of-three-game series with Inglewood today in a Summer League semipro skirmish at Recreation Park. Game time is 2:15 p.m.

Probable starters for the local nine are Kenny White, catcher; Larry Jones, pitcher; Jack Graham, first base; Chuck Winslow, second; Joe Cochran, shortstop; Jerry Jeglum, third base, and George Selfridge, Bob Carter and Don Taylor, outfielders.

Last week the Rockets, long one of the Southland's leading baseball teams, trimmed Inglewood, 14-11, in their series opener.

4 Important Reasons why you should buy a PONTIAC RIGHT NOW!

1 Pontiac is One of the Greatest Cars Ever Built!

Match today's Pontiac with America's finest cars and you'll get a dramatic picture of Pontiac value. First of all, Pontiac is big—bigger, in fact, than many cars costing hundreds of dollars more. Pontiac is beautiful—with its distinctive Silver Streak styling. Inside, you'll find genuine fine-car luxury and appointments—along with the roominess and comfort that come only with a long wheelbase. But the big surprise comes when you test Pontiac's performance. See how alert it is to every demand in traffic, how it handles and corners almost without effort, how it takes to the open road with plenty of power to spare and saves money every mile.

2 Pontiac has the Best Resale Value in its Price Class!

Along with all its fine-car size, luxury and performance, Pontiac has a very special attribute no car at any price can beat—its unsurpassed reputation for year-in, year-out dependability. Pontiac's carefree, economical long life and its proved record of amazingly low maintenance expense are so widely known and acknowledged that it commands the highest resale value in its price class. Because Pontiac is America's most desirable used car, your original investment comes back in greater measure when you trade.

3 Pontiac is Priced Just Above the Lowest!

After you've convinced yourself of Pontiac's value, after you've considered all the good things you've heard about its dependability—see how it compares dollar-wise. Despite the fact that it's a fine car in every sense of the term, Pontiac is priced so near the lowest that if you can afford any new car you can afford a Pontiac.

4 We'll Make You a Deal You Can't Afford to Miss!

Right now we're making such liberal trade-in allowances that you just can't afford to pass up the greatest opportunity you ever had to become a fine-car owner. Come in and get the facts.

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR YOU CAN'T BEAT A PONTIAC!

TV — Tele-Vues

by TERRY VERNON

KNXT Channel 2 KABC Channel 7
KNBH Channel 4 KHJ Channel 9
KTLA Channel 5 KTTV Channel 11
KCOP Channel 13

The "Give-a-Thon" for multiple sclerosis continues (2) until 5 p. m. today. It began at midnight. Mickey Rooney, Roberta Linn and Champ Butler are the workhorses along with George Putnam and a host of Hollywood personalities as guests.

Loretta Young comes back for another season (4) at 10 p. m. with some outstanding dramas and stars. She will continue to play the lead role in the teledramas, and will have some other fine actors as members of the cast. "Guest in the Night" is the tale to be told and it concerns a paroled convict who has stolen a diamond necklace and has taken his wife to a mountain lodge hideout. When a small boy suffering from pneumonia comes to the lodge, a crisis results. The husband refuses to go for help and Miss Young locks him in a storeroom, but he escapes. What happens then makes for heart-touching drama.

MORE DRAMA — Phyllis Kirk and Don DeFore headline the "Power of Suggestion" on Goodyear Playhouse (4) at 9 p. m. The story tells what can happen to a happy marriage when a wife suggests to her husband that another woman is "crazy" about him. . . . Ruth Hussey and William Lundigan team in "To Lift a Feather" on G. E. Theater (2) at 9 p. m., a psychological thriller about a man who has dreams that do come true. . . . Befriended by an elderly rancher on the Rio Grande, a young drifter shows his ingratitude by smuggling Mexican "wetbacks" across the border on "The Web" (2) at 10 p. m. . . . John Wesley Hardin, a Texas badman of the old west, meets his match in railroad detective Matt Clark during "Stories of the Century" (11) at 9 p. m. . . . A fast-talking crook organizes a crime school for attractive young teen-agers during "The Man Behind the Badge" (2) at 9:30 p. m.

TELE-TOPICS — "How Constructive are Congressional Investigations?" is discussed on a new show, "Answers for Americans," that debuts (13) at 5:30 p. m. with Hardy Burt as host and moderator. This replaces Freeman Lusk's "Freedom Forum" and is a regular ABC network show that is not seen locally. . . . Paul Coates "Confidential File" opens up on the TV repairman. He'll try to show how to select a repairman and weed out the "gyp" concerns. . . . "Ask the Doctor" about measles (5) at 12 noon, how they managed and what complications may result. This is the first of a two-part series on children's contagious diseases. . . . The consul generals of Greece and Britain meet with Dr. Rufus B von KleinSmid to discuss the strategic importance of Cyprus during "Teleforum" (5) at 10 p. m. Hon. John A. Tzounis of San Francisco is the Greek Consul and Hon. M. G. Gillett holds that position for Great Britain in Los Angeles. . . . "Have We Really Outlawed the Communist Party?" is questioned by George Todt during "In My Opinion" (4) at 2:30 p. m., while Norman Thomas joins Justice Michael Mussmanno on the same topic during "American Forum (4) at 4 p. m.

TOASTED—While Ed Sullivan takes another week of vacation Eddie Fisher will host the "Toast of the Town" (2) at 8 p. m. and butter it with his own songs, the American Legion Zouaves from Jackson, Miss., Joyce's Camels, winners of the Chicagoland Music Festival contest and the Shoreham Hotel string serenaders.

GUESTING— Mimi Benzell and Louis Prima, poles apart in the field of music, will headline the Comedy Hour (4) at 8 p. m. with Kaye Ballard and Ronnie Graham. . . . Billie Holliday and Eileen Wilson visit "Bandstand Revue" (5) at 9 p. m. . . . Larry Finley's "Strictly Informal" has Duke. Ellington, Buddy Rich, Daws Butler, Olga San Juan, Dave Barry, Jimmy Wakely and a recording of a Zulu native imitating Jimmy Wakely, Jeannine Cole and The Top Notchers (2) at 10:30 p. m. . . . Kurt Adler, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera Co., will serve as guest judges on "Debut" (13) at 6:30 p. m.

LORETTA YOUNG
Back with Tearjerker

TELE-TIPS — "Break the Bank" moves into the 10 p. m. time on (7) with Bill Cullen pinch-hitting for vacationing Bert Parks. . . . The "Cavalcade of Books" moves to 6 p. m. to make room for the "Give-a-Thon" (2). . . . William Burkett, state director of employment, guests on "770 on TV" (7) at 12 noon, . . . San Francisco and Hollywood play a double-header (9) at 1:30 p. m.

MONDAY MORNING NOTE: President Eisenhower's address to the joint session of the American Legion and Auxiliary will be on (2) and (4) at 9 a. m. Radio coverage on KFI at 8:30 p. m., KNX, 9 p. m., KHJ, 9:30 p. m. and KABC, 11 p. m.

RADIO NOTES

A full half-hour of comedy is set on an unprecedented Sunday through Thursday schedule for KFI as "Fibber McGee and Molly" and the "Great Gildersleeve" will eventually take the 7 p. m. time. Featured for the first time on the new "Fibber" series will be Peggy Knudsen, TV actress and daughter-in-law of the stars. Incidentally Fibber and Molly (Marian and Jim Jordan) celebrate their 36th wedding anniversary next Tuesday Reason why "Fibber" shifted to the Sunday-through-Thursday deal was because NBC now carries the 7 p. m. fights each Friday night so he had to clear the time. "Gildersleeve" joins the 5-a-week line-up Sept. 26.

Gary Crosby makes his final appearance on KNX at 9 p. m. as a summer replacement and heads back to Stanford where he graduates in June.

Spike Jones, Elaine Stewart, Dennis Morgan and Constance Moore will sit on the "Juke Box Jury," KNX at 4 p. m.

The San Francisco Forty-Niners' Chicago Cardinal football game is on KHJ at 1:50 p. m.

A contestant from "People Are Funny" will pose as an elevator operator in a Hollywood Hotel with orders to stall for two minutes despite the pleas of the passengers. KNX at 8 p. m.

Taking Jack Webb's Cutout Held Larceny

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 16-year-old youth was booked here Saturday by police for larceny of merchandise.

Officers caught the youth as he was leaving a theater which was advertising the coming of a detective movie, "Dragnet," starring Jack Webb.

The youth had in his possession a five-foot cutout picture of Webb.

Wilson's Last Home Donated as Memorial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house in which president Woodrow Wilson lived here after leaving the White House and where he died Feb. 3, 1924, has been given by his widow, Mrs. Edith Bolling Wilson, to the national trust for historic preservation as a permanent memorial to the war president.

This was announced Saturday by David E. Finley, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Trust, a private nonprofit organization engaged in preserving America's historic sites and buildings.

The house is a large Georgian brick structure in the embassy section of the city (2340 "S" street, N. W.) with a terraced garden in the rear. Mrs. Wilson will continue to live in it during her lifetime and it will not be open to the public.

Wage-Earners' Longevity Gains

NEW YORK (AP)—Longevity of America's wage-earners and their families has reached an all-time high, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. said today.

The average length of life, based on mortality prevailing in 1953, climbed to 68.9 years for the company's industrial policyholders, the firm said. That climaxed a decade of successive gains during which their average lifetime increased by five years.

Princess Visits Earl

BALMORAL, Scotland (U.P.)—Princess Margaret will be the guest this week end of the 30-year-old Earl of Dalkeith and his wife at Eildon Castle, court circles said Saturday. The Earl was one of the Princess' most frequent escorts before he married Miss Jane McNeill last year.

Words and Music

By JOHN B. CALLAGHAN

With the fall season fast approaching, there's an expectant excitement in the air for televiewers. This will be the test year for a lot of old favorites who had audience or sponsor trouble last season . . . and for a lot of new hopefuls, too. One who is expected to bounce back to the top is Red Buttons. There are a lot of reasons besides his laugh-getting talents. He figures to have a better time slot (Friday at eight). And he'll be on just three weeks out of four . . . giving his writers and the comic a chance to recuperate and keep coming up) with fresh material. The odd week fill-in is slated to go to veteran comic Jack Carson, who's been on and off TV since it began.

Jack Benny is going to try something new during this tele-season. He's signed to do a half-hour film for the GE Theater in addition to his own show. This is the series which has actor Ronald Reagan bossing under the imposing title of Supervisor of Production. The press release doesn't say what kind of role Benny will have in the tele-play. They're keeping it a Secret.

George Burns (of Burns and Allen) has made an offer to French clothes designer Christian Dior to appear on one of his shows and explain his new "deflated" look. A flat, washed out look on the TV screen is no fun . . . but you'll get striking depth, brightness and clarity on a Hoffman screen. Seeing is believing, so see a Hoffman at PENNY-OWSLEY MUSIC CO. Lifetime Homes by Cox Offer Low-Cost Luxury

If you were to build a comparable home for yourself with the materials and all of the many built-in electrical and other features found in Luxury Lifetime Homes, it would undoubtedly cost far more than the low starting price of $12,250, according to Henry C. Cox and Affiliated Companies.

Ready for occupancy before school starts, these three and four-bedroom homes with one, one and a half or two baths, are conveniently located near schools and shopping centers on Chapman Ave., ¼ mile east of Brookhurst in Garden Grove.

Kitchens are all-electric with built-in Thermador range and oven, disposal and electric exhaust fans. Living rooms are spacious and lavishly paneled in rich mahogany, an effective background for a sliding glass wall and attractive fireplace. Other luxury features include oak floors and built-in breakfast nooks.

Visitors are invited to inspect the five model homes furnished in varied interior styles in keeping with California living. Model homes are open daily and Sundays.

Plan Program of Advertising

Plans for initiating a program of public information and education about landscaping in this region were announced by Keith E. Card, Long Beach president of the local chapter, California Landscape Contractors Association, following a meeting of association members Tuesday.

Economic benefits from attractive landscaping of real estate, especially home and rental developments, will be stressed, Card stated.

The property owner has little recourse, Card said, against the unscrupulous practices of unlicensed operators for non-performance and misrepresentations. Quite often the owner unknowingly leaves himself open to mechanics liens and the like, that are annoying and costly.

"QUEENS" VISIT WHALEY HOME

Mrs. Jean Lewis, left, who recently was named queen of the National Home Week, which is to be observed next month, is pictured while she visited with Miss Los Altos (Miss Sue Prewette) in one of the L. S. Whaley homes in his fast-selling 18th unit of Los Altos. "Mrs. Home Week" lauded the attractive three-bedroom, two-bath homes which are selling for $9950 and termed them among the best bargains she has seen anywhere on her tours. The large rear lawn and patio area, shown through window, particularly impressed her.—(Jasper Nutter.)

Wins Big Contract

On their low bid of $588,740, the firm of Davies, Keusder & Brown will be awarded the contract to erect a specialty shop section of Lakewood Center, it was announced Saturday. The shops will be in a one-story building 457 feet by 150 feet in the 5000 block on north Pepperwood Ave.

Would Construct Drive-In Theater

Ruth L. Johnston of Los Angeles has applied to the Orange County Planning Commission for a variance to permit installation of a drive-in theater at the northwest corner of Trask Ave. and Hwy. 36 in Westminster. The drive-in would be on a 86-acre tract. The screen will be 90 feet high and 120 feet long.

More Streets to Open Soon Into 18th Unit of Los Altos

Announcement that two more main routes leading directly into the 18th unit of Los Altos will be opened shortly has been a big sales incentive in the moderately priced Lloyd S. Whaley development.

Jim Burdge, president of Los Altos Realty Co., the sales agency for the 560-acre unit adjacent to the new State College, said sales the past week were the heaviest of any time since the opening.

With school opening two weeks away, scores of families are preparing to move into their new homes this week to be all set before the youngsters attend the first classes, Burdge added. One of the city's new grade schools being rushed to completion adjoins the unit and two others just completed, the only new schools ready for the opening, also are in Los Altos.

"As soon as Stearns St. is opened east of Palos Verde Ave., and Anaheim St. is reopened it will bring most of these homes much closer to the heart of Long Beach," said Burdge. Both routes have been closed for bridge construction.

The 18th unit homes are from Anaheim St. north to Atherton on Studebaker Rd.

The entire unit is all inside the city of Long Beach, as are all other Whaley developments.

Providing three bedrooms and two baths for a total of $9,950, the homes call for only $450 down and $80 closing costs and impounds for both veteran or non-veteran.

Monthly payments, much less than comparable renntal, pay off the entire loan in 20 years, Burdge explained.

"To help families obtain a new home before school opens we will emphasize night showings this week," the sales agency head reported. "The model homes, furnished by Aaron Schultz, will be open until 9 p. m. or later if visitors so desire."

Five Win Acacia Trip to Washington

Five Long Beach representatives of Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Company, have qualified for the company's national meeting at Washington, D. C. this week. Two members of the group qualified as "Leaders," the highest designation in the Acacia Honor organization, and also attended a special meeting at Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N. C., for three days prior to the Washington gathering.

Those qualified as "Leaders" were: Alexander P. Mattier, and Sidney Michaels. Qualified for the National Meeting are: Lester W. Denevan, Thomas F. Crocker and Clyde Spencer.

May Store for Covina

Tom May, executive vice president of the May Co., announced the acquisition of a site in west Covina on which they are planning another store for the May Company. The building will be approximately 250,000 square feet and will be located on Garvey Blvd. and Citrus which is the Ramona Freeway in West Covina, the heart of the San Gabriel Valley.

May stated that they have entered into a long term lease with Joseph K. Eichenbaum, who is the directing force behind the development.

IN SANTA ANA

Park Lane Estates homes in Santa Ana are proving popular with young business executives and Marine Corps officers, the salesmen report. The custom-built homes are priced from $17,500 and each features a massive living room.

Young Executives Buying Park Lane Estates Homes

Park Lane Estates are proving very popular with young executives and professional men, as well as officers of the Marine Corps stationed at near-by El Toro Marine Base. Last week four of the latter purchased homes in the exclusives Santa Ana subdivision, announced Frank Hart, sales manager of Walker & Lee, Inc.

The custom-built homes, on estate-sized lots are priced from $17,500 to $20,500, with new low FHA terms for non-vets and as little as 5% down for veterans.

Discriminating buyers find many desirable features in the three-bedroom, two or two-and-one-half bathroom dwellings built by Henry C. Cox, in a variety of designs offering 16 elevations and eight floor plans.

Living rooms have massive brick fireplaces, sliding glass doors opening on to screened and covered terraces.

Further qualifying the dwellings as "custom-built" are features such as touch-plate wiring, forced air furnace, covered and screened terraces, dressing rooms, indoor barbecue units, mahogany paneling and interior finish.

Kitchens in Park Lane Estates homes are streamlined and all electric yet they are roomy and compact, with built-in Thermador electric range and oven, ceramic tile work surfaces, cove base linoleum, electric exhaust fan, natural finish birch cabinets, plumbing for dishwashers, 220 volts for dryer, range and water heater, and garbage disposals.

Park Lane Estates is at the corner of Flower St. and Memory Lane in the city of Santa Ana, easily reached via the Santa Ana Freeway. Model homes, furnished by Horton Furniture Co. of Santa Ana, are three blocks west of Flower St., on the corner of Memory Lane and Westwood. Visitors from Long Beach drive out Seventh St., which becomes Garden Grove Blvd., and later Memory Lane. Sales office and model homes are open 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Preview for Orangewood Estates Unit

Gift orchids for the ladies and balloons and candy for youngsters will mark the preview showing of five completed model homes in the "New Chieftain" unit at Orangewood Estates today on Orangethorpe Ave., between Brookhurst Rd. and S. Nicholas Ave., Fullerton.

A 50 per cent sellout has already been recorded in the first group of 100 homes under way in the new $8,000,000 unit of 625 three and four-bedroom, two-bath dwellings, according to W. E. Robertson Co. The five model homes, one furnished by Huh Furniture Co., are open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The new unit is just a mile west of the original Orangewood Estates.

The dwellings, priced from $12,750 to $19,800, are larger than the original community's homes and are now available for reservation at the new unit on terms featuring nothing down for veterans but costs and impounds, and monthly payments from $65.57 for principal and interest.

The five model homes typify 12 highly varied stylings and luxury features such as forced air heating, two-car garages, garbage disposers, sliding glass doors leading to paved concrete terraces, natural-finish birch kitchen cabinets, breakfast nooks, dishwashers, mahogany panels in living room, flagstone and brick planters, and lawns and shrubs on both front and side.

Vets With Low Earnings Can Buy Lakewood Home

Spokesmen for Lakewood Estates, new community of three-bedroom, two-bath homes in the Lakewood district, announced yesterday that attractive terms have been arranged for veterans earning a minimum of $300 a month.

Developers of the quality-constructed homes on Orangethorpe Ave. at Palo Verde Ave. pointed out that low earnings have been an obstacle to home purchasing in many instances.

Sales at Lakewood Estates were reported in a brisk upturn since announcement that earnings of $300 or more a month will allow veterans to buy on down payments as low at $295, plus costs and impounds, with monthly terms from $58.85 for principal and interest.

The homes, close to beaches, community facilities of all kinds, as well as major sources of year-around employment, are priced from $11,840.

Model homes are on view daily from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. The third is nearing completion, with two-car garages, attached or detached; full-sized separate serving porch and Venetian blinds throughout.

A few homes remain available in the second unit of Lakewood Estates at Palo Verde Ave. and Del Amo Blvd. Visitors to the new third unit were directed to take Lakewood Blvd. to South St., turn east on South St. (which becomes Orangethorpe Ave. at Bellflower) and continue on Orangethorpe to the sales office at Palo Verde Ave.

INDIVIDUALLY STYLED

Shown is one of the many different stylings available in the third unit of Lakewood Estates, new community of three-bedroom, two-bath homes, situated on Orangethorpe Ave. at Palo Verde Ave., in the Lakewood district.

Large Homes Selling Fast

Popularity of four-bedroom two-bath homes is proved by the results of the Highland Village in Garden Grove, built by McDonald Bros.

Featuring large homes for non-veterans with low down payments, the Garden Grove subdivision is duplicating results of other Highland Villages in Azusa and Fullerton.

"Low monthly payments including principal, interest, taxes and insurance mean that the non-veteran for the first time can enjoy 4½ per cent financing with modest down payments," stated Owen A. Sloan, of Pacific Subdivisions, sales agents.

Highland Village, in Garden Grove, may be reached by traveling east on Manchester-Firestone Blvd. (Highway 101) to the intersection of Grand in the heart of Buena Park. Turn south and go 3½ miles south of Knott's Berry Farm to Orangewood and then left (east) one block to the models.

From the Long Beach area travel east on Seventh which becomes Garden Grove Blvd. to Dale which is one block east of Huntington Beach Blvd., and go north one mile north to the model homes.

PREVIEW SHOWING

Parkwood-La Mirada, new "Quality-Controlled" community of custom-styled three bedrooms, three bedrooms and family room or four bedrooms, all with two spacious baths, typified above, can be viewed at Valley View Ave. and Stage Rd.

Parkwood Unit of La Mirada Is Showing Nine Model Homes

Nine custom-styled model homes went on preview showing this weekend at Parkwood-La Mirada, the first of a new series of "Quality-Controlled" residential developments which eventually will make up the $150,000,000 complete, planned city of La Mirada, fronting on the Santa Ana Freeway-Firestone Blvd. at Valley View Ave.

Plans for the special opening home show at Parkwood-La Mirada, with distinctive furnishings by the Ruitcel Furniture Co. of Fullerton and Buena Park, were announced by officials of the Devon Construction Co., developers of the $8,000,000 property at Valley View Ave. and Stage Rd.

The 540 homes, in 41 diversified exteriors based on 9 basic floor plans, offer a choice of three bedrooms, three bedrooms and family room or four bedrooms, all with two baths.

Sales manager Walter H. Peters announced that reservations will be taken, with the homes priced from $13,300 and veterans offered terms featuring down payments from $650 including costs and impounds and monthly payments from $66.43 for principal and interest. Liberal terms also are available to non-veterans, Peters explained.

Spokesmen for the Devon firm, the first to enter the La Mirada home-building area since the recent acquisition of the 2100-acre property by Louis M. Halper, stressed that all the Parkwood-La Mirada homes will carry the "Quality-Controlled" seal allowed by the La Mirada Civic Council only where its high architectural and quality-construction standards are met.

Every homesite has a 15 to 25-foot olice tree, front lawns and basic landscaping, with features both inside and outside planned for leisurely Southland indoor-outdoor living.

Described as a major step in the planned construction of 10,000 new homes during the next two years in the unincorporated city of La Mirada, the dwellings in Parkwood-La Mirada are only 25 minutes from downtown Los Angeles, close to beaches and key employment centers, as well as churches, schools, shopping and other established community facilities.

Features will include natural stone fireplace with ash panel in some models, all with flagstone raised hearth.

Kitchens have natural-finish cabinets, Western-Holly De Luxe built-in ranges and ovens, where desired.

Visitors are directed to take the Santa Ana Freeway to the end at Pioneer, then left on Imperial Highway to Valley View Ave. and turn right one mile to the model homes.

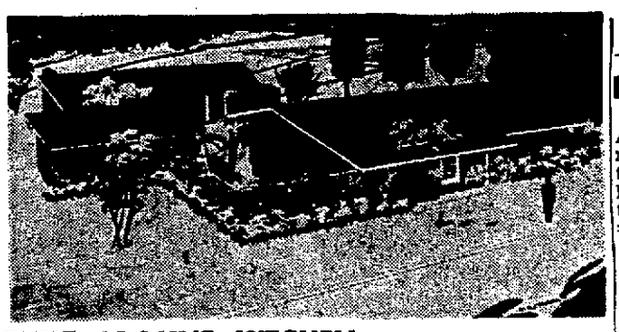

Panel Talks for Realtors

The breakfast meeting of the Board of Realtors will have a panel forum Tuesday on how the organization has been able to develop the multitude of educational classes now being conducted by the Business & Technology Division of the Long Beach City College.

These courses give credits toward higher real estate learning. This is a co-operative educational program and is under the direction of Keith James, administrative director for distributive education.

Teachers of these real estate subjects are experienced, practicing real estate men who are specialists in their fields. Herschel Hart, chairman of the Real Estate Advisory Board, will be on the panel, along with Burt Smith, "Fundamentals of Real Estate Practice," and Perry Johnson, "Real Estate Law." Joseph Reed is chairman. Arnold Berg will preside.

Hart who also is chairman of the five-week educational course for the passing of state salesmen and broker exams announced a corps of instructors who have had excellent background in teaching. This class has been set for Monday, Sept. 27, 7 till 9 p. m., at Poly High School. Speakers are: Realtors Morris Holmquist, Perry Johnson, Clive Graham, Walt Block, Bill Barbee, James Edmonds Jr.; Loan Specialist Glen Bracken; Builder and Developer Glen Gerken, Ed Iliff; Lawyer Statia Frazer, Arnold Berg, Tenny Moore. Reservations are now being accepted by calling the Board of Realtors, 7-1229.

BUILT AROUND KITCHEN

Luxury home of Gardendale's 162 new three-bedroom, two-bath community is illustrated by above sketch. Homes, available to veterans on nothing down terms are located at Brookhurst Ave. and Cerritos St. in smog-free Garden Grove. All the dwellings are planned and built "around the kitchen." Visitors from Long Beach drive east on Spring St., which becomes Cerritos, follow to end of the street and development.

Ask None Down to Vets

A recent survey by House and Home Magazine of home buyers on the subject "what are the most wanted features," finds that the new California Patio Homes in Fullerton stand high on the list, builder George M. Holstein and Sons reported today.

Buyers want rear living areas, a minimum of three bedrooms, open planned layout, low pitched roofs, provision for outdoor living, large windows, sloping ceilings, and 1½ or 2 baths. These were the most popular features of the magazine survey and all are found in the Patio Homes, the builders pointed out.

The sales firm of the Patio Homes, Doyle & Shields, also stressed that although the styling and liveability of the Patio Homes has been immensely popular, the price of the Fullerton Homes is also outstanding.

The California Patio Homes are available for no down payment to vets and low monthly payments to both vet and non vets and are in a central area not far from Downtown Fullerton, close to schools, shopping and churches.

Visitors are urged to act quickly for best choice at the site. The homes are located between Mapleand Rosslyn on tween Maple and Rosslyn on ton's Amerige Park. Los Angeles buyers are suggested to turn off on Orangethorpe in Buena Park until they reach Highland.

REALTOR OF WEEK

Winnie Cross Is Musician Who Changed Her 'Tune'

When, during the depression days, she stopped at a realty office to list their property for sale, Winnie A. Cross took a new step in her life which ultimately has made her one of the outstanding women in California real estate. Today she is honored as the Realtor of the Week by the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

Born in the small town of Canton, Tex., she attended college in Greenville and then on

WINNIE A. CROSS
Depression Gave Her Start

to Baylor U., Waco and from there to the Bush Temple Conservatory of Music in Dallas where she taught school and music for two years.

Thirty years ago Winnie married J. D. Cross who was then living in San Bernardino. When the depression struck they moved to Arcadia. When Mrs. Cross visited a real estate office to list their property for sale she knew little about the real estate business. Yet the broker after a few minutes of conversation offered her a job. She took the salesman examination a week later, passed and went to work for the broker.

Since then Winnie has really gone at top seped in real estate. Her husband joined in the profession and the two have worked closely since then. They came to Long Beach and joined the local board 17 years ago and Winnie always has been active with board affairs. She was the first woman to be on the executive board in the post of treasurer and was the first woman to win the board's Achievement Cup. In 1945 she was state chairman for the women's division, southern area, of the state association and in 1951 was national membership chairman.

Winnie has played piano for the singing at the weekly breakfast meetings of the Long Beach board throughout her 17 years as a member. She is the program chairman this year and also is chairman of the new building fund.

Winnie and J. D. opened an office in North Long Beach and then were at Fourth and Temple. At present the office is 1703 Atlantic. They reside in the Lafayette Hotel. Winnie remains active in realty circles but J. D. devotes most of his time to looking after their own properties.

Auto Salesmen Give Earnings to Polio Fund

Beach City used car salesmen will donate their commissions on any new or used car sold Monday or Tuesday to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The move started when four-year-old David Barry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barry of 5331 El Jardin, was stricken with polio. Mr. Barry and two of the Beach City salesmen, Bob Croxson and Bill McGuire attended Long Beach schools including Poly High together. The two salesmen came up with the idea, presented it at a sales meeting and it was voted unanimously by all salesmen.

Salesmen are: (Used Car) Bernie Clayton, "Doc" Savage, Steve LaPlante, Roy Mathewson. (New Car) Dave Davis, Pete Kloehn, Les Holt, Gerry Choppin, Billy Var, Bill Stammer, Ron Drimak, "Dutch Billings, Bill McGuire, Bob Croxson, Al Held.

Mr. F. Ray Downey of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will be at Beach City Monday and Tuesday to accept contributions.

Now in Phoenix

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Menehan, well known in real estate here for several years, have moved to Phoenix where he has opened a realty office, friends have been advised. They lived here at 531 W. 20th St. and the office was at 420 Atlantic Ave.

FEATURE-FILLED HOME

Melody Estate Unit No. 2, in Garden Grove, is getting wide sales response, developers report. Known as the "feature-filled" homes, they sell from $18,500 on new FHA terms. This is a view inside one of the model homes.

Second Melody Estates Unit Now Moving Fast

"Melody Estates No. 2 is selling at a fast pace," states Bill Tietz, president of Tietz Construction Co., developers of this limited Garden Grove development. "This is due to the large waiting list which we had from the first unit plus the fact that many friends of purchasers are buying in Melody Estates. The fact that there are so many of the latter is very heartening to us" Tietz continued, "because it proves the value of these custom-type homes."

The "feature-filled" homes, built on large 95 foot lots, are now within reach of practically everyone because of the new low FHA terms. Under the new arrangements, the down payment is as low as $2995 with total prices ranging from $18,50[illegible] to $20,500, stated Tietz.

The homes emphasize extra living area under the roof—to 1750 square feet—and all-electric kitchens that have won much favorable comment from the many buyers and visitors. These kitchens are designed to be lived in, and have built-in Thermador range and oven, garbage disposal, automatic dishwasher, electric exhaust fans, natural birch cabinetry, ceramic tile counter tops and 220-volt outlets for clothes dryers.

Purchasers of Melody Estates homes may choose interiors, exteriors and color schemes, roof material and colors of tile, interior painting and paper as well as linoleum and contrasting coving.

Within easy distance of shopping centers, transportation, schools and other facilities, Melody Estates No. 2 is just north of Chapman on Brookhurst. Visitors from Long Beach may go out 7th St. to Brookhurst and turn north. Beautiful models, furnished by Lloyd's of Long Beach, are open daily from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

More Insurance

The C. Carter Schneider Agency, Long Beach representative for the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., reports that purchases of insurance are substantially higher in 1954 than for the corresponding period in 1953. New business sold by the agency shows a 20 per cent increase over the first seven months of last year.

Anaheim Village Is Near Sellout

America's newest, largest and most complete shopping center will be the "bonus" for every new home buyer at Anaheim Village in Anaheim, Griffith Bros. and Paul L. Pierce, the builders, explained.

"The sales of the second unit have already exceeded our expectations and within two weeks the homes will be sold out," Paul L. Pierce reported.

The builder pointed to the low monthly payment, no down feature for vets and the variety and style of each home, but stressed too that the "modern woman wants shopping near by."

Anaheim Village is located on the Santa Ana Freeway at Euclid Ave. across the street from the recently approved new Broadway shopping development. This 45-acre shopping giant will increase home values and bring an added convenience to every buyer, Pierce pointed out.

Anaheim Village will be open this week end with furnished models on display. Both vet and non-vet buyers are urged to act quickly for best selection, choice of color and other advantages, the firm declared.

Classes to Start in Salesmanship

Announcement has been made by John Gerken, chairman of the education committee of the Long Beach Sales Executives Club, regarding duplicate classes in "Salesmanship," which will be offered during the coming semester by the Business & Technology Division of Long Beach City College.

The two club-sponsored courses will be given at the following locations:

Wilson High School, Room 205, 7:00-10:00 p.m. on Tuesdays starting Sept. 4. Instructor: L. V. Conner, who has trained thousands of salesmen.

Jordan High School, Room 205, 7:00-10:00 p.m. on Wednesdays, starting Sept. 15. Instructor: Frederick A. Sykes, who has had 20 years of sales management experience.

No tuition fees will be charged, the cost being confined to purchase of textbook.

Buena Plaza Homes Selling Fast

Climaxing "the most dramatic sales period in our nine-year history," officials of the Aldon Construction Co. yesterday reported total advance sales of more than $3,000,000 in the brief two-week interval since opening of Buena Plaza, where not even a model home has been completed.

The new development of 624 four-bedroom, two-bath, augmented-feature homes is at Miller St. and La Palma Ave. in Buena Park.

Importance was attached, in the sales report, to the location of Buena Plaza—at "the very hub of the Southland's most rapid residential and industrial expansion, within a few minutes by fast freeways and easy arterials from downtown Los Angeles, the harbor, the central manufacturing district and fast-growing Orange County, as well."

Terms of nothing down—not even cash for escrow costs and impounds—for veterans, on 30-year 4½ per cent VA loans, with monthly payments of $71.49 for principal and interest, were cited also as major sales factors in the new community, which eventually will have 2000 homes and a shopping center.

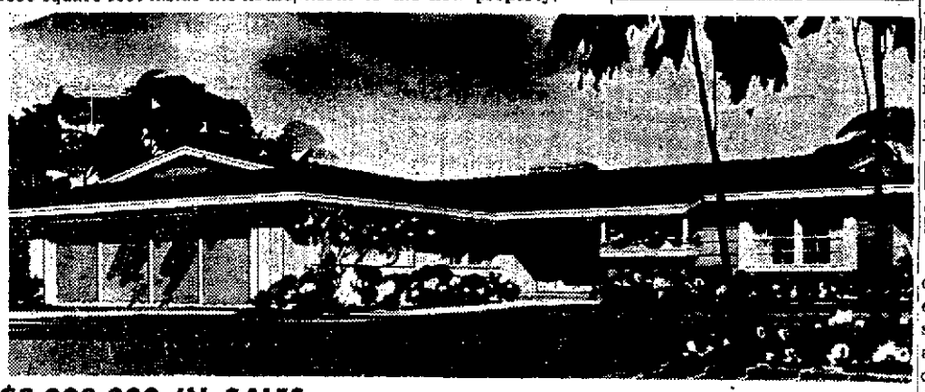

It was noted also that newly reduced FHA terms for non-veterans, as a result of national housing legislation, has augmented sales, according to sales agent E. (Billy) Hamburg.

Buyers are given a choice of 22 stylings based on seven floor plans in the new "Masterpiece Series of 1955," Hamburg said. The development is open from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

Used brick or slumpstone floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, sliding glass walls, 75,000 BTU forced-air heating with thermostat controls, oversize stall showers with ceramic tile, natural-finish kitchen cabinets, Waste-King garbage pulverator, Dish-Whiz automatic dishwasher are among features.

"In addition," an Aldon official declared, "these homes have an average living area of 1350 square feet inside the house, plus porches and two-car garages, which we believe easily establishes them among the biggest on the market anywhere in the popular-priced field and on such easy purchase terms."

Visitors from Los Angeles were directed to drive out the Santa Ana Freeway - Firestone Blvd. just past Norwalk to Valley View Ave. and turn south, while those from Long Beach were instructed to go east on Carson St. (which becomes Lincoln Ave.) to Miller St. and turn north to the new property.

$3,000,000 IN SALES

Above exterior typifies homes rising in Aldon Construction Company's new Buena Plaza, where $3,000,000 in advance sales are reported. Location is Miller St. and La Palma Ave., Buena Park. Terms are nothing down for vets.

Nearly 8 Million Cars in State in '60

California's system of roads could have about 7,945,340 motor vehicles by 1960, the National Association of Manufacturers Pacific Southwest Office indicated in Los Angeles.

The NAM, which is conducting a continuous study of growth of the area comprised of California, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico, indicated that for the past four years the number in this state has been increasing at the rate of about 348,878 per year.

Magnolia Manor Attracts Record Throng of Visitors

With nine salesmen on hand, Doyle & Shields, sales agents for Magnolia Manor, said a record crowd and record sales were tabulated at the West Anaheim development last week end.

Tabbed as the "Wonder Home" for the space, style and price, the homes drew Southern California home buyers from early to late, the sales firm said.

Built by Dal-Mor Builders, the four-bedroom, two-bath homes encompass nearly 1,300 square feet and offer a move-in price of only $495 for veteran or non-veteran.

A survey of most popular features from the crowds that visited the site until nearly midnight on Sunday named the spacious "center hall floor plan," large kitchens with wood cabinets and custom tile floor and ceramic tile sinks, rear living plans, interior and exterior beauty as tops on the list.

"Non-vets were happy with our splendid financing, too," the sales firm declared. The location makes it great for folks who live in Long Beach or Los Angeles, several buyers have explained.

Magnolia Manor will be open this week end with furnished models located just off the Santa Ana Freeway on Magnolia Blvd. between Buena Park and Anaheim.

Invests Heavily in Long Beach

Investment of $506,756 in the development of Long Beach real estate projects during the first seven months of 1954 has been approved by the western home office of Prudential Insurance Co.

Harry J. Volk, vice president in charge of western operations, said that all approvals were for residential purposes.

Moore Realty Adds Three Salesmen

E. T. Moore, head of the Moore Realty Co., announced that due to the rapid growth of the Income Property department three new salesmen, C. Lee Preuninger, James Butz and Earl Lane, have been added to the staff.

This department, started in May under the supervision of Steve Spindell, has already exceeded all sales expectations by selling over $400,000 worth of income properties in sales and exchanges.

TWO-BEDROOM HOMES

Pictured is one of the eight elevations of Homestead Park homes in Garden Grove. Grand opening, held last week end, found a heavy buyer interest. These two-bedroom, two-bath homes feature a living area and a separate service yard in the rear. This is the fifth group of Homestead Park homes built and sold in Garden Grove by developers Jack Cochran and James Nicely.

New Sales Plan Gets Results for Grovemont Estates Homes

Novel sales plan announced last week for the Grovemont Estates unit in Santa Ana resulted in a big turn out of buyers, reports the S and K Building Corporation.

The Grovemont Estates builders launched a new program under which they will buy the present home of a prospect wanting a larger home. The cash equity will be used toward the down payment on the new property.

Offering three bedrooms and two baths, Grovemont Estates are priced from $17,950 to $18,950. They have fireplaces, shake roofs, two-car garages, oak floors, forced air heat, thermostats and pation porches.

From Long Beach visitors should drive east on Seventh St. to Huntington Beach Blvd., then turn right to Westminster (17th in Santa Ana) then left to one block beyond the Santa Ana freeway underpass where a sign will point to the Santiago and 17th St. model home.

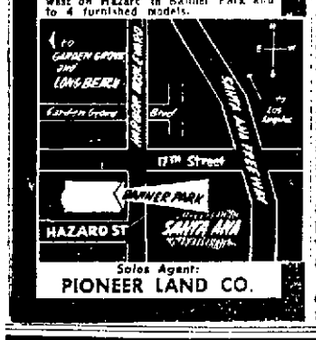

FEW OF THESE REMAIN

Casas Lindas Estates, in Garden Grove, is fast approaching sales completion. Featuring no-down payment to vets, a few choice homes, returned because original buyers failed to qualify, are still available.

Balboa Vista Homes Price Big Attraction

"This may sound funny, but the biggest problem our salesmen have in selling the $7995 Newport-Balboa Vista Freedom Home is explaining to the people that there are no gimmicks." This unusual statement was made by the veterans Walker & Lee unit manager, Paul Rowland, this week as he explained the many rarities that occur in the selling end of the building business.

"The low $7995 selling price for a three-bedroom home naturally draws large crowds to our model homes each day. The people come expecting to see a crackerbox or some unfinished homes. Instead, when they walk in and see three bedrooms—each large enough for twin beds, and 1345 square foot under roof houses—and all ready to move into, then they really start asking questions," Rowland added.

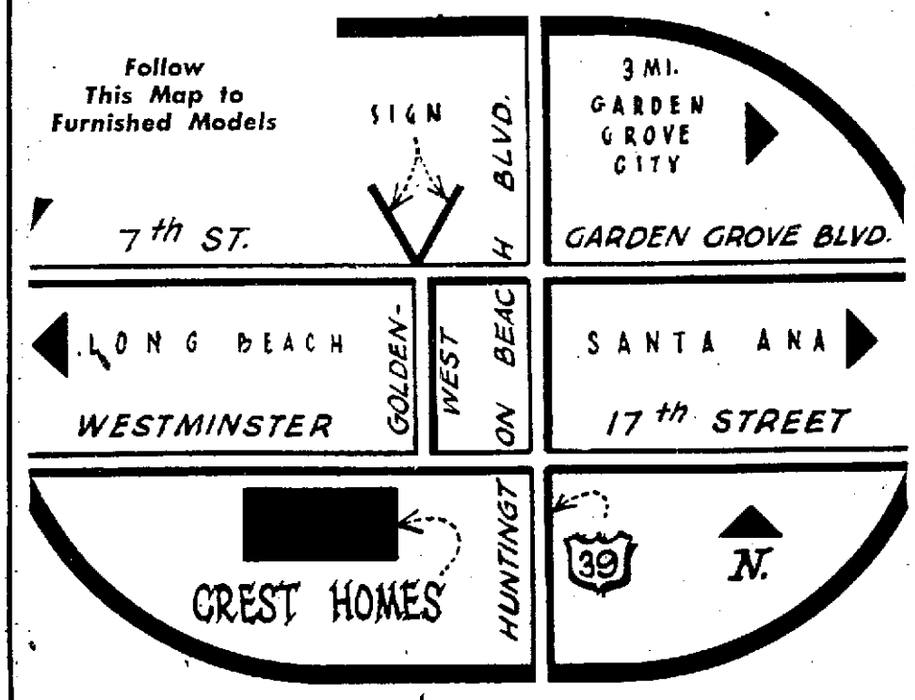

They want to know if there are any hidden costs, he explained, they want to see whether the walls are of paper and the floors are of plywood.

"They become as thrilled as owners of new cars as we walk them through and show them plaster walls, colored bathroom fixtures, nationally famous brands of gas heater, hot water heater, sinks, cabinets. We show them our top grade lumber, the cement content, the insulation in walls and ceiling—and we show them how every house is inspected close to 40 times by FHA, bank, county and city inspectors," Rowland continued.

Rowland added that the final explanation to convince the buyer that there are no "gimmicks" is to take him through the houses of any of the 500 families who have already bought and moved into the 800-unit tract that overlooks Newport Harbor.

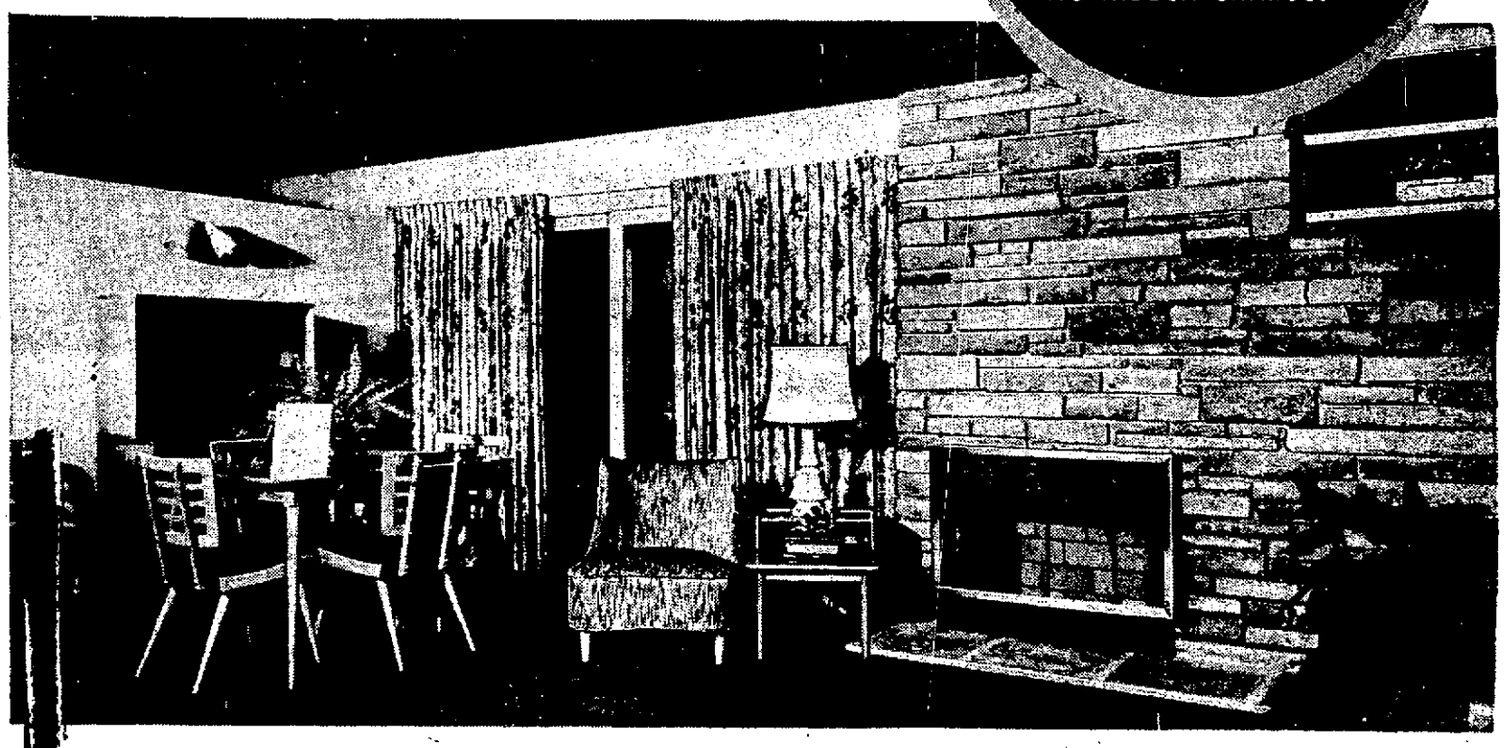

"When they ask the man who owns one, they learn that the builder believes in low profits and volume building, a policy that is patterned after the Ford Motor Car Company," Rowland said. "They learn that there are no gimmicks and that $7995 is the price the builder believes will best appeal to the masses of home buyers."

Savant Decorated

MOSCOW (AP)—The Order of Lenin has been awarded academician O. U. Schmidt, Soviet astronomer and physicist and one of the organizers of the Arctic Sea Route across Siberia, it was announced Saturday.

Troops Put Down Bloody Rioting in Indian State

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Troops hurried Saturday to put down bloody Hindu-Moslem rioting in Hyderabad, adjoining Bombay state. A Bombay police official said the riots followed the hoisting of Moslem Pakistan's flag over Hindu temples.

Fifteen persons were reported killed and 50 injured in the clashes at Gulbarga, 150 miles west of Hyderabad City near the Bambay state border, and at nearby Sagar village. Thirty shops were burned in Gulbarga.

Tension between Hindus and Moslems in Hyderabad City, the capital, appeared to reach the highest pitch since the Indian army "police action" against the fabulously wealthy Nizam of Hyderabad in 1948. The Moslem Nizam was campaigning at the time to make his predominantly Hindu state an independent nation outside the new Indian Republic.

Driver Collapses, Dies After Crash

YREKA (AP)—Peter M. Hurst, 45, of Weed, died Saturday when his auto smashed into the rear end of a stalled oil truck and trailer in heavy rain on U. S. Highway 99 about nine miles south of here.

The California Highway Patrol reported Hurst who was driving north alone, apparently had been blinded by the rain. Truck driver Chester Franklin Green, 36, Pinole, who was unhurt, said Hurst got out of his smashed car, walked a few feet, and collapsed.

The Siskiyou County Coroner's office said cause of death could have been a heart attack.

Fall Whispers at Al Fresco Parties

By JEAN B. MOORE

So subtle it doesn't surprise you until seconds later is the faint refrigeration in the air these afternoons and early evenings. A glance at the calendar shows that autumn is stealing softly into the picture, even in Southern California.

It will cause bare-shouldered women to don bejeweled cashmeres or luxurious stoles at al fresco parties this week end. The men will find their jackets or coats more comfortable than usual.

In a farewell-to-August mood were several couples in the city who chose their well manicured gardens for cocktail parties.

From Garden Grove and Laguna Beach as well as the sprawling Long Beach area came more than 200 guests Saturday night to converge upon the home of Pat and Sam Cameron, 4282 Pacific Ave.

With Verna and Lawrence Collins Sr. as co-hosts, their cocktail party from 5 to 8 p. m. was lighted by the sun's rays as it slipped behind the Palos Verdes hills.

Guests mingled about the olive tree in the patio where cocktails were served and then drifted off into smaller groups for chatter, serious and casual.

The olive tree itself was dressed as no other olive tree in the Southland. It wore orchids on its branches and was further clad in tropical leaf raiment, a probable shock to any observant olive lurking among the leaves.

Assisting the hosts in welcoming the guests were Della and Lester Lawson, Elva and Dick Lawson, Francine and Larry Collins Jr., Tess and Frances Heusel, Verla and Dick Browning and Winifred and Stowe Carney.

While a few of the guests slipped away to attend the Virginia Country Club luau, most lingered on. It was such a pleasant evening. . . .

A bit of whimsy borrowed from Paris—pink tablecloths trimmed in white cotton ball fringe—brought delighted comment from guests sharing cocktails in another Long Beach home during Saturday's twilight hours.

Mental notes on how the continent entertains were taken by Phil Esposito this summer when she toured Europe for six weeks. We suspect that the pink cloth idea is only one from her grab bag.

She and her husband, Dr. L. V. Esposito, and their co-hosts, Luba and Alex Kadvany welcomed 50 couples in the gardens of the large brick Esposito home on E. First St.

Not only in the pink cloths but in the persons themselves was the continent well represented. Many lived in Europe before coming to the States. There was Eddo Lubich, for instance, a charming Hungarian whose guitar added rich background to his songs.

The lighted braziers in the garden, the torches surrounding the waterlily pond and lanterns swaying in the patio formed a two-fold purpose. They banished any hint of chill in the air and their soft light was most flattering to the women.

Waxed blue and white water lilies in huge clam shells were accented by ti leaves, fern and figurines on the buffet table.

Assisting at the party, the first in a series planned by the hosts, were Drs. and Mmes. James Keipp, M. John Rowe Jr. and Howell Wiggins, the Martin A. Nishkians and Mrs. Mae Dennis.

Everything about Barbara Updike's and Nancy Wilcox's party for Rosemarie Frew was planned down to the prettiest detail. A casual observer who might have peeked into the beautiful gardens of Mrs. K. K. Kirkwood, Nancy's mother, on Thursday afternoon would have had no doubt as to the nature of the party.

From his vantage point on the pink net buffet table in the patio stood, stiff legged, a most sophisticated stork looking more bound for Sherm Billingsley's Stork Club in his top hat, pince nez and cane than a feminine party. But he spent the entire afternoon gazing raptly into a pink ruffled bassinet filled with pink roses and fern.

Pink and blue hobby horses rocked on beds of flowers on the tables set beneath umbrellas on the green lawn. After luncheon, Rosemarie found her gifts in a wicker bassinet that has been in Peter Updike's family for several generations.

In addition to the grandmothers-to-be, Winona Kelch and Ruth Frew, guests were Barbara Rowan, Barbara McCutcheon, Nancy Cree, Bette Edwards, T. D. Mahannah, Joan Sternberg, Barbara Miller, Jeanine Gjertson, Joanne Berry, Barbara Ivey, Loralee Turner, Barbara Moore, Judy Hickman, Ann Craig and Gloria Conti of Los Angeles.

This is the city. The time is the very near future. The address is the same. Only the number has changed to prevent any mailman's error. As friends of Nancy and Bill Brooks cruise down East Ocean they will stop in the future at 1800. That's the address, not Navy time. It's to be their new home. They will be surrounded by protection. Not only are Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Lauer their neighbors, but so are Gladys and Walter Furie, topside. Furie and Brooks have an affinity for each other. They were neighbors once before.

Prominent Educator Is Guest Here

A prominent visitor from Columbus, O., currently being feted at a series of parties in Long Beach, is Mrs. Florence Velcher who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Hadley at her Long Beach home, 32 Ximeno Ave.

Daughter of the noted educator, the late Dr. E. B. Bryan, who established the Philippines' educational system at the direction of President McKinley in 1901, Mrs. Velcher is a popular English teacher at a Columbus high school as well as an active alumna trustee of Western College for Women in Oxford, O., from which she was graduated in 1919.

A reunion with several of her Western classmates as well as many other long-time friends was the occasion for a recent blue and pink floral decor luncheon given at the home of Mrs. R. F. Cuyler, 4232 Heather Rd., Lakewood, Long Beach guests included Mmes. Benjamin Hadley, W. E. Wilkinson, Robert Cuyler, and Barry Morgan. Others were Mrs. Wayne Wright, Seal Beach; Mrs. Parvin Cook, Pasadena; Mrs. Earl Porter, San Marino, and Mrs. Edward Marples, Altadena.

Miss Patricia Cuyler assisted her mother as co-hostess.

Mrs. Velcher will remain here for another week when she will return to Columbus for the fall school term. Her daughter, Mrs. Hadley, who is also a Western alumna, class of '52, was a popular Junior Leaguer in Columbus before joining her naval officer husband, recently transferred here for active duty.

Flapper Era Dance Set

SETTING THE THEME for the "Roaring 20s" dance by Temple Beth Sholom Sisterhood are Mrs. Ray Carl, standing left, in a high fashion ensemble of the era, Max Fischman and Mrs. Henry Racoosin. The event will take place Sept. 11 in the Pageant Room of the Wilton Hotel. Mrs. Mel Marcus, program chairman, has arranged dance numbers, including the Charleston, to be performed by Sandra Fischman, Helen Rossman, Bea Racoosin, Lee Gayer, Helen Kern, Ruth Louis and Barbara Carl. Mrs. Ben Melrick, president of the Sisterhood, asks that members and guests come in costume for the affair.

Posing with a merry old Oldsmobile are Mrs. Sam Kern, left; Mrs. Harry Louis and Jack Feder, driver, as they set the theme for the Temple Beth Sholom Sisterhood "Roaring 20s" dance Saturday night, Sept. 11. Guests are asked to come in flapper era costume, as they will be judged during festivities in the Pageant Room of the Wilton Hotel. Mrs. Robert Jaffe and Mrs. Henry Racoosin are co-chairmen.—(Staff photos.)

Princess Margaret's Rival Leads the Alexandra Band

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two stories on Princess Alexandra and her mother, the Duchess of Kent, who are currently visiting in Canada and the United States. The second article will run Monday in both Independent and Press-Telegram Women's Sections.)

By GORDON LANGLEY HALL

Every blue-blooded young bachelor in Britain today is clamoring to get a place in "Alexandra's Band." Once all they wanted was a spot in the fashionable Margaret Set but Princess Margaret's young cousin, Alexandra of Kent, 17-year-old deb of the season has changed all that. She has even been partnered by several of her vivacious cousin's handsome beaux!

Princess Alexandra

Princess Alexandra, one of the three children of the elegant fashion leader, the Duchess of Kent, has inherited her mother's looks, brains and good taste in dress. She is also one of the least well off financially of Britain's royal family.

When her father, the Duke of Kent, was killed while on active service with the Royal Air Force in 1942 his allowance from the state died with him. Her mother received a pension of 398 pounds per year (approximately $1120.62), which is exactly the same as that allocated to any other air commodore's widow with three children. The Duke left an estate valued at 157,735 pounds (approximately $444,122.61) from which the Duchess and her family derive some income from interest incurred, but most of the capital has to be held in trust for Alexandra's elder brother, the present Duke of Kent.

The Duchess has often had to sell off antiques and jewelry to make ends meet. Her mother-in-law, the late Queen Mary, and her brother-in-law, the late King George VI, helped her at times. She has never shirked a single public engagement since her husband's premature death, in spite of living on a small budget. It was not until comparatively recently that the British newspapers revealed an inkling of her low finances. She even went to Communist-infested Malaya as a morale-booster to the inhabitants and planters who were living in daily dread of Communist raids upon their homes. The Duchess and her eldest son, the young Duke, traveled around Malaya in an armored car and more than once narrowly escaped being ambushed themselves.

Alexandra likes to do her own shopping and prefers buying custom-made dresses and suits directly from the best London stores, to having them made by court-appointed dressmakers. She loves color and has never had to battle for the right to wear what she liked at 17 as her cousins Lillibet (now Queen Elizabeth II), and Margaret did when they were her age.

Margaret who always adored her Aunt Marina (Alexandra's mother), used to declare as a child, "I am going to dress just like Aunt Marina when I grow up." Aunt Marina always took her part and Margaret who always got her own way anyhow with her parents, was to dress as she liked and become a leader of fashion in her own right. Lillibet was still wearing light pastel

Keiser Twins Leave for College

Thoughts of football games, classes and college fun occupy Deanna and Dean Keiser, twins of Mr. and Mrs. Verk Keiser of 3060 E. Second St.

Deanna will leave Sept. 10 on the Stephens special train for that college in Columbia, Mo., and Dean will report Sept. 23 for fall activities at Stanford University. The twins are entering their freshman year.

Dickinsons on Trip to Illinois

Now visiting in Wheaton, Ill., are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dickinson and their children, Joann and Richard Jr. They left Friday by car and plan to be gone about two weeks. Joann will enter Wheaton College this fall, the same school from which her parents were graduated. On the return trip, the Dickinsons will stop in Colorado Springs for a few days to sojourn with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Whitlock, parents of Mrs. Dickinson.

Hawaii Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hedricks, 9304 Park Ave., and their daughter Miss Sherry Ann Hedricks just returned from a month's vacation in the Hawaiian Islands.

Bid Farewell at Party

Prior to his leaving Sunday for new duties as a Marine Corps lieutenant in Japan, Dr. Chuck Bartell and wife, Patricia were hosts to a group of friends at a farewell cocktail party in their 53 86th Pl. home.

Dr. Bartell previously was stationed at Corona Hospital. Gathered to wish him farewell were Messrs. and Mmes. Ted Geary, Rex Morashe, C. A. Compton, Mrs. Eva Bartell, Rex Morashe Jr. and Geary Bartell.

Mrs. Fawkes, Navy Wife, in College

By VIRGINIA KELLY
I-P-T Washington Correspondent

It is not an all unusual to tell their children that school was a breeze for them the parents. One parent has proved the thesis to her three children this summer.

Mrs. Emerson E. Fawkes, wife of Comdr. Fawkes, has been attending Catholic University this summer working towards her master's degree.

Kitty Marie Fawkes is the daughter of Vice Adm. and Mrs. Walter F. Delany, formerly of Long Beach. The former commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier, Adm. Delany, is now the special adviser on East-West Trade to Mr. Stassen, FOA Chief.

Adm. and Mrs. Delaney have just returned from a three-week visit to Key West where they were the guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Walter Delany, Walter Jr. is stationed aboard a submarine. He and his wife and daughter live in an attractive, wind-swept Navy housing development situated right on the Gulf of Mexico.

Capt. Stephen M. Archer has been ordered as Chief of Staff to the Commander of Cruiser Division Two. In Washington, he has been stationed in the Bureau of Ordnance.

The newly appointed United States Ambassador to Paraguay, Rear Adm. Arthur A. Ageton, USN, ret., Mrs. Ageton and their son and daughter have arrived in Asuncion, Paraguay's capital.

Before sailing for South America, the Agetons had a restful holiday- swimming, sailing and fishing—in Maine.

For a number of years Adm. and Mrs. Ageton have maintained a home in Wardour at Annapolis but for the past several months they have lived in Washington.

Adm. Ageton has written a number of successful books. His latest book, "The Jungle

'Hobbies Give Dimension to Life,' Says Collector of Rare, Antique Paper Weights

By JOYCE KENT

"Hobbies, rightly handled, are neither narcotic nor time-killers. They give life a new dimension, a freshness and enthusiasm," explained Esther Cole Ryan of Long Beach in telling of her devotion of spare moments over the years to collecting antique glass, and more expressly, glass paper weights.

Though paper weights are heavy objects, they are by no means a heavy subject to petite, grey-haired Mrs. Ryan who talks with interest and authority on her hobbies.

In discussing hobbies in general, Mrs. Ryan said that there are actually only four purebreeds of "hobby horses" — doing, making, acquiring and learning things—but there are many cross breeds she said, "and we can ride much farther and more sure-footed on the steep grades of life if our load of work and worry be counterbalanced with a pannier of play and joyous interest."

Mrs. Ryan's interest in and love for rare old antiques dates 'way back in her family history, for hers was a family deeply steeped in the tradition and love of fine, old things.

Her own paper weight collecting began 50 years ago with one brought to her from Copenhagen, Denmark, by her seafaring brother.

Although her weights have included a variety of materials, shapes and forms, she counts only the glass weights as her "collection." Many happy hours have been spent in search of a special piece.

Nucleus and real beginning of her serious collecting is a weight of Bristol glass willed to her by a friend after she had admired it in the friend's home. The collection has grown through the years through contributions of friends who learned of her hobby and many valuable weights were added from all parts of the world by her brother, the late Cyrus Willard Cole, retired Navy admiral.

Tragedy, however, has befallen her original Bristol piece which, through a too sudden change in temperature, burst. She has painstakingly glued it together and it still bears a spot of honor in her collection.

Mrs. Ryan's hobby took her through 15 years as editor of the daily woman's page on the Toledo Blade in Ohio and as associate editor of the weekly Toledo Blade where she wrote under the by-line of Esther Cole Jackson.

Following her marriage to Dr. Ryan, she left her newspaper post for the job of homemaking for the doctor and rearing his four children in Syracuse, N. Y. Her hobby was reflected through her home which was furnished entirely with cherished antiques.

But, through financial necessity, many a hobby horse has been harnessed to a cart and has become a means of livelihood, said Mrs. Ryan, and so it was with the bulk of her collection when, following the death of her husband five years ago, she elected to move to Southern California to be near her brother.

The most cherished pieces of her art collection brought the highest prices so they were sold and she now makes her home at the Artaban Apartments surrounded by the items that remain.

Mrs. Ryan recalls with humor an incident involving one of her more cherished weights—one of Abraham Lincoln deeply etched in camphor glass—which she believes to be the only one of its kind.

When queried by a friend as to its "one of a kind" status after the friend had seen one like it in the window of an antique shop, Mrs. Ryan asked to be taken to see it. Only then, on seeing the piece which originally was an oblong shape, but which she had ground into oval shape because of edges worn jagged over the years, did she remember that the piece had been loaned to the dealer for an Abraham Lincoln Day window display!

Paper weights, particularly those of collector caliber, have never been produced commercially, but rather were created to show the glass blowers' ingenuity and were presented as gifts to friends, Mrs. Ryan said. Their European history is very old but can be traced in the United States back only to the Victorian era.

Many reproductions, and good ones, too, are being made today, she went on, but they can be detected through their coloring by the trained eye of one who truly loves fine glass.

Her favorites are those in which intricate floral designs and patterns are produced with canes and bits of colored molten glass, around which is "blobbed" the clear glass

Bramblet-Parks Ceremony Solemnized at Village Church

Billowing nylon tulle formed the skirt of the gown Miss Ann Parks wore for her marriage to Joe Turley Bramblet at 8 p. m. Aug. 20 at Lakewood Village Community Church.

The bodice of the bridal gown was of Chantilly lace, fashioned off-the-shoulder. Completing Miss Parks' bridal array was a pearl-trimmed crown holding in place her three-quarter length veil. She carried white orchids and stephanotis on a white Bible. For something old, she wore antique cameos belonging to the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Tom E. Bramblet, and carried a handkerchief of Battenberg lace, made by her great-grandmother.

The former Miss Parks is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kirtland G. Parks of 4135 Annapolis Rd. She attended Progress High School in Long Beach, Cottey College in Nevada, Mo., and Pepperdine College. Her affiliations are PEO, Bachelorettes and Chi Omega.

The bridegroom, 2049 Conquista Ave., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. Bramblet of Hannibal, Mo. He is a graduate of Hannibal High School and Hannibal-La Grange College where he was a member of Phi Theta Kappa.

Attendants for the young bride were Mrs. George Michaels, matron of honor; Linda Wood, sister of the bride, and Beverly Lancaster, bridesmaids. They were all attired in ballerina-length gowns of aqua crystalline, wore flared bridesmaids veils and carried pink carnation bouquets. The little flower girl, Andrea Helden, wore a floor-length gown of pink taffeta and tulle.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was George M. Michaels. Guests were escorted to their places by Charles W. Bell and David F. Parks. Rev. W. R. Hall and Rev. William Harrison. Myers solemnized the double ring service.

The wedding reception was at the home of the bride's parents where Mrs. Parks greeted guests in a gown of gray sheer organza and pink velvet accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose gold changeable taffeta with which she wore black velvet accessories. Guests gathered in the living room and spacious formal garden where lanterns in many colors were hung from large trees. The four-tiered wedding cake was pink and white and centered the refreshment table.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ben K. Parks, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Edwin Wade, at the coffee urns; Miss Jo Ann Parks and Mrs. William Parks, cousins of the bride at the punch bowl; Miss Ann Wissler, guest book; Mrs. Robert Heiden of Fullerton, Mrs. Guy Fuller of Oklahoma City; Mrs. Robert Walker and Mrs. King Parks.

After a honeymoon along the coast the newlyweds will reside at their newly furnished home at the Conquista Ave. address.

which forms the weight. As the outside glass cools and hardens, the lovely colored designs are captured within, as are air bubbles which add untold interest to the different designs.

Cherished along with her art objects by the collector are the many friends she has made through membership in the Long Beach Study Club and Goodwill Auxiliary since her arrival in Long Beach.

In summing up what her interests have meant to her over the years, Mrs. Ryan said, "My hobbies have kept open some doors that sorrow and trouble otherwise would have slammed, springing locks of inhibition for which I may not have had the key."

Mrs. W. Owen Windle

Miss Klotzly Recites Vows in Chapel

Miss Joanne M. Klotzly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cromley, 164 Nieto Ave., became the bride of W. Owen Windle, in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The double ring ceremony took place in Christ's Chapel, First Baptist Church, Aug. 20, with Rev. Owen T. Day officiating.

The bride was gowned in blue silk organza with matching jacket. She carried a white orchid and stephonotis corsage atop a white Bible, and a crown of orange blossoms on her head. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haskins. Mrs. Haskins wore a gold brocade dress and carried pink carnations with streamers.

The new Mrs. Windle is a graduate of Wilson High. Her bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Windle of Little Rock, Ark., had his schooling in Little Rock, then serving 3½ years in the Navy.

Engagement

Mrs. Edna G. McCoy of 13442 South Taft Street, Compton, announces the engagement of her daughter, Marilyn, to Bob W. Waters. The bride-to-be attended Lynwood High School and Compton Junior College. Her fiance attended school in Los Angeles and Inglewood and has just returned from 26 months active duty in Korea and Japan with the 24th division. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mrs. John Allan Ratkay

Miss Donna Halsey Weds John A. Ratkay at St. Luke's

St. Luke's Episcopal Church was the setting Thursday for the marriage of Miss Donna Gail Halsey and John Allan Ratkay. The young couple spoke their vows at 8 p. m. with Rev. F. C. Benson Bellliss officiating.

The former Miss Halsey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Halsey of 2255 Magnolia Ave. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ratkay of 222 Grand Ave.

For the single ring ceremony the bride was attired in a floor-length Cahill original, fashioned of illusion nylon tulle over layers of bouffant net. Exquisite Italian lace encircled the bodice above a smoothly fitting midriff, and soft folds of tulle defined the decolletage. An illusion fingertip-length veil, scalloped at the edge, cascaded from a pearl embroidered halo. Completing the bridal array was a shower of lilies of the valley, stephanotis and bouvardia, centered with a white orchid.

Pink lilac Empress style gowns of crystalette with bouffant ballerina-length skirts and matching jackets were worn by the bride's attendants, who were Miss Sharon Proppe, maid of honor; Miss Joanne Downing and Miss Jill Sullivan, bridesmaids. Their flowers were fuchsia gladioli in cascade arrangements. Little Judy Graves in a short nylon ruffled dress was flower girl.

Gordon Aiken was the bridegroom's best man, and escorting guests to their places were Ronald Rector, Philip Chandler, Jack Herron and Richard Chard.

After the ceremony the large assembly of guests gathered at Officers Club, Allen Center, for the reception. Mrs. Gordon Aiken presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Halsey's gown was of Italian blue lace with matching accessories, and her flowers were white butterfly orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of toast lace over delicate pink and a corsage of pink roselfie roses.

The popular young bride attended Poly High School and Long Beach City College. She was affiliated with SFO and TNT.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Wilson High School and City College where he was president of Junior Exchange Club, recently completed three years service in the Air Force as a jet pilot.

The newlyweds, after a wedding trip to Santa Barbara, will reside in Long Beach. The bridegroom will attend USC in the fall.

Princess Alexandra

shades "like Mother" right up until the time she married Philip who soon changed all that.

Princess Alexandra has also been able to enjoy more freedom from the public eye than her cousins Margaret and Lillibet. Most of her childhood was spent at Coppins, Iver, Bucks, a lovely old country house left her father by his aunt, Princess Victoria. There with her two brothers, the younger, Prince Michael George Charles Franklin named for President Franklin D. Roosevelt who was one of his godfathers, she lived the life of any other country child, playing in the fields and taking long walks through the quiet lanes.

She doesn't care to wear much make-up, and only recently since a visit to Paris "to complete her education" has she adopted a more sophisticated hair-style.

Alexandra loves jazz and like the other debs in her set has her own signature tune—"Ain't Misbehavin'." Her mother owns one of the best collections of modern jazz and calypso records in Great Britain. Margaret and Alexandra copied her example and now have collections of their own.

Mission Inn Scene of Nuptials

Dr. and Mrs. James H. McGranahan of 393 Haines Ave. announce the marriage of their daughter Anne Louise to Adam Sroczinski Novina, former of Wroslaw, Poland. The couple spoke their vows in the presence of the family Aug. 20 at Mission Inn, Riverside.

Attending the couple were Mrs. D. J. Moore of Sparta, Mich., and Edmund Reyman of Los Angeles.

For the ceremony the bride wore an Alice blue wool suitdress and a corsage of white roses. She is a graduate of USC, where she was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi, and attended Beloit College at Beloit, Wis.

The bridegroom served in the Army in his native Poland during World War II and with the French Army and the RAF in England. He lived in England for several years before coming to the Uinted States.

The couple will reside in Los Angeles.

Taubmans' Granddaughter Recites Vows in Garden

The hilltop garden of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Bernard Cooper in the San Rafael Hills was the setting for the marriage of Margaret Ann Kirkpatrick and Lt. Alfred Louis Werker of the Air Force.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bruce Kirkpatrick of Los Angeles, and granddaughter of Mrs. George P. Taubman Sr. and the late Dr. Taubman, well known in Long Beach.

Family and close friends attended the informal ceremony.

Mrs. George Taubman Kirkpatrick of Pasadena, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Rosemary Wood of Anaheim, bridesmaid.

Attending the bridegroom were Robert D. Harrell Jr. of North Hollywood, as best man; Ben Massey Jr. of Arcadia, James Bauder of La Canada, George T. Kirkpatrick, brother of the bride, and Gene Ross Jr. of Newport Beach, ushers.

The Rev Alexander K. Campbell, rector of St. David's Episcopal Church, North Hollywood, read the marriage service.

The bridal party assembled in the garden before an improvised altar flanked by urns of white gladiolus and candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ankle length grown of peau de soie and imported French lace. Her illusion veil fell to shoulder length, and she carried white roses with stepanotis.

A reception followed in the opposite end of the garden where the bridal table was laid with wedding cake wreathed in white gardenias.

Lt. and Mrs. Werker are to make their home in Alaska where he is stationed at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Anchorage. They are honeymooning at La Jolla and will motor to Seattle, en route to their new home.

Mrs. Werker was graduated from Occidental College where her family has long been prominent in student and alumni affairs. She joined Alpha sorority and was elected to Mortar Board. She received her master's degree at Stanford following a year of graduate work there.

The bridegroom, graduate of the Harvard School, North Hollywood, is also an Occidental graduate and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Buffet Luncheon at Towne Club

Handwriting analyst Miss Happy King will speak at the 12:30 p.m. buffet luncheon meeting Wednesday of the Women's Activities Committee of the Towne Club.

Her subject will be "The Personal Equation in Handwriting," and the meeting will take place at the Towne Club, 1150 E. Ocean Blvd.

Hula lessons are being given Thursday evenings by Val Moore.

A bridge lecture series will be inaugurated by the group the first Thursday in September, with Mrs. Helen Mangold as instructor.

Bachelorettes Aid Children

Recipient this year of the Bachelorettes annual charity donation was the Exceptional Children's Foundation who received the group's proceeds from a recent Summer Charity Dance at Whites Point.

Pat Denny, vice president, was in charge of the dance and was assisted by committee members, Joan Parks, decorations; Nancy Telegdi, refreshments, and Joan Fisher, bids.

Island Decor, Food Sparks Gala Luau

Hibiscus and sea shells coupled with romantic lighting in hues of gold recently transported 40 guests of Rene and Frank Gurich of 1832 Bellflower Blvd. to a setting of Hawaiian charm where they enjoyed a luau.

Cook Harry Siufanua, a native of Samoa, entertained guests with ukulele songs while a pig was roasting in the pit. Guests also enjoyed his Haupia, Hawaiian pudding. Gerrilyn Harley and Bobbie Burgess provided the dance entertainment.

Decorations were arranged by Diane Coray of Honolulu and Elaine Beaker of Long Beach. Leonard Wells arranged the lighting.

Kiwanis Put on Style Show for Wives

By IOLA MASTERSON

Have you ever watched a man at a woman's fashion show? Or, rather, let's put it this way: Have you ever heard a man at a fashion show? They're a bundle of activity the whole time especially when, as at downtown Kiwanis Club's Ladies Day luncheon and fashion show of last Tuesday, they have the moral support of all their buddies in the room as well as their wives close by to hear their spirited remarks.

It is decidedly apparent, though, that they enjoy seeing the models as well as the ladies. The ladies go them one better and enjoy seeing the clothes, too.

Be that as it may, Tuesday at the Lafayette was quite a day as Kiwanian Walt Jordan and Wilma Hastings joined forces to present an excellent fashion show.

Bill Harris, president of the club, was urged to model his new figure, now that there are 26 pounds less of him and he did so, supported by two lovely mannequins. No wonder he was in no hurry about returning to his seat!

Debonair ex-Governor Frank Merriam was there, too, and someone remarked "Notice Frank always shows up when the ladies are present!"

THE SUPPER ROOM was packed but we did stretch and twist around long enough to glimpse Ina and Jay Reed, Joyce and John Berry, Treva and Karl Grassle, Esther and G. T. Davis, Barbara and Ted Corcoran, Joyce and Bud Holton, Ethel and "Giff" Hanson, Helene and Jack Drown, Merlam and George Irwin, Margaret and Bob Kulp, Amy and Hugh Anderson, Irene and "Sig" Sigworth, Henrietta and Frank Tallant, and a raft of others.

Quickies from the fashion part: Every hat was tiny—cinnamon and brown paired up nicely—lots of after-five wool gowns—jewelry continues big, pretty, and lots of it—elongated waistlines—subdued shades in elegant colors—black velvet—combined cotton and wool fabrics. Hang on to your wallet, Papa, here we go again!

The echo of wedding bells rang in Ruth and Gordon Dougherty's memories last weekend as they celebrated their 16th with tete-a-tete dinner at the Beachcomber in Hollywood.

More anniversaries! Pat and Art Kempster, in company with Kay and Al Bixler, toasted the merry occasion at Kelly's last Saturday night.

JEAN AND HOWARD Mann and the youngsters returned from a "vunderbar" vacation last weekend. They spent two ridin', sunnin', and relaxin' weeks at a Jackson Hole dude ranch.

620 Los Altos will be a busy spot come Tuesday morning at 10 a. m. 620 is Ruth Moore's address and, as co-chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower group here, she'll open her home to this gang of "Ike's" loyalest rooters at an organizational Coffee Hour. Nancy Brooks, co-hostess with Ruth, is general chairman of the coffee hours.

Tuesday, too, Valley Knudsen and Peg Hasting will be down from Los Angeles and Peg will show the movies her dad, Paul Helms, took of the President and Mamie when they visited at Smoke Tree Ranch in Palm Springs last winter.

Some of the gals who plan to be at Ruth's and get their tickets to the Hollywood Bowl for Sept. 23 (when "Ike" will make his personal appearance in Southern California) are Juanita Stubbs, Isadine McCall, Helen Fielding, Marge Conley, Mrs. Stanley Toppen, Hope Cunningham, Jody Alpers, Mary Nell Hartman, and Nona Lantz.

But perhaps the biggest thing they'll do Tuesday is prepare final "this-is-hows" for the coffee hours opening rally to be held at Lakewood Country Club Sept. 28. It's hush-hush yet the big Hollywood celebrity who'll attend but, we understand, it'll make news when announced.

An informal get-together at Pat Van de Water's Thursday afternoon enabled a gang of close friends to catch up in the "What's New" Dep't. But most especially, in the W. N. Dep't, with Edith May (Raney) Cheshire down from Azusa and with Rosemary Wilson who hasn't been back so very long.

This weekend marks the important annual race week for Newport Yacht Club and that means Long Beachers are crowding the roads and the sea lanes going to and fro. Among the Penguin sailors sure to be doing their almightiest are Lucille and Art Glasier, Myrna and Dana Brown, Sherry Hossom, Lois and Lloyd Landis, Lois and George Chapman, Mary and Ted Matson, Jean and Phil King and Ann and Sid Exley.

ALAMITOS BAY Sabots fleet champion Charlie Durnin has been joined, not only by his sisters, Mary Anne and Janet, but by such other young wind in the mast enthusiasts as Mary and Suzanne Chunn, Jill and Jody Biby, Pat and Sue Exley, Dick Landis, Linda Hossom, George Nettleman, Dulcie Ramsey and John and Charles Weber.

The earthquake Thursday morning would be termed in the trade, "settler" type. Other "settlers" in the area, "shaken" by the harrowing experience of moving and getting adjusted to a new home, are Betty Jean and Ed Ingles who are now moved in and adjusting family life at 38 58th Pl.

Back to Sacramento has gone Ann Fisher Stroppini, who vacation visited with sister, Louise Voigt, for three weeks before returning last weekend.

WISER IN THE WAYS of "How to Select a Ripe Pineapple" and "How to Do the Hula" are Lois and Odie Wright, who flew back into town last weekend after a simply wonderful time in the Islands. They floated over on the Lurline.

Dr. and Mrs. Vass to Sail on Queen Mary for London

The at home address of Dr. C. C. Norroy Vass and his bride, Ethel June McLean, will be 54 Heathcroft, Hampstead Way, London, England. Their marriage Wednesday evening at First Congregational Church climaxes a romance begun six years ago aboard an Atlantic ship as she returned from a trip to England and he was on his way to doctors' convention in Montreal.

The couple will honeymoon at Banff, Lake Louise and New York before sailing Sept. 8 on the Queen Mary.

Their wedding vows were spoken Wednesday evening in the main sanctuary of First Congregational Church with Rev. William McCance officiating.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Ethel P. McLean of Compton, was attired in a traditional white satin gown embroidered with seed pearls in a flower design and extending into a long train. A pearl coronet held her fingertip-length veil, and she wore an heirloom bracelet of gold belonging to her grandmother. Her flowers were a white orchid and lilies of the valley.

In the bridal party were Miss Frances Easterbrooks, maid of honor; Lucille McLean, bridesmaid; Deborah Wahnish, flower girl; Dr. Dermott Taylor, best man; Coy Sanders and James Wasner, ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Wilson High School, Long Beach City and State Colleges. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. A. E. Voss of Northampton, England, is a graduate of Leeds University in England and an associate professor of physiology at St. Thomas Hospital Medical School at the University of London.

ENGAGEMENT of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Robert C. Smith has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Orrs of Garden Grove. Miss Orrs was graduated in June from Garden Grove Union High School. Her fiance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Smith of Long Beach, is a graduate of Jordan High School and is serving with the Navy.

Breakfast, Musicale for Pianist

A birthday breakfast honoring James Mathis of New York City, concert pianist, was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Allen. The honored guest is a student at Juilliard School of Music and will study this fall in Vienna. After breakfast the young guests played badminton.

The previous evening Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cross entertained for the pianist at a musicale on the Roof Garden of the Lafayette Hotel.

Entertaining with musical selections were the honored guest and tenor Mallory Walker and Miss Willojean Maylen.

Among guests was former Governor Frank C. Merriam, who paid tribute to the young musicians.

Others attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Roy Campbell, Curtis Allen, Jobe Blackman, Lew Cox, James Murphy Sr., James Murphy Jr., Rex Hodges, Ford Montgomery, Mmes. B. Hoag, Ina Newman, Rosa Hunt, Hazel Merriam, Kathryn Wiand, Miss Betsy Byrns and from Phoenix, Ariz., James Murphy III.

Lady Lions Unit Slates Election

Downtown Lady Lions Club will meet Friday noon at the Apple Valley Steak House, according to club president, Marvelle McNulty.

"This will be a highly important meeting," said Mrs. McNulty, "as it will feature our annual election of officers for the year 1954-55."

Co-hostesses for the luncheon meeting will be Mmes. George Ezell, Ed Murray and William Fenwick. Bridge and canasta will follow the election.

For Mrs. Nowell

The executive board of Lakewood Federation of Republican Women were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. K. McCall, 4457 Greenbrier Rd., honoring Mrs. Jackson Nowell, who is moving to Hawaii.

Silver Year Celebrated

Capt. Lyman Vaughn, USN (ret.), and Mrs. Vaughan celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at Officers Club, Allen Center, where they entertained a number of civilian and service friends at a party. A traditional decorated cake was served.

Miss Maryalice Gallagher, a cousin of Mrs. Vaughan, was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. H. F. Delmore and Mrs. T. B. Scanlan were assisting hostesses.

Recreation Park Co-operative Play Group Mothers will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. William K. Jones, 4314 E. 15th St. to plan fall activities and to discuss the current membership drive.

All mothers with children aged two to five who are interested in joining the group should call Mrs. Jones.

Beginning Sept. 20 the group will meet three mornings a week at Recreation Park with Teacher Betty Comings for creative activities, free play and rhythms.

Virginia Call New Bride

First Methodist Church in Reno was the scene of a wedding uniting two well known Compton residents. The bride, Virginia Call, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Call of 810 W. Poplar St. and the bridegroom, David Moreland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Vincent of 708 S. Sloan Ave. Both are former students of Compton Junior College. Rev. T. Thomas read the wedding lines.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white paper taffeta, with a cocktail length pleated skirt with fitted bodice and small stand-up collar.

Attending the young couple were Mr. and Mrs. C. Faith of Big Creek.

Among Career Women

Insurance Women of Long Beach to Begin Club Year

By ANNE GILCHRIST

September is rapping gently at the door and will enter our lives on Wednesday. With the arrival of this gracious month comes a reawakening of interest in club circles as members actively prepare for the always busy and enjoyable fall and winter months.

Among the first of September meetings will be that of Insurance Women which will be held Thursday at the Victor Hugo. Jane Ann Campbell will preside as members and guests hear insurance man Bob Tuck of the Fireman's Fund discuss various phases of the insurance business.

Of particular pleasure to members will be welcoming Opal Alspaugh and son, Douglas, to the meeting. A member of the Tucson, Ariz., Insurance Women's Club, she is currently visiting in Long Beach.

Program chairman Marie Eckles is in charge of the evening's arrangements.

Zonta Club

A word picture travelogue was given Zonta Club members at their monthly dinner meeting, held last week at Victor Hugo. Edna Roach, who recently returned from a European trip, described her travels. She was particularly impressed with her attendance at a meeting of the Zonta Club in London, England, where she was welcomed as a special guest.

It was announced that the luncheon meetings, held the first Thursday of each month, would be held at the Victor Hugo as well as the monthly dinner meetings this year.

Guests of the evening introduced were Hazel Bateman, Ann Anderson, Helen Hart, Zazelle Becker and Vera Clark.

Lambda Sigma Pi

A patio dinner meeting at the home of Eudora Wilson, 3824 Elm Ave., provided an extremely pleasant evening for members of Delta Chapter of Lambda Sigma Pi last week when they met for the first time since June. President Mabel McCullough led her first regular meeting since induction.

Seated at quartet tables in the patio, where summer flowers and bright table covers vied for attention, members heard plans proposed for the coming club year. Among these undertakings will be a rummage sale in October and the annual banquet of September.

Social chairman Cordelia Crawford, her co-chairman Katherine Rockwell, and hostess Eudora personally prepared the delectable dinner of meat balls, spaghetti, fresh peach cobbler, and other dishes.

Della Johnson was welcomed as special guest of the evening.

Osteopathic Medical Assistants

First annual picnic of the Long Beach Osteopathic Medical Assistants was an affair of great success and was held at Houghton Park. Close proximity to the Jordan High pool made swimming for the entire group possible. Following the swimming, members held a gay and informal wiener roast in the park.

Mary Chamberlain and "Hap" Walters were co-chairmen of the party.

Next meeting of the Assistants will be on Sept. 14 at Vivian Laird's.

Transportation Club

Mary Kay Kelly (Western Airlines) was the gracious hostess to executive board of the Women's Transportation Club of Long Beach at cocktails and dinner recently preceding the directors' last business meeting. Following dinner, discussion centered upon the design of the new club pin as well as plans for an annual charity affair which will be held in October.

The last regular dinner meeting of this club was held at the Towne Club with Joe Cooper of the Wine Advisory Board appearing as guest speaker.

The program was also highlighted by remarks from Madge Henderson, western representative of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America. She reported on many recent activities of ATC.

Vacations

Popular Jo Maes Knoerr of Long Beach, state president of the California National Secretaries Association, left Friday with husband, Gene, for a trip to Europe. Flying from here to New York, they were scheduled to board another plane there bound for Brussels, Belgium, where Jo worked for eight years previous to coming here. In Brussels they will be met by Jo's former boss who will drive them to Ghent where they will visit Jo's mother.

In addition to visiting family and friends in Belgium, the traveling Knoers will sightsee in Madrid, Paris, and London before returning home in about three weeks. Another portion of the trip which should prove interesting for Jo will be visiting many customers in Europe of Dumont Aviation, the company for whom she works here.

Three Major Fetes Staged in Garden Grove Saturday

By JANET S. REYNOLDS

It was the busiest Saturday of the summer yesterday for Garden Grove residents. Three major affairs—a fashion show, a picnic, and a garden supper party—drew capacity crowds each and left almost no one at home!

Nothing but fun abounded at the garden party, sponsored by the Garden Section of the Woman's Civic Club, at the Roscoe Gockley home, 11741 Gilbert St. Whole families trooped into the Gockley patio and overflowed into all corners of the lot to eat a buffet dinner and join the games.

The party was the section's money-raising project for the Civic Club's building fund for new headquarters. Chairman of the arrangements committee was Mrs. Glendon Harris, section chairmen, and assisting her were Mrs. Gockley, immediate past president of the club; Mmes. L. L. Trout, Helen Hjelm, Athaline Deschner, Charles Stokes, R. F. Calvin, Harold Peters, L. J. Shennon and R. F. Knoll.

Everyone gobbled up the chili-size dinner and had a big time playing various games, ranging from lawn croquet to canasta, but the biggest entertainment of all was furnished by the chefs. Presiding over the supper were those intrepid hubbies — Norman Butters, Roscoe Gockley, Glendon Harris and Les Trout.

Most Grove families who didn't have supper at the garden party were out at Orange Park where Nichols Manor residents held their annual picnic. Gathering about 4:30 p. m. the group pursued some strenuous sports before supper.

Harriet Price headed the committee responsible for the big time and assisting her were Lavone Woolley, Jane Adams and Danene Stewart.

While the children cooled off in the park swimming pool, their pops pitched horseshoes and the real athletes in the crowd played tennis. Supper, family style, came out of intriguing picnic baskets.

The fashion show didn't actually compete quite with the two eating affairs and some who attended them managed to make the show, later in the evening, at the Masonic Temple.

Here, under leadership of honored Queen Jeri Lumsden, Job's Daughters presented its periodic back-to-school fashions. The show featured fall clothes for the high school miss but mother was not forgotten, nor were the young men nor the tykes.

Bethel members who were to model for teen-agers included Helen Holt, Molly Grafton, Alice Martin, Diane Moore, Carole Larsen, Nancy Kraushaar, Barbara Imel, Barbee Gryson, Dixie Dobkins, Sylvia Bell, Peggy Whedbee, Karen Savage, Joy Inman, Anita Blender, Beverly Bomar and Shirley Rice.

Modeling women's fashions were Mrs. H. L. Lumsden and Mrs. John Gryson and the small fry parading what's new were Dick Lumsden and Melody White. High school male attire was shown by Don Dobkins, Paul Shellenbarger and Jack Hart.

Tiny garments and accessories, presented to Mrs. William Conger ("Bobbie" to her friends), brought forth the usual coos and murmurs of delight at a baby shower given for her.

Thirty feminine friends gathered for dessert in the early evening at the home of Mrs. Jim Stillwell, 12812 S. West St., cohostess with Maggie Pointer, Casey Knight, and Lu Sullivan.

Surrounding the floral centerpiece, cakes decorated with baby figures spelled out "Conger" in pink and blue. After the buffet, a table-load of miscellaneous gifts was wheeled in for Bobbie to open.

Recite Vows in Compton

Rev. Arthur H. Atkins, read the wedding lines which united in marriage Joyce Brown, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Tinnell of 219 W. Taylor St., Compton, to Allen F. Shanebrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Shanebrook of Littlestown, Pa.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert Tinnell, was gowned in pink faille with bouffant skirt, scoop neckline and fitted bodice. She chose blue accessories and a white orchid completed her ensemble.

Dolores Abbott was her only attendant, with Bruce Johnson as best-man and Jerry Tinnell as usher.

The bride was born in Utah and was graduated from the Victorville High School. The bridegroom is a native of Pennsylvania and received his education there. He has served four years in the United States Navy and is a veteran of Korea, soon to be discharged. The young couple will make their home in Compton.

JOIN PTA COUNCIL

NEW LEADERS

Enthusiasm plus leadership is shown in new leaders of Parent Teachers Associations throughout the city. Although fall is still a few months away, plans for projects are being discussed. Pictured above are a few of the unit presidents, Mrs. C. S. Hawthorne, Cubberly; Mrs. C. Carter Schneider, Emerson; Mrs. James C. Cox, Fremont; Mrs. Verne C. Trauntvein, Gant; Mrs. Robert Coykendall, Gompers; and Mrs. James A. Shockney, Henry.

Democratic Study Club Sets Meet

Democratic Women's Study Club will meet for luncheon Wednesday at noon in the Pageant Room of the Wilton Hotel. Program Chairman Mrs. Jacklyn Nutter will introduce Byron Scott, former congressman from the 18th District. Scott, now a practicing attorney in Washington, D.C., will speak on the Harry Dexter White case.

Reservations should be made with Democratic Headquarters, 132 W. Ocean Blvd., or with the luncheon chairman, Mrs. Zita Remley of 10½ Mira Mar Ave.

The morning study hour and business meeting, led by Mrs. W. C. Williams, president, will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Golden Age Club

A potluck luncheon will be served at noon Thursday in Linden Hall to members and friends of Golden Age Club.

Patio Luau for Young Californians

A festive luau was held by the Young Californians Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Stockwell. The patio was decorated to carry out the theme of a tropical setting with palm fronds, colorful hibiscus, and white flower leis. A small Hawaiian hut enclosed the refreshment bar.

The long low tables, decorated with flower blossoms, candles, and sea shells, were placed on the lawn around which the group sat native style. The fare included an assortment of exotic types of "finger food."

To add to the gaiety the guests were attired in island costume. After the feast all enjoyed dancing.

TEA AT TAUBMAN HOME

Wives of top-ranking armed forces officers in this area gathered at the Park Estates home of Mrs. George P. Taubman Jr. Tuesday for a tea honoring Mrs. Carter Collins of Berkeley, organizer of Wives of the Armed Forces, Inc. Gathering in the colonial home's portico are from left, Mmes. Joslyn Bailey, Christian F. Schilt, Taubman, Collins, Bradner Lee Jr. and Howard Kingman. Mrs. Collins is reorganizing the Wives of Armed Forces among various officers wives' clubs in the Pacific area. Among the many purposes of the organization explained by Mrs. Collins was "to promote education and information for every wife in the services regarding her rights, duties, privileges and responsibilities as a wife in the great armed forces family." She also stressed the wives' role in community welfare projects and in "stabilizing the prestige of the American home and family in the minds of our Allies."

Select New Skin-Tone Hosiery

A new merchandising concept in hosiery—colors to complement the natural skin-tones of American women—has been introduced by Bur-Mil Cameo.

This new approach is in direct contrast to previous thinking of the entire hosiery industry—selecting hosiery colors to complement apparel shades.

According to Howard Kaiser, sales director, hosiery division, Burlington Mills Corp., the individual skin-tone is used as a guide by women when selecting hosiery colors, shown by the fact that women will instinctively slip the stocking over her hand.

And, he pointed out, a woman cannot change her basic skin-tone as she might change the color of her hair.

This new concept of hosiery colors, developed for the Bur-Mil Cameo stocking brand, follows a nationwide survey to determine the leading skin-tones of American women among the six basic skin types pre-selected by Helena Rubenstein, a leading beauty authority.

As a result of the survey, which emphasized the fact that there is no American skin-tone but variations of the six, ivory, pink, medium, radiant, olive and sepia, Bur-Mil Cameo has devised colors that complement the consumer's own basic skin-tone.

For each classification there will be not one but several colors both for day time and evening wear, just as there are cosmetics and lipsticks for the same purpose. Basic wardrobe colors still play a part in the hosiery shades selected but a secondary one.

The fact that hosiery yarns have been developed that are as sheer as 12 and even 10 denier, it is essential that stocking manufacturers no longer just make leg coverings but the most flattering, most easily applied leg make-up in the form of skin-tone hosiery.

Bur-Mil Cameo realizes that its success is closely tied to the success of the industry as a whole. Bur-Mil Cameo is convinced that perhaps one of the reasons the industry has made little progress in selling the idea of a hosiery wardrobe has been due to the fact that the color selection recommended has so often run counter to a woman's own instinctive recognition of the colors which best flatter her complexion.

Bur-Mil Cameo believes that skin-tone hosiery provides a basic for women to indulge their taste for color variation, provided that it is within the framework of colors suitable for her complexion.

(For the name of the store showing this merchandise phone Susan at 705951, Ext. 249, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, ress-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

NEW HOSIERY

Hosiery for fall is keyed to a woman's basic skin-tone. For each one of six complexion tone categories: Ivory, Pink, Medium, Radiant, Olive and Sepia there is a variety of shades keyed to best harmonize with that complexion.

Pair Wed in Lynwood

A trip to the High Sierras followed the ceremony joining Miss Ingelore H. Pajong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pajong of Norwalk, and Kenneth C. Broudy, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Broudy of Maywood. The couple were wed at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Lynwood.

The reception for 80 guests was at the church.

Mrs. Kenneth C. Broudy

The bride, who was born in Germay, came to the United States in 1952. She has just completed vocational nurse's training at Seaside Memorial Hospital.

The newlyweds will reside in Maywood.

Service Wives

Service Wives Co-ordinating Committee of the Long Beach and Los Angeles area will meet at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday at Officers Club, Allen Center, for luncheon. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Leon Forman, 2009 Marber Ave., by Monday morning.

Navy Wife

Seas," has been termed the regular Navy's answer to the "Caine Mutiny." However, Adm. Ageton told me recently that this idea is quite mistaken.

The plot idea for "The Jungle Seas" percolated about in Adm. Ageton's thoughts for a number of years before he wrote the book. The serious motivation for the story, he asserted, is the reaction of the men of the Navy to the stresses of war.

Bailey Yeager, son of Capt. and Mrs. Howard Yeager, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Bailey, in Salina, Kan. He'll return to Washington in time to start the school year at Wilson High.

Bailey's young aunt, Mrs. Alexander Redon, and her daughter, Mary Jean, are also visiting the Baileys in Kansas. Comdr. Redon, on the staff of an amphibious group, is now in Europe.

Capt. Yeager, the Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Personnel for Special Projects, and Mrs. Yeager live at Quebec House.

They are delighted because their long time friends, Capt. and Mrs. Robert Barnes, are moving to Quebec House this week.

Capt. Barnes has recently come to Washington as Maintenance and Repair officer for Military Sea Transportation Service. He was formerly stationed at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard.

Capt. and Mrs. Barnes have two daughters, Elizabeth and Roberta. Elizabeth will enter Holton Arms Junior College here this fall.

Gracious Hospitality Extended Prior to Dance

As always, the Cotton Ball staged by Ebell Juniors last weekend was a great success. Members with their husbands and friends gathered at the Lafayette Supper Room for a delightful informal evening of dancing. Proceeds will go to the Exceptional Children's Foundation of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Welsh, 3256 Marber Rd., entertained members of the decorations committee and their husbands in their home before the dance. Those attending were Messrs. and Mmes. C. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dixon entertained at the wee hours this morning with a breakfast in their home.

(The Ebell Juniors Annual Cotton Ball will be held Aug. 28 in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel, Bob Callaway and his orchestra.)

UDC Luncheon

Annual luncheon honoring the memory of Gen. Joe Wheeler will take place in the Garden Room of Lafayette Hotel Sept. 8. Members and friends of the UDC Chapter may make reservations with Mrs. C. W. Bean, 455 E. Ocean Blvd. Officers of the UDC California Division will be guests of the chapter.

AT A GARDEN dinner party, Mr. and Mrs. Ted R. Shaw of Hollydale announced the engagement of their daughter, Arlene, to Leland B. Lilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Lilley, Lynwood. The couple will wed Sept. 18.

Pair Leave for Year of Study Abroad

Mr. and Mrs. William F. O'Neill of 6516 E. Ocean Blvd. left a few days ago for Vienna, Austria, to study for a year at University of Vienna. Before sailing Sept. 8 on the SS Maatsdam from New York City, the couple are visiting in New Orleans, La., Washington, D.C., Rhode Island and New York.

The couple plan to travel in eight countries, France, Holland, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Spain, Morocco and Austria, before returning here at the end of next summer.

Before their departure, the O'Neills, both Long Beach school teachers, were honored at several farewell parties. They are both graduates of Poly High School, City College and State College.

Galitz-Rowe Speak Vows

The Baptist Evangelical Church of Compton was the scene of the wedding of Sue Rowe and Ted Galitz with the Rev. O. E. Holler performing the wedding rites. Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rowe of 525 West Laurel, Compton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Galitz, 1263 Niland Ave., Compton.

The bride, given in marriage by an uncle, Robert Johnson, was gowned in a semi-formal white embroidered organdy over voluminous petticoats. A seed pearl tiara held her shoulder length veil and her jewelry consisted of a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom. She carried a white orchid on a white Bible. Maid of honor was Nancy Sammon, in semi-formal pink taffeta with a white carnation corsage. Attending the groom was his brother, Bob, as best man, with Ronnie Williams and Herb Tschauner as ushers. Martha Skinner accompanied Jackie Parker as she sang: "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was held at the home of the groom with more than 150 guests present. The new Mrs. Galitz is a graduate of Compton High School and a former member of the drill team. The groom is a native of Compton and also graduated from Compton High School. He is now serving in the U. S. Army and is stationed at Fort Hood, Texas.

The young couple honeymooned at Corona Del Mar and returned to Compton temporarily before the groom's return to duty and European assignment. Mrs. Galitz plans to join her husband overseas as soon as possible.

Collar Stress

Your husband's shirt collars will last longer if he'll remember to slip his necktie into place under the collar before donning his shirt. This is better than forcing the collar up and back down again after it has been buttoned. The latter procedure results in excess wear and stress on the collar, causing it to wear out before giving full service.

Sisterhood Luncheon on Calendar

Temple Sinai Sisterhood will gather for luncheon at Temple Sinai Auditorium Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. There will be a short business meeting followed by a social afternoon of cards.

Hostesses for the luncheon are Mmes. Harold Goldblatt, Benjamin Goldman, Jack Herman, Charles Krieger, Joseph Lebby, Edward Milkes, Benjamin Psachie, Jerry Ruttenberg, Sidney Singer and Joseph Solomon.

Traditional Gown Chosen for Nuptials

In an Elizabethan-style gown of traditional white satin, fashioned entrain and with a hoop skirt, Miss Elsa Richter spoke her marriage vows with G. Arthur Hopkins at 3:30 p.m. Saturday at First Congregational Church.

In her hair the bride wore a crown headdress to hold her fingertip-length veil. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet of cascading white roses centered with white orchids.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Richter Sr. of Rolling Hills, the bride was attended by Mrs. Stephen Cornett as matron of honor, and Mrs. Michael Browne, bridesmaid. Gail Ellyn Richter, the bride's niece, was flower girl.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carlton, Orange Park Acres, Orange, was served by his brother, David Hopkins, as best man. Ushering were Henry L. Richter Jr., Stephen Cornett and Dean Provost.

After honeymooning in Catalina the newlyweds will live in Rolling Hills. Both are students at Long Beach State College. She is also a graduate of Narbonne High School and Harbor Junior College and attended Art Center School in Los Angeles. Her husband is a graduate of Santa Ana High and Santa Ana Junior College.

Debutante Ball Set at Balboa Bay Club

Fourteen young ladies, members of prominent Orange County families, will be presented to society at the first annual Deubtante Ball Dec. 28 at the Balboa Bay Club under sponsorship of the Newport Harbor Auxiliary, Children's Home Society.

Purpose behind the courtly ceremony will be financial aid and support to the Children's Home Society of California which assumes its place here through the Santa Ana office, helping children as well as would-be parents to unite in their own family circle.

Young ladies and their sponsors who will be presented at the ball are Miss Barbara Ann Brothers, Mrs. Gladys Brothers; Miss Nancy Carol Deaver, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Deaver; Miss Mary Patience Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kent Harvey; Miss Sherrill Hough, Dr. and Mrs. Harry M. Hough; Miss Joan Ellen Kimes, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Tritt; Miss Linda Rae Zander, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis J. Zander.

Mrs. Tod Oviatt of Balboa Island, ball chairman, announced that patrons will be many of Southern California's notables. They are Messrs. and Mmes. Howard Ahmanson, J. A. Beek, C. S. Brokaw, J. Ross Castendyck, Lyman Farwell, Thomas B. Frost, Edward Groenendyke, Donald Harwood, Edgar Hill, George Hoag II, George Holstein, John P. Hurndall, Myford Irvine, T. Weston Jay, Moreland Leithold, Nelson Neice, Paul A. Palmer, Lawrence J. Pfister, O. W. Richard, Paul Rogers, E. H. Skinner, Edward Lester Smith, E. Morris Smith, Harvey Somers, Walter Spicer, Earl Stanley, Austin Sturtevant, Thomas Webster, Roland Wright, George Yardley Jr., Mmes. Marjorie Beach, Isabelle Belyea, Katherine P. Reynolds, Victor S. Rice and Dr. and Mrs. George Norman Pease.

The traditional tea complimenting the debutantes and their mothers will be held Sept. 1 at the bayside home of Mrs. Howard Lawson of Beverly Hills and Newport Beach.

Throughout the formulation of plans, the auxiliary's president, Mrs. H. Payne Thayer, has acted as liaison between the ball committee and the "outside-the-auxiliary" committee of local people selecting the debutantes.

Taste Treat

Making cupcakes? Then surprise your family with one of these taste treats. Tuck a couple of drained stewed apricot halves in the batter in each cup before baking. Or sprinkle the cupcake batter with small pieces of semi-sweet chocolate before baking. Use either of these suggestions with white or chocolate cake batter.

Don't Allow Housework to Ruin Family

Pity the poor children who live in a "don't touch" home. Their mother keeps a flawlessly neat house, but it's possible she's making a mess of family life.

She's a housekeeping perfectionist—unbearable. Permit her children to do homework on the living room floor? Smile as they take over the kitchen to whip up some grub for the gang? Feel happy when they browse at will through the bookshelves? Not this woman!

And what about her husband? Even though the bathroom has waterproof floor-to-ceiling tile surfacing, he's probably afraid to splash happily in the shower.

The painful perfectionist may be spending so much time on household chores there isn't enough left for a full family life. If so, she should take some time out for a little fresh thinking on this business of housekeeping.

She should start with the kitchen. If she licks the problem here she'll find the rest of the house almost taking care of itself, because the kitchen is the heaviest work-center in the house. It's really simple. With modern design, time-saving conveniences and easily maintained materials, kitchen work should be a breeze.

Layout of the room is important. Are the refrigerator, range and sink all within a few steps of each other? Is the storage and counter space ample? How about the floor and countertops—are they clay tiled for durability and ease of cleaning? Are there an automatic dishwasher and waste disposer? They're terrific time-savers.

One thing experts prescribe is to make out a list at the beginning of each day of things to do and to try to do most of the work in the morning. It's much easier then. But above all, they say, the woman should not strive to do everything in a day. Husband and children are much more important.

SEPT. 18 is the date set for the wedding of Miss Audrey Anne Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Miller, 6244 Lewis St., and Donald Andrew Duffin, Compton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Duffin, 21 E. 68th St. Both young persons are graduates of St. Anthony's High School where he was a member of the football team and she was a member of Philaletheans and secretary of CYC. The ceremony will take place in St. Athanasius Catholic Church.

JOINING the ranks of brides-to-be is Audra R. Orr, whose betrothal to Harvey E. Ratzlaff is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Shillinglaw, 1202 Rose Ave. Parents of the future bridegroom are Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Ratzlaff of Garden City, Kan. The bride-elect is a graduate of Poly High School, and both young persons attend L.I.F.E. Bible College in Los Angeles. No date has been set for the wedding.

Women Own Record Sum of Insurance

For the first time in history, women's ownership of life insurance has reached the 50 billion dollar mark, according to a survey issued by the Institute of Life Insurance. This is half again as much as they owned at the end of World War II and nearly twice as much as the whole country owned at the end of World War I.

In setting their new records in 1953, women bought every kind of life insurance. Their largest purchases were "ordinary" life insurance, which totaled two and one-half billion dollars, but they also bought nearly this much of "industrial" or weekly premium life insurance and 700 million dollars of group life insurance. Their total for the year, more than five and a half-billion dollars, was higher than in any previous year.

Last year was a record life insurance year not only for women but for other members of the family too, the Institute's new survey shows. Helped along by high employment and good earnings, Americans bought more life insurance in 1953 than in any previous year and at the end of the year their total family protection reached the all-time high of 296 billion dollars plus eight billion dollars of credit life insurance.

The record amounts of ordinary life insurance which women bought in 1953 probably reflect a large number of women buyers who work outside their homes and earn incomes for their own and their families' needs.

Current Fashion Changes Reflect Chic Variations

The fashion headlines have, it seems, caused a good deal of confusion in women's minds as to wether the clothes they will be seeing in the stores soon are the right clothes, or whether Paris designers have thought up entirely new trends which will outdate all others.

Therefore, we are giving you a watch for roundup. It clearly proves that the current fashion changes indicated are not isolated "dictates," but interesting variations on the general thinking expressed by the whole leadership of fashion on both sides of the Atlantic.

WATCH FOR . . . Continued bosom emphasis, but with a new focus above rather than below. . . . With a softer, deeper draping, the bosom looks flatter, less protruding.

WATCH FOR . . . The midriff, hips and long body outline still clearly marked, but the taut waistline and skin-tight diaphragm have relaxed, limbered and lost their boning and excessive stiffening. . . . The soft shirtwaist top takes first place in every collection, on coats and suits as well as dresses. . . . Shirt-waisty evening clothes in fabrics of superlative richness. . . . Barrel coats and jackets have a bloused shape this season above gathered hem bands. . . .

WATCH FOR . . . A "more-of-everything" air in fashion. . . . More fabric, softly but lavishly used to give a new subtle expansion to the slim silhouette. . . . Paradoxically, more figure shows as designers introduce more clinging materials. . . . More color than for years and years. . . . More variables left to the wearer's choice: at least four accepted lengths for suit jackets. . . . Waistline high, low and normal with a tendency toward the low. . . . A trend toward casual, off-hand ease but plenty of studied, every-stitch-in-place shapeliness. . . . More richness, a let-'em-eat-cake grandeur touching even bread-and-butter clothes and making late day clothes sumptuous. . . . Slathers of fur trimmings, including the most precious mink, chinchilla and sable.

WATCH FOR . . . A decided expansion of shoulders—using every dressmaking device except padding. . . . Some are decidedly squared, others rounded and dropped far below the shoulder point. . . . Soft, wide back folds on coats often extend beyond the shoulder line and give the illusion of width. . . . The yoke becomes an important accent.

WATCH FOR . . . The long moulded "dress form" torso on suits, coats and dresses . . . Both full and slim skirts start at the thigh or have a smooth hip yoke to keep the line smoothly moulded well below the waist.

WATCH FOR . . . The buttoned-up and the wrapped-up look . . . Coats button all the way to the hem, suits button from chin to hip, bodices button onto skirts . . . Many costumes make a feature of bodices or skirts that are wrapped and tied rather than cut and seamed.

WATCH FOR . . . Broken skirt lines changing the sweep of both slim and full silhouettes . . . Emphasis on flounces, trumpet and moonflower flares, melon gores, fan pleats and low-placed flanges or pockets . . . The very full round skirt over multiple petticoats and the straight sheath have moved aside for more complicated, individualized skirt shapes.

WATCH FOR . . . The day-after-tomorrow ideas in every collection, marking the designers' forecast in cut, length, drapery or construction of things to come in fashion, which long-range shoppers would do well to try—The Byzantine period, the epochs of Louis XIV and of Madame Pompadour, the early 1930's and the 1870's, all have their echoes in clothes that look ahead to 1955.

WATCH FOR . . . Belts to make a definite but whimsical return . . . Newly important are belted suits, while belted dresses remain in the minority . . . Sash-belted coats . . . Numerous half-belts and colored ribbon waist-markers . . . Buckled sash-fronts on dresses with princesse backs.

WATCH FOR . . . A silken shimmer in fabrics, from silk-and-worsted dress fabrics and satin-back suitings to shining, thistle-down coatings . . . Tweed and silk satin are king and queen, and frequently appear together in a single costume The nubby wool textures designers used to love are now fined down into polished, fuzzy, downy or flaky surfaces, with angora, cashmere, velour, chinchilla, and duvetyn important. Many bold woven patterns in tweed or brocade . . . A wealth of winter prints on wool, jersey, velveteen or satin . . . Chiffon-weight fabrics highly important, including tweed, wool jersey, broadcloth and mat jersey.

WATCH FOR . . . A miscellany of new notes . . . The jumper moving up to rival the blouse and skirt . . . Longer slacks . . . Longer sweaters, some so long they become dresses . . . Longer necklaces, some tucking into belts . . . Allover embroidered woolens for pretty and young casual clothes . . . Buckles as trimming.

Influence of Color in Design

This year the chic woman will find herself surrounded by a "swirl" of beautiful colors. In fact, her wardrobe for Fall 1954 will have a lot in common with the color wheel. The idea of owning only one lipstick is going to become just about as obsolete as the dodo, and the smart woman with a sense of color will soon realize (if she hasn't already) that she must use at least three shades of lipstick to do complete justice to her selections from the fabulously hued Fall collections.

All of the basic color families are well represented in the fashion spectrum for Fall, 1954, from the pink-to-red shadings to the mauves and brilliant violets. And there's a Coty lipstick shade that is the perfect makeup accent for each of the new colors.

Reds and pinks: There are three different pinks in the fashion spotlight this season and three different shades of Coty lipstick recommended for use with them. For Jane Derby's "Baby Pink," a soft muted pink, Coty recommends Dahlia lipstick. For Ceil Chapman's bright young "Cecilia Pink," Riviera pink lipstick. And for Clair McCardell's truly brilliant "Cinnamon Pink," Coty's Rose lipstick.

With Ceil Chapman's vibrant "Magenta," Coty's Riviera Lilac lipstick. With Jane Derby's deep, deep "Carnation," Vibrant lipstick; with Harvey Berin's jewel-toned "Trianon Red," Ruby Red lipstick; and with Dressmaker Casuals' "Carmine" (which has more than a touch of brown in its formula), Bali lipstick.

Brown and Beiges. Brown and beige shades, always favorites, are interpreted in a particularly warm and mellow manner this year. Clair McCardell's "Natural Chamois" jersey (Coty Flame Red lipstick) has an almost transparent tan tone. Ben Zuckerman's neutral "Sand" cashmere is flattered by Medium lipstick as is Mollie Parnis' "Light Sable" in crisp taffeta. From Samuel Winston, comes a spicy "Auburn" (Magnet Red lipstick) and from Dressmaker Casuals, a striking "Tortoise" surprisingly lined with "American Beauty" and worn delightfully with Coty Ball lipstick.

Oranges and Yellows: Light-and-bright is the keynote in this color family. From Trigere, there is a bland, subtle shade called "Directorie Yellow" in lush satin. This is ideally accented by Coty Light lipstick. Claire McCardell's "Old Gold" (Magnet Red lipstick) has a really rare and antique look. Trigere's "Honeydew" (Flame Red lipstick) is an unusual, muted golden-orange shade. "Jack o' Lantern" from Horowitz and Duberman is an exciting orange, set off by Coty Bright lipstick. Mellow "Tangerine" from Jane Derby, is accompained wonderfully by Light lipstick.

Greens: There is a tremendous range in greens . . . from Cecil Chapman's subdued and delicate "Celadon" (Bali lipstick) to Claire McCardell's "Midnight Green" (Medium lipstick) a bewitchingly green. In between are Claire McCardell's yellowed "Leon Green," Mollie Parnis' true "Emerald" (for both, Magnet Red lipstick) and Jane Derby's olive-toned "Alexandra Green" (Flame Red lipstick).

Blues. Everyone has the "blues" this season. Jane Derby has a luscious "Baby Blue" (Riviera Pink lipstick); Mollie Parnis, a true "Bluejay" (wonderful on blondes with Rose lipstick); Horowitz and Duberman have two . . . a shocking "Periwinkle" (Riviera Lilac lipstick) and an even more shocking "Bristol" green-blue (Dahlia lipstick). Ceil Chapman features "Flame Blue" in taffeta; this is a vibrant blue which contains some green tones and is enhanced by Coty Rose lipstick.

Violets and Purples: We will be seeing a great deal of violet and purple in fashion this year. Harvey Berin features in taffeta a rich but grayed color called "Lilac" (Dahlia lipstick); Jane Derby's "Mauve" is a clear, light violet shade (Riviera Pink lipstick). Both Mollie Parnis' blue-violet "Persian Lilac" and Ceil Chapman's red-violet "Fuchsia" are accented to advantage by Riviera Lilac lipstick and Chapman's outspoken "Flame Purple" takes Rose lipstick beautifully.

Greys and Off whites: The importance of these basic neutral tones should not be underestimated. From Trigere's "Magnolia" white (Rose lipstick) to Horowitz and Duberman's "Caviar" black (Riviera Lilac lipstick), the whites and all kinds of grays will be immensely important. Mollie Parnis features "Marquisite," a deep even gray (Vibrant lipstick). Harvey Berin has "Pompadour" (Ruby Red lipstick) which has an unexpected though definite pink tinge. Samuel Winston gives us "Rawhide White" (Bali lipstick), a warm off-white.

LEAD PTA UNITS

Newly elected presidents of Parent-Teacher Association units in Long Beach pictured above are Mrs. Bruce N. Ketchum of Burcham School; Mrs. Norman Nevraumont of Burnett; Mrs. I. Tolsky, Keller; Mrs. Raymond Still, Burroughs; Mrs. H. E. Turner, Special Training Center, and Mrs. Edward Lampel, Carver. They will assume duties of office with the beginning of the fall school term.—(Staff.)

Themes Spark Back-to-School Clothes

Fall clothes for the back-to-school set this year are teeming with interest, with new silhouettes, style themes and colors in readiness. Three-D depth in fabrics, nautical influence and a swing to rich dark colors set the pace for sub-teen and teen-age girls next fall. With "depth" the magic word in young fashions, stores will be featuring three-dimension plaids, pile coatings with deep surface, tweeds given perspective with brilliant slubs and splash weaves.

Cottons, the backbone of back-to-school dresses, have gone "woolly" in their appearance and take on the weave effects of classic wools. Tweed prints, houndstooth check prints, softly brushed surfaces and 3-D depth characterize cotton dresses.

The straighter line is an influence in fall fashions for young girls, especially in sportswear where skirts for sub-teens and teens are slim in greater proportion than full. The 7-14 set is still cancan conscious. Older girls' coats, too, show a leveling off in fullness, even if not arrow slim.

That important item, the back-to-school dress, has many new fashion factors in its favor for fall. In silhouettes, old favorites come back in a new way, as the bouffant skirt and the shirtwaist look, and new themes come in, notably the nautical. Variations of the empire-princess line in all size ranges continue.

Plaids are back—bigger and better than ever. Giant plaids appear in pastel combinations and in darker tones with bright overstripes. Three dimensional effects stand out through the use of floral overprints in contrasting colors. Bright overplaids in colors such as yellow and red on clan patterns heighten this tri-dimensional feeling. Pastel cotton plaids are delicately shaded, often giving an ombre appearance. The trimmings or details pick up one shade of the plaid to provide the dress accent.

Cottons with a wool look, achieved through color, pattern or the hand of the fabric itself are new for fall dresses. Tweedy prints and covert weaves, alone or in combination, add depth to cotton. Flannels and twills have a worsted or knitted appearance.

The nautical theme, the middy look, is a strong influence this fall, especially in dresses. This is expressed through sailor knots, ascots, collar, sleeve, shoulder emblems and unpressed pleats. This middy styling is international, varied by the Italian sailor and the French sailor collar and trimmings.

Bouffant skirts are stronger for fall. Cancan styles are given added fullness with separate or attached petticoats. These underskirts are trimmed in contrasting colors, bold stripes or self fabric.

Chore Togs Can Be Chic

The way you feel in your clothes is fully as important as the way you look to your friends and neighbors.

Ever get caught marketing or working in the yard in an old dress, a castoff jacket of your husband's and wornout shoes? How did you feel? Nearly all of us have had this experience at some time and, while it may seem funny in the telling later on, it really isn't very amusing at the time.

Designers have come to realize this and are creating clothes aimed especially at women (men, too) who like to do their own chores and odd jobs in order to save money, have fun or to share a project with a next-door neighbor.

The do-it-yourself trend is largely responsible for the development of clothes to meet the new wardrobe demands. Sanforized denims, twills, chambrays and sailcloth are now cut into pants, jackets, blouses, colorful separates, coveralls and coats, both short and long.

These do-it-yourself designs mean that no woman or man need to be seen in unsuitable, cast-off clothes. Now, pants have cargo pockets big enough to hold a sandwich; new brown denim slacks (copied from a steel worker's uniform) are stiched with bright orange just for fun.

There's a putterer's vest, complete with pockets, and plenty of button-on skirts to turn the woman-of-all-work into the lady of the house within seconds when unexpected visitors arrive on the scene.

Soft, Easy Silhouettes Seen in Newest Costumes for Fall

Here are the things to look for when you go shopping for that new fall suit or dress. These are the outfits that you will find in your favorite specialty shop or department store, come fall. These are the top styles already ordered by your local buyers, and now in process of manufacture in New York's teeming garment center.

1 — The bloused top dress. This is the headline silhouette for fall, following the corseted midriff look of last season. It's an easy, relaxed silhouette, which gives you room to breathe, doesn't reveal every bulge of figure, is easy to wear. You'll find it in all fabrics, usually teamed with a slim skirt.

2—The "blouson" suit or costume. This has a bloused jacket which ends at the waistline with a belt, is worn with matching slim dress or skirt, comes in handsome tweeds and flannels, dark worsted and new blends of Dacron, worsted and silk.

3—The sailor collar. This is a new and important note for fall, found on dresses, suits and coats, sometimes even in fur.

4—The sack jacket. This is a loose, boxy, short jacket which may be semi-fitted in front, loose in back.

5—The barrel coat. This is rounded above, slightly tapered at the hemline, loose and comfortable, smartest when worn slightly shorter than the skirt or dress beneath.

6—The middy. This is the loose, schoolgirl garment that has been coming back to favor periodically for two generations. A pullover with no waistline, worn with a slim skirt, shown in high-color flannels and jerseys, often with a sailor collar.

7—The low, open neckline for dresses. A flattering, feminine decolletage achieved in many ways, sometimes with low, flat or standaway collars.

8—The fur collared or fur lined suit. An old favorite newly popular for this fall. Often reversible.

9—The costume. This consists of wool dress and matching jacket or full-length coat, and is the most important single fashion of the season. Dress usually is low-necked, short-sleved, sufficiently dressy for after-5 wear.

Late Summer Travel Leading Pastime for Norwalk Folk

By ELISE MORRIS

The month of August finds Norwalk residents making the most of the waning vacation time before settling back to normal for autumn's civic, church, philanthropic and social duties.

The Gene Cleavingers said their farewells to Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Cleavinger Jr. and children, Judy, Jane, and Mark, who left this week for their home in Demmet, Texas. Other visitors in the Cleavinger home were E. R. Cleavinger and daughters, Dorothy and Nancy and Mrs. W. E. Miller and daughter, Janis, all from Canyon, Texas.

Recent house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fox were Mr. and Mrs. Angus Ensing from Salt Lake City, Utah, and Miss Pat Ensing who flew from Honolulu.

An outdoor patio party was enjoyed recently by members of the Cinderella Club, at the home of Mrs. Henry Baglund. Members who attended were Mmes. Guy Keep, Robert Stock, Robert Mayo, Sam Gallup, Jewel Archer, Bill Blade, Fred Zimm, Dennis Hopkins, Dick Morrill and Wilma Ericsson.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry McDowell and son, Craig, have just returned from a two-month trip that took them east to pick up a new car. After attending the osteopathic convention, they visited relatives and friends in the Midwest before enjoying a leisurely trip home.

Getting away from it all were Dr. and Mrs. Ray Trendle and son, Johnny, who vacationed in the High Sierras, and report the fishing was excellent.

John and Katie McCann with their four children joined with more than 30 members of their families for a reunion in Rivera.

Trout fishing was the lure for Doris and Grover Harden and their four children who vacationed in a trailer at Lone Pine.

Dr. Frederick O'Conner, his wife Betty and their five boys have returned to their home at 11945 East Olive St. after a two year residence in Walnut Creek. Dr. O'Conner has just completed a two year tour of active duty with the U. S. Air Force as a captain stationed near San Francisco.

In a whirl of activity before returning to their studies are Barbara Boyd, who will attend UCLA, and Isobel Patterson who will resume her studies at the new University of California College of Letters and Science at Riverside.

After a quiet vacation at Crestline, Bill and Marion Davis and their children, Shannon, Stevie and Bonnie "gypsied" to San Diego to take in the zoo, museum, mission and other sights.

Fancy cakes highlighted the birthday parties of Larry and Robby, sons of Bob and Ruth Hirsch. For Larry's fifth birthday, a clown cake was served to Jimmy Cook, Becky Becker, Sharon Roberts, Kay Turner and David Barton. An airplane cake was the center of Robby and his guests, Joey and Jimmy Cook and Sharon Roberts.

Farewells have been said to Charles and Yvonne Cumming who moved recently to Pasadena; and to LeRoy and Peggy Harrison who have taken up residence in Lakewood.

Disease Germs

In recent years it has been determined that cockroaches, common household pests, do spread disease germs. The five common species of cockroach can spread salmonella germs, organisms that cause various body infections, fever, meningitis, and what is broadly described as food poisoning. Salmonella infections are considered by many doctors to be as hazardous as typhoid fever. The importance, therefore, of eliminating cockroaches from the home cannot be overemphasized.

ELECTED TO PTA COUNCIL

Stayman Play Handy Tool

There isn't much to the play of the hand shown today. South is a strong favorite to make at least 12 tricks at a heart contract. With both the king of hearts and the queen of clubs favorably located, South cannot avoid making all 13 tricks. The problem is how to reach the small slam contract for which South is so heavy a favorite.

When South makes the normal opening bid of one no-trump, he shows balanced distribution, stoppers in at least three suits, and a count of 16 to 18 points. North has only 12 points in high cards and therefore knows that the combined count totals only 28 to 30 points. Since 33 points are usually needed to provide a good play for slam, many players would abandon the slam without a struggle.

There is actually no need for North to give up the slam. The first step is to bid two clubs—the Stayman Convention—to find out whether or not South has a four-card major suit. When South shows hearts, North can take a mild interest in slam because of his length in hearts and his doubleton in diamonds.

Moreover, North can afford to be mildly interested in slam because the bulk of his strength is in the form of an ace and two kings, far better for slam purposes than a collection of queens and jacks.

North indicates his mild interest in slam by making a waiting bid of three diamonds and later raising the hearts. It is then obvious that North could have raised the hearts immediately and that his only purpose in bidding diamonds first was to indicate a mild interest in slam without going past game.

Once North has conveyed this interest, South has no hesitation in accepting the mild invitation. Practically all of South's strength is in the shape of aces and a king, and even the queen is in the one suit where it is sure to be useful. South could hardly have a better hand for slam purposes. If North can even mildly invite a slam opposite a hand of 16 to 18 points, South must be sure to accept the invitation.

Child Care

Help Baby Establish Sleep Habits

By BEULAH FRANCE, R. N.

(Q) — "Our five-weeks-old baby sleeps all night except for waking once for a bottle. Daytimes, however, he falls asleep in my arms then wakes and cries the minute I lay him in his crib. What can I do?"—Mrs. G. S.

(A)—You are doing right by not feeding him in his crib. Eating and sleeping should never be carried on in the same spot. Were this rule always adhered to there would be less trouble bottle-weaning.

But a baby who falls asleep while being held, and taking his bottle, needs to be released of bubbles. So before he's put into the crib he should be put over your shoulder and patted till the swallowed air escapes. It could be that when you lay him down this air inside disturbs and wakens him.

You are most fortunate that he sleeps so well in his crib. If you try to make him sleep there days, against his will, you may make him dislike his crib at night, too.

Why not put him, during the daytime, in his carriage? It must have a firm, flat mattress with no pillow and allow free circulation of fresh air. On nice days it would be well to have him sleep outdoors in it.

A baby of less than six months should never be expected to "cry it out." Trying that method just once can upset the infant greatly. He's so young he feels insecure and becomes filled with fear lest he has been deserted.

Different babies have different sleep patterns. Some cry a few moments just before they fall asleep. But if crying lasts more than ten minutes, a loving pat, a caress (without picking him up), and softly spoken words give reassurance. Too many covers often make a baby restless. So do covers which are too tightly tucked in.

Ask Beulah France to help you with your child care problems. Write her in care of the Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope for her reply.

Dessert Idea

Wondering what to serve for dessert when the bridge club comes? Here's a suggestion: Arrange broiled pineapple rings on spongecake squares and top with hot carmel sauce and a fluff of whipped cream. Plenty of calories in this one, but it tastes awfully good!

Miss Conley Summer Bride

The middle aisle of Compton First Methodist Church was marked by candelabra tied with satin ribbon when Marilyn Ann Conley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Conley of 409 W. Cedar St., Compton, exchanged wedding vows with Ralph Everett Hedges of Santa Monica. Rev. Roy Carlson was the officiating clergyman.

An original Velma gown was worn by the bride combining white Chantilly lace and pleated nylon tulle with chapel train. The snug lace bodice was fashioned with portrait neckline formed by scallops of lace. A Juliet cap of tulle embroidered with simulated pearls held her fingertip-length veil of illusion tulle.

Mrs. Ralph Hedges

The bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white orchids, phalaenopsis and lilies of the valley.

The bride was preceded to the altar by her sister, Marjorie Conley, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Lorna Ross of Whittier and the Misses Marie and Betty Hedges, the bridegroom's sisters, all in white lace gowns.

Eugene Rourke served as best man; ushers were Roger Reel, Frank Wilken, Donald Howland, Martin Taylor, Lyman Cook, and Ed King.

A reception for 400 guests was held in the church social hall.

The bride was graduated from Compton Junior College and Whitier College. While at Whittier she served as finance commissioner and was affiliated with Beta Sigma sorority and Delta Phi Upsilon. She also holds membership in the American Association of University Women. The former Miss Conley taught kindergarten at the Colin P. Kelly Elementary School in Compton for the past two years.

Her husband, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hedges of 1236 21st St., Santa Monica, is an alumnus of UCLA. He served the U. S. Army and currently is a science teacher at Mark Twain Junior High School, Santa Monica. He is affiliated with Alpha Gamma Omega.

Upon their return from a honeymoon to Sequoia, the couple will reside in Santa Monica.

Chemists' Advice

Save your sour milk for whipping up a devil's food cake—not for removing ink and dust stains. This advice comes from chemists at a research and educational center for the laundry industry. They warn homemakers against using the time-honored application of sour milk for stain removal because such a procedure will not remove the ink or rust stain. What may happen is that double trouble will develop, for a protein stain might result from the use of sour milk.

Rubber Gloves

Whether or not your rubber gloves will be affected by dry-cleaning fluid depends on the type of rubber of which they are made. Synthetic rubber is generally resistant to dry-cleaning solvents. However, natural rubber is apt to get sticky and cracked if exposed to them. The type of rubber is usualy marked on the gloves.

Give Heart Rest on Vacation

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-396: Jason R., aged 54, is a high pressure business man.

"Dr. Crane, my blood pressure is 165/90," he began our interview.

"What would you advise regarding a vacation? Should I just sit around and vegetate or play golf?

"I'm tired and low on pep. Could that be due to my weight? For I now tip the scales at 195, though I weighed only 165 as a young man."

A holiady is not a true vacation if your heart works harder during those few weeks, than it would have labored if you had stayed on the job.

The primary purpose in a vacation, as well as in each night's sleep, is to give your heart a rest.

It is the one organ of the body that labors hardest. It's the real motor of the human chassis.

Jason says he lacks pep. Well, I have often warned you that we can't feel like a sports roadster with the chassis of a truck.

If Jason could take off some weight, he'd probably find his blood pressure dropping, too.

I'd guess that if he got down to 175 pounds, his blood pressure would not be over 150/88

Sometimes obese patients will lose one point of blood pressure for each pound they lop off via dieting.

It will rest your heart if you also slough off your adult strain and business tension.

Many executives can do this better by going back to their childhood homes for a few days.

For in that environment, they were not tense and burdended with adult responsibilities, since their father and mother were then running the show.

If your parents are still alive, this visit to the old family homestead will be doubly effective. For your parents can again take over and order you around as they did when you were a boy.

Attendance at church gives your heart an hour's vacation each Sunday, even if the sermon is so dull you fall asleep.

For the meditative mood of the church lets your blood pressure drop and your spastic colitis subside and your peptic ulcer calm down.

So go to chruch regularly, not only as a tonic for your soul but as ideal medical insurance. Remember, very few people have heart attacks or die in a church!

Even at your office, as well as in your home, you can give your heart some extra vacations by propping your feet on a hassock or the window sill.

That posture lowers your adult height from possibly 6 feet to about 3 feet.

Your heart thus benefits, for it doesn't have to pump your 5 quarts of blood but half as high. So it can beat more slowly and also under lower blood pressure.

Don't prod your heart unduly with stimulants, and then try to relax via sleeping pills.

And if you have insomnia at night, your heart still gets almost as much rest as if you were snoring, if you just stay in bed and read but avoid detective thrillers.

Keep Hopes for Kiddies Within Scope of Ability

By ANGELO PATRI

Every decent father and mother dreams of the fine things the children will do, of the success they will show by and by, of the high place they will hold in the esteem of the community. That is fine provided the dream bears some relation to the child's ability.

A great deal of the trouble parents have with their adolescent children is of their own making, because they have lost sight of the real child in the dream of the ideal child. If they could settle for a healthy, wholesome, hard-working citizen instead of a genius, a master of industry or a tremendous artist, they and their child would be much happier.

Each parent must do his best with a child, secure in the thought that when a child is born all he needs for his purpose in life, for the strains and stresses of existence, is born with him, waiting for experience and instruction to develop into power.

Nobody has much choice in the matter of ability and it is ability that decides what place in life one is to occupy. To gain the heights, ability must be present within the child. Many an adolescent boy and girl can sing well, paint well, show good business sense, but few of them will have the overflowing measure of ability in his field that will allow him to be a master there. Wise fathers and mothers understand. They accept that hard fact and let their dreams of greatness fade into appreciation of the sturdy qualities in the child that make for happiness in ordinary people like themselves. Most of us are in that group and manage to get on very well. Those who live and work on the heights have their troubles, too. Most of us would not exchange with them.

What makes this idea important to parents is the effect their high ambitions have on the child. When he learns that his parents are disappointed in him because he cannot deliver as a genius, he is disheartened. He feels himself to be a failure and that feeling is deadly to his growth, because it destroys his belief in himself, robs him of happiness and peace of mind.

It is well to instill pride and ambition and high hopes in any child. The thing to remember is to keep that idea well within the ability of the child. He is more likely to exceed parental hopes when they are held within the bounds of possibility than to reach a standard they have set beyond his power to reach. It is always best to settle for standards of good character, sound health, all based on moral principles.

Plan Picnics in Advance for Most Fun

Nobody likes picnicking as much as Americans, unless it's ants.

But that doesn't mean that all Americans have fun on picnics. Some do and some don't and generally, it's those who do some advance planning who get the most out of hot dogs, soda pop and ice cream bars.

Fortunately, modern shortcuts and conveniences make such planning feasible without going to the elaborate and exhausting preparations that used to plague people in the golden era around 1900.

Since you won't want to spoil the spontaneity that's supposed to flavor every picnic, it's best not to get involved in complicated lists. Just keep in mind that kids delight in picnics and that, if you're taking them along, it's a good idea to bring games or toys to keep them happy.

As for feeding men, plan on more than two civilized human beings would possibly care to eat, then multiply again by two for each man in the caravan.

If you're going to build a fire, fine. You can then have hot dogs, ground beef patties, potatoes, corn and lots of hot coffee. You can pack these foods into a metal container and keep them hot for hours.

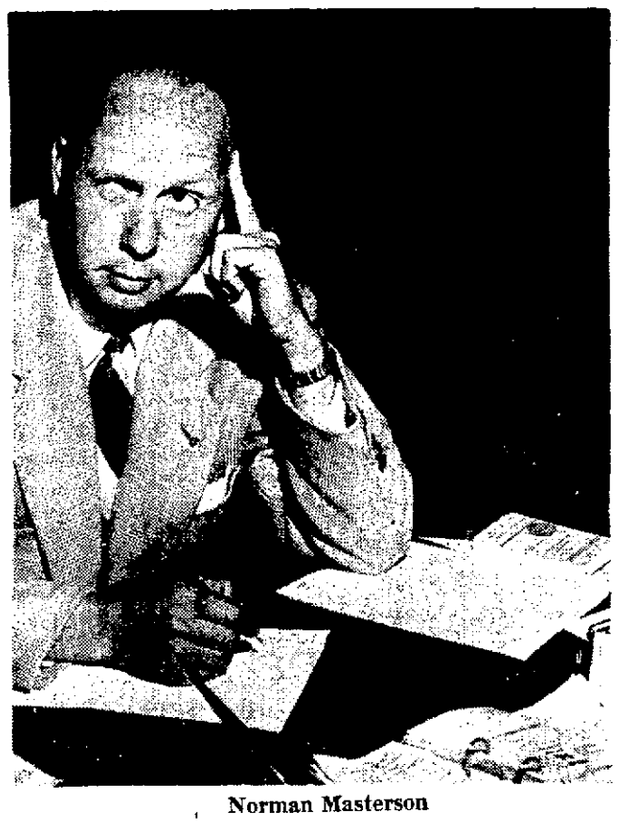

In addition to food and the kids, take along a first aid kit. It's practically certain to come in handy. The kit should contain bandages and disinfectant, suntan lotion, something for burns, insect spray and a soothing lotion for tired eyes.

Don't try to pack a week's exercise into one day. It's fun to be outdoors but swimming, baseball and hiking are a powerful trio to compress into a few hours. And watch the sun; you won't get a gorgeous tan from one day under blue skies. You'll get a bad burn or heat prostration.

Remember that fire you built a couple of paragraphs back? Well, it's time to put it out just before you leave.

Never drink from strange springs or wells, no matter how fresh and sparkling clear the water may look. And don't let the small fry go swimming immediately after eating. As a matter of fact, don't go yourself. You'll either sink like a rock or wind up in a hospital. And either way, the day will be more or less robbed of its bloom.

Whatever you do, don't go around sitting on ant hills. Ants resent people. They also enjoy picnics and expect an ant's share of the food. Give it to them and they'll leave you with the scraps and some peace.

Voices Objections to Modern 'Kitchencraft'

By NORMAN MASTERSON

(Guest columnist while Mildred Flanary is on vacation.)

"Kitchen-Tested"—that's me—just another of the 50 million guinea pigs sometimes known as husbands, that have made the phrase "like Mother used to make" fightin' words in the good old U. S. A. But the time has come for us to speak up for our rights, and I am the lucky fellow who gets to do the speaking.

One of my pet peeves is what I call "leftoveritis." This malady is characterized by an uncontrollable urge to take every smidgin of leftover food, no matter how small, and cram it back into the refrigerator for an economical later meal. This is a great boon to the makers of wax paper and aluminum foil. It has also made it necessary for the Good Provider to install an 11-cubic foot refrigerator where a 6-footer stood before.

And then there is the myth of "Dad's favorite foods"—or "How to Keep Your Husband Happy by Way of the Alimentary Canal." Judging by the ads, every normal American wife and mother's greatest desire is to place before The Breadwinner his favorite foods, done just the way he likes them. "Win compliments on your cooking," "He'll love you for this yummy dessert," prattle the ads. But what really happens? Once a year Jiggs gets his corned beef and cabbage; the rest of the time it's asparagus Hollandaise and grilled tomatoes, served not because they happen to be Mother's favorites, oh, no! but just because they "are so good at this time of year" or "they had a special on today."

But you can't say today's housewife is not modern. In the interests of "progress" she will buy anything that is quick-frozen, pre-cooked, half-baked, or ready-mixed. It doesn't have to be good, it just has to be put out in some crazy, mixed-up manner. I dread the day when wifie comes triumphantly home with a 50-pound block of ice jubilantly labeled "quick-frozen vitamin-enriched water."

In the meantime she is worrying along with that sloppy stuff that comes out of the tap. But as long as she can buy soup in an envelope, carrots de-topped and deskinned in a cellophane bag (just the thing for leftovers), disassembled pies in neat compartment boxes, and fried shrimp in a frozen brick, she is happy.

Not that many such products do not have merit, but it would be fun once in a while to say—"Boy, you should taste vegetable soup the way MY wife makes it," not to mention the implied flattery of having the gal friend really put a little affection into a meal. Personally, I think women need the satisfaction of a kitchen job well done once in a while, but then, you can't be spending a lot of time with the pots and pans when you have an appointment with your analyst!

However, let no one get the idea that my mild objections to modern kitchencraft have turned me against all things culinary. I am still to be found close by when the dinner bell rings, and if anyone doubts that the proof of the pudding is in the eating — I have a well-padded waistline to prove it.

Fall Furs Easy to Wear

Furs easy to care for, easy to wear, designed specially for the young have star billing in this fall's delightful-to-know fashions. Thinking geared to the workaday and festive occasions that demand one's best at all times is evident in styles presented by members of the Associated Fur Manufacturers with special heed to the requirements of teen-age, college and career girls.

New fur fashions will appeal to the keen minds of the younger set in more than one way. Furs are sturdy, labeled to insure dependability, selected toward getting your money's worth right along the line from the budget price moutons, dyed rabbits and muskrats as high as the precious furs. Fur coats are proportioned for height, the new petites in all styles adapted to fit and flatter feminine figures of all sizes five-feet-five and under.

Casual elegance keynotes fur coats of slim silhouettes with ease at the top, natural shoulders, tapering sleeves and soft adjustable collars. These coats are designed to complement both the suits and separates of daytime and the ultra feminine cocktail and evening dresses.

Molly Mayfield

Get Wise and Woo the Lady!

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm getting along in years and so is my girl riend. She is a widow and I'm a widower. She is as plain as a mud fence but has a heart of gold, is a fine woman and an active church worker.

But that's not the half of it. She is crazy about people—all kinds, all ages, especially kids. When she goes along the street, you would think school had let out, there are so many kids following her. She is a good housekeeper, dresses neatly, has a good word for everybody.

The long and short of it is, I'm crazy about her. I've asked her many times to marry me, but she always says that, if two oldsters like us got married, we'd be the laughing stock of seven states.

Now what I'd like to know is, why shouldn't we be married? I'd love to have someone in my home with me—and it's her I want. I want to take care of her. She lives alone, and so do I. We are both lonely. Help! Help!—DIZZY.

DEAR DIZZY:

Why go around calling the woman you love "plain as a mud fence"? I suspect that's one of the reasons your girl friend keeps saying "no" to your proposals.

It's all very well to extol her personality, call her a good housekeeper, and say that she dresses neatly, etc. But believe me, as long as you think she's mud-fencey, I don't believe your romance stands a chance.

Maybe it's time you got down to some serious wooing, Dizzy. And personally, I wish you luck. I think it's very nice indeed when two elderly people who are lonely can find happiness together.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My niece is a very sick girl this summer. She has rheumatic fever and isn't able to go out and play, or do the things other girls do. She is 10 years old. She loves to receive cards. Will some of your readers write to her?

She is Joyce Lynn, Nebo, Ky.—MRS. T. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My mother has been in bed for six years with TB, and she has lost her hearing. Her chief pleasure is in receiving mail. Would some of your kind readers send her cards? She is Mrs. Willie Wilkins, Flower Mission, M. I. Room 12, General Hospital, Indianapolis, Ind.—HER DAUGHTER.

Why Grow Old?

Start Family Exercise Plan

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Why not start a family exercise plan? With the children at home this seems the moment to have some fun and plant the habit of exercise in the members of your family.

For instance, the following exercise is splendid for everyone because everyone needs a strong abdominal wall and father is susceptible to a bay window just as mother is to a protruding abdomen. Even if there are no figure faults this exercise is beneficial.

1. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms stretched out overhead and resting on the floor. Bend both knees and grasp your knees with your hands. Return your legs and arms to the floor simultaneously. Stretched out on the floor. Continue.

2. Practically everyone needs posture exercises. Even if your carriage is good, unless you watch it, time and gravity may cause it to be less perfect. Therefore a shoulder exercise is indicated. The whole family can stand tall, toes pointing forward and arms at sides. Make large circles with the arms, crossing them in front of the body as they move upward, reaching high overhead. Then bring them sideward and downward, pulling back as you do so. Continue making large smooth circles.

3. The whole family can stand tall and walk in place, lifting their knees high up in front of them. Feet should not be under the hips when you bend your knees but in front of you, with toes pointing hard toward the floor.

4. You can end your exercise period with the following exercise which has a happy influence on posture. Lie on the floor with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Try to keep the middle of your back pressed against the floor, as you inhale deeply and then slowly exhale. Do this slowly and deeply, letting your diaphragm do the work.

Even if the family does only these four exercises they will be benefitted.

Glamor? Let It Come from Within

by Lilly Daché

LILLY DACHÉ, one of America's favorite and best-known milliners, creates 9,000 hats a year. She says most of her customers ask the same question when they try on a new hat: "Does it make me look glamorous?" PARADE asked Mme. Daché to tell its readers her opinions on glamor. Here they are—and she says men can benefit by them, too.

BECAUSE I'M FRENCH by birth, people always ask me: Who has more glamor—French women or American? To me that is a foolish question. Glamor has no nationality, any more than it has an age limit.

Today, a French woman and an American woman have exactly the same opportunities to maintain and develop glamor. There is no excuse now for any woman not to be attractive and well-groomed: beauty advice is on all sides, beauty products are easily available and the most inexpensive clothes are smartly styled.

Many women think they can become glamorous by using a new shade of lipstick or buying a very expensive dress. It is not so. It might be the reddest lipstick in the world or a million-dollar dress, but, if the woman doesn't have a mind that is glamorous, she'll never look that way.

What is a glamorous mind? It's a mind that is awake, alert, eager to learn new things. I know from experience that even one of my most alluring hats can't do a thing for a woman who wears a blank expression. To me, a glamorous face is alive; the eyes sparkle. A dull, disinterested look doesn't even suggest glamor.

Don't make the mistake of putting an age limit on glamor; there isn't any. Years ago, a woman "retired" the day she put 40 candles on her birthday cake. I remember how shocked I was when I went back home to France after several years to see how my mother had changed. She was only 40, but, like many women of her generation, she believed that life was over for her when her children grew up and left home. Women used to turn into old ladies over night. No more. Now it's hard to tell whether a woman is 28 or 48. I get fooled myself many times.

The time to start worrying about glamor is at 16, not 40. My pet beauty rule is "Preserve, not erase." In other words, don't wait until your skin is wrinkled and your hair drab and then try to work miracles. Every young girl should develop a daily beauty routine and stick to it as faithfully as she brushes her teeth. Beauty is a matter of discipline and neglect is its greatest enemy.

You shouldn't stint on beauty aids, especially after 40. Many women get frugal just at the age when they need to take special care of themselves. The housewife who prefers to buy a new knickknack for a crowded shelf and go without face creams is making a big mistake. Her husband wants her to look prettier, not the shelf.

I like to remind my friends that in China, doctors traditionally were paid before people got sick—it was their job to prevent their "patients" from becoming ill. That's a good theory to apply to beauty: don't wait until you have the wrinkles—work to keep them away!

I'd like to emphasize that I don't think a few wrinkles harm any woman's looks—or a man's, either. They make a face more interesting. The real telltale of age is a person's walk, not her wrinkles. A flexible walk is as important to glamor after 40 as any other single quality. This calls for regular exercise. I do the old standby touch-fingertips-to-toes 20 times every morning. At first I was ready to collapse but I kept at it and now it's as easy as waving my hand. Every woman should exercise, if she's physically able. The important thing is to exercise every day, not now and then. This goes for men, too. There'd be a lot slimmer (and more glamorous) waistlines in the male department if the gentlemen would do a little waist-bending.

Don't let yourself get too thin if you're middle-aged. There's a tense, nervous air that goes with being skinny. A little fat is a comfortable thing.

I'm an ardent believer in early rising: I am up at 7:30 every morning and attend to business matters, correspondence and plan new projects between that time and 10 o'clock. Then I go to my salon and my bonnets. I find it not only practical but mentally stimulating.

Not long ago at a dinner party in San Francisco, I noticed everyone clustered around a slim woman in a flaming red dress. She talked well and humorously on many topics of current interest. She wasn't a great beauty but she was perfectly groomed and her hair and skin were radiant. I thought she was in her 30s—until my host told me she was past 70 and a grandmother. She had glamor. So can you—if you let it come from within. ■

A FATHER TO HIS SON

Handing the tools of his trade down to the new generation (his son, Bobby, 15, a high-school fullback) at right is one of football's "old pros," John Dell Isola, line coach at Dartmouth College.

John hopes Bobby will follow in his footsteps —25 years in the game, including seven seasons with the pro Giants. But he also hopes Bobby will play football the way the Giants did— "because we loved the game."

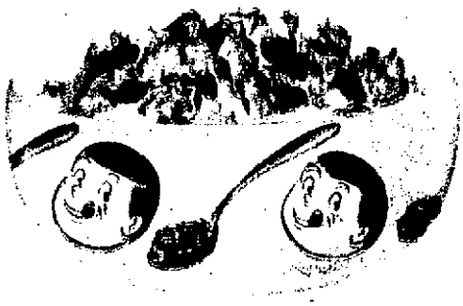

His advice to his son, and to any youth thinking about football as a career, is part of his blast at critics who claim the pros are just trained seals without any spirit or get-up-and-go. You'll find his article on page 10.

'CONE' NEBULA, a mass of gas and star dust 1,000 light-years from earth, was photographed by 200-inch telescope. Cone is silhouetted against light cast mostly by bright star at right, 10,000 times brighter than our sun.

SPIRAL NEBULA is a whirling pinwheel made up of millions of stars; it is seen edge-on, with dust clouds silhouetted along rim. Spiral is 7½ million light-years from earth. One light year is about six million million miles.

'CLEFT' NEBULA, a chaotic mass of gas and dust in the Milky Way, shines because it is illuminated by very bright hot stars. Dark lines are clouds of the same type which are not illuminated. Nebula is 3,200 light-years distant.

Here's a preview of a unique atlas: one that maps the heavens 3,000 billion billion miles away

by LLOYD SHEARER

MT. PALOMAR, CALIF.

THE BREATH-TAKING photographs you see at left will soon appear in what may well be the most expensive atlas ever published.

Called the Sky Atlas, it will contain 1,758 such photographs, and you can buy a copy for $2,000. Or, if you can use lots of 100 or more, you can get it at the bargain price of about $1,600 per copy.

The first section of the Sky Atlas, the world's first comprehensive map of the heavens, will be published in 1955. Other sections will be added annually until the atlas is completed—probably in 1957 or later. Photographs will cover three-quarters of the entire universe. This is everything that can be seen through the two gigantic telescope-cameras here on Mt. Palomar—the 48-inch "Big Schmidt" and the 200-inch Hale—which are operated as "partners" in the Sky Survey begun in 1949 under sponsorship of the National Geographic Society and California Institute of Technology's Palomar Observatory.

The Schmidt, with its wide-angle reflector, "sees wide," and can photograph an area as big as 200 moons at one time. It penetrates the heavens to a depth of 3,000 billion billion miles (3 followed by 21 zeros).

The Hale 'Sees Far'

OBJECTS OF special interest found in pictures taken by the Schmidt are photographed in larger dimensions by the Hale, which "sees far." Light it captures from the farthest faint star has been on its way to earth for two billion years—and in a year light travels six trillion miles.

Although the Schmidt probes interstellar space only about one-third as far as the Hale, it can cover on a single photograph 500 times as great a sky area. What the 48-inch Schmidt has accomplished in the past five years would take the 200-inch Hale 5,000 years.

Tourists who come here to Palomar hoping to "look through" the 200-inch telescope for a close-up of the mountains of the moon or those "canals" on Mars are frequently disappointed. Actually, the Hale is the world's largest camera, and like any other camera it records what it "sees" on film or plates. Astronomers themselves rarely look through it. They simply focus it on a particular spot in the heavens.

Says Ben Traxler, chief electrician here: "Photographic plates are so much more effective than the human eye that using the eye is really a waste of time. Everything the eye can see, a plate can record permanently for study by scientists. Our Sky Atlas, for example, will consist of 14-by-14-inch photographs printed from glass plates.

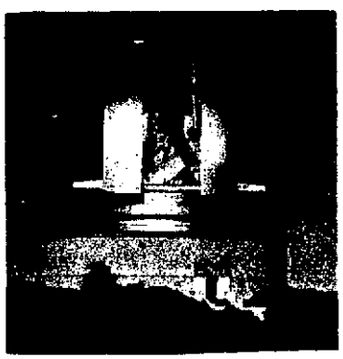

"I explain to tourists that our telescope is the most delicate star camera in existence—which is why we can't let them get close to it. The heat of their bodies is enough to disturb the instrument's adjustment. And when I tell them the telescope cost about $6,000,000, they seem to understand."

The main job of the Palomar giant is to gather light from even the faintest celestial body billions of miles out in space. For this purpose it is equipped with a 200-inch mirror, which weighs 14¾ tons and has a reflecting surface of aluminum just a few millionths of an inch thick. This mirror, the largest ever made, reflects about one million times as much light as the human eye. Reflected light, directed to sensitive plates, produces the pictures.

Each area of the sky is photographed on two plates, one sensitive to red light, the other to blue. Red stars register on red-sensitive plates, blue stars on blue. Red stars are relatively cool. Blue stars are hot, some many times hotter than our sun. Comparing the brightness of the stars as shown on both plates reveals their color. This gives an indication of their temperature, which in turn is an important clue to their life history.

It is this sort of history that is being recorded for the Sky Atlas today at Palomar. Astronomers R. G. Harrington and George Abel, who are currently photographing star fields from 8:30 each night until 4:30 the following morning, claim that even at $2,000 the book "would be a great buy." The reason is that it will reveal stars, galaxies, clusters of giant nebulae, space dust and gas never before photographed. From these pictures scientists may be able to determine the source of stellar energy and the origin of chemical elements, as well as the structure and behavior of the universe. Astronomers expect the atlas to provide enough material for a century of study.

As one result of the sky survey, for example, astronomers already are busy correcting the most stupendous error man ever made. For measurements at Palomar show that the entire visible universe outside our own galaxy is twice as far away, twice as old and eight times as big as science previously thought.

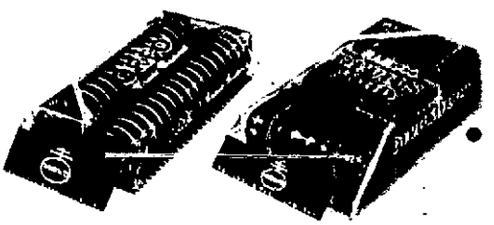

In any case, the Sky Atlas will map man's latest adventure with the telescope—the instrument that provided Galileo with proof that our earth is not the center of the universe, tested Newton's law of motion and proved Einstein's theory of relatively correct. Here, today, that instrument is painting what astronomers call the "portrait of creation." ■

"TALKING" PRACTICE brings deaf-mute Francis Martin and normal Ted Dauer together in the woods near the camp. "Here, put your fingers on my throat and try to tell what I'm saying," Teddy suggests. Francis feels his Adam's apple and concentrates. He finally picked up names, learned to "play" ukulele a bit.

A Deaf-Mute Goes to Camp

Can handicapped children share the outdoors with normal ones? This unique camp decided to find out. Result: the heart-warming experience of Francis — and 130 other lucky kids

CRUTCHES and leg braces left on shore as owners go in water with stronger "buddies" are common sight at camp. For many, this was first swim.

LAKE COEUR D'ALENE, IDAHO

FRANCIS "FUNNY GUY" MARTIN, a sunny 9-year-old from Ione, Wash., had the most important time of his life here this summer. To an impressive degree, he closed the gap that separated him from kids who can hear and talk.

He was one of about 130 Washington boys and girls, three out of four of them deaf, partly blind or crippled, who discovered the magic of camp fires, swimming and overnight hikes at Camp Manitowish. (That's Indian-English for "God's Wish.") As the only camp of its kind in America—one that mixes the handicapped and the healthy, with the handicapped in the majority—Manitowish is a basic step toward bringing normal childhood to our estimated 1,500,000 crippled youngsters.

Currently, only about 6,500 of them ever taste outdoor life, mostly at 50 camps for the handicapped scattered around the country. These only tend to widen the gap. But at Manitowish—started five years ago under the joint sponsorship of nearby Washington State College, the Washington Society for Crippled Children & Adults and the Washington chapter of the Easter Seal Society—kids like Francis can learn to forget their handicaps.

Francis was born deaf, of a deaf mother and father. Neither he nor his older brother and sister ever heard a sound in their lives. Francis went to live with a foster mother to try to teach him to speak, and he went a year to the Washington State School for the Deaf to learn sign-language, but he still felt isolated.

The first day at camp, when he arrived with about 60 other kids aged 9-to-12 for a two-week stay, Francis shyly hung around, feeling miserable and wishing he were back home. He could see boys and girls singing—but, when he asked about anything in that sign-language of his, they just shrugged. Soon he gravitated towards eight other deaf children.

Camp Director Roger Larsen, a good-natured, husky, 36-year-old physical therapist with years of experience with youngsters, had expected just that. He and his 23 college-student counselors, all majors

by ERNEST LA FRANCE

ROWING non-handicapped Tommy McLaughlin and counselor Barney Wilson helps Francis begin to realize that, for such useful tasks, he is as "normal" as they.

MEALTIMES, Francis hand-signals to "post-polio" Phil Sires with pitcher-lifting motion. "Please pass Francis the milk," asks Phil, who can talk but walks on crutches.

ON OVERNIGHT HIKE Francis insists on carrying bed roll almost as big as himself. Nonwalkers have to go by boat with heavier equipment to site three miles away.

REPAYING Phil Sires for helping him at table, Francis follows him around camp with wheelbarrow to rest on when his legs get tired. By teaming up, the two boys discovered that, between them, they could minimize impact of their handicaps.

EVENING CAMP FIRE finds Francis staring dreamily into the flames, part of a group for the first time in his life. Unable to sing or tell stories, he invented a guessing game of hand signals, soon had everybody in camp trying it.

in psychology, education and other fields who pay $45 a season and get college credits for the experience, had already planned Francis' camp life.

So, instead of being assigned to a cabin with other deaf-mutes, Francis was one of the carefully chosen members of what became known as Unit Six. The others: normal, healthy Teddy Dauer, 11, of Pullman, Wash.; Arthur Bakkom, 12, a cerebral-palsy victim from Bellingham; Charlie Dickerson, 12, of Pasco, who has deformed legs; and Phil Sires, 12, of Kirkland, less than a year out of an iron lung after a severe case of polio that makes him helpless without crutches. All come from small cities.

"Back home," says their counselor, Barney Wilson, of Washington State, "they're the kind of kids who would be called 'Goofy,' 'Gimpy,' or 'Skinny.' At first, that's the way they thought of themselves."

But, as planned, the handicapped soon began to learn that one was no more unfortunate than the next, and that by resourceful teaming-up two of them could usually equalize their handicaps.

Deaf-and-dumb Francis, unable even to ask for milk at chow time, became the natural ally of crippled Phil, who could talk but had to be trundled in a wheelbarrow over any but short distances. Arthur, whose spastic cerebral palsy made him slow of speech and uncertain of motion, learned that he was strong enough to carry two bedrolls and dig two rain trenches for himself and Charlie Dickerson, normal in everything except his weak legs. Ted Dauer, realizing how lucky he is to be healthy, marveled at them all.

Same Nickname, New Meaning

FRANCIS BECAME "Funny Guy" not because he made funny motions with his hands. He became "Funny Guy" because—once unlocked—his store of silence-enforced inventiveness and impish humor was a source of wonder. He taught Ted Dauer to tie fishing knots, kept all Unit Six laughing at his silent games. He cleaned the cabin by riding a broom, witch-fashion. He conducted boat races with boats made from chips, with feathers stuck into them for sails.

Francis learned the wisdom of the counselors: that self-reliance comes from the inside. When 11-year-old Beverly Bonham, of Chelan, tripped with her crutches in front of her cabin, he saw the counselors look anxiously to see if she was hurt, then walk away. Beverly got up by herself, unembarrassed.

Francis learned faith. One day, going to swim, he passed the towel of 12-year-old Steve Backus, far worse off than himself, whose congenital spinal hernia made him almost blind and almost helpless. On the towel was a necklace with a crystal ball containing a single mustard seed. "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed," said the inscription, "ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you." (Matthew, Chap. 7, Verse 20.)

Francis looked and saw Steve, sitting in the shallow water where a counselor had carried him, and feeling every inch an outdoorsman.

Francis jumped in and swam. Like a normal boy.

FRANCIS' FRIEND Phil Sires, unable to pick up a ping-pong ball, sobs in arms of program director Barbara Gottlieb. But then he tried archery—and succeeded at it.

After two weeks at camp, Francis learned his deafness does not set him apart from others

Camp Manitowish's mixing of handicapped and normal kids has paid off. As proof, camp authorities cite dozens of thankful letters from parents.

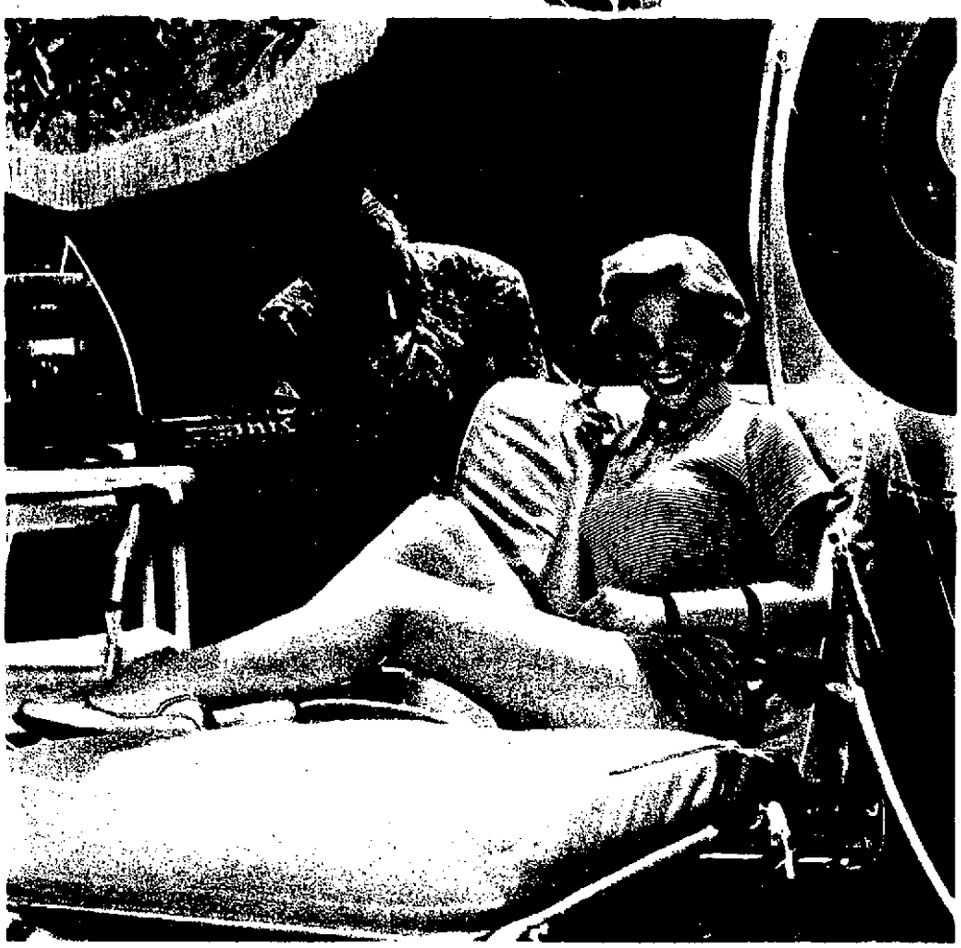

Francis' foster mother, with whom he had been placed so he could learn the existence of speech, wrote before camp began: "These are the things I would like him to accomplish: learn to swim and to play with other children who can hear and talk."

He did better than that. He helped other children learn that the handicapped are not "different." Normal Ted Dauer came to look up to him because Francis, locked in the eternal silence of his deafness, had learned to use his hands—and had become the camp expert at rigging fishing lines.

There were other wondrous changes. Arthur, the spastic catsup-lover, went on his first overnight hike—and learned he was strong enough to carry weaker boys' knapsacks. Charlie Dickerson, always morbidly ashamed of his deformed legs, exposed them for the first time in public. Phil Sires, still unused to a world outside an iron lung, learned that his unaffected, crutch-developed arms and shoulders made him a star with a bow and arrow. Steve Backus, Francis' 12-year-old cabin mate, whose spinal hernia made him almost sightless and helpless, slowly forced himself to his feet by cramming his crutches between a log and a rock. Francis himself learned to pronounce "fish," "bird," "row" and his counselor's name, Barney. By the time camp ended, every boy had grasped the vital fact that handicaps, no matter how bad, are seldom total.

One camp is not a national cure-all, but Manitowish has shown what even one camp can do. ■

A PRO STAR for seven seasons, John Dell Isola now is line coach of Dartmouth

by JOHN DELL ISOLA

Here's the lowdown on football's big leagues by a vet with scars to prove his points. He tells how and why . . .

PROS PLAY FOR KEEPS

HANOVER, N.H.

IN THE LAST FEW WEEKS, the boys—meaning the football players fresh out of college—have been going off to camp to try their hands at a man's game—meaning pro football. And a lot of them have been coming back again, with a scar here and a cleat mark there and a lot of wisdom ground into their skulls.

I keep hearing it whispered about that professional football is a game in which the first rule is "live and let live," played by a bunch of amiable fellows whose first concern is for the paycheck and who just kind of nudge each other now and again to keep up appearances. Last year in PARADE (Aug. 16, 1953) Bob Mathias, the Olympic champ and ex-Stanford fullback, said the same thing in kissing off college football as too brutal but declaring he might play pro. (He didn't, however; he entered the Marines instead.)

Ever since Mathias' article, on nights when my cranky shoulder (souvenir of a more-than-routine nudge one Sunday in Pittsburgh) won't let me sleep, I lie around and think up answers to him. Most of them go something like, "Son, take the word of an old gaffer who left half a dozen of his good teeth buried somewhere in the Polo Grounds: It just ain't so."

I say "old gaffer" because I've been connected with football in one way or another for more than 25 years—first as a fullback at Everett, Mass., High School, then as a center at Fordham, and then, for seven seasons, as a guard for the New York Giants. I've coached pro (with the old Boston Yanks) and now I'm coaching college (as line coach for Tuss McLaughry at Dartmouth). From 25 years of watching, I couldn't say that any group goes at it with more zest and fire than the pros. The ballplayers who thought pro football was "just another job" usually didn't last out the first week in training camp.

'Opening the Gate'

BACK IN MY DAY with the Giants, Mel Hein and Ward Cuff and Ken Strong and the other amiable fellows had a complete course mapped out to teach the rookies the primary lessons of pro football. From what I've been told since, the formations may have changed in pro football but the mayhem hasn't.

The basic lesson was called "opening the gate," and I don't think anyone since has figured out a faster, more efficient way of weeding out the loudmouths, the over-publicized college stars and the guys who just went through the motions. There were little variations for backs, linemen and defenders.

A halfback, for instance, might be carrying the ball behind what seemed like a wall of interference; yet a moment later he'd be smashed into the ground, with half the defense on top of him. If he watched closely, he could see his key blockers sliding off and giving the defenders a chance to unload. One or two doses of this usually gave him the right mental attitude.

Or a lineman, assigned with another lineman to take out a big tackle, would suddenly find he was doing the job alone. The other had spun away and gone downfield. Or, if the rookie was playing defense, the vets on offense had a trick of pinning his arm under their shoulder pads.

The Good Ones Stay

I'VE SEEN ROOKIES so frightened in their first stampede, with its snarling lips, narrowed eyes and clenched fists, that they headed right back to the hotel, packed their suitcases and went home to Mother. Others had the gate opened once or twice and decided they'd try some other way to make money. But the good ones stayed and took it.

Chris Cagle, the old West Point star, was whacked so hard across the chin in his first pro game that he needed 12 stitches. His nose was flattened on the same play. He had every reason to quit, but he didn't.

Then there was Ace Gutowski, a fullback. He broke his leg in his first scrimmage and the Giants let him go. Before the end of the season, he was back with the Lions and ran us dizzy in a Thanksgiving game.

One of Mathias' reasons for quitting college ball but leaving the door open for pro was his belief that no ballplayer tries to "get" another member of the union. My answer to that is, "The heck they don't." Only in pro ball they're not quite so successful. The first rule of the game is "Learn to defend yourself." And one of the first things a pro scout looks for in a prospect is how well he can use his hands.

When I think about this misguided notion, I look back on my running feud with Ernie Pinckert, the Redskins' great blocking back. One day in Washington, we played in a rainstorm—giving me a definite advantage on offense. Every time I met Pinckert, I was on the move, but he was still struggling to get under way.

Each time I upset him, I'd whisper, "Pinckert, you sure are a soft touch." Finally, he got mad enough to swing. Both of us were thrown out—but on the same play, while he was busy with me, Tuffy Leemans went over for a touchdown.

And I look back on all those missing teeth, the ones that are somewhere between home plate and deep center field in the Polo Grounds. I still have all my front teeth; I could see straight ahead, but those sneaky side-winder punches certainly took care of the molars. As distinctly as a toothless man can, let me say that they do throw sucker blows in pro ball.

The few times I deliberately eased up, I re-learned the lesson that you just don't play that way in the big leagues. One day I trapped Davey O'Brien, then quarterbacking the Eagles, against the sidelines. I thought, "Poor little guy, I won't tackle him, I'll just shove him out of bounds." He gave me the most vicious straight arm I've ever felt, and accidentally punched a thumb in my eye at the same time. Then someone jumped on my legs from behind. Blind, lame and dazed, I stumbled to the bench. And this is the game no one plays for keeps!

Sometimes you defend yourself with wits instead of brawn. Once a Lion halfback was off on an end sweep, with only me between him and a touchdown. He had three blockers. I knew they'd murder me. So just as they bore down for the kill, I yelled "Fumble!" By the time they recovered, I had a tight hug on the ball carrier.

The Pro Specialist

THE TRUTH IS that pro football is just as rugged, just as tough and just as spirited as college ball. And just as mean, too, if you will. What convinces the spectators that the boys are only playing pattycake is that they are evenly matched. A pro knows how to dish out the rough stuff, but the guy on the other end knows how to take it. You learn early; you have to, if you're going to survive.

For the same reason, pro football lacks some of the sensational dash of college or high-school ball. In high school, a halfback may be several seconds faster than his opponents. In college, the margin is whittled. And in pro, it disappears altogether. That is why pro football has become so specialized. A player who is just a cut above the others, even if only in one department, is a real standout.

My own 15-year-old son, Bobby, may be a pro ballplayer one of these days. A fullback at Hanover High, he has the makings. I hope he makes it. But I hope he makes it the right way. I hope the vets never have to mumble in the huddle, "Let's open the gate on this kid Dell Isola."

That's another thought I kick around on those nights my shoulder acts up. A couple of years in the future, Bobby and I are going to have a talk, and I'm getting my speech down pat. "Bobby," I'm going to tell him, "I hope you're going to play pro ball. But I hope you're going to do it because you love the game, the way your Dad did and all the Giants did. If you just want to make a buck—well, I'd almost rather you would go out begging." ■

Teenagers Give a Party

by Beth Merriman
PARADE'S FOOD EDITOR

FOR TEENAGERS the long summer holiday is drawing to a close. Before school doors swing open again, and the crowd breaks up, a party is in order!

Refreshments should be deliciously cool and easy to make, so that the kids who are giving the party can do everything themselves well ahead of eating time, and have fun doing it. Our Golden Caramel Shells, filled with peach ice cream, topped with blueberry sauce and accompanied by assorted soft beverages will fit all requirements.

GOLDEN CARAMEL SHELLS

½ lb. packaged caramels (28 caramels)
3 tablespoons water
8 cups ready-to-serve cereal flakes
1 quart prepackaged peach ice cream
Spicy Blueberry Sauce

Place the caramels and water in the top of a double boiler. Heat, stirring frequently until the caramels are melted and the mixture smooth. Pour over the cereal flakes placed in a large bowl; toss until well coated. Divide into 8 portions. With hands slightly moistened with cold water, lightly form each into the shape of a shell. Place on a lightly greased cookie sheet and let stand until firm. Fill with ice cream. Serve Spicy Blueberry Sauce separately. Makes 8 servings.

SPICY BLUEBERRY SAUCE

1 cup cultivated blueberries
⅓ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine blueberries, sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Bring to boiling point; boil 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Chill. Serve on ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

Enjoying themselves at PARADE'S party are three young actors from CBS Radio's Hilltop House. Norma Jean Marlowe is whooping in the food while Regina Jouvin and Donald Harris pour a cool cola

Did you know...

1. The health values in oranges are all through the fruit...

2. Not only in the juice, but also in the "meat"!

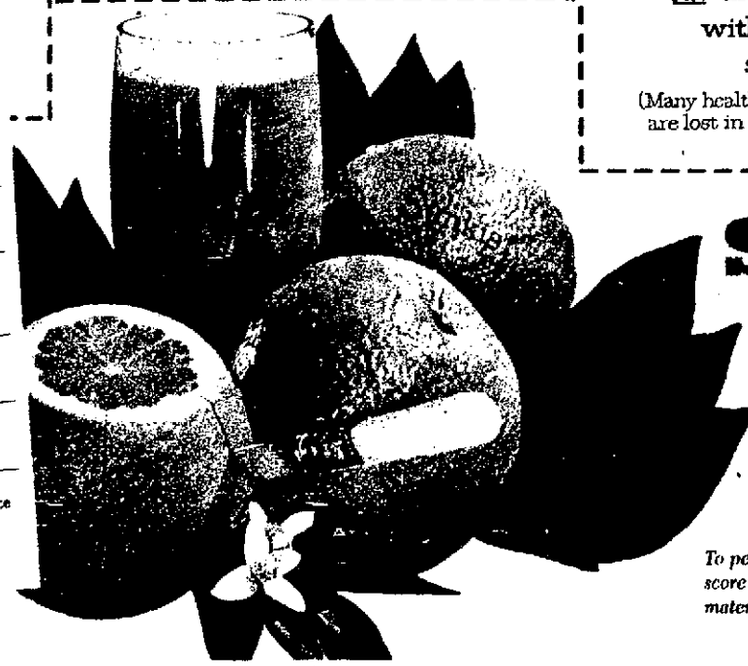

3. Your family gets all these values only when you give them fresh oranges...fresh oranges to eat and fresh orange juice, with lots of healthful solids left in it.

(Many health values important to your family are lost in any finely strained orange juice.)

HERE'S WHAT YOU GET FROM THE "MEAT" OF FRESH ORANGES

PROTOPECTINS	Help prevent many digestive ills and upsets in both adults and children. Aid regularity. Improve digestion, so you get more good from the food you eat.
INOSITOL (of the B vitamins)	One of the substances credited with protecting the liver from harmful fatty deposits. Similar deposits are associated with hardening of the arteries and other degenerative diseases.
BIOFLAVONOIDS	Research indicates the bioflavonoids strengthen the tiny blood vessels of the body—help them keep elastic and youthful in their function.
PRO-VITAMIN A	Pro-vitamin A is changed in the body to vitamin A, which is necesssry for children's growth and important for normal vision and healthy skin.

The peeled whole orange contains 10 times as much protopectin and bioflavonoids, 3 to 6 times as much pro-vitamin A, and up to twice as much inositol as the finely-strained juice alone. Few other foods even approach the fresh whole orange as an all-round source of elements the body needs.

Sunkist

CALIFORNIA-ARIZONA VALENCIA ORANGES

Sunkist Oranges are the finest you can buy in any market anywhere—for eating or for juice. They are hand-selected and shipped tree-fresh to your market. Look for the name Sunkist on the orange.

To peel an orange: Slice off top, score skin in sixths. Strip off, leaving white material that clings naturally.

CHARRED REMAINS of $1,750 in savings bonds are presented to Washington state savings-bond director by Chester Suits (right) of Snoqualmie Pass. U.S. made good on them.

Are Your Savings Safe?

The answer is 'Yes'—if you've got them in U.S. bonds. Fire, theft or carelessness won't touch them

SOME MONTHS AGO, a prominent rancher strode into the Basin State Bank at Stanford, Mont., and called for his safe-deposit box, containing $50,000 in Government bonds. Without stopping to check the contents, he shoved the box under his arm, barged out the front door and roared off in a big car toward Helena. But somewhere between the two cities the rancher and his bonds parted company. He never would say what happened to them.

"Someone robbed or rolled him," bank president N. B. Matthews figures. "He was ashamed to talk about it. We spoke to him, the Sheriff and I, but he wanted to forget the whole thing. Fact is, he made us promise we wouldn't tell his wife. He felt someone had made a fool of him, and no man likes to remember that."

When the rancher died recently, his widow found their safe-deposit box empty. Banker Matthews explained what had happened, then searched the bank's records and furnished her with a list of the missing bonds. She thereupon filled out the papers her husband had been too embarrassed to sign and without further red tape the Treasury Department replaced the whole $50,000 in bonds.

Just like that, Uncle Sam stands ready at all times to make good any savings bonds that are lost, stolen or destroyed. The serial numbers and purchasers' names are recorded on a master list, kept under lock and key in the Treasury Department's Chicago office. So, if some mishap befalls your bonds, you can get your investment back. Just notify the Bureau of Public Debt, Division of Loans and Currency, 536 South Clark St., Chicago 5, Ill.

This explains why U. S. savings bonds are the safest investment in the world. Even if your bonds are stolen and cashed by the thief, you still get reimbursed. The Secret Service will take care of the thief.

For example:

At Highland Park, Mich., "Funeral Ben" Synkowski used to watch the death notices, then loot the homes of the bereaved during the funerals. He got away with it until he made the mistake of swiping $1,200 in Government bonds and forging the owner's signature. The Secret Service moved in, sent "Funeral Ben" to jail.

In San Francisco, Addie Gig Norton tried to pass forged bonds and was picked up by the Secret Service. Though father of a 4-year-old son, Norton claimed he was basically a woman and needed the money for a

by JACK ANDERSON AND FRED BLUMENTHAL

PARADE'S WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENTS

"corrective" operation. The federal judge ordered a physical examination, decided Norton would have to take his medicine—like a man.

At Arlington, Va., Secret Service agents investigated a $150 bond theft and ended by solving a murder. When they nabbed the thief, James Thomas Nolan, and asked him how he'd cashed the bonds, he finally confessed that he had murdered the bondholder and used the victim's identification.

Thanks to the Secret Service's relentless efficiency, stolen-forged bond cases have been reduced from 16,056 six years ago to 4,345 last year. It has reached the point that most professional thieves, ransacking a house, won't touch Government bonds. Moral: If you're in the habit of hoarding cash around the house, convert it to savings bonds instead. They're safer (and draw interest, too).

Today, 40 million Americans hold a staggering, record total of $37,500,000,000 in E and H bonds—the largest savings program in history. What's more, they're buying new bonds at a monthly rate of $400 million.

Savings bonds have tided over many families in bad times, even whole communities. In the winter of 1948-49, for example, an economic disaster struck Grant's Pass, Ore. The town's lumber industry collapsed; all the factories in the area closed down. Yet, despite the sudden unemployment, retail business held up. Puzzled businessmen formed a committee and called on the two local banks for an explanation.

"Our people are simply cashing in their Government bonds," reported the bankers. "Those bonds have saved our city from a serious depression."

Within a few months Grant's Pass had overcome the crisis and was back to normal. Now, more than ever, its citizens salt away Government bonds as insurance against recession.

The Treasury Department has been deluged with letters from enthusiastic bondholders—letters like the one from George Pitt of Newport Beach, Calif., who wrote simply: "When my boy was born, Sept. 22, 1938, I bought him one $25 bond and continued each month thereafter to do the same until he had accumulated about $5,000 in bonds. I did this to provide a college education for him, which unfortunately I lack. As I am a person well along in years, I now have the satisfaction of knowing that the boy's education will not become a drain on me when I can least afford it."

Bryan Holloman, a Norfolk, Va., shipyard worker, signed up for the payroll savings plan in April, 1942. Two years later, he was stricken with rheumatic fever. His savings-bond nest egg paid all his medical bills. Today he has accumulated another $6,000 in bonds, well on his way to an $11,250 retirement goal.

Mr. and Mrs. America Save

F. A. SQUIRES of Naperville, Ill, has been supporting a wife and five children on a furniture hiker's salary. Yet he has managed to save over $6,000 in Government bonds against future need.

John Walsh of Malden, Mass., a widower with three children, has saved $4,900 in less than 10 years out of a $60 weekly paycheck.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Wheatley of Cuthbert, Ga., have saved $6,925 on a combined earning of $80 a week.

These are typical stories from Mr. and Mrs. America, stories that could be multiplied by the millions of bondholders who have learned thrift from the bond program.

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey told PARADE: "We feel that through this program of thrift, reaching into practically every home in the nation, we are building a strong economy. A strong and healthy country depends, in the final analysis, upon the security and the happiness of its people." ■

THESE RECORDS protected a Montana rancher's fortune. Cashier M. O. Husband (left) of Stanford is showing them to the state bond director.

What's Holding Them Up?

ROCKAWAY BEACH, N. Y.

● The "human flies" in these pictures seem to ignore the laws of gravity. Passengers on a new amusement ride here called The Rotor, they're whirling so fast they remain in midair even when the floor drops away.

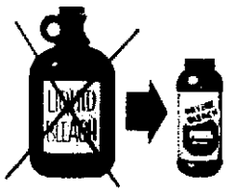

Actually, gravity is overcome by a physical principle almost as well known: the law of centrifugal force. As utilized by a former colleague of Albert Einstein, German scientist Ernst Hoffmeister, this law has brought a new thrill to the amusement park.

New! safe DRY bleach that whitens like liquid bleach!

No more splashed clothes!

No more heavy jugs to lift!

John Wayne: Another Day, Another $1,923

Popularity pays off—but how much of it can you keep?

RESTING briefly from his chores as Genghis Khan in The Conqueror, Wayne shows petite Peruvian actress Pilar Palette the spectacular desert scenery in Utah.

HOLLYWOOD.

THIS YEAR John Wayne, movies' high man on the box-office totem pole, will make approximately $500,000.

Anyone not too dazzled by that figure should be able to break it down to just over $1,923 for each working day. It makes a tidy sum, even for an ex-football player who stands 6'4", weighs 210 lbs. and supports, in addition to himself, two ex-wives, two sons, Pat and Mike (see front cover), two daughters, various employes and two large, hungry dogs.

Just how does a man go about earning 1,923 dollar bills a day? Wayne himself has said on repeated occasions: "I'm no actor. Never have been. All I can do is sell sincerity and I've been selling the hell out of that ever since I started." However, Duke (a nickname he picked up as a kid back in Winterset, Iowa) is noted for understatements.

Take a look at the working Wayne on location for The Conqueror, a million-dollar epic just made by RKO. He plays the part of Genghis Khan, the Mongol warrior who conquered most of Asia.

The real Genghis operated out of the Gobi Desert, so Duke had to trade his comfortable North Hollywood home and swimming pool for six weeks on the steaming Escalante Desert in southern Utah—as Gobi-like as any spot in the U. S. He set up headquarters in a plain little house in nearby St. George (pop. 3,951). "Scotty," his cook and handy man, stayed with him; on occasion, one or more of his children came to visit. That was it—no luxury, no lavish surroundings, no pool, no indirect lighting, no nightclubs.

Daily at 6 a.m. (an hour when bank clerks or teachers who make a mere $10 a day are sleeping soundly) Wayne answered "make-up" call. That was when husky Web Overlander, who has been Duke's make-up man for 20 years, arrived—ready for battle.

Too Many Massages?

"IT'S ALWAYS a fight," says Overlander. "Duke hates to be made up. Why, he even claims I made his hair thin out by massaging his head too often. Won't wear his hairpiece like he should."

At any rate, with Oriental eye make-up in place and a half-moon mustache carefully glued to his upper lip, Wayne then rode 18 miles out into the desert. En route, he repeated to himself the lines he had memorized the previous evening. Wayne is a fast memorizer—provided that his dialogue is straightforward. "I can't stand these fancied-up lines with adjectives modifying dangling participles," he says.

On location—a vast stretch of sandy red wasteland, dotted with authentic Mongol huts (made out of burlap and blankets by studio experts) and teeming with Mongols and Tartars (actually Indians from a nearby reservation), horses, wranglers, stuntmen and crew members—Wayne was a popular figure. He answered each "Good morning" with a broad Irish "It is that, indeed!" He'd trade friendly punches with a couple of wranglers, talk quietly to the horse he would ride that day, struggle into his costume, and by 8 o'clock be ready for a cup of coffee from the coffee wagon.

Shooting began at 9. Thereafter, Wayne's $1,923 working day usually included:

1) Wearing boots, fur-banded helmet and heavy wool costume for hours in temperatures that soared to 130°. (The cameras were draped with wet towels to keep the color film from melting.)

2) Risking his neck several times, on horseback and off, in genuinely dangerous scenes. (The action called for him to plunder a village, capture Tartar princess Susan Hayward, fight off Tartar hordes. "This is a regular Chinese Western," he commented one day after a stampede scene. "I get them all.")

3) A quick lunch in a trailer-dressing room. (Menu: cottage cheese, fruit, iced tea—and occasionally, as a special treat, a can of tomatoes.)

4) Standing for hours in the blazing sun, repeating one scene over and over as many as 15 times until director Dick Powell and the cameramen were satisfied.

Time Out for Dinner

THE WAYNE work day ended at 6 or 7 p.m.—that is, Duke was free to shed his costume and go back to St. George for a shower and dinner. Later, he'd join Powell to see rushes of the day's work and talk over progress of the film. If he was lucky and the rushes looked good, Wayne could go home, learn his lines for the next day and hit the hay about 10:30. (He likes to read himself to sleep with books on Indian history.) Next morning: more of the same.

The Conqueror did afford Wayne one big thrill: he played a scene with his 19-year-old son, Mike. Mike took the part of a Mongol who fell asleep on guard duty. He was dragged in before the Khan, who thundered: "Hang him!"

"He looked more scared of me than he ever did in real life," says Wayne. "My kids may be actors in spite of themselves."

As for the Duke himself, acting is his chief source of income—but by no means the only one. He controls his own film company, Batjac Productions, which releases at least three movies a year. He is under contract to RKO at $1,000 a week for 450 weeks. He must star in one film a year for Warner Brothers at $150,000. He has an agreement with Argosy Productions to make a film whenever director John Ford requests him to, circumstances permitting. (Ford hired Wayne as a prop boy 27 years ago and Wayne has never ceased to be grateful.)

He further maintains active interest in a fishing fleet in Panama, oil wells in Oklahoma, the West Side Tennis Club in Los Angeles, the Polar Pantry in Brentwood, a hunting lodge in San Joaquin Valley, a Colorado beer company, the Culver City Hotel, a Mexico cab company, the Los Flamingos Hotel in Acapulco and varied real estate.

Tack onto this fact that every movie company in town is after the 47-year-old actor and you have a fair idea of his schedule. Typically, not long ago, he got a certified check for $400,000 to star in a King Bros. movie called Indian Fighter. He sent it back with a three-word answer: "Sorry, too busy."

Why is the Duke so popular? Says John Ford: "He's as good an actor as you'll find in Hollywood; his performances have an awful lot of depth." Say his friends: "He's well-liked because he is the same character on-screen as off: modest, fist-handy, honest and incredibly loyal." Says Wayne, himself: "I don't know why people like me. I must've played in 125 pictures before I was worth a nickel at the box office. Maybe it's because people know they can count on me for escape. I don't worry an audience with problem pictures."

Yet, though this approach garners such a handsome gross, Wayne nets surprisingly little of it. Twenty per cent goes to his first wife, Josephine Saenz Wayne—who divorced him in 1943 after 10 years of marriage—for family support. (The four children spend most of each year with her.)

ACTIVE scene: Wayne kidnaps an unco-operative Susan Hayward.

Another chunk goes to his second wife, Esperanza "Chata" Baur; their recent divorce settlement will cost Duke about half a million over the next 10 years. Withal, there are compensations.

Out on the Utah location, they gave Wayne a high, umbrella-shaded leather-backed chair but he never sat in it. He liked to walk slowly around and around, Web Overlander close to him. Duke never carries cigarettes or matches and it's Web's job to provide them. Web also wore a spare hat for his boss. When Duke's helmet got too heavy, he reached out and swapped hats.

A man who makes $1,923 a day should have some privileges. ■

Another plus: Tampax can be worn in tub

What else can you buy for 39¢ that will do so many different things for you?

The first thing that strikes a new Tampax user is invariably some striking point of difference from the bulky external pad. (Tampax is internal sanitary protection, you know.) "I can wear it in the tub," says one. "I can wear it while swimming," says another. "I don't have to wear a belt!" exclaims a third. Enjoy these advantages, but don't forget that Tampax adds a lot more to your poise and comfort. It prevents odor from forming. It doesn't chafe. It's easy to dispose of, comes with throw-away applicator. Month's supply goes into purse. Your 39¢ will buy a package at any drug or notion counter in your choice of Regular, Super or Junior absorbency-sizes. Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

PERMANTIQUE DRAPERIES

styled by O'Bie of California

47" wide by 84" long 10.95 pair

Here's ready-to-hang drapery magic! It's a fascinating new fabric made of Celaperm, a fiber with the colors "locked in." It has an unbelievable resistance to all the common fading hazards, including light, atmospheric fumes, dry cleaning and washing. A richly textured slub weave with satin back. Drapes beautifully, is available in eight exciting decorator colors: chartreuse, yellow, rose dust, wine, grey, brown, forest green, red, oyster. Transform your windows into the proper proportions through our famous "56 Size" chart.

WHO WAS THE STRANGER AT THE PORTHOLE?

Murder on the Schooner Carma

By Vera Williams

Patrolman C. S. Wingfield points to the spot in the cabin of the schooner Carma where Capt. Walter Wanderwell's body was found. Insert—Capt. Wanderwell.

WHEN SOUTHERN California newspaper writers lounge at their desks late afternoons talking about the places they have been and the places they want to go, the stories they have written and the stories they want to write, the talk inevitably turns to Capt. Wanderwell.

"You don't know about Capt. Walter Wanderwell, world adventurer killed aboard his yacht Carma in the Long Beach Harbor in 1932?" they demand of writers new in the business. "Now, son, THAT was a murder. It had everything—mystery, intrigue, adventure. Listen—"

They lean back in their chairs, feet on desks, and the cub reporters listen intently to the story of the bizarre killing of Capt. Walter Wanderwell, probably the Pacific Coast's outstanding unsolved murder.

Valarian Johannes Tieczynski, German Pole, better known on four continents as Capt. Wanderwell, had been every place and done everything, and practically every place he had left enemies.

Wanderwell's wife, Aloha, collapsed during the trial.

William J. (Curly) Guy was acquitted of murder charge.

HE HAD FACED disaster in wastes of Siberia, in Indian jungles, on Arabian deserts and at sea. Then, about 9:30 the night of Dec. 5, 1932, in a cabin on a former rum boat in quiet Long Beach harbor he fell with a bullet in his heart, shot from behind. Ten feet away his two small daughters slept, unmindful of the tragedy.

WHO KILLED Capt. Wanderwell, and why? Newsmen and police officers don't know, although most of them have a theory. The only thing is the theories aren't the same. They don't even agree about whether the assassin was male or female.

William J. (Curly) Guy, 24-year-old Welsh soldier of fortune who had feuded with Wanderwell about repayment of passage after Guy and Guy's wife were put off Wanderwell's ship in Panama one time, was acquitted. No one else ever was brought to trial.

Guy, a personable young man with deferential manners and curly black hair, said:

"I HATED WANDERWELL. I had reason to hate him. I would not have minded killing him. But I never would shoot a man in the back."

He apparently convinced the jury of that; he shook the identification of witnesses who declared that he was the "man at the porthole," a man in a gray overcoat with the collar turned up and a cap pulled over his eyes, who stopped at the mess room porthole and asked for Capt. Wanderwell five minutes before he was shot. And he produced an air-tight alibi in a Glendale aviator friend who swore that Guy was in his home when Capt. Wanderwell was killed.

ALL THAT IS LEFT of the case now is memories, two manila envelopes bulging with yellowed newspaper clippings in the Independent, Press-Telegram library, and microfilm in the police record bureau. It takes three hours to watch the microfilm record. The newspaper library prizes the clippings so much—the Wanderwell case just possibly might break open again some day—that even the newspaper's employes practically have to put up cash bond to get them out.

Personnel has changed, too. Only 20 persons in the police department now were on the force when Wanderwell was killed. Chief of Police William H. Dovey then was a captain. Henry F. (Hank) Burmester the reporter who handled the trial, now is the Press-Telegram's editor. He still considers the Wanderwell case his most interesting assignment.

ANOTHER ANGLE that newspapermen argue about: How did the New York office of United Press know Wanderwell was killed before Long Beach newspapers knew it?

The Los Angeles office of United Press that night called the Long Beach Sun (the city's morning newspaper later absorbed by the Press-Telegram) and asked:

"How's Capt. Wanderwell?"

"Fine," said Ruskin Dunfee, city editor and United Press correspondent.

"Anything happened on the Carma down there?"

"No," said Dun. "We comb the Wanderwells out of our hair all the time. They keep trying to get publicity for their cruise."

THERE WAS A PAUSE on the line. "Check it, will you? We just got a flash from the New York office that Wanderwell was killed on board the Carma."

Dun grabbed another phone and called Emmet Riordan, his trustworthy crime reporter. "Cap Wanderwell just got killed," an unfamiliar voice answered him at the police station. "Emmet went on it so fast he didn't have time to call you."

How did New York know it first? That is one of the minor mysteries of a major murder mystery.

THE TWO-MASTED schooner Carma—"yacht" always was a figure of speech—was confiscated with 232 cases of liquor aboard by federal authorities in Fish Harbor here in July, 1932.

The following October, Capt. Wanderwell bought her for $2500 at a marshal's sale and despite warning by navigation authorities that she was unseaworthy fitted her up for a cruise to the South Seas.

A "crew" of six men and eight women was recruited, plus Capt. Wanderwell and his pretty blond wife, Aloha, 'on a part-work, part-pay basis, and they expected to leave in mid-December for Honolulu, the first leg of the South Seas trip.

This "crew"—calling the assemblage a "crew" instead of "passengers" cut through some kind of red tape—included:

Lord Edward Montagu, 26, of London, second son of the Duke of Manchester.

Marian and Mary Louise Smith, sisters, society girls from Georgia.

Capt. James E. Smith; engineer Cuthbert Wills and wife, Elsa; cameraman Edmund Zeranski; Arline Allen, Ruth Loucks, Eugenia Nobel, Florence Wegel, Mary Parks, Forrest Plummer and Jack Craig, generally classified as students.

CAME THE NIGHT of Dec. 5. Practically everyone was ashore, leaving Wills, Zeranski, Mary Parks and Marian Smith to eat a late dinner in the Carma's mess room.

A stranger, wearing a coat with the collar turned up around his throat and a cap pulled over his eyes, they said, stood for a moment at the porthole and asked "Is Capt. Wanderwell in?"

Wills ushered the stranger to Wanderwell's quarters. He heard Capt. Wanderwell say "Hello!" apparently greeting an acquaintance, and then returned to the table.

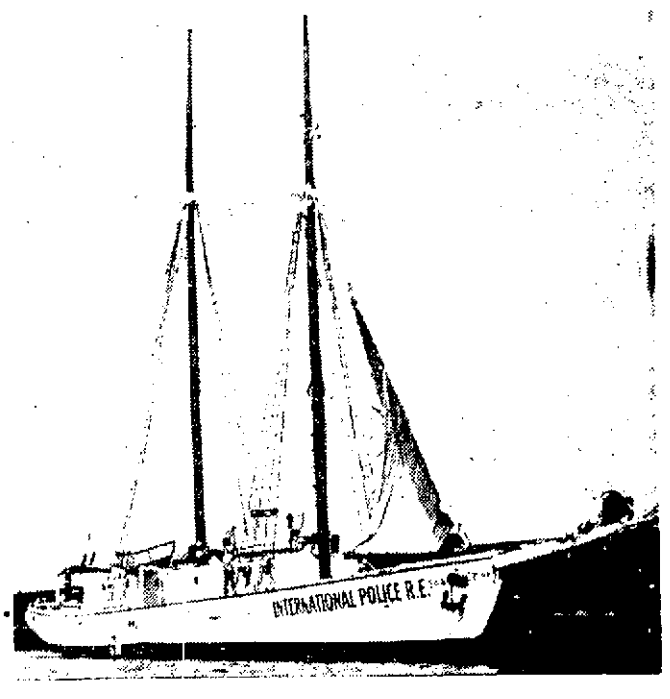

Five minutes later a shot rang out. The stranger was gone, and Capt. Wanderwell lay dead, a ring of keys in his hand as if he had been about to open a cash box or safe. In his wallet in his pocket was $600, but a note written in Spanish which crew members said had been in his wallet was gone. Contents of the note were not revealed.

Guy, who had figured in an altercation the preceding summer in a Los Angeles apartment when he had sought to get Wanderwell to return passage money, was arrested in a deserted house in Los Angeles.

PALE AND DEFIANT, Guy stood under hours of grilling, insisting that at the time of the Wanderwell killing he was a guest in the home of Edward DeLarm, an Arapahoe Indian friend, who operated an aviation school at Glendale. DeLarm and his family of six corroborated Guy's story.

A former wife of Wanderwell

The death ship Carma. Told it was unseaworthy, Wanderwell still planned South Seas trip in it.

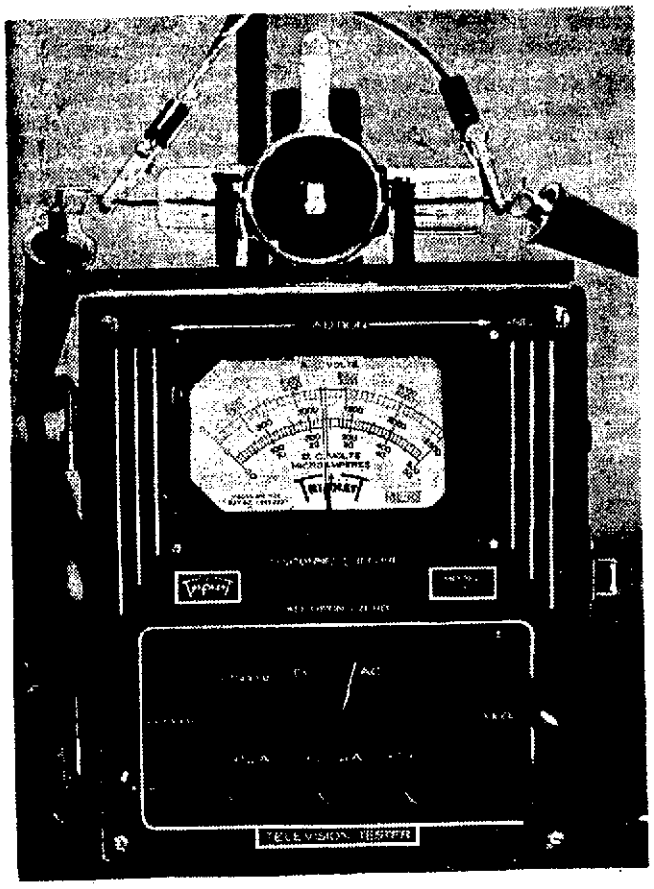

Betty Grable's wink takes just about one second to record on movie film

... but if taken on this fast new camera being demonstrated by the inventor, Dr. A. M. Zarem Pasadena, it would have required 46 days and nights just to run film through the projector!

NEW CAMERA HELPS SOLVE SCIENTIFIC MYSTERIES BECAUSE IT'S

100 Million Times Quicker Than 'Quick as a Wink'

HOW QUICK is "quick as a wink?"

About one second would be a fair guess, based upon a timing test made recently of one of Betty Grable's famous winks which her studio staged as a publicity stunt. But Betty's fetching eye flutter was filmed with an ordinary movie camera; had it been photographed with a new camera now in use at the U. S. Naval Ordnance Testing Station at Pasadena, it would have required 46 days and nights just to run the film through the projector!

The astonishing camera apparatus, designed to take photos at the rate of 100 million per second, is helping solve various scientific mysteries by actually revealing physical reactions occurring almost with the speed of light. In ballistics studies, for instance, the super-speed machine can show the fastest bullet as if it were standing still. Another idea of its tremendous speed can be described thusly: Imagine a rocket capable of flying from Los Angeles to New York in one second flat. The camera could photograph it while it moved less than two inches!

The "Galloping Brownie," as testing station personnel have dubbed the amazing device, was developed by Dr. A. M. Zarem and Fred Marshall, navy photographic specialists. Dr. Zarem also directs Stanford Research Institute's Los Angeles division, but remains a consultant for the Navy on matters pertaining to its photographic problems.

"DR. ZAREM is called in whenever we have a real puzzler in the realm of photography," a Navy spokesman explained. "The astonishing 'Galloping Brownie' came into being when we were stymied in our efforts to photograph the explosive vaporization of metal caused by heavy electrical discharge. We wanted to make progressive observations of the fast acting explosives and no camera then available could take pictures fast enough for our purpose."

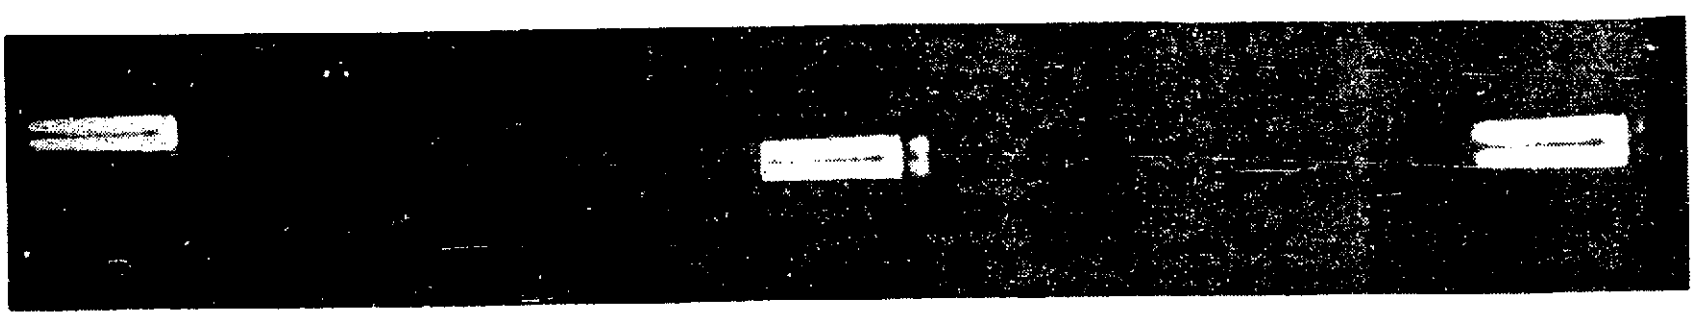

That was in 1948 when the scientific world was still marveling at a super speed camera that could take 10,000 exposures a second. Within a few months Zarem and Marshall had perfected a camera shutter that took successful pictures in 1/10,000,000 of a second. This first camera was found to be still too slow to reveal the secrets sought by ballistics experts, so Dr. Zarem and Marshall worked together four years before coming up with the present improved model. Now, due to refinements in the pulsing system of the shutter—which has no moving parts—the speed has been stepped up 1,000 per cent over the original camera to achieve the present ultimate in photographic ballistics tests.

The shutter, key to the amazing speed, is a simple-appearing glass container filled with nitrobenzene and fitted with a polarizing window at each end. The windows are turned with the lines of polarity at right angles, so that no light normally can pass through them.

BUT, WHEN a 5,000-volt charge passes between two electrodes in the liquid, light entering one window is actually twisted so it can go through the other window into the camera. Thus, nothing moves except the light itself as it is "bent" onto the unexposed film.

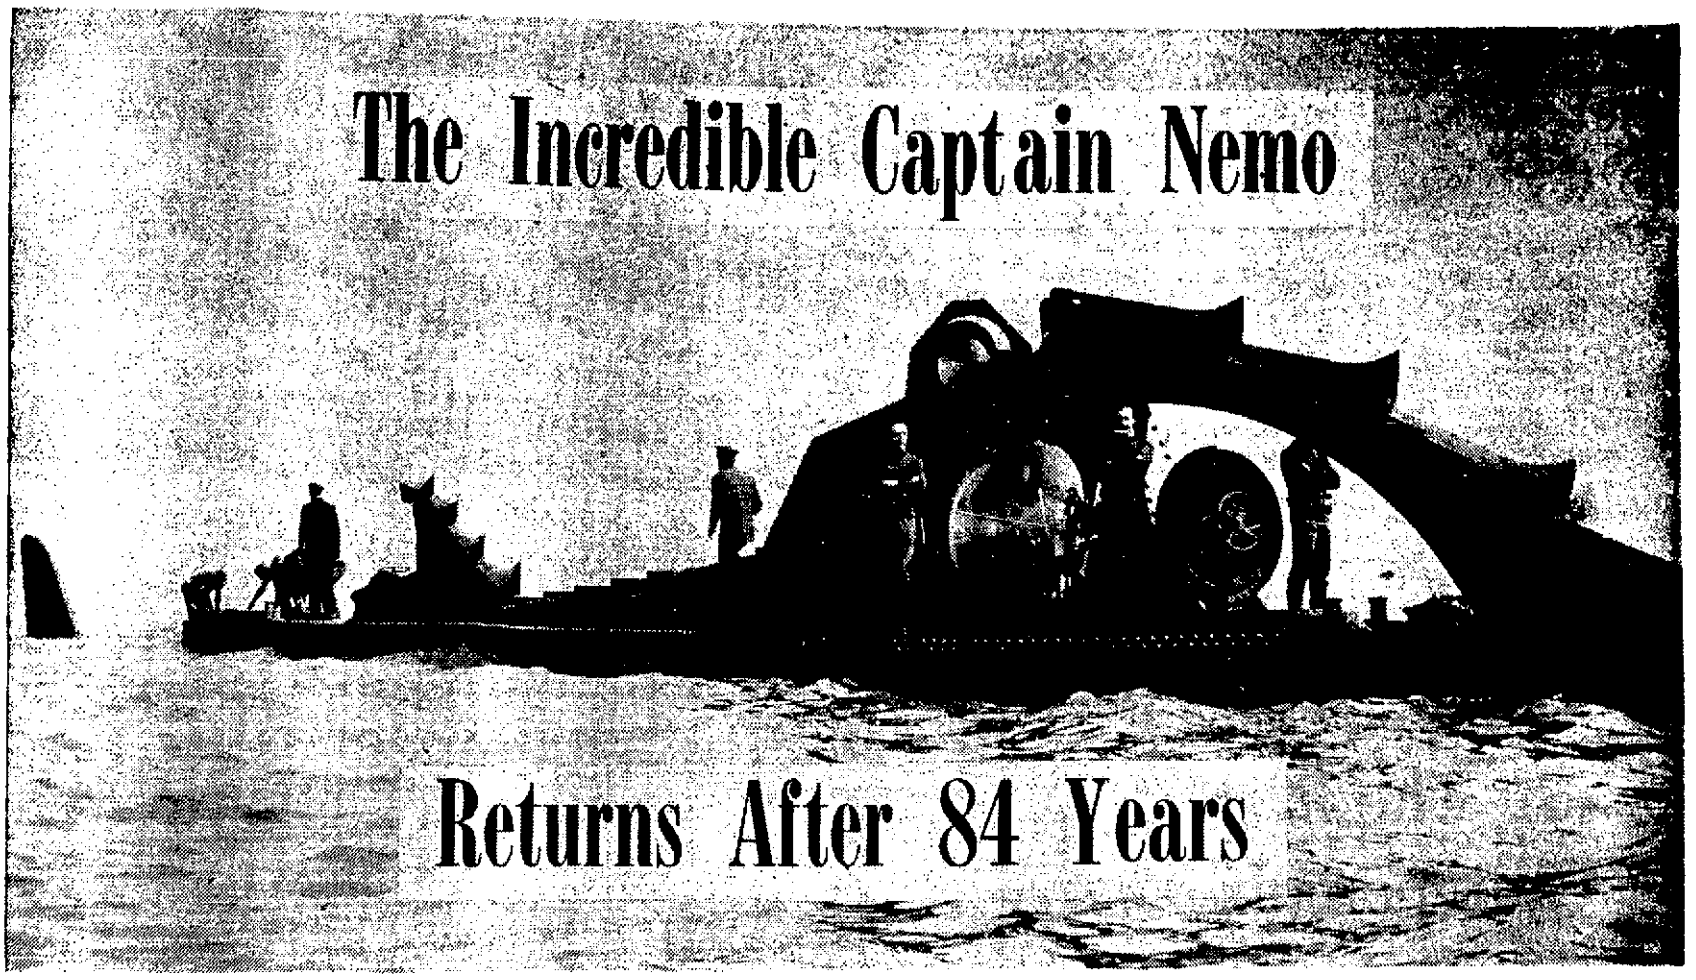

Dr. Zarem's "Brownie," a vitally important contribution to modern military science, is said to be one of the most valuable aids to designers of big guns and projectiles to appear since World War II. Unless ballistics experts can see in detail exactly what takes place when a charge is exploded, they are hampered in developing new and more powerful explosives.

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

Three exposures, each of only 4/100,000,000 of a second, tell what happens when fine gold wire is vaporized by an electrical charge. The "Galloping Brownie" has proved invaluable to U. S. military experts in designing powerful guns and rocket missiles.

The Incredible Captain Nemo

Returns After 84 Years

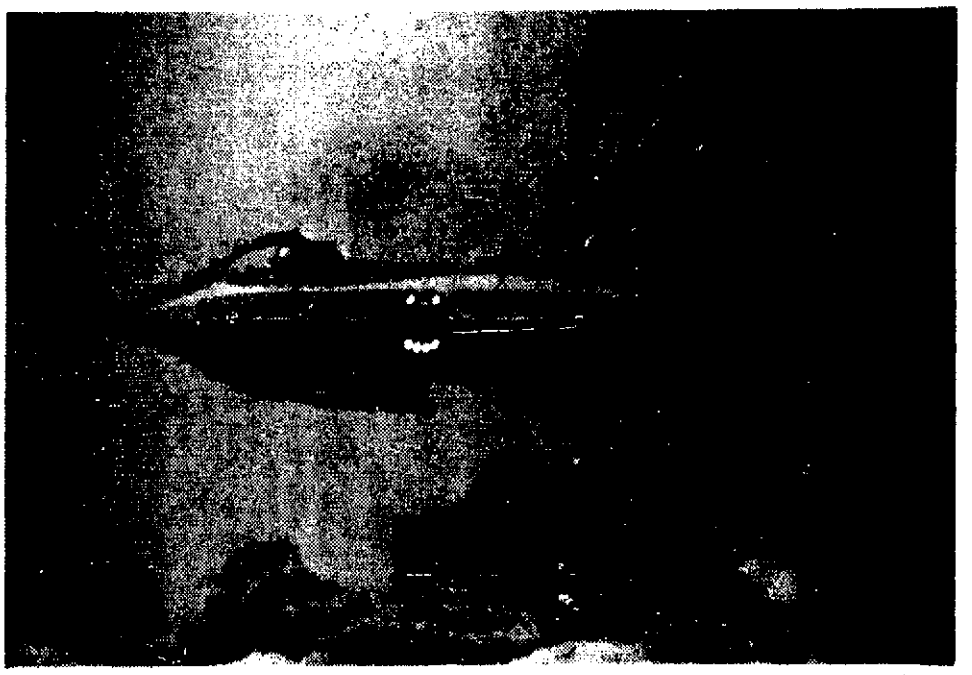

Submarine Nautilus and her Captain Nemo, conceived 84 years ago by Jules Verne, live again in movie being made by Walt Disney.

JULES VERNE, the grand-daddy of all science-fiction writers, startled readers around the world when, in 1870, he published his novel, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." Not even the Navy's modern atom-powered submarine, the Nautilus (named in honor of Verne's vessel), caused as much comment, for in a few strokes of his pen the author had plunged his audience into a strange new craft exploring a strange new world — the depths of the ocean. And while it has taken nearly a century for engineers to match Verne's mechanical predictions, the world is still curious and mystified about life thousands of feet beneath the waves.

Over at the Walt Disney Studios, where a picture based on the novel is currently in production, they like to refer to the effort as "20,000 Headaches Under One Roof." They have a point. Not only is this multi-million-dollar movie, which is being photographed in CinemaScope and Technicolor, the most ambitious undertaking ever tackled by Hollywood's outstanding Oscar winner, but it is unquestionably one of the costliest and most difficult films ever attempted. It took 14 months of research, design and engineering to duplicate the wonders of the book and it is taking another five months to shoot the film.

NOT SKIMPING in any department, Producer Disney hired Kirk Douglas to play Ned Land, the harpooner; James Mason for the vengeful Captain Nemo; Paul Lucas to enact Professor Aronnax, and Peter Lorre as his aid, Conseil.

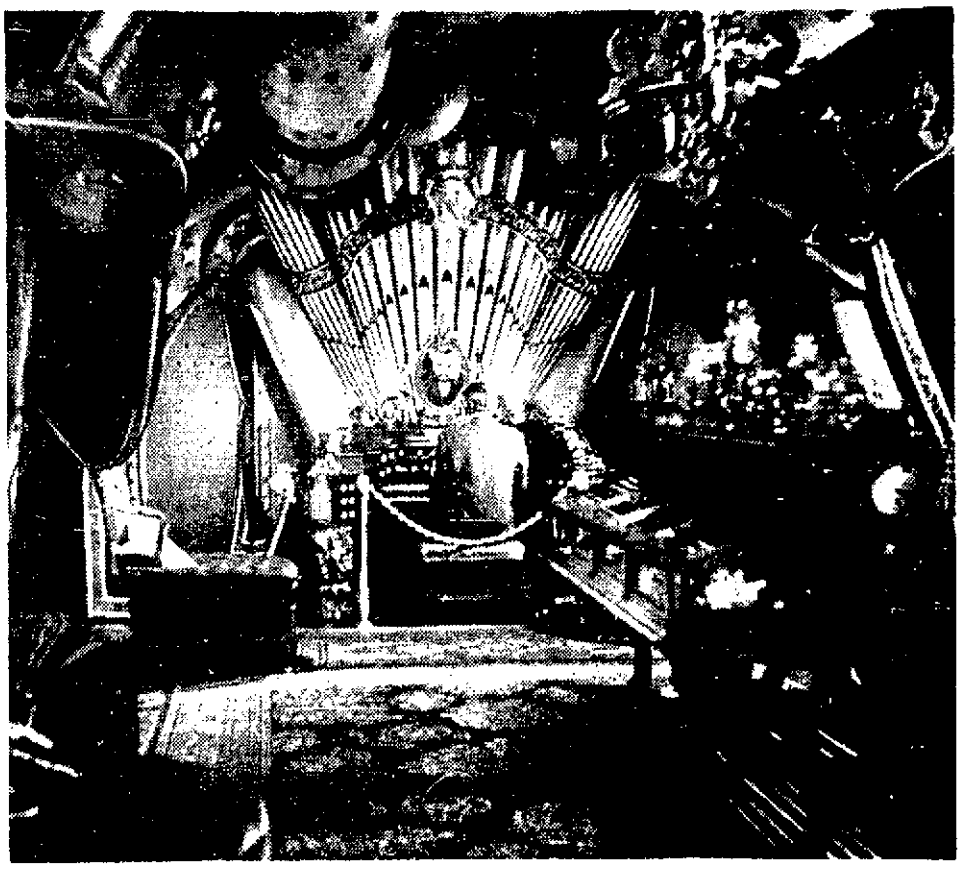

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" will be released to the theaters about Christmas time.

Disney's version of the Nautilus is 200 feet long and 26 feet wide. To avoid being attacked, it is disguised in appearance to look like a monster of the deep.

Capt. Nemo (James Mason) outlines rules of conduct on sub for prisoner-guest. Prof. Aronnax (Paul Lukas).

Jules Verne's great imagination demonstrated in the book. "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," is carried into the movie. Here, Capt. Nemo relaxes at his pipe organ.

HOLLYWOOD

Bad and Beautiful--With Music!

Gloria Grahame, who won "best supporting role" Oscar for 1952 with her performance in "The Bad and the Beautiful," makes her bow in a musical sequence in "Naked Alibi" for Universal International. Cast as entertainer in a Mexican border honky-tonk, Gloria is bad and beautiful warbling and wriggling hot choruses. Here is a demonstration by Gloria:

A part in a high school play won her a stage role.

Hollywood beckoned after Gloria served as understudy for Miriam Hopkins in "Skin of Our Teeth."

Many films followed her first one, "Blonde Fever."

Then came a big one, "The Bad and the Beautiful."

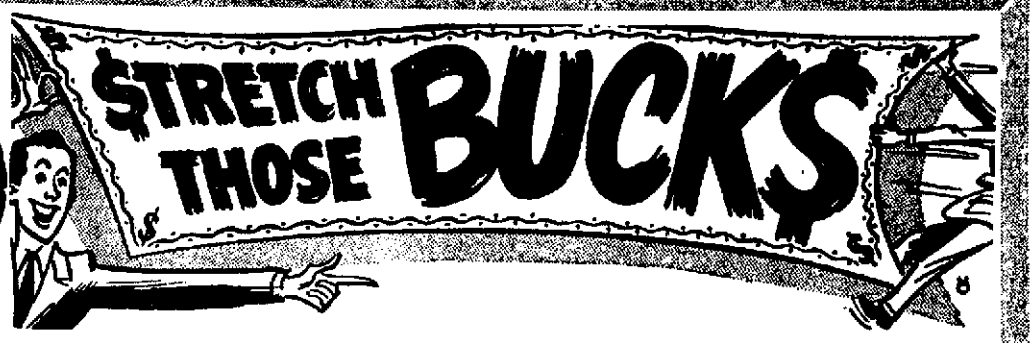

She says leading men always kiss her or beat her.

It's Circus Night for Photogs

By the Shutterbug

LONG BEACH Cinema Club observes "Circus Night," complete with popcorn, peanuts and lemonade, at 8 p. m. Wednesday in Houghton Park clubhouse. Kyle Holmes will be chairman. Circus movies will be shown. The club will film a movie scenario over the Labor Day holiday on a jaunt to Turkey Creek near Idyllwild. Persons who wish to participate should contact the club president, Bob Ferris, Ph. 8-5313. A Ladies' Night is slated for Sept. 15 at Houghton Park clubhouse. Women will present their own film and handle the sound and projectors. Nellie Lloyd will be program chairman. Men of the club will serve refreshments.

MANUFACTURERS of home movie equipment have made it possible for everyone to own home movies. This has been done by reductions in the initial cost of equipment and film. Not only can the average family now afford a movie camera, but anyone in the family can be the photographer. Junior, Sister, Mom, Dad or any person, whether or not he knows about photography, can take movies with the new, simple, low-priced cameras on the market.

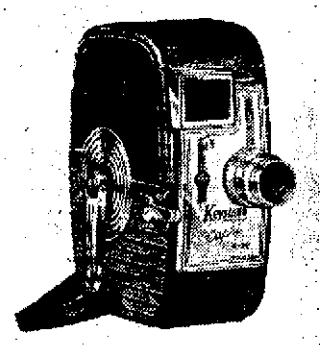

This is only the beginning. Due to better films and better camera lenses, it is possible to takes movies indoors as well as outdoors. The quality of pictures is greatly improved, and they can be in color as well as black and white.

Typical is the new Keystone Capri camera, which is lightweight but of rugged construction with an optical finder, hand crank wind, built-in exposure guide, footage counter that sets itself when the camera is loaded, and hand strap. No threading is necessary as the film drops in place for easy loading.

The Capri has provisions for interchanging lenses. This is important as many users of movie cameras like to add lenses such as wide angle and telephoto.

The Capri, pre-tested by the manufacturer, comes with the test strip of film enclosed in the camera showing that it is capable of taking good pictures. The manufacturer offers a "life time guarantee" and a "free service policy" with each camera.

More families now are recording the growing family, home improvements, hobby activities and the like. The family album of tomorrow will be in living form, thanks to progress made by manufacturers of home movie equipment.

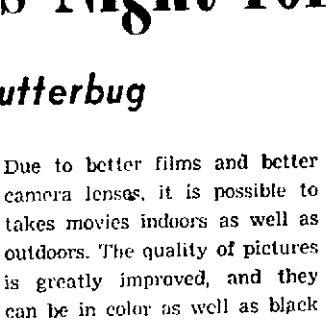

The new Keystone Capri is an example of easy-to-operate movie cameras now available in Long Beach.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST to women photographers, and photographers to be, is a brand new camera—the Anscoflex—recently announced by Ansco, America's oldest photographic company. The Anscoflex, a streamlined version in two-tone gray and silver, with accents of red, fitted with a matching gray shoulder strap, incorporates eye-appeal with simplified operating features.

You Make It

Frames that are individual in style and appropriate for special purposes, such as for mirrors, photographs, paintings or prints, are easily made from quarter-inch plywood. A pattern for tracing the saw lines directly to the material is useful as it may be fitted to the exact amount of material you have on hand.

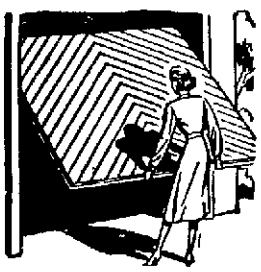

Pattern 301 gives tracing diagrams for fitting pieces to avoid waste. Pattern 301 costs 25 cents and is included in Jig Saw Packet of eight patterns for shadowbox trim and other useful items for the home. Specify pattern or packet, inclose corresponding amount of money and send order to: Pattern Department, Independent, Press-Telegram Southland Magazine, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Murder on the Schooner Carma

was quoted in a press dispatch from Seattle as saying "My former husband when he wanted to terminate a conversation had an arrogant way of suddenly turning on his heel and walking away. . . . He did it once too many times."

Charged with murder, Guy went on trial Feb. 2, 1932, before Superior Judge Robert W. Kenny (later attorney general) and a jury of nine men and three women here. Wanderwell's wife, Aloha, who wore blond hair in curls about her face like old pictures of Mary Pickford, collapsed on the stand. She told about how she, a child bride, married Wanderwell in 1916; how they had traveled over the world, seeking adventure in strange ports and strange countries. She said she was visiting friends in Hollywood when her husband was slain. She told about her husband's financial difficulties with Guy.

Some of the witnesses said positively that Guy was the "man at the porthole." Others said he "resembled " him. The state demanded the death penalty.

The defense struck hard at the contention that anyone could see an unfamiliar face for seconds in the half light of a porthole and then identify it months later in a murder courtroom.

"CURLY GUY had nerves of steel," recalls Hank Burmester. "He never once raised his voice or lost his manners or his poise. He played his hand to the full, but he never overplayed it."

After four hours deliberation, the jury returned the "not guilty" verdict on Feb. 16. Jurors said they took four ballots; the first ballot stood 10 to 2 for acquittal, they said.

Guy shook hands with the jurors after the verdict. Then he was mobbed by well-wishers, spectators who filled the courtroom. Many of them tried to press money into his hands, but, although he needed money, he refused it.

Aloha Wanderwell married Walter Baker, a former Wyoming sheepman, in a ceremony in Gretna, La., and in 1936 they headed the "Walter Wanderwell Educational Expedition" to Indochina. A globe-trotting cinematographer, James B. Shackleford, returning with film shot by the Tay Garnett expedition, said that he several times ran across the expedition in the back country of Indochina. The party traveled in an out-dated automobile, he said, camped out, ate berries and roots and stayed with native tribes between towns.

A few years ago the Bakers lived in Long Beach for a time. A former city editor of the Press-Telegram found their Roycroft Ave. address in an old address book. They don't live there any more, and the present neighbors had never heard of them.

THE WANDERWELL daughters would be in their late 20's, or possibly in their early 30's now.

Guy, deported after the trial here, fought with the Loyalists in Spain and the Chinese armies in the Orient. He eventually served six months as a flying instructor at Regina, Saskatchewan, and then joined the RAF Ferry Command. In the same service was Edward DeLarm, Indian aviator, who furnished his alibi in his murder trial. Guy was credited with making more trips across the Atlantic with American-built bombers than any other pilot in the service.

In 1940 Guy was co-pilot on a plane which carried Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King across the Atlantic for a conference with Winston Churchill and other Empire war chiefs.

Then on Oct. 15, 1941, Guy apparently met his death. A terse message from the RAF Ferry Command said that Capt. W. J. Guy of Cardiff, South Wales, First Officer W. A. Herron of Hatboro, Pa., and Radio Operator C. L. Larder of Delia, Alberta, were "missing somewhere over the Atlantic" in a Lockheed Hudson bomber being ferried to England. That was the last heard here.

LORD MONTAGU? He joined the French Foreign Legion. The last anyone heard of him he was running a hamburger stand in Buckingham, England.

VINES HAVE MANY USES IN IMPROVING HOMES

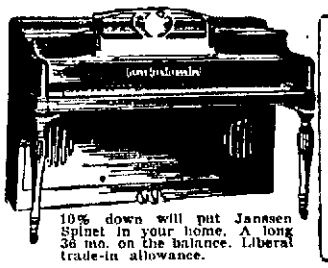

"From the vine comes the grape" . . . and a number of other important though often less tangible features.

For instance, vines may be used as a means of climate control and a source of shade. They may be used as screens to reduce light glare and to furnish privacy. Too, there are many vines of such beauty that they may be trellised, espaliered or grown on a wall for their esthetic effect alone. And vines are a natural for covering up fences or other unsightly objects.

Recent information from the California Association of Nurserymen stresses the use of vines for climate control and cooling. The darker foliaged vines will tend to absorb heat, while lighter foliaged varieties reflect it. But of course their more obvious use in controlling climate is an arbor, trellis or in natural growth where they reduce the amount of sunlight reaching a given area.

Where it is desirable to shelter an area during summer only, deciduous vines can be used, since they will shed their leaves during the cooler months and let sunlight through. Evergreen vines will, of course, shade the area the year 'round. Your nursery can advise you regarding a combination of deciduous and evergreen vines where some greenery is wanted the year 'round, but to a lesser degree in winter than in summer.

COOKING

Crab and Tuna Casserole

By Mildred K. Flanary

Mrs. D. W. Bryant's crab and tuna casserole pleases her entire family, even to tantalizing the canine taste.

THERE'S a perfect wedding of flavors in casseroles -- those elegant "main-dish" affairs, so dear to the hostess—to the homemaker who is short on time and to family or guests who like surprises.

Menu patterns should change with the seasons and the big meal of the day in hot weather should combine cool cooking and easy eating. Ideal answer to both problems is a hot baked casserole for the main dish with the refreshing contrast of crisp cool foods making up the rest of the meal.

Mrs. David W. Bryant, 4329 Long Beach Blvd., has a recipe which came to her from a friend. Because it is so delectable, it has become "the dish" in her particular circle of friends. Even her pup begs for some, it's that good.

Directions may be found elsewhere on this page.

Here are some other recipes:

Sausage Peach Balls

1 pound sausage meat
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 cups soft bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten
8 peach halves, drained
24 whole cloves
½ cup peach juice

Combine sausage, onion, soft bread crumbs, salt, pepper and egg. Form into 8 balls. Arrange peach halves, cut side up, in a shallow baking dish. Stick 3 cloves around the outer edge and place a sausage ball in center of each. Bake in an 8" square seamless pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Remove to hot platter, drain off fat and pour peach juice over sausage balls.

Yield: 4 servings, or 8 sausage peach balls.

Western Ham 'n' Noodle Bake

1 cup ripe olives
¾ cup diced onion
½ cup diced green sweet pepper
2 tablespoons salad oil
8 ounces noodles (3½ cups)
1¾ cups canned tomatoes
1 cup water
¼ cup liquid from olives
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
½ pound diced American cheese (1½ cups)

Cut olives from pits into large pieces. Cook onion and green pepper slowly in oil until transparent but not browned. Add noodles, tomatoes, water, olives and olive liquid, ham, salt, pepper and paprika. Simmer 10 minutes. Stir in cheese. Turn into 2-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes.

Serves 6.

Lima Bean-Shrimp Bake

1 can shrimp (5¾ oz.)
4 cups green lima beans, cooked or canned
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
1 can mushroom soup (10½ oz.)

Clean shrimps. Place two cups lima beans in bottom of well-greased heat-resistant glass refrigerator dish, the yellow 1½ quart size. Cover lima beans with half of shrimps; then add rest of lima beans. Add water and salt to mushroom soup and stir until mixture is smooth. Pour soup over lima beans. Arrange remaining shrimps on top. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 minutes.

Mushroom-Cheese Casserole

1 quart soft ½" bread cubes
½ cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup grated sharp cheese
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 eggs, beaten
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk

Alternate layers of bread cubes, mushrooms, cheese, celery and onion in a greased 1-quart casserole. Combine beaten eggs, mustard, salt, pepper and milk. Pour over bread in casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) for one hour.

Yield: 6 servings.

Kitchen Tip:

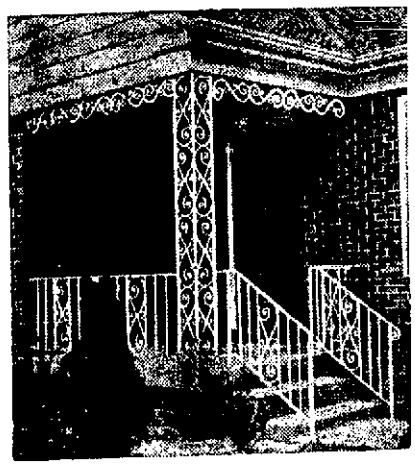

Mrs. Bryant's Kitchen Tip: To prevent granulation when making any kind of cooked cake frosting, add a tablespoon of light corn syrup before cooking.

Mrs. Bryant's Crab, Tuna Casserole:

1 cube butter or margarine
⅓ cup flour
1¾ cup milk
1 can (14-oz.) evaporated milk
1 can (7-oz.) mushrooms and liquid
6 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
1 can crab meat
1 can tuna
1 cup slivered almonds
Salt and pepper
Crushed cereal flakes

Make white sauce. Add remaining ingredients and cover with crushed cereal. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees F.

Home Do-It-Yourself Boom Given Boost

Built especially for "do-it-yourselfers," this 210-foot display of materials and designs is a part of the Sunset Fence & Patio Co., 3626 Long Beach Boulevard.

RESPONDING to demand created by the booming do-it-yourself idea in home improvement, Sunset Fence and Patio Co. today formally opens a complete display of newest materials and ideas for more attractive and enjoyable outdoor living. The permanent exhibit stretches 210 feet along the firm's headquarters at 3626 Long Beach Blvd.

"Publicity given to do-it-yourself possibilities by Southland Magazine and other home publications, combined with the logical nature of the method, has started literally thousands of home owners in this area searching for ideas, plans and materials for fencing, patios, barbecues and the like," company officials said. "To serve these people, Sunset has filled an acre with materials of all kinds and is providing a free plan and idea service to go with it."

Starting this morning, the firm will hold open house at the display every day this week until 9 p. m.

In addition to the exhibits, a highlight of today's program will be a demonstration of various types of barbecue cooking by Pete Gross of Los Angeles, noted television barbecue chef and manufacturer of the Rotir equipment featured by Sunset.

Sunset Fence and Patio, which is one of the oldest and largest companies of its kind in the Long Beach area, is illustrating use of translucent paneling, reed screening, redwood, flagstone, cinder blocks, concrete, brick, decorative concrete panel fencing, barbecue equipment, colored aggregates and other materials. The firm's staff will be on hand to answer questions.

AS PART of its expansion program, Sunset also is enlarging its contract department to include complete facilities for home modernization and room additions, it was announced.

"On one hand, Long Beach has an unusually large number of young families who are outgrowing their present homes, while on the other hand, there are many older homes needing to be brought up to date in appearance," the company official explained. "Hence this new service is naturally adapted to the needs of the area."

The new "Do-It-Yourself department will be open Sundays and daily until 9 p. m. for the convenience of home owners.

For Barbecue Chefs

For the benefit of patio chefs who want to improve their standing in the eyes of their guests, a school of barbecue cookery will be started soon by Sunset Fence & Patio Co., it was announced yesterday.

Pete Gross, prominent Southland amateur chef who has appeared on numerous television programs, has agreed to instruct the classes, it was stated. Preparation of meat for cooking, preparation of fire, application of sauces, and judging the "doneness" of meat will be taught.

Carnation Care

Think of a spicily fragrant perennial that blooms from late Spring to late Fall in solid colors of white, pink, rose, red and yellow and striped combinations of these colors—and that is particularly popular for corsages and boutonnieres!

Got it?

The answer is "carnation."

Carnations do exceptionally well throughout most of California. The plant itself is shrubby-branched and grows one to three feet in height, with narrow blue-gray leaves and long stems usually topped with double blooms.

According to the California Association of Nurserymen, carnations may be had from nurseries in three forms: The Enfant de Nice ud Chabaud strains may be had as seedlings in flats, and will produce flowers in an assortment of colors and sizes. The second type are carnation cuttings which nurseries have in pinks, reds and whites already established in flats. Name carnation varieties are available in a third form— set in small individual pots.

Carnations generally should be planted in full sun in more temperate parts of the state. In very warm areas where flower colors tend to fade, they will prefer light shade. During the growing season they should have a dose of commercial fertilizer each month. To help insure a bushy, compact plant, pinch back once or twice while the plants are small. It is well to stake the bushes as they have a tendency to sprawl. Carnations like a uniform amount of water at all times.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

They Own Their Own Apartment

By Eileen Ball

RESIDENTS of any community are ever being shuffled into one of two groups by people whose lot it is to compile data for such things as city directories. And the slot into which one's name falls depends on whether he does, or does not, own his own home.

Until recently it was pretty generally presupposed that the renter was of a species that dwelled in a multi-unit apartment house, while the owner was a prototyped, lawn raking, roof repairing head-of-a-house.

The growing popularity of the own-your-own apartment in Long Beach, of which there are many, does not bear out this assumption. More and more people are buying apartments—which distinguishes them from the individual house owner as well as from the apartment renter who must think twice before he drives a nail into his landlord's wall.

In answer the growing desire of these people for a compact, carefree dwelling they can "call their own," several architects in the city have been furrowing their brows over designs that preserve what is best in home-owning minus its disadvantages. Their greatest problem, obviously, is the preservation of privacy.

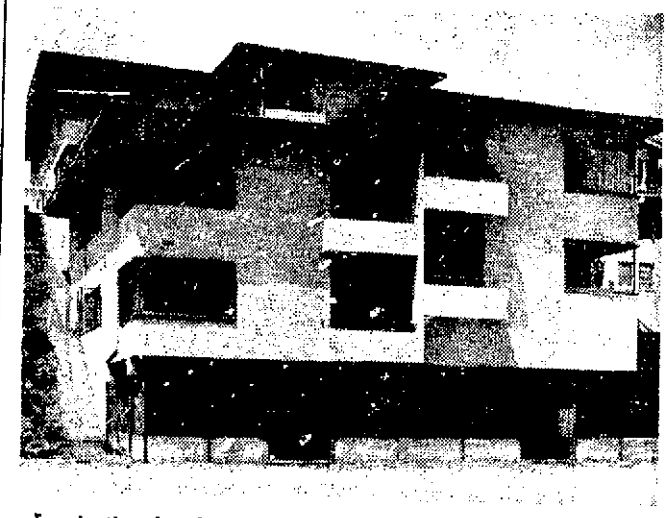

The den, too, has a view. The husky leather furniture, a bar and a television set create a relaxed setting.

Architects Francis Merchant and Richard Shelley were the designers of a 22-unit own-your-own apartment building at 3rd Pl. and Ocean Blvd. Each apartment is a separate entity unto itself, granting the owner the right to his own way of life within his own sphere. Outside of sharing an ocean view and an admirably centralized location, these people enjoy the utmost individual privacy possible.

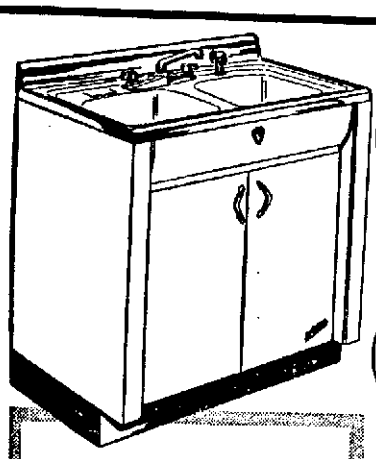

Most of the apartments are located at the street level, high on the crest. The choicest apartments, however, are the eight bluff units. These exclusive apartments are ranged down the cliffside, facing the ocean.

After concentrating at length on means for giving these units the greatest amount of individuality and privacy possible, Merchant a nd Shelley hit upon the idea of constructing the bluff units on a skip-level principle.

Architects with less imagina-

Inspiration for these modern apartments might have been ancient cliff dwellers. Staggered levels give privacy.

Sweeping view of the ocean through large windows opens up the own-your-own apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Smit, who enjoy a choice unit of structure.

tion might have placed the eight apartments two abreast—in an unimaginative four-story arrangement. Merchant and Shelley, however, pursued their theory that if the eight were arranged in a zig-zag—each one a half level removed from its neighbor privacy would be enhanced and the overall composition of the building improved.

Thus, no two bluff units share a level. One of the happy outcomes of this planning is the fact that the eight little balconies that overlook the beach are delightfully secluded from each other.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Smit occupy one of the choicest cliff-side apartments. Their picture window enjoys an uninterrupted sweep of ocean view high enough over the beach to assure privacy and quiet.

The predominating color carried out through their 1257-square foot residence is pearl gray, soft and neutral. Silky, deep-napped gray nylon carpeting extends from the living room to the dining ell and on through the hallway, den and master bedroom. This uninterrupted use of a single color pulls the interior into an integrated whole. It has the effect of making it seem more spacious than could have been possible with the combining of several unrelated colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Smit share the belief that the best of any style can be successfully combined with the finest of another. The mutual bond between such divergent styles is quality. And that according to Mrs. Smit's belief, is all the compliment necessary.

They offer their apartment as proof that antique, modern and traditional can live happily together under one roof.

An oversize broatelle sofa curves into the expensive corner window and is faced with a squat marble-topped Victorian table. On the antique coffee table stand a whimsical blown green glass fish, a suitable representative of contemporary art. The fanciful fish and the conservative, stuffy little table wonderfully complement each other and point out the best in each.

The handsome heavy draperies are chartreuse woven with gold. The fabric is unmistakably modern in feeling, and how well it complements the pair of old tapestry fireside chairs and the gleaming mahogany occasional tables.

The living room, facing the ocean, is accessible from the entry hall. The entrance, separating the living rooms from the bedroom areas, is but one of the many features of this apartment. No one enjoys stepping directly into a living room, yet such refinements as guests entries are often overlooked in compact floor plans.

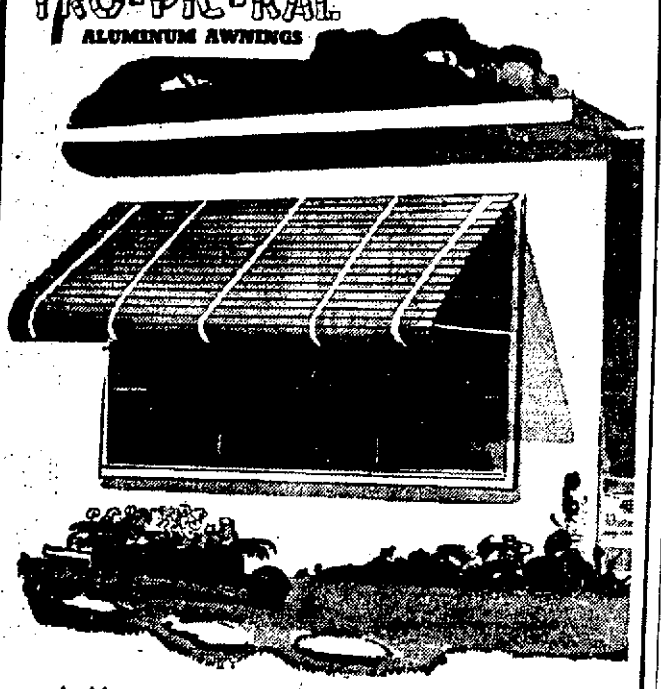

Connecting with the living room is the dining ell tucked around a corner out of sight from the entry. It overlooks the sun porch abloom with riotous purple petunias. The window is curtained with starchy white ruffled organdy tie-backs.

The little kitchen is a picture of satiny birch cabinets in combination with terra-cotta and oatmeal tile. A lighting trough over the sink provides efficient lighting minus glare. Other innovations are specially installed tray slots and overhead fans.

The den has been set aside for a party and guest room. Whimsical wallpaper sets the party mood. A compact bar, television set, a wealth of comfortable furniture join in establishing the room's happy atmosphere.

To keep the room from assuming too bedroom-like appearance the Smits requested that the wardrobe closet be omitted. Into the recess built for such a unit, the Smits have fitted their handsome deep mahogany television set. This has been flanked with custom-made wardrobe chests that don't tell on themselves. The principle of using non-committal chests for many varied functions is a sound one for apartment and small home dwellers. Then the units can be moved and they will be at home in any setting, never being hampered with such as "buffet," "server," "dresser" and the like.

They Make a Game of School

Parents pitch in as teachers' helpers at the Burbank Elementary School Workshop. Out of this endeavor comes games and aids that make learning good fun.

By Nancy Lester

NOT ALL the "night life" of first grade teachers in the Long Beach Unified School District is devoted to home work—thanks to an assist given them by hundreds of local parents.

Each year more than 300 parents pitch in and help teachers make scores of ingenious instructional materials used in getting Johnny and Mary off to a good start in reading and arithmetic. This teacher-parent partnership was formed more than seven years ago and has been in full operation each year in the work shop at Burbank Elementary School.

The helpful parents have for example, made a game which requires a 5 or 6-year-old to spot differences between odd-shaped objects. The youngster who does well in this little game will have less difficulty spotting the differences between "when" or "where" or "there" and "help" in his beginning reading.

A GAME which requires a boy or girl to place three red balls, five green balls and seven blue balls in a box may be used by a little tot to teach himself on his growing knowledge of numbers as well as colors. A homemade clock with big numbers and big hands which can be easily moved from one hour to another can be a valuable aid in teaching a youngster to tell time. Parents make these clocks, too.

"Many of the parents spend several afternoons painting, cutting, sewing, pasting, sanding, hammering, waxing and shellacking," according to Mrs. Hilma Borden, school supervisor, who directs the parent workshop. "The parents not only gain the gratitude of the teachers but also come out with new insight into what helps a boy or girl learn these basic skills more rapidly and learn them in such a way they "stick."

"Incidentally, every one has fun, too."

PET PARADE

Animated Snowdrift

By Eleanor Avery Price

WHEREVER HE GOES, Champion Basquaerie Monte Cristo draws immediate attention. This beautiful dog is a great Pyrenees, the majestic pet of Mr. and Mrs. J. King-Smith, 5903 Eucalyptus Lane, Los Angeles.

Probably no other dog in history can equal the record of service to mankind that is credited to the Great Pyrences. He is a descendant of the mastiff type and is depicted in both Babylonian art and in ancient Roman art.

This dog's remains are found in the fossil deposits of the bronze age which tells of his appearance in Europe between 1800 and 1000 B. C. It is believed that he came originally from Siberia or Central Asia and followed the Aryan migration into Europe.

In Europe he became primarily a mountain dog and was later taken up by nobility. It was in the mountains, however, that the dog developed his traits of devotion, fidelity, guardianship, and intelligence. For centuries he lived with his shepherd master and guarded the flocks from packs of wild animals. His fine sense of smell and his above-average sense of sight made him invaluable. He was counted by shepherds as equal to two men.

BECAUSE OF HIS FINE qualities, he was chosen as the dog of the early Biscay fishermen settlers on Newfoundland Island. Here he was crossed with the black English Retriever, brought over by English settlers, and the cross resulted in the Newfoundland dog.

In the United States the Great Pyrenees often works as a guide and pack dog on ski trips.

THE TREE-SHADED LAWN at Knott's Berry Farm is the pleasant setting for the Sept. 5 Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club Sanction Match. This match is for puppies from two months up, with trophies for each breed as befitting the club's motto: "Not your breed, not my breed, but all breeds." Entry fee for each puppy is $1. Visitors are welcome, and there will be ample parking in the immediate vicinity.

RUB A PIECE of ice on chewing gum or tar that becomes matted on a dog's coat. Acetone, applied with cotton, cloth, or sponge will also act effectively to make the sticky mass removable. If burrs or "stick-tights" become matted in the fur, vaseline or mineral oil worked into the tangle with the fingers will remove them. If soap must be used to clean an injured or infected stain area, mild castile soap free from chemicals is recommended. Clip the fur around the injured or affected spot to enable you to clean more effectively.

Champion Basquaerie Monte Cristo, a Great Pyrenees, has a pedigree that goes far back into folklore.

Easy-to-Make Child's Apron

By Goldie M. Harper

HERE'S HOW to make the cutest child's apron of the year.

Make a lap apron of organdy. Have the finished garment 26 inches wide, 9 inches long, with a belt 14 inches long. It will have few gathers. Make the tie strings a good length for your child's waist measure.

Then cut a child's size good quality handkerchief (25 cents will buy a beauty) into four even squares. Baste a hem one-eighth of an inch on the raw edges of each square to the bottom of apron. (See illustration).

Baste the tinest rickrack braid over the edges of the squares which have been sewed to the apron. Topstitch, turning under the braid at the corners.

Trim the pocket with two rows of the braid, preferably before attaching to the apron.

For a larger apron for mother, make it 26 inches across, 17 inches long, plus a 16½-inch belt. Use a foot-square handkerchief. Regular size rickrack is best for this one. Use three squares at the bottom, one for the pocket.

This child's lap apron can be easily made with a bit of organdy and a tot-sized handkerchief.

Greece, Land of the Acropolis

Fredricksborg Castle in Hillrud, Denmark, is one of the castles that inspired Hans Christian Andersen.

'Paris of the North'

WHEN TIVOLI GARDENS closes on Sept. 12 the outdoor season officially comes to an end in Copenhagen. The end of outdoor festivities in the Danish capital, however, means only that the sort of activities which have earned for the Danish capital the title of "Paris of the North" are moved in under a roof.

Life in Copenhagen may be slightly more formal when it goes indoors, but it is hardly less gay. The Royal Theater opens on Sept. 1 with its world famous ballet alternating with drama and opera.

On the more serious side the major event in Copenhagen this fall, according to Pan American World Airways, will be the exhibit marking the 400th anniversary of the Cabinet Makers Guild. Although this may sound a bit on the heavy side for Denmark, it should be remembered that the Danes have taken a leading part in the Scandinavian design movement which has aroused so much interest throughout both Europe and the United States.

Since its reputation for having a good time is well known not only in Europe but in America, Copenhagen gets a bit crowded with pleasure seekers in the summer, but comes the first of September the tourists go home and leave the city to the Danes. Prices drop in the fall to the point where $7 a day is enough for both food and hotel room. A room in the best hotel in the Danish capital won't cost more than $6 a day at this time of year.

IN LINE with the increase in tourist interest in the entire Mediterranean-Middle East area, Greece is preparing for what, it is hoped, will be one of the best tourist years in her long history.

Encouraged by early season reports, the Greeks are looking forward to sharing in the fall and winter business stimulated by Mediterranean tours, according to John M. Davenport, district manager here for Trans World Airlines. In April, for instance, 14,825 tourists entered Greece, more than double the number in April of 1953.

The Greek Tourism Organization, directed by Nicholas Phocas, is engaged in a broad program to provide new facilities for tourists. Hotel facilities in a number of smaller cities and towns, as well as Athens, are being expanded. New tourist information offices have been established and they are manned by pretty Greek girls schooled in several languages.

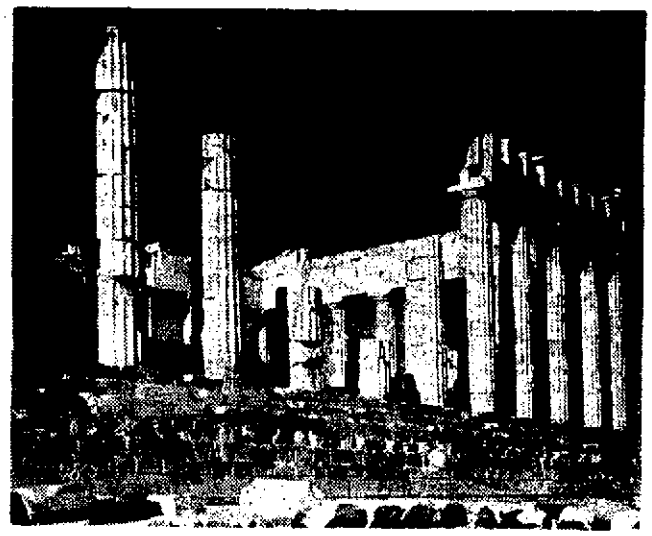

To accommodate the nearly 1,000 passengers a month TWA flies to Athens from the United States and Europe, the airline has increased its schedules to Greece and now has a total of 19 low-fare Sky Tourist flights to Athens. TWA is the only United States airline serving Greece. Fares to Athens will be even lower when thrift-season rates go into effect October 1, through April.

There is no real travel "season" in Greece; it is pleasant practically the year around. The weather may be compared to that of Virginia; the sun shines most of the year.

THE GREEK DRACHMA, now fixed at 30 to the dollar, still provides an excellent exchange bargain for Americans. Room and bath in luxury hotels cost as little as $4; rooms in first-class hotels range from $1.50 to $3. Food is plentiful for the tourist and of good quality. In Athens dozens of restaurants serve excellent meals which run from $1 to $2; in the country, food is even cheaper.

No tourist should miss the taverna—the center of life in the cities and in every village, no matter how small. The taverna is Greece's cafe, bistro and nightclub; some are big and noisy with music and dancing; others are small, intimate places with only a few tables, perhaps on the sidewalk or under the trees. Here the Greeks gather to eat, to drink and, most important of all, to talk. Athens, with a population of a million and a half, has more than 10,000 tavernas. There is no cover charge, no minimum, and any stranger may sit down, order a coffee and join the party.

To see more of Greece than just Athens and the Acropolis—and every road, every community has its share of wondrous antiquities—planned, all-expense tours to the Peloponnesus peninsula, to Daphni, Corinth, Mycenae and Olympia, and to the mountain sanctuary of Delphi, are easily arranged through any travel agent. Somewhat cheaper and more adventurous are the same trips by ordinary bus. Direction for obtaining information about tours and these trips is available at TWA's new marble-fronted ticket counter on Athens' Constitution Square, across from the city's leading hotels.

The ancient, world-famous Acropolis in Athens is a "must" for tourists traveling through Greece.

57-Day Mediterranean Cruise

The Mediterranean is the cradle of civilization as we know it—our religion, our laws and arts had their origin in its borderlands. Here you find ancient Egypt, the Holy Lands of the Bible, classical Greece, the vast regions that once formed the Roman Empire. You can trace the stories of Arab conquest, of the Crusades, of the Venetian Republic, of the Renaissance, and of the great Voyages of discovery that marked the dawn of modern history. Here, too, you will find dynamic new trends—new developments imposed on these ancient backgrounds. The Mediterranean is an endless source of inspiration.

On Feb. 10, 1955, the modern motor liner "Oslofjord" leaves New York for a 57-day Mediterranean Cruise, calling at 22 ports. This ideal cruise ship is completely air conditioned. It has nine beautifully furnished public rooms, glass enclosed promenade, garden lounge, four open terrace-like decks for sunshine, sports and relaxation, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, modern gymnasium, Turkish baths and massage rooms.

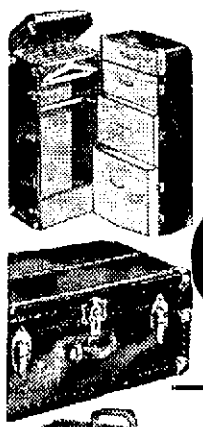

Membership in the cruise will be limited to about 360 passengers, approximately half the normal capacity. Shore arrangements will be handled by the experienced staff of Thos. Cook & Son. An attractive cruise folder is available at Cook's offices or your local travel agent.

How to Be a Lazy Gardener

By Bob Gilmore

Summer heat dulls garden zeal; gardeners may get lazy. Undemanding pelargoniums, above, are appreciated then.

DURING THE SUMMER months it is quite easy to become a lazy gardener. The usual routine of cultivating, feeding, weeding and watering loses much of the appeal it enjoyed during the spring. So utilize those ornamentals that possess ease of culture with profusion of bloom.

Summer lilacs will fill your garden with fragrance and color during the next few months. One of the most interesting varieties in this group is buddleia davidii, Ile de France. It flowers earlier in the season than any comparable type. The perfume is rich and penetrating, the flowers violet-tinted and produced on spikes from six to 12 inches in length.

For ease of culture few plants can compare with the gold flower hypericum, variety moserianum and also hypericum patulum Henryi, better known as Henry's golden cup. The former is best used as a low shrub in the foreground. It is characterized by golden yellow flowers measuring two inches across. At maturity the plant attains a height of two feet. Either sun or partial shade will prove a satisfactory location.

Spartium junceum of Spanish broom is hardy in Southern California. It gets along with little water and tolerates a lot of exposure. Flowers are bright yellow and pea-like in shape. The fragrance is splendid with the florets being in evidence almost throughout the year.

Most heathers attain the peak of their flowering period in late fall or during the Christmas season. However, one variety will certainly add color to your summer and fall scene. It is erica blanda, the red everblooming heather and this splendid shrub maintains a January-to-December flowering schedule.

THE FAMILIAR HIBISCUS is another splendid shrub for flowering and one that requires very little care once it gets started. The flowers are at their best during the warmer months.

One of our most exciting flowering vines in antigonon leptopus, a native of Mexico which, like so many other plants originating in this area, is very much at home in Southern California. One of the most amazing characteristics of this plant is its ability for fast growth; in a very short time it will put out from 20 to 30 feet of vine.

Other ornamentals that flower abundantly during the summer, yet require little care are lantana, gazania, phlox, statice, alyssum, coreopsis, gaillardia, hibbertia, petunias, zinnias, hemerocallis, begonia semperflorens and lippia citriodora.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week. . . Cuttings of pelargonium plants may be taken at this time. Use stems that are not too soft; cut at a node or leaf joint; cuttings may be started in sand in flats, then transferred to pots when they have rooted.

Set your lawn mower to cut at a height of at least one and one-half inches during the next few months; one and three-quarter inches would be even better. If you do any re-seeding at this time be sure to keep the surface constantly moist until the young plants are well established.

Fuchsias react favorably to a cold shower bath during warm weather. It is advisable to give these plants a light pruning from time to time to encourage proper shaping and also to prevent their growth from becoming scraggly.

For Masses of Blue --and Borders, Too

By Walter Finch

ONE OF THE garden problems during late summer is to spruce up the flower beds with quick color. The need arises from lack of care during recurring heat waves or from the absence of the home-owner on vacation or possibly from the natural overgrowth of early plantings that have bloomed out and are looking seedy.

Several nursery bedding plant transplants will remedy this problem and give quick sparkling color with little fuss or bother. Some bedding plants such as ageratum will often be available in the nursery and will give immediate color. In the majority of California areas such a late date planting will continue to pretty up its portion of the garden for a period well into the fall months.

Ageratum is a particularly nice border plant and is commonly used in that role. However, a more striking usage is to mass plant it for a full bed of blue.

Ageratum does best with rich loose soil and requires an abundance of water when first transplanted. After every few plants are set they should be thoroughly watered to avoid wilting. Full sun is required at this time of year to insure satisfactory bloom. Ordinarily no fertilizer should be used in order to force quicker bloom.

If a few plants are left over, they can be potted and be used for small blooming house plants. Also these few extra plants can be used to good advantage for perking up a patio planter. The soft lavender blue of ageratum will blend well with most colors and tend to tone down the strong reds and oranges that tend to predominate in summer annuals. According to the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board, this is one of the prime purposes of flowers in the blue shades.

Blue ageratum gains favor with gardeners late in summer when flowers fade. It shows color quickly.

Floral Torch for Your Garden

W. Atlee Burpee Co. Photo

For blazing color in summer and autumn gardens, "Red Hot Poker" will yield blooms on tall, slender spikes.

By Murtha Hurley

WOULD YOU LIKE touches of brilliant color in your garden all summer and fall? Then plant Tritoma, that showy perennial popularly called "Red Hot Poker." It's also known as the "Torch Lily" and the "Firecracker" plant.

From a dense clump of bright green rapier-like leaves rise up three to five-foot upright stems with a blazing flower cone at the tips. Each cone is made up of tightly packed firecracker-like flowers of fiery orange-scarlet.

The colorful plant remains in bloom all summer and into late fall, when much of the garden has finished its blooming.

As the plant develops, the grass-like leaves have a tendency to droop. However, the brilliancy of the numerous flower heads presents such a striking and colorful appearance one does not notice the sprawling leaves too much.

To display the brilliant flowers to advantage set them against a background of rich green foliage shrubs. They also look well behind a low picket fence, the colorful flower spikes glowing above the top fence rails. Or set clumps against a stone, brick or stucco wall or to fill a corner bed among other shrubs, particularly those that have bloomed earlier in the year. Tritoma also adds bright color spots to a cactus and succulent bed.

Such locations serve to protect the reed-like flower stalks from strong winds that might bend or break them.

TRITOMA prospers in Long Beach area gardens since the tropical climate is similar to its native South Africa.

Being a perennial and a sturdy one, the plant multiplies its stalks each year, multiplying almost like a bulb. To produce new plants divide the rhizome-like roots when the plant is resting, after fall blooming or in early spring.

Tritoma requires little care. Its one requirement for sturdy growth is a well drained, loose, gravelly soil and a fair amount of moisture. The plant likes a sheltered sunny or slightly shady location.

In planting, leave the crown fairly high, even mounding slightly. When the plants have finished blooming in late fall they will need grooming. Cut off all the dried foliage and flower stalks.

Plants can be raised from seed sown indoors in early spring and set in the garden in May when the soil is warm. Or from divisions set out, either in spring or in fall.

For bloom this summer and fall it's best to set in established plants that can be chosen at nurseries in gallon cans. Planted in June, Tritomas will bloom continuously through October. Omit fertilizer when planting.

Kill 2 Bugs With One Spray

MANY RULES can be laid down for the good gardener to follow in conducting a spray program, but first and foremost, says the California Association of Nurserymen, is the overall maxim that any job of spraying be a job thoroughly done.

When going after insects, it is important that every bit of the plant, tree or shrub receive the application being used. Next it is important that certain sprays and dusts be applied during the right season and during the right stage of plant growth. By consulting your nurseryman before undertaking any pest control program, you will avoid plant damage and waste of the chemicals themselves. In some cases your nurseryman will be able to show you how different sprays may be mixed — fungicides and insecticides — so that you may "kill two bugs with one spraying," so to speak.

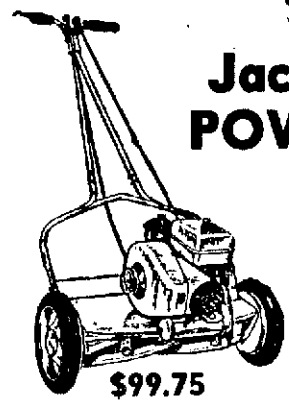

Another practical bit of gardening is to encourage the enemies of bugs and plant disease to stay around. Toads and lady beetles, for example, feed on aphis. Carabid beetles (an iridescent purple-black bug) feed on slugs and snails. Your nurseryman can outline the work of various other of this "garden friend" group and caution you in the use of those sprays and dusts that tend to kill friend and foe alike, when used indiscriminately.

BOOK REVIEWS

A Goal Across a Sea

UNTO A GOOD LAND, by Vilhelm Moberg (Simon & Schuster, publisher's edition $3.95—Literary Guild members $2).

A boat load of immigrants from Sweden reached New York City in June of 1850 on their way to a dreamed of new home in Minnesota. It took them a year from the time that they left Sweden until they arrived at their destination. This book carries on the tradition begun long ago of telling a depressing story of the hardships of various Scandinavian peoples who had so much trouble in arriving in America. It is detailed in accounting the methods of travel of an earlier day and students of pioneer days should find this very interesting.

All Americans of Swedish descent will like the strength of character displayed and will enjoy the picture of practices of their forebears.

The idea that Baptists were the followers of the devil is proven false by one of the main characters of the book, Ulrika, who was a fallen woman in the old village in Sweden. The act of baptism under water washed away her old sins and led her to a new life. Young people were also problems in those days; two of the young men leave the others to seek their fortunes in the gold fields of California. Kristina and Karl Oskar brought their children to an unknown future —no money, no home, no clothing, no shelter.—E. G.

THE CHALLENGERS, by Jo Lundy (Aladdin, $1.75).

Good summer reading for the junior high crowd, and younger. They'll never realize they're learning a bit of early Oregon history, and absorbing good advice on winning friends through co-operation, while following the adventures of an Indian girl, Keetow, and an American boy, Tacket Brandt.—J. E.

THE NEXT FIFTY YEARS OF FLIGHT, by Bernt Balchen and Erik Bergaust (Harper and Bros., $3).

Reading almost like science-fiction, this book is actually a great number of questions asked by writer Erik Bergaust and answered by Balchen, noted Norwegian flier and Arctic explorer, now a U. S. citizen. Some of the visualizations Balchen sees are safe and virtually noiseless light planes and helicopters, a return of the seaplane to popularity, and convertiplanes for short commercial flights. He sees the transports of the future flying from New York to Tokyo in three hours, a tremendous development in electronic brain controls, the fantastic achievement to come in guided missiles, and the first steps to be taken in space flight. The reader seeking authoritative information on what is to come will be enthralled, and perhaps frightened. —J. G.

TIME TO COME, Edited by August Derleth (Farrar, Straus & Young, $3.50).

9 TALES OF SPACE AND TIME, Edited by Raymond J. Healy (Holt, $3.50).

Both of these volumes bring additional science fiction material to the readers whose demand for it increases yearly. All of these stories are original to these books, never having appeared before. All of the science fiction greats are here, and their work grows more vivid and intense as time passes. Could they be looking more closely now, and seeing more that is not dreamed of by the general earth people? At least there is more now to speculate upon, and these highly specialized authors carry the reader beyond speculation and into a tight reality of what was once fantasy.

NEW PAPERBACKS you'll like: Ernest Hemingway's two best-sellers, "A Farewell to Arms" and "The Sun Also Rises," now reprinted in pocket size (Bantam Giant, $.35 each); William MacLeod Raine's Texas story, "Dry Bones in the Valley" (Pennant, $.25), and "In Winter Light," a novel of the Southwest by Edwin Corle (Pennant, $.25).

GRACE MELIN
'Marion Moore'

MARIA MITCHELL: Girl Astronomer, by Grace Hathaway Melin, illustrated (Bobbs-Merrill, $1.75).

Under the pen name of "Marion Moore," Grace Hathaway Melin once wrote feature articles for the old Long Beach Telegram (now merged with the Independent, Press-Telegram). She also made her home in Long Beach for a time. Her new book is engagingly written and will appeal to children from 8 to 14 years of age, informing as it entertains; unlocking the secrets of basic astronomy and navigation. Boys as well as girls will find enjoyment in reading it. The book is part of the publisher's Childhood of Famous Americans Series.

Bookstore Opens Next Wednesday

Harry Dale, who says that in a quarter of a century he has sold 10,000,000 books, Wednesday will open a Dale Bookstore at 218 Pine Ave.

"A bookstore!" rejoices the public, stopping at the open doorway to listen to the sound of hammers and to smell books and new paint.

On the opening day, announces Dale, he will give free books to the value of one-fourth of purchases made by every customer. He calls this his "Opening Day Book Bonus." The store will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Dale, who began his bookselling career in Indianapolis in 1929, started business in Los Angeles in 1943, where he has bookstores at 502 S. Hill St. and 649 S. Main St. The Long Beach store is an expansion of his business.

The Long Beach store will contain 15,000 volumes. Customers who wish them will be supplied with cards reading "Browsing. Please do not disturb." They can pin these cards on and no clerk will disturb them while they browse.

Dale, a brown-eyed man with a small mustache and what he describes as a "scraggly Van Dyke beard," says his book stock will be varied, running the gamut from best selling novels to how-to-do-its in many fields. The stock will include many art volumes and he will sell reproductions of the best in contemporary or classical art, suitable for framing, for about 35 cents.

ART CIRCLES

Awards Go to Artists

By Vera Williams

Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.: Greater Long Beach Non-Juried Show.

Pacific Coast Club Galleria, 850 E. Ocean Blvd.: Grace Miller, Ruth Osborn, Edith Cisko Show.

Long Beach Branch, Los Angeles County Medical Association, 814 Pine Ave.: Jane Rhorer Show.

Lafayette Hotel, Broadway and Linden Ave.: Victor Haveman photographs.

RICHARD V. JOHNSON won the Helen Heavenrich award for his water color "Storm Ravaged" in the current 1954 Greater Long Beach Non-Juried Exhibit in the Municipal Art Center.

University Club awards went to Bill Westenhaver for his oil "Buildings and Waters"; T. R. Wessinger for watercolor "Cold Passage 83" and Robert E. Houdek for his sculpture, "Redwood Torso."

Five commendations also were bestowed by the University Club: Oil, "Circus Horses," Ben Messick; water color "Church," Fran Soldini; "Scheveningen," Dean Spille; watercolor, "Landscape," John Christo; sculpture, "Head," J. Spinosa.

Work of 217 contributors is included in the exhibit which will remain in the Art Center through Sept. 12. All events in the Art Center are free and open to the public. Hours are 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Tuesdays through Fridays, and beginning in September the Art Center will be open 7:30 to 9 p. m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

Samuel Heavenrich, municipal art director, characterizes the show as "lively and experimental."

Twenty-one paintings by Spectrum Club members hang in the Art Center auditorium, observing the 25th anniversary of the club of men painters.

PHOTOGRAPHS by Victor Haveman, nationally acclaimed lens artist, will be shown for two weeks in the Lafayette Hotel. Included are portraits, views of Long Beach and artistic studies.

Haveman, who was born in Russia, came to America after World War I and has lived in Long Beach six years. He is credited with introducing the miniature camera in the Columbia Studio in Hollywood. His pictures have appeared in Life, Town and Country, Harper's Bazaar, Vogue and his color pictures have been used for many magazine covers.

ONE HUNDRED watercolors by school children from more than two score countries illustrating stories by Hans Christian Andersen will be shown through Sept. 15 in the 25th floor Tower Gallery of the Los Angeles City Hall. Gallery hours are 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Mondays through Fridays. There is no charge for admission.

The paintings — arranged in sets keyed to such famous stories as "The Ugly Duckling," "The Emperor's New Clothes," etc.—are winners in an international competition which began in 1951 and in which literally hundreds of thousands of illustrations were submitted by children of 45 countries.

First shown in Denmark in 1953, the United States tour of the exhibit has been arranged by the Smithsonian Institution of Washington and is shown under the patronage of Henrik de Kauffmann, Danish ambassador to the United States, and the Friendship Among Children and Youth group.

Actor Jean Hersholt, considered an authority on Andersen, has supplied bibliographic material to accompany the appealing exhibit of children's art illustrating the well-loved fairy tales.

POSTMASTER GENERAL Arthur E. Summerfield announced that high denomination bi-colored stamps will be printed on flat plates. Pregummed paper will be used. He said the cost of production will be about one-third of the price of the rotary runs.

COLUMBIA has issued a 5 centavos blue stamp with green center to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Colombia Academy of History. The stamp was originally scheduled for release in 1952 (actual anniversary year) but was not issued until now.

IN HONOR of the Marian Year, Spain has issued the first two stamps of a special series, reports the New York Stamp Co. The 10 centavos magenta depicts a statue of "Purisima" (Most Pure and Holy Virgin) by Alonso Cano. This statue now stands in the Cathedral of Granada.

The 30c brown shows a statue of "Our Lady of Montserrat," patron saint of Catalonia and one of the most celebrated images in Spain. The statue is small, black and carved of wood but it possesses magnificent robes and jewels.

Recipes for the Electric Cooker

ELECTRIC FRYER-COOKER RECIPES, by Julia Kiene (Barrows, $3).

Science is constantly supplying important new conveniences for the housewife and few of these are more versatile than the electric fryers or the combination fryer-cookers. Not only will they French-fry potatoes, fish, chicken, meats and vegetables, but they can also be used to prepare soups, stews, casserole dishes, egg and cheese concoctions, and even cocktail delicacies, candy and preserves and — of all things — coffee and rum and Tom and Jerrys! This book contains 350 fresh recipes, all tested. And what makes it even more useful is the fact that it contains instructions on the care of the utensil, how to use it as a deep-fat fryer, as a cooker, as a steamer, as a roaster or as a bun warmer, and the correct use of fats and how to clarify fats. Mrs. Kiene is a career home economist.

HOW TO Adjust, Make Use of a Plane

1. HOW TO ADJUST. For cutting, sight over bottom of plane to see that blade extends hair's width beyond bottom and is parallel to it. Large thumb nut moves blade back and forth; lever controls lateral adjustment. Usual error is to set out too far. To avoid nicking, lay plane on side when not using. Retract blade when storing plane.

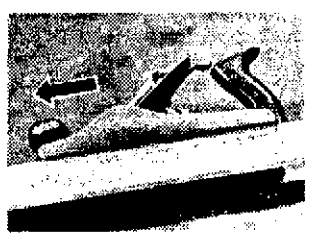

2. A STICKING DOOR CORNER. If only corner over the latch needs dressing, you need not remove door from hinges. Set stepladder between door and wall so door can be held firmly against ladder while you are doing the planing. Using block plane, lightly dress where door rubs frame. Push plane from the corner to the center to prevent the wood from splitting off corner.

3. BENCH PLANING. Woodworking vise holds project here. If you have metalworking vise, use wood or hardboard pads to prevent any vise marks. Grip end of long boards in vise and rest other end on peg inserted in hole bored in leg at the other end of bench.

4. STAY WITH THE GRAIN. Always plane with grain; planing against it tears surface. When directions of grain changes, reverse the work in your vise. For curly-grain hardwood, use very sharp blade set for tissue-thin shavings. Holding block under plane and against side of work, or using your fingers helps hold plane square with board sides.

5. USE OF PRESSURE. Place toe of plane flat on surface at starting end of wood. Exert pressure on toe only. When rear handle comes over work, exert even pressure over-all. Release pressure on toe of plane when blade nears end of work but continue pressure on heel. On return stroke, lift plane so blade does not drag.

RECORD ALBUM

He's Zany but Serious

SPIKE JONES is zany only professionally. Away from his rhythmic washboard, he's a serious type. Does absolutely nothing that is strange at all. You could tell that as he ordered iced coffee and a Coke at the same time. And you were absolutely sure when he took a black tie and wrapped it around his neck once or twice. This is a very ordinary, talented guy.

He has a little difficulty describing his kind of music, though. As who doesn't. It is music, and don't let anybody kid you about it. As much, or more work and ability go into producing one of his whacky arrangements as any other piece of music.

"I'd call it half Dixieland," he began, "half medicine show, and half whatever you want to call it."

This music, which is comprised of three equal halves, is designed to be satirical. Jones is emphatic on that point—it isn't supposed to be corn, but to be a take-off on some existing music.

"We play 'Lover'," he says, fingering that black tie, "and take-off on somebody like Kostelanetz. That's the song Rodgers and Hart wrote — only the way we play it, it sounds more like Roy Rogers and William S. Hart."

It took a long time for Spike Jones and his City Slickers to find their niche in life. And it took even longer for the public to find the same niche. Nobody, at first, could quite figure out what Jones was doing.

"The corny people thought we were too subtle," he says, "and the subtle people thought we were too corny."

But now everybody knows he's subtly corny, so everybody is happy.

He says he hired a trombonist, who'd been first trombone with a top band, and the guy couldn't play his music. There are 11 City Slickers, including two men who play that almost-ancient instrument, the banjo.

"It's hard to find a banjo player," he says. "We use two banjos, which is even harder." Yep.

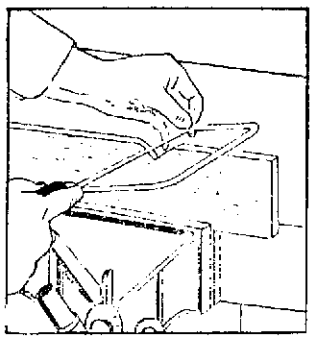

HILLBILLY HIT: "Automatic Woman" by Texas Jim Robertson (M-G-M).

...The serious type?...

FROM FOLK TO LIEDER, people are known by their songs. The Long Beach Public Library invites borrowers to try the following lps: "French Traditional Songs," sung by Shep Ginandes; "Marian Anderson Sings Spirituals"; "Negro Religious Songs and Services" (an authentic Library of Congress recording); Schubert, "A Lieder Recital" sung by Elisabeth Schwarzkopf; "Songs and Ballads of America's Wars; from the French and Indian War to the Civil War," sung by Frank Warner; "Turkish and Spanish Folk Songs," sung by Cynthia Gooding and "Women: Folk Songs About the Fair Sex," sung by Burl Ives.

Tool Tips

In cutting intricate designs in hardboard or thin plywood, including jigsaw puzzles, turn the thin blade of the coping saw or scroll saw in the direction required to allow clearance for the frame of the saw.

MARION WELDON

USUALLY the caricature on this page is that of a man, since most of the larger Long Beach area restaurants are owned and managed by men. But today we present a charming change of pace and, for the occasion, perhaps we should change the title of this column to "Meet Your Hostess."

Marion Weldon, a lovely brunet, is hostess and owner of one the Southland's newest and most decorous dining places—the Blue Fox restaurant at 431 W. Pacific Coast Hwy. As she greets her guests with a delightful smile, they take her for a girl of 25 or 26. They would be quite surprised to learn that Marion is all of 35 years old and has one son 18 years old and another 12.

As chief of the Blue Fox's many activities, including the large handsome dining room, modernistic cocktail lounge and banquet room, Marion puts in a grueling long day, seven days a week. Tribute to her talents is the fact that the Blue Fox has gained popularity at a swift rate.

The Blue Fox's food is simply suberb. For example, look what is included in the restaurant's Grilled Swordfish dinner for only $1.50, complete: First a huge bowl of chilled relishes, including celery, carrot sticks, olives, radishes, onions and pickles. In addition, there is a side dish of salami and cheese slices. Next comes large bowls of fragrant soup and tossed green salad. The swordfish, tender and succulent, is served with a big baked potato and hot garlic bread. Also included are coffee and dessert. Among other excellent entrees on this dinner are ½ Fried Chicken, $2.50, and the Special Dinner Steak, $2.90.

Sundays from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m., the Blue Fox serves a scrumptious brunch for only $1. Entrees include lamb chop with two eggs, chicken livers with mushrooms or ham, bacon or sausage with eggs.

Vote now—Elect Miss Rheingold 1955!

Pick your favorite from these six lovely girls and vote for her wherever you buy beer—in the 16th Annual Miss Rheingold Election!

WHICH pretty girl do you like the best? Take a good look! These six charming candidates were chosen from among hundreds of lovely California and New York models by The Miss Rheingold Election Committee. Now it's election time—and the final choice is up to you!

Yes, you can vote this year in America's second-largest election—the 16th annual election of Miss Rheingold. Voting is going on now, wherever Rheingold Extra Dry is sold. So take part in this famous tradition. Vote for your favorite now!

What the winner wins

The girl you elect Miss Rheingold 1955 receives a contract worth $50,000 (a prize of $20,000 plus $30,000 in fees), plus free trips to New York and Puerto Rico. You'll be seeing her in Rheingold advertising everywhere. She'll be one of the most photographed girls in the nation.

Ballot boxes at dealers

Get your friends to vote, too. You'll find ballot boxes in Rheingold stores and taverns everywhere. Remember, every vote counts!

Your votes decide

Ballots are checked by an independent research organization which certifies the final tabulation. Your vote and the votes of your friends can help elect your favorite.

So don't miss your chance to vote for the first time in America's second-largest election. Choose your favorite now—just as so many of you have chosen Rheingold Extra Dry your favorite beer. Yes, Rheingold Extra Dry—largest-selling lager beer in the East—is fast becoming the most-wanted beer in California.

Choose your favorite—and vote!

The original Extra Dry beer, brewed by Rheingold Brewing Co., a subsidiary of Liebmann Breweries, Inc. Master Brewers for more than 117 years.

An automatic washer adds something wonderful to your home when you use White King in it!

Copyright 1954 White King Soap

You bought your automatic washer to save you time and effort, to give you happy, trouble-free wash days. It will do its finest washing job for you, if you use White King Soap in it. Every maker of automatic washers recommends the use of soap. Not one of them opposes the use of soap in automatic washers.

White King, the soap that made the washing machine possible, will give you the cleanest wash possible in your automatic. Buy White King Soap in the money-saving giant package. If your water is hard, you can turn it soft instantly, and save soap, too, by using a little White King Water Softener.

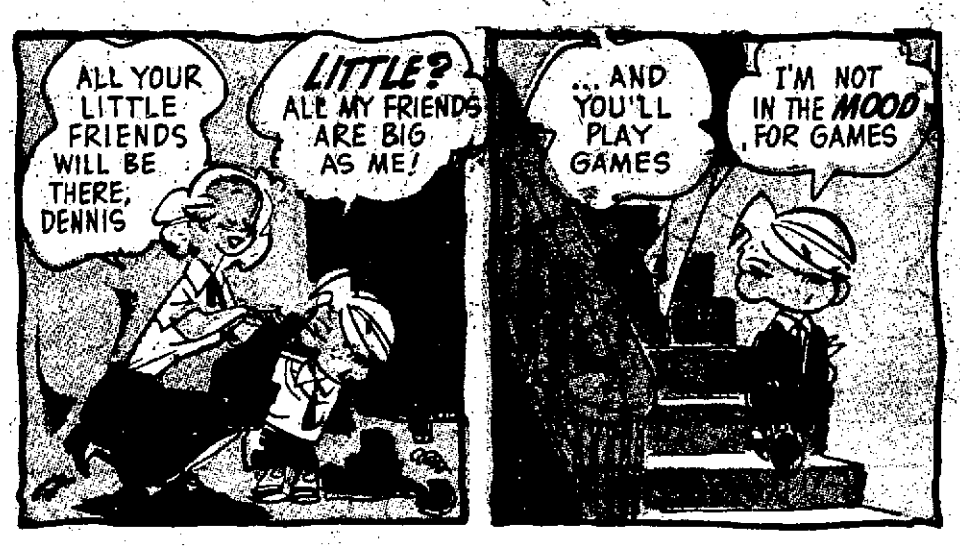

WHITE KING GUARANTEES PERFECT WASHINGS IN EVERY ONE OF THESE AUTOMATIC WASHERS!

White King Soap, famous for years as the soap for washing machines, is the soap for automatics too. Your money back if you don't get the cleanest, easiest, sweetest washes you've ever had.

NEW VEL*

MAKES DISHES SHINE WITHOUT WASHING OR WIPING!

"VEL SOAKS DISHES CLEAN —SAVES YOU ALL THE HARD WORK!"

DON'T WASH — JUST SOAK

Dishes soak grease-free in seconds! No washing needed. If food clings, a touch of the dishcloth gets it off. There's no greasy dishwater with Vel —no ring around the pan!

DON'T WIPE — JUST RINSE

Yes! Just soak and rinse. Dishes dry streak-free without wiping! Even heavy grease in stew pots and frying pans is so completely dissolved no hard scouring is needed with Vel!

Package for package, Vel cuts grease better than the leading washday detergent, liquid detergents or soaps!

—"AND YET NO 'DETERGENT BURN' TO HANDS!"

Prove it yourself!

"HAND-HEAT TEST" shows why.

Dip hands in water. Then put a tablespoonful of any leading washday detergent in one hand — put a tablespoonful of VEL in the other.

Feel the heat

from washday detergents, indicating presence of irritating alkalis and harsh chemicals that cause "Detergent Burn"!

Feel NO heat with Vel

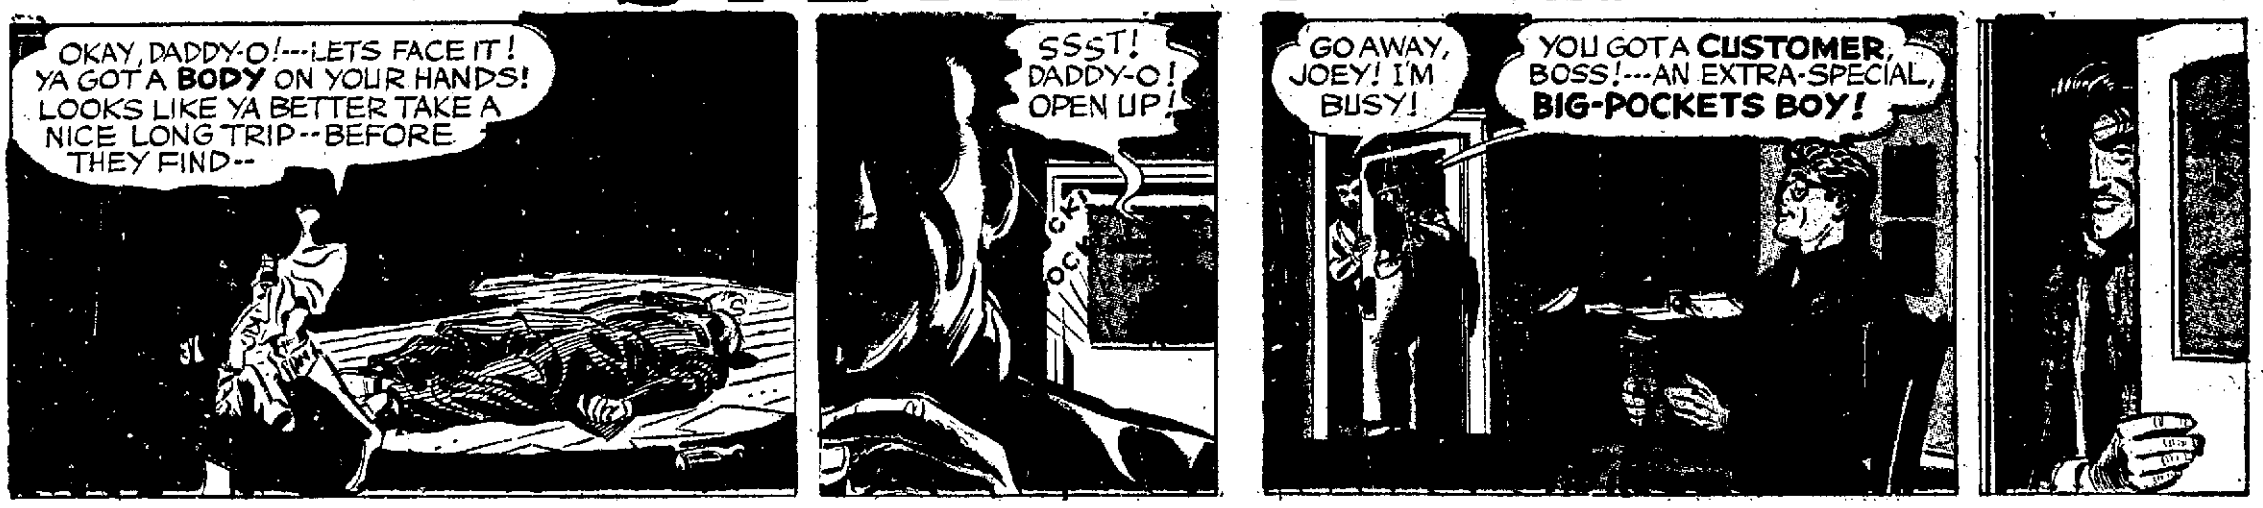

That's because Vel contains no irritating alkalis — no harsh washtub chemicals to cause "Detergent Burn"!

VEL is a miracle of mildness! Vel helps you avoid rough, red hands — causes no "Detergent Burn"!

MARVELOUS FOR DISHES AND FINEST FABRICS

*VEL is the trade-mark of the Colgate-Palmolive Company.

At Your Dealers Now!

IT'S HERE!...A YEAR IN ADVANCE! THE GAS RANGE THAT BRINGS NEW BEAUTY TO AMERICAN KITCHENS

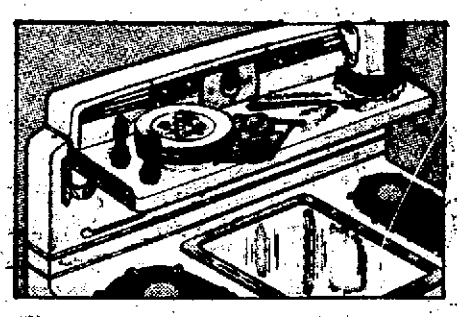

The release of the all new 1955 Rheem-Wedgewood Automatic Gas Range brings you a range designed both for beauty and for a new standard of efficiency...a range engineered to meet every certified performance requirement set up for 1955. For example: new requirements call for cooler surface temperatures which make for cooler kitchens. No matter how hot the Rheem-Wedgewood is inside, it's cool to the touch outside. Yes, and the makers of Rheem-Wedgewood are already meeting this, and every requirement for 1955, a full year in advance! So, choose a new Rheem-Wedgewood, the range that's packed with wonderful new work-saving features and conveniences.

"The night the whole family came to dinner I couldn't get the whole dinner in my old oven. I decided right then I needed a new range."

"Naturally, I picked the Rheem-Wedgewood with the new bigger 17" oven. Now the biggest family dinner comes out perfect every time."

"My new Rheem-Wedgewood is designed for easy cleaning. Its wonderful one-piece top and control panel does away with grease-collecting crevices and its brand new venting system eliminates dirty walls."

"When you see the new Rheem-Wedgewood, you'll agree it's the right range for you. This beautiful, efficient, years-ahead range is yours for as little as $2.77 a week."
